Washington.—August sales of general merchandise in small towns and rural areas were 17 percent greater than in July and 5 per cent greater than in August last year, the Commerce Department reported.

In the Far West such sales were 33 per cent above the 1933 level and 17.5 per cent greater than in July. In the South the respective gains were 1.5 and 1.5 pe cent, respectively.

Pigs Settle The Big Argument About Prosperity

The argument that more money is floating around over Chilton County this year is justified by the pigs. To those who are less familiar with the situation, there may exist a little speculation as to just what degree a porker is able to serve as a barometer of the monetary system of our country.

An employee of one of Clanton's banks vouches, however, for the veracity of the argument—especially the pig part. It seems that for the past several years a farmer in a remote section of the county has been coming into town in the spring and borrowing from this bank ten dollars with which to buy himself two pigs, which he proceeded to encourage into pork chops and sausages about the time the frost fell on the pumpkins.

But that's getting a little off the argument about the money. During the years 1930, '31, '32, and '33, it was quite a problem to repay a ten dollar obligation. At least this was true for this particular tiller of the soil. In fact he had to resort to the method of paying for his porker at the rate of 50 cents and $1 at a time.

In the spring of 1934, in strode the pig man and effected the regular $10 loan, but a few days ago, in the bank he came with a smile stretched across his face that bespoke better times. Out with his pocketbook and peeled off a ten-spot -and the title of the pork-chops changed hands. That's not all, he poked the purse, containing several more bills, deep in his pocket and strode out.

5-Foot Rattler Killed By J. E. Easterling

J. E. Easterling, operator of the Woco-Pep Service Station across the street from the court house, had a narrow escape a few days ago, when a five-foot rattle snake struck at him while he was hunting in Autauga county. The fangs of the reptile left tiny scars on the leather of his boots, but did not pierce the skin. After shooting the snake, it was found that it had 12 rattlers and measured slightly over five feet.

INVESTIGATION OF SLAYING IS UNDERWAY

Three Persons Arrested In Connection With Reynolds Death Here

A sweeping investigation is being made of the alleged "hammer slaying" of Joe Reynolds here recently, according to information from the office of Sheriff W. H. Gillespie. Three men have been arrested and are being held in the county jail on warrants sworn out by members of the Reynolds family.

Burnice Barnes, a fellow worker at the Alabama Mills, who allegedly was seen in company with Reynolds a few hours before he was slain, was arrested shortly after the youth was found in an unconscious condition on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad tracks early Sunday morning, October 7. Barnes denies any knowledge of the slaying, but admits that he was with Reynolds near the Wadesonian Theatre during the early part of the night. He denies that he accompanied the dead youth up the railroad toward his home.

Since the death of Reynolds last Thursday morning, two others have been arrested in connection with his death, Douglas Hammonds and Leon Aldridge. Both have declared to Sheriff Gillespie that they are innocent of the crime. A private detective, employed by the dead youth's family, is working on the case, and it is understood that Hammonds and Aldridge

Young Democrats To Convene In M'tgomery

The young men and women of Alabama are becoming an important element in the political life of the State. Along with the expressed desire for a change in the order of things, many young men and women are winning recognition in the politics of both state and county government.

Thursday and Friday, October 18-19, the Alabama State League of Young Democrats will convene for the First Annual Convention of the organization The meeting will be held at the Exchange hotel in Montgomery.

The purpose of the convention is to perfect the organization and to instill a greater understanding of the importance of clean government in the minds of the younger citizenship. An invitation has been extended the young Democrats of Chilton County to attend this convention.

Ladies Free At The Wadesonian Theatre

There is a treat in store for the ladies of this section on Monday and Tuesday nights, October 22 and 23 when the Wadesonian Theater will admit free, a lady with each adult paid admission.

Two picture hits of the season are scheduled for these two nights. On Monday night Margaret Sullivan and Robert Montgomery star in that great human picture, "Little Man, What Now?"

On Tuesday night, October 23rd, Ann Harding stars in "The Fountain." Both these pictures are rated high by critics and the ladies free with paid adult admissions hold good for those two nights only.

NEW FALRCHILD MONOPLANE SEEN AT LOCAL AIRPORT MON.

Several of the local flying fans were given a treat Monday afternoon when they had the privilege of seeing L. L. Brabham, chief instructor at Municipal Airport, Montgomery, give a demonstration with a new model Fairchild cabin monoplane at the county airport.

This plane, Mr. Brabham explained, is the latest model in this type of plane and he explained many improvements which it possesses over former models. This machine can be manipulated either with the hands or feet, which permits much more leisure in the air, he stated.

The Bankhead Cotton Plan

(AN EDITORIAL)

While the great friendly hand of the government of the United States is extended to the farmers of Chilton County, some of them have caused rumors to fly that there is dissatisfaction in regard to the cotton allotment plan.

Frankly, it does seem that the routine thru which the farmer must sell his cotton is a lot of trouble, but, it must be remembered by each of us that something had to be done to save the Southern cotton farmer. And Senator Bankhead of Alabama with the United States Department of Agriculture has done that something.

We do not know from whence this dissatisfaction comes and frankly, we are not interested in that. What we are interested in is seeing that this new cotton plan is given a fair and just trial. Cotton farmers should be patient with it. They were patient enough with four and five cent cotton. They cannot expect a new plan such as the Bankhead Plan to bring them out of the rut within a few weeks.

We also understand that our County Agent is receiving some criticism. That is unjust. Every County Agent in every state is following out this plan which has been adopted by the United States Department of Agriculture. There was a committee of local citizens who made the allotments in this county, and they too followed the plans as adopted by the Department of Agriculture.

We earnestly urge the farmers of Chilton County to be patient with this process of recovery and reconstruction. We say this free from any political feeling of any kind. We are interested in seeing that the farmers of this county are taken care of and action is being taken to give three different classes of farmers an increase in their tax-exempt allotments. This includes re-adjustment to the man who had one bad crop year in the five-year base period, the man whose cotton crop is less than one-third of his cultivated acres, and the man who raised no cotton during the five-year base period.

Your Government under its present hand of guidance will not let the Southern farmer suffer as long as he will lend a cooperating hand to make these plans a success and give them a fair trial. They are trying to help us all and the least we can do is to give our full cooperation.

Some re-adjustments in a program of this size are certain to be necessary, and we believe that it is in the farmers' interest to grant a little more time for these to be worked out.

Two Long-Time Republicans Give Reasons For Democratic Support

Editor, Chilton County News:
Dear Sir:

We read Mr. W. A. Reynold's letter in last week's Union-Banner. He said some things that we agree with him and some things which we do not agree with. He said he thought it to the best interest of the people of this county to elect the entire Republican ticket. We do not think it is to the best interest of the tax payers to elect all the Republican nominees.

We know that Mr. Percy M. Pitts is Mr. Reynolds' son-in-law and of course it is natural for him to want to see him elected, but we cannot see how anyone could endorse the official record of Mr. Pitts. While he was a member of the Legislature he drew $8.00 per day when $4.00 was the amount he was entitled to. He worked about two days a week, and got pay for seven days, and he had his wife on the pay roll drawing $4.00 per day and it is said she did no work at all. He charged the State of Alabama about two hundred days when it should have been about fifty.

Speaking of Legislature we do not endorse the efforts of the Legislators in trying to raise the taxes of the people when they were financially depressed as never before.

We do not see how Mr. Reynolds could endorse the Republican Primary of June 12 for the way they treated Judge Reynolds. Mr. J. N. Dennis was chairman of the Executive Committee, and Mr. J. Z. Mims, secretary and both should have resigned when they announced themselves as candidates for Probate Judge, but they did not resign and both ran in the first Primary, and the law fixed the responsibility on the chairman and secretary to manage and conduct the Primary election and they had a hand-picked committee by Sheriff Gillespie to carry out their instructions and it seems like that if they had wanted to have been fair to Judge Reynolds they both would have resigned. Mr. Dennis was defeated in the first primary and still held on to the chairmanship, and as chairman of the Republican Executive Committee. He published a letter in the Union Banner urging the Republicans to elect Mr. Mims on June 12. Mr. Mims had this letter sent to the Republican voters just a few days before the Primary. In our beat—(9) the people elected two executive committemen but Mr. Dennis and Mr. Mims and the hand-picked committee by Mr. Gillespie would not let them serve.

We do not believe that there is any record where any party ever held a primary election that was as dirty and low-down as the Republican primary of June 12, 1934.

Mr. Reynolds refers to the good management of our county but he fails to tell you that the official records he refers to was made by Judge Reynolds and his associates, and we all know that the affairs of our county have gone backward in the last eighteen months and that our treasury burst and yet this crowd has not paid a dollar on the old debt, had no bridges of any size to build, and if you people doubt that your county is going backward look at your public roads around you, and if the present management of your county is continued for six more years, your county will be at the bottom in place of the top. Mr. Mims together with the other Republican nominees condemn the action of the Commissioners court, but we think if the Commissioners would read the last report on his office in 1929 which report of the State examiner showed there was a shortage of $3,300.53, and he paid this amount, and of course he owed it or he never would have paid it. So it looks like it would be in order for the Commissioners to meet and condemn Mr. Mims' official record. Speaking of the present commissioners court of this county we do not see how any tax payer could endorse what they have done. The records fail to show where 79,000 gallons of the County's gasoline went to, in fact it is reported that the original records of the delivery of this amount of gas was burned. We wonder if the voters of this county endorse this way of handling the county business. The Grand Jury recommended that the Commissioners court adopt business methods to handle the county gas, and that they put the employee of the county whose duty it is to deliver gas under bond, and it is reported that Mr. Johnie Easterling is still delivering gas and has not made any bond.

It is clear to us that practically all the Republican officials are in full accord with the present working of the commissioners court, and it seems to us that the only remedy people have would be to defeat the Republicans who stand for such methods.

We have been voting the Republican ticket for over forty years and beat nine is said to be the strongest Republicans beat in the county, and we are sorry we cannot vote the ticket this time. but the way our tax money has been used for the past eighteen months is beyond politics. and on our election day we predict that beat nine will register it votes against the present management of our county, and besides one of the present Republican nominee says he does not want any of the Reynolds sore heads to vote for him that he could get elected without them. We do not feel like he will be burdened with many of them on election day.

G. W. MIMS,
G. S. BURNETTE.

BIBB GRAVES TO SPEAK IN COUNTY SOON

Seeks Closer Harmony Between County And State Administration

Governor-elect Bibb Graves is scheduled to visit Chilton County and deliver an address at the court house in Clanton on Saturday afternoon, October 27, beginning at 2:30 o'clock. Information was received here this week from Colonel Graves to the effect that he is interested in addressing the people of this county and begin the formulation of a closer harmony between its administration and the incoming state administration.

Few counties in the state gave the "little Colonel" more loyal support than was given him in this county, and his friends here are confident that the court house auditorium will be crowded with admirers who wish to hear what he has to say to them at this time.

The days and weeks are busy for the next governor of Alabama, with the preparations for his inauguration and the selection of the various members of his organization to assist him in the carrying out of the gigantic program which he has mapped for his administration. Even a few hours taken from his duties in Montgomery to come to Chilton County to address its citizenship indicates that this county is close to his heart and will have the chief executive's warmest sympathy in all its undertakings during his administration.

Clanton Youths Are Honored At School

Two Clanton boys, freshmen in Alabama colleges, are winning recognition at their respective schools. Dan Smith and Joe Moore, both members of the 1933 class of the Chilton County High School, have been awarded honors by their classmates.

Smith has been chosen to represent the Auburn Freshman Class at the Baptist Students Convention, which is to be held in Memphis, Tenn., in late October. The convention will be in session for several days. He is the son of Mrs. Mamie C. Smith, and a brother of the publisher of the News.

Moore, the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Watts Moore, of Clanton, was recently elected secretary-treasurer of the Freshman Class of University of Alabama. These boys have reason to feel proud of this recognition among the cream of the young manhood of the State. Young Smith is also a member of the staff of The Plainsman, Auburn school journal.

Jemison Man Is Badly Cut By Fellow Citizen

Fred Howard, of Jemison, is in a serious condition in the Central Alabama hospital, where he was rushed for treatment Thursday night after he had suffered several severe knife wounds in an alleged "free for all" fight. Officers said that Howard told them shortly after he was brought to the Clanton hospital that he had been cut by Geed Ray, also of Jemison.

Sheriff W. H. Gillespie said that an investigation revealed that Howard, Ray and others were engaged in a drinking party, when the fight began. Both men, he stated, have a reputation of becoming involved in fights often.

J. Mell Martin, who brought Howard to the hospital, declared that the blade of the knife struck the man near the top of the head and the gash extended underneath the chin. An artery was severed and he was prevented from bleeding to death only by first aid treatment which corded the severed artery.

No charges had been placed against Ray at the time of this writing, and Sheriff Gillespie indicated that he will not be arrested unless a warrant is sworn out, or Howard's condition should become more complicated.

Miss Alice Petty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Petty, of Clanton, has enrolled as a night school student at Alverson Business College. Miss Petty is a graduate of the high school at Clanton and is progressing rapidly, according to reports.

MORE PAVING ASSURED FOR SELMA ROAD

Two And Five-Tenths More Miles To Be Added To Paving

Definite assurance was given Judge L. H. Reynolds Tuesday that federal funds for the paving of an additional 2.5 miles of the Clanton-Selma highway have been allocated. Officials of the State Highway Department verified information which was released from Washington Monday to the effect that final approval has been given Chilton County's application for additional mileage on the paving project which is now underway.

This will give the county a total of approximately four and a half miles of hard surfacing on this road, beginning at the intersection of the Clanton-Birmingham highway. Work has been underway for several weeks on the project, which was originally allotted at 2,66 miles, but was later reduced to 1.96 miles. Additional mileage was also granted on the Selma end of the road, bringing the paving several miles outside the city limits of Selma, it is understood.

The new allocation has been approved by both the State and National authorities and it is expected that bids for the contract will be asked for immediately. In all probability, the Hardaway Construction Company, of Columbus, Ga., which is in charge of the work that is now underway, will be the low bidder on this new piece of paving, since the location of its machinery on the job will make it possible for a lower bid. The fact that a lower bid can likely be secured while this company's machinery is located here is expected to rush activity on the letting of this contract, and it is hoped that this work can continue on the entirety of the project withut in-

Southwest Alabama Farmers For Bill

Farmers in southwest Alabama counties are "practically unanimous for continuing the Bankhead bill," reports R. G. Arnold, district agent of the Alabama Extension Service, who attended 10 large farm meetings in southwest Alabama during the past two weeks with Senator Bankhead.

"Over 8.000 farmers of Bibb, Butler, Wilcox, Marengo, Pickens, Perry, Sumter, Choctaw, and Monroe counties attended the Bankhead meetings and the sentiment among farmers is practically unanimous for continuing the Bankhead bill," said Mr. Arnold.

New Child Welfare Supt. Assumes Duties

Miss No'en Meroney assumed her duties as child welfare superintendent of Chilton County last Tuesday morning and is actively engaged in investigating numerous cases which have been referred to this department since the departure of Miss Mary Ellis several weeks ago.

Her experience in the teaching field and several months as a field worker with the relief staff of Montgomery County expertly qualifies Miss Meroney for her new position. She was selected from a wide range of applicants after it was found by the State Department of Child Welfare that her qualifications surpassed most of the others. She was personally recommended by Mrs. A. M. Tunstall, director of this work in the State.

Miss Meroney is a native of Chilton County. She was born and reared in Verbena, where she completed her high school work a few years go. Since that time she was graduated from Alabama College at Montevallo and was engaged as a teacher for sometime.

MULLINS-DAFFIN WEDDING EVENT OF GREAT INTEREST

Many people of this section will learn with interest of the wedding last Saturday afternoon of Mr. Leon Mullins and Miss Bertie Daffin, of Tuscaloosa. The wedding took place in Tuscaloosa in the presence of a few friends and members of the families.

Mr. Mullins is a former resident of Clanton and is one of the best known young men in this section. Miss Daffin is a member of one of Tuscaloosa's most prominent families and has held a responsible position with the University of Alabama for several years. Mr. Mullins is engaged as a bookkeeper for a Tuscaloosa transport company. They will make their home in Tuscaloosa.

COTTON REPORT

There were 7,370 bales ginned in Chilton County from the 1934 crop, prior to Oct. 1, as compared with 7,554 bales ginned to the same date in 1933, according to figures furnished the News.

FARM CENSUS WILL BE TAKEN

Auburn, Ala.—A census of agriculture will be taken in January, 1935, reports F. W. Gist, state and federal agricultural statistician.

The statistics collected will have an important bearing on the development of the administrator's agricultural acreage adjustment plans, subsistence homesteads, marginal lands, land utilization, soil erosion, farm credit, farm housing and labor and unemployment.

Seventy Eventful Years

Last Friday the Greenville Advocate celebrated its seventieth birthday. In a signed editorial Gen. J. B. Stanley, Dean of American editors, and founder of this paper, sketched briefly some of the happenings which have taken place in these years. It has been an eventful period in our history, and few institutions have such an unbroken chain of service to their community as this paper and its venerable publisher.

May every link in this chain remain intact for many years, and the ideals of this veteran newspaperman make a deeper imprint upon the newspaper clan of this state, is our wish.

Not Perfect, But Not Bad

Senator Bankhead's plan for the salvation of the cotton farmer does not deserve much of the criticism leveled at it today.

When it is considered that the price of cotton has been more than doubled, many of those growers who claim they have been injured will realize they are far better off than they were a year ago even if they must pay a tax on much of their production.

Share croppers and small new farmers have been hurt in some instances but many of the inequalities which have come to light are to be adjusted.

The Bankhead plan is not perfect but until the cotton farmer is certain he has a better substitute he would do well to hang on with all his might to what he has.

In the meantime, if the administrative agency would speed up its final adjustment payments, we believe most of the dissatisfaction which has developed in Alabama will disappear.—Birmingham Post.

The Mark Of Fire Protection

Next time you buy building materials, electrical apparatus, fire extingushers or a hundred other articles, find out if they bear the mark of approval of the Underwriters Laboratories.

It isn't a trade-mark designed to sell you any particular brand or product. It is simply a mark of protection. The Underwriters' Laboratories are a non-profit-making organization, created by the fire insurance industry to carry on experiments to increase the safety of all kinds of materials and home and factory equipment from the standpoint of fire risk and accident.

They test everything from safes to toasters—and from the facts obtained establish standards of safety. These standards are not unreasonable. When the Laboratories give approval to any article, it does not necessarily mean that it is the best obtainable. But it does mean that it represents a degree of safety that is essential to the preservation of life and property.

They carry on their work quietly and undramatically, and they produce results. They have shown manufacturers how to eliminate many of the hazards that used to be associated with building materials—they have eliminated dangers that were once part of a thousand and one ordinary household "gadgets." They have helped design vaults that can suffer the most intense heat without damage to their contents—and roofing materials that offer a cold reception to a spark.

Work of this kind, cntinuously and conscientiously carried on, is of immense benefit to the American people. It has made life safer for us all—and it desrves the widest possible recognition and acceptance.

Animal And Man

The way some people can worry about the suffering of animals and be quite unmoved by the suffering of humans is a strange social phenomenon.

In Red Bank, N. J., there was a jobless housepainter who was destitute. For two days neither he nor his wife had had anything to eat. Furthermore, his wife was sick.

Now it happened that three homeless kittens, equally starved, attached themselves to his house at that time. Their hungry yowling was more than he could stand, so he put them in a sack and took them to the town, asking that they be disposed of. But the town couldn't do it unless he paid a $3 fee, which he lacked; so he took them far out into the woods and turned them loose.

And an agent for a humanitarian society, who had trailed him all the way, promptly had him arrested for cruelty to animals.

Luckily, the judge before whom he was arraigned was a man of sense. He immediately dismissed the case and referred the man to the county relief officer. But what do you think of the mentality which caused the man's arrest?—Opelika Daily News.

Which brings to mind that not long ago a New York society wrote us a lengthy letter which strongly objected to Clanton dogs being vaccinated against rabies—on the theory that the dogs might not like it or some such idea.

What Others Say:

LAND SALES INCREASING

The marked increase in collections and land sales reported by the Federal Land Bank of New Orleans may be taken, it seems to the writer, as a very good evidence of returning interest in permanent land values in the district served by that institution. The sale of farms during the period July 1 to Sept. 1 is said to have increased 64 per cent over the same period in 1933. When the country is peopled with home owners there's hope for permanent prosperity. — Ashland Progress.

WE'RE RECOVERING

The measure of progress we have made in improving the condition of the people cannot be determined by their spending. Lots of people have a little money now who a year or so ago did not have a cent, but they are going to hold on to it for a while yet to see if the getting continues good. They did without so long they are not going to get caught again. An era of reckless spending, such as this country once saw, will not come again until a new generation, ignorant of the trials and privations of the most terrible depression the country ever experienced, grows up. If the full truth could be known about the possessions of everyone, it would no doubt show that we are further along the road of recovery than we realize.—Talladega Daily Home.

ROOSEVELT OR McKINLEY?

The Advertiser, as a connoisseur of critics, has been observing the attacks upon the Rooseveltian effort with professional as well as patriotic interest.

As nearly as The Advertiser can make out, the psychology of the average beefer at this stage is that of a pre-war McKinley Republican.

The Advertiser is not committed beyond 24 hours to any specific policy of the Roosevelt administration—it is committed heart and soul to the spirit of the Rooseveltians, that is to say, the will to experiment until a better, surer way is found.

The opposition, it appears, is not only against specific policies, now that it is safe to emerge from "storm cellars" —Mr. Roosevelt's phrase—but it also is hostile to the Roosevelt spirit.

That, it seems to us, is why most of the opposition to Roosevelt is stupid.

After all, every bank in this fabulous republic was closed the day that Franklin D. Roosevelt was inaugurated president. That had not happened before. It has not happened since.

There has been no important bank failure since Roosevelt came in.

He has saved the republic!

But he has not made rich men richer, he has not abolished poverty—and so the short-sighted, the unimaginative, the unfeeling, would wreck him and put a McKinley Republican in his place.

Let the opposition to Roosevelt at this time have its way, and at the end of the next "cycle" the wit and force of no human being in the land could save the republic of the fathers—we shall go definitely and forever into the uncharted land beyond the abyss.

Most of the bitter opposition to the administration now seems irresponsible and preposterous.

Until that opposition can make its talk plausible it need hope for no victories.

The Rooseveltians will sweep the country in the congressional elections scheduled for the first week in November. Bide the time and watch the prediction!—Montgomery Advertiser

Putting Over FHA Building Program

Advertising offers unusual opportunities today to every enterprise engaged in the sale or manufacture of building supplies and materials, plumbing, household equipment and furnishings, electrical supplies and to makers and dealers in other merchandise which may expect profit from the program of the Federal Housing Administration, Mr. Robert Jemison, Jr., State Director of the FHA, said recently in Birmingham.

Addressing a group of advertising men in Birmingham, Mr. Jemison emphasized the benefits which would accrue from advertising at this time to distributors and manufacturers of merchandise affected by the broad FHA effort.

"There is being created today," Mr. Jemison said, "a vast potential market for merchandise of all kinds, especially the wide variety of products that are useful in the home. Some have the mistaken impression that the FHA program touches only repair and building operations. This is far from true. Building or repair expenditures inevitably inspire demand for all kinds of house furnishings and equipment, for rugs and draperies and furniture, paint and wall paper, new lighting fixtures, shrubbery, landscaping, fencing, concrete walks, silos, barns, etc."

"Through the program of the Federal Housing Administration over ten million copies of a 24-page booklet, advising property owners how they can obtain the benefits of the National Housing Act, have been distributed thruout the country. These together with a vast amount of other literature and advertising, and aggressive local community campaigns, is already exerting its effects."

"Within the next thirty to sixty days we are sure to see a marked increase in demand for merchandise of many kinds. Alert manufacturers and dealers should take advantage of the promotional effort of the FHA to acquaint prospects with their own merchandise. Such a policy has already been adopted by many of the larger manufacturers and distributors. Considerable advertising has been used in the national magazines. More should be used in local papers in each community."

Reports throughout Alabama show continued progress in community campaigns. In Birmingham plans are practically complete for opening an elaborate exhibit in a five story downtown building.

The Highway-The Car-The Driver

When you take your car on streets or highways, three definite factors are involved. First, the road. Second, the car. Third, the human element—yourself.

Practically every automobile accident can be traced to one of these three factors. And the third is infinitely the more important. Highway engineers have done their part to make driving safer— they have given us model highways, with scientifically constructed turns and the safest of surfaces. Automobile development in safer bodies, brakes, steering, lights and tires have been nothing short of sensational.

For every accident that can be blamed on the road or the automobile, a dozen can be blamed on the driver. It is an established fact that the bulk of accidents occur on good, straight highways in ordinary weather, and involve cars whose mechanical condition is adequate. Apparently, if a road and a car are produced which make it safe to drive ten miles an hour faster than in the past, a legion of drivers will at once start driving twenty mile faster—and the inevitable result is a mounting accident toll.

MORAL ECHOES

I was in a home at Geneva, Alabama that was built like many human lives. The residence was built after the high water of a few years ago and the plan called for a door in the ceiling that carried a sliding ladder. In case another flood visited the city this door could be pulled down and that would release a stairway so that furniture and folks could climb into the attic and be safe above high water. The ladder was never to be used unless there was trouble below. How like many a life is that arrangement. We have seen many people who kept a place in their hearts for an upward look and an upward climb when there is trouble below. Such people do not need God when there is no storm, but as soon as there is trouble then they pull down the hidden door and try to climb up to God for His protection. It is better to keep the stairway to God ready for use at all times. We need Him when there is no storm.

I was riding down the street and became entangled in a traffic jam. On looking far down the street I could see a large sign which read, "BEER". After much delay I worked my car thru the jam and came to the sign. To my utter chagrin I found that the jam had been caused by a truck stopped in front of this beer joint while its driver unloaded its beer. This was a typical hindrance to all industrial, social and religious progress in the world. The beer business, the whiskey business of this country of our is producing a jam in everything that develops civilization. When will we ever learn that the whiskey business is none other than a "Jam Producer" along the way of life.

We had a sensible old family horse. This animal was accustomed to trot along without resisting the demands of the driver. One day he was being driven along the road and came to a bridge. Without pausing or calling in question the safety of the bridge, the old horse trotted out over the planks. Not far out on the bridge one of the planks gave way under the foot of the horse and he came near meeting with a serious accident. After that we had much trouble when we tried to get that horse to cross a bridge. He had been hurt by a broken plank and he was afraid of all bridges. How I do wish that people had enough of that "Good Old Horse Sense" to keep them from repeating at the points of danger and injury. When things give way beneath us, we should be like that old family horse, we should be afraid to travel that way.

I entered the round house with a friend and he pointed out to me a large pile of steel and then he turned and pointed toward a large locomotive that was standing on the track. Said he, "In that pile of steel there is all that goes into an engine like the one standing on the track. What made the difference? The steel arms and wheels and bolts in one were organized, but in the other there was no organization. Many of our churches, much of our community life, are without power because there is no organization. When we learn the fine art of organizing our church life, our school life, or civic life. it will then be an easy matter to command power.

I saw an old hen brooding over a nest full of eggs. She kept up her brooding for three weeks and then something set up because of her brooding. New life came into existence. Little chicks pushed their way out of the eggs and there was new life all around. Eggs are not the only things in this world that will give out new life when they are brooded over. When we brood over things that are unpleasant and keep it up for a season, we will be sure to bring to life something that we do not need. Someone may do us an injury, someone may speak ill of us and someone may stir hate in our hearts, but listen to me—if we condescend to brood over these things, we will hatch out a nest full of reptiles in our own hearts. An old sage said, "When anyone has offended me I try to lift my soul so high that the offense can not reach me." People are going to thrust arrows of poison toward the place where we live, but we can not afford to drink the poison on those arrow tips. The best way on earth to gain a victory over an injury is to forget it. If you brood over injuries and insults, you will hatch out hate in your own mind.

JUDGE REYNOLDS WRITES ABOUT NORTHCUTT TRAGEDY

Editor, Chilton County News:

A very sad accident occured in Chilton County about five miles North of Jemison on last Thursday, October 4, at about 6:15 a.m., when the North bound Pan-American train ran over and instantly killed Rip Northcutt, a young man twenty years of age, the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Northcutt, and Bobby and Eleanor Northcutt. ages three years and fourteen months respectively, children of Lonnie and Carrie Northcutt.

The death of any person brings sadness to the bereaved and to the friends and the death of young people especially brings a deeper sorrow and especially in a tragic event when the lives of three people are instantly taken away. Death in this case not only took three lives, but reached further and took the joy of a happy marriage from Miss Loy Mae Glass, to whom Rip was to have been married on the same day that his life was ended, and at the time of his death with the wedding ring in his pocket he was on his way to Clanton to secure the marriage license to marry, and all plans had been made for the happy union on the night of his death, and it seems in that case that fate was unusually heavy in taking its toll from the Northcutt family, but they are bearing their loss with brave fortitude, as is characteristic with the Northcutt family. Rip had just picked up his brother's two little children as he started across the track and there in the presence of the mother of the two children, who saw the terrible calamity, the three were killed and the body of one of the children was taken from the cow-catcher of the train and the mother picked up the earthly remains of the dead body of the other child. A pocket book was found on the bank of the railroad track, which Rip had just purchased a few days previous and in it were directions to notify W. J. Northcutt, his father, in case of an accident, and the sum of $15.00 was also found therein.

The Northcutt family is one of the oldest families of Chilton County and are pioneers in and around Jemison and I have been personally acquainted with this family for over forty years. They are of a quiet and peaceful nature and people prone to attend to their own affairs and are hard working, honest and God-fearing people. I attended the funeral of these unfortunate people and the little modest home would look small indeed beside the great throngs of people who were eager to pay their respects to the dead and the bereaved living, and there were no dry eyes as the funeral cordon passed from the house to the church, the smallest child in front and Rip in the rear, with young girls carrying the many beautiful flowers, which was a distinct token of the esteem in which the Northcutt family is held. The funeral was conducted by Rev. Green at Oak Grove cemetery and the fair-sized church would not attempt to furnish even standing room for the hundreds of people who were there. The funeral ceremony for the three was conducted jointly and then Rip and the two small children were laid side by side in one large grave.

No more could probably be said for this son of Will Northcutt when it is made known that in his pocket at the time of the fatal tragedy, there was found a Sunday school book and this, along with his song book, which had therein only religious hymns, were all buried with him in his final resting place.

The family has requested that I write for the papers the facts and circumstances connected with this sad event, which has befallen the Northcutt family and it is a sad duty for me to perform for my friend, Will Northcutt, and his family, but to observe the esteem and the respect in which he and his family are held and the great offerings of sympathy that were exhibited toward them and the other relatives of the deceased, has in a measure taken the sting of death from the grave.

L. H. REYNOLDS.

LIBERTY HILL SINGING SOCIETY

The Liberty Hill Singing Society met last Sunday afternoon with a large crowd. The opening song was sung by Soverign Dickey. After prayer by Mr. L. D. Hughes, the following directors sang one or two songs each:

D. F. Melton, Fonzie Coe, L. D. Hughes A. L. Brown, Dewell Jones, Kermit Lowery, Hiram Littlejohn, Coy Lockhart, George Chambers, Cornelius Hand Houston Melton and Leonard Culp.

Special songs were arranged by Chestnut Creek and Liberty Hill singers. Pianists for the afternoon were Leonard Culp, Miss Louanna Jones and Miss Olene Mims.

We appreciate the help of all visitors and especially those from Chestnut Creek. All singers are invited each second Sunday afternoon.

Cardui Helped Lady For Nervousness and Run-Down Condition

"I have taken Cardui several times for weak, run-down condition and it has helped me," writes Mrs. Walter M. Coulon, of Forsyth, Ga. "I was nervous and suffering from a weak condition. There were days when I had to lie down during the day. I sent for six bottles of Cardui, as it had helped me before. Cardui gave me strength, stopped the nervousness and helped me in every way." . . . Cardui may be just what you need. It can't do you any harm, so why not try it? Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

CHICOHI CHATTER

Hour by hour, day by day, week by week and so on, as sand pours through an hour glass, our school days are drifting into oblivion. But this time spent is not entirely in vain. Far from it, knowledge is gained and bits of wisdom are gathered from experience as well as from books. Precious minutes wasted, never regained. Work, play, happiness, sorrow, love, hate, all scrouged into the eternal struggle for the ever-present goal—graduation. Let's make the most of high school life, enjoying it to the utmost, so that in future years we may look back on it with a smile overcoming the proverbial sigh.

There's no use talking! Friday's football game was certainly a wow. A record breaker. I feel so terribly hacked every time I think about how kinda doubtful I was about the outcome, beforehand. Chilton students literally flocked to Wetumpka (Chilton vs. Wetumpka) and I have never witnessed a more enthusiastic bunch. Excitement, thrills, agony and tense moments, all filled the minutes before Willis Baker brought things to a climax by doing his stuff in a breath-taking 95 yard dash down the field toward Chilton's goal. The crowd went wild and no wonder! After that there was no stopping our boys. They really tore out in a big way. They thrust a 20-0 victory into our eager hands and we are eating it up and asking for more (In the future, if you please). To you football heroes—the school's best wshes.

The Teachers' Institute was held at the school several Mondays ago. If you're asking me, I'm telling you, the best thing about that matter, at least in the student's estimation, was a well earned holiday. You know the old adage about 'all work and no play—.'

Our library is in good condition as far as form is concerned and is expertly operated by the school librarian, Miss Kendrick. Excellent magazines, used by the various departments are mantained. General references and books pertaining to particular subjects are afforded. A limited amount of fiction and current papers is included. As we all know, a school of this size, in present conditions, cannot offer to its students a great number of different books in every field each year. For this reason, the library is rather deficient, especially in fictional and historical works. The replenishing of the library would be a splendid project for some enterprising organzation.

The so-called vanishing American has not entirely vanished. I know it because we were visted by four of the above on Thursday of last week. A mother, her daughter and two sons, genuine Omaha Indians, rendered a most interesting, entertaining and instructive program. It included short talks on Indian customs and life, demonstrations of Indian dances and songs, their methods of making war weapons and other products, as well as many other interesting things. All were in native costume. One of the high points of the performance was an Indian marriage ceremony. After witnessing this demonstration I wondered if our primitive brother was the 'cave man' type we are generally led to believe.

A recent newspaper article stated that there are as many Indians in America today as in Colonial times.

Dr Ezell and his visiting co-workers favored us with a short visit on Monday of last week. They conducted chapei exercises. Dr. Woodward, who is a missionary to China, made a brief talk concerning Chinese customs and little things peculiar to their race, entirely foreign to we Americans. His talk met with great approval among his attentive listeners.

Negro Teachers Hold Institute Here Monday

The Chilton County Negro Teachers Institute, which was held Monday at the City Negro School, was declared by Luther E. Little, superintendent of county schools, to be a great success. This institute meeting marked the opening of 19 negro schools in the county and the launching a year's program of work for 34 teachers and 1,100 pupils.

The body was addressed by E. G. McGehee, representing the State Department of Education, and Mr. Little. Both speakers spoke at length on the progress that is being made by the negro race. It was pointed out that education and a splendid cooperation in most instances is accomplishing much toward making this race into a more useful element of our civilization.

The nineteen schools began their sessions Tuesday morning. The County Training School, the one negro high school in the cunty, was begun two weeks ago

Vermont School News

Our Parent-Teacher Association met in regular session last Thursday night with one hundred-ten persons present. Of this large number were forty-one parents and the entire faculty. Several new members joined after seeing their need for alligning themselves with the educational cause. Following the devotional exercises the meeting was called to order by the president, Miss Cagle, who, after making several preliminary remarks called on Mr. Johnson to outline briefly some of the plans are studying relative to installation of new classroom equipment.

Afterwards the house was made open for election of new officers for the new year. Miss Cagle was re-elected without opposition to serve another year as president. Miss Manning was then chosen as vice-president, with Mrs. Bertie G. Johnson being re-elected as reporter.

Next in order came the committee appointments by the president. Mr. R. W. Kendrick was selected as chairman of the membership committee, being given the privilege of choosing his two associate committeemen. Mrs. M. L. Williams was appointed chairman of the Refreshment Committee, with Francis Kendrick, one of the alert members of the Jr. Three class being selected as chairman of the Program Committee. This gives us a strong and lively corps of leaders and with the enthusiasm already manifested and a determined spirit of cooperation, we set forth in our drive toward a goal of real and lasting accomplishments. Our P.T.A. meeting will be held on Thursday night, November 8.

The entire student body underwent a medical inspection last Friday morning for any mouth disorder which might lead to serious consequences. For this examination we are very grateful to Supt. Little, who brought Dr. Hodges from the State Health Department. Dr. Gowan from Clanton and Dr. Nix from Maplesville were there also. Dr. Hodges outlined a few simple health rules to be followed.

Nineteen truck and wagon-loads of wood were brought in last week, which leaves only a very few patrons who have not complied with the agreement with our County Board and local school officials in placing a specified amount of wood on our campus in order to get funds which our school is entitled to, for making available a much needed water supply. In this, our final appeal, we urge your cooperation, so we may move with the other projects toward a mark of real progress.

Basket ball practice, both boys and girls, began this week. Those who intend to enter into the game with hopes of becoming members of the teams will meet this week to elect their officers.

Under the direction of the faculty, an interesting program, centering around the Thanksgiving season, will be presented the fourth week in November. Definite announcements will be made later.

We have the promise of the District road commissioner to prepare our school grounds soon for the purpose of planting trees and shrubbery, lining of driveways, leveling the atheletic field, etc.

Attendance this week has been exceptionally good. What can I do to make it better next week?

The junior high school honor roll for the first month will be published in next week's issue of the news.

On Sept. 29, 1934, I had prepared an order for merchandise to an outstanding mail-order house. While in Clanton I visited Mazar's Store for a minor purchase. While there it occurred to me to compare prices and quality. To my surprise I found they had every item I needed and at a lower price than was listed on my order. The quality of the merchandise in Mazar's was absolutely satisfactory. Naturally, I purchased these items from Mazar's Store where I could see what I was buying. I heartily recommend to my friends that they visit Mazar's before buying.

I received no compensation for this letter and it was wholly unsolicited on their part.

Thorsby Institute News

At chapel Thursday morning the English Literature class read a cutting from the Morality Play called "Everyman." On Friday at chapel a Columbus program was given. On Monday several members of the second year Latin class told something of the schools, libraries, etc., of old Roman days, and declined some nouns, gave the principal parts of some verbs and translated a few sentences. Tuesday chapels are arranged by the music teacher. This Tuesday was in charge of Miss Allen. A Chinese program featuring Chinese music and poetry is to be presented.

It has been found necessary to postpone the social gathering planned by the faculty for parents of pupils attending Thorsby Institute until November 6th. The parents are invited at that time to come to the Institute Auditorium.

November 6th at 7:30 will be the second open meeting o fthe Helen Keller Literary Society to which everyone is invited.

DR. HINKLE RECOVERS FROM RECENT APPENDICITIS ATT'CK

Dr. P. T. Hinkle, who has been confined to his home for some time with an attack of appendicitis, is able to be out again and is lending his efforts toward assuring the success of the Democratic Ticket in the November election. Dr. Hinkle i perhaps one of the strongest Democrats in the county and his active support in behalf of the ticket is sure to mean many additional votes when the ballots are polled on November 6.

This week Dr. Hinkle is covering the county with members of the Democratic ticket, and is urging his friends not to waver in their support of a program that is meaning much to the working men and women of Chilton County. Because of his connection with Governor-elect Bibb Graves, Dr. Hinkle will have an exceptionally strong influence with the next state administration, and in this way will doubtless form an important link in the chain of state and county politics.

Woman Finds Local Store Beats Mail Ord.

Many persons, who are sending their money on a one-way trip out of Chilton County by patronizing mail order houses, are needlessly impoverishing their county, as is exemplified by the information in a letter recently received by the Mazar's Store from a former mail-order house customer.

This lady stated in the letter that she had prepared a rather large order which she expected to put in the mails, but while in Clanton visited this store for a minor purchase and was astonished to find that she was able to secure all the articles of her need at prices even less than could be had from the mail order concern.

20 To 6 Victory Gives Local Eleven More Pep

The Clanton football squad feels considerably important these days. Since the boys outstripped the Wetumpka eleven last Friday by the very one-sided score of 20 to 6, the Chilton County Highs have been exhibiting a spirit of bravado that will serve as ample fortification for a duel with a much stronger team.

Two victories out of three games have left the local tigers with more pep than the original Peter Piper— Seriously, the boys made a great show in last Friday's game and are on the receiving end of the congratulation campaign. Wetumpka stepped over the goal line for the first touchdown of the game, and incidentally the only one the Elmore Countians were able to chalk throughout the game, in the first quarter.

The Chiltonians outplayed the foe for the remainder of the battle, chalking three touchdowns and bucked over the old pigskin for two extra points. "Cave Man" Baker was the sensation of the game when he streaked 95 yards across the field for a touchdown, and Cecil Jones added pep and purpose to the contest when he sidestepped through 30 yards of Wetumpkians for the second touchdown.

The boys will meet Columbiana here next Friday afternoon.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Services Saturday and Sunday were well attended. Bro. Carroll brought a wonderful message each time, which everybody seemed to enjoy. There were two additions added to the church Saturday. They were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Powell, by letter. Our B. Y. P. U. is still pulling and if you are not attending at some other place each Sunday night, come join us. We would be glad to enroll you.

Mr. Arnold Glenn spent Saturday afternoon with Mr. Joe Lansford.

Mr. Wiley Jones had as their dinner guest Friday Mr. Oliver Glenn.

Mr. Bill Wise spent a few hours Sunday morning with Mr. Oliver Glenn.

Mr. Arthur Mims and wife and children spent a while Saturday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Guy.

Famous Cooke Players Here Again Next W'k

The show-going public of Clanton and surrounding section has grown accustomed to the annual presentation of of the famous Cooke Players, and it is with keen interest that they look forward to this treat.

Again this year, beginning Monday, October 22, the Cooke Players are here for a week's presentation of clean, wholesome amusement and entertainment. They are brought to Clanton this season under the auspices of the Missionary Circle Number One of the Clanton Methodist church, and judging from the enthusiasm being expressed concerning the appearance, the tent, which will house the shows this year, will be filled to overflowing.

Coming to Clanton year after year for several seasons, the Cooke Players have won recognition among the showgoers of this section for the rendition of clean, yet entertaining presentations. The shows will begin next Monday night and continue throughout the week.

TERRACING DEMONSTRATION FOR CHILTON COUNTY OCT. 25

There are several thousand acres of farm land in Chilton County that need terracing. And several thousand more acres that need re-terracing.

Thursday, October 25, there will be a terracing demonstration held on R.E.L. Ward's farm at Lomax. Power equipment will be used in this demonstration. A 30-horsepower deisel tractor and a machine built for the purpose of building terraces.

Mr. J. B. Wilson, Extension Engineer, Auburn, Alabama, will be with us and will give us some information on how to set up an organization for getting our terracing done with this power equipment. There will be others on the program.

Come to this meeting and see some real terraces constructed, with equipment built especially for this work. I would like to see every farmer who is interested in terracing at this meeting.

Popular Circus Will Show In Selma, 19th

The Great Hangenbeck-Wallace Circus, one of the two largest shows in America, will exhibit in Selma, on Friday, October 19, and Montgomery on Saturday, October 20. A two mile long street parade at 11 a.m. will be the inaugural event of the day,—the first real old-fashioned circus parade since 1926.

The huge circus traveling on three all-steel trains of double-length circus cars, will, this year, offer more thrilling features than ever before. Every display on the lengthy program is of gigantic proportions, and scores of them new to circus patrons.

Clyde Beatty, world famous wild animal trainer, will again thrill the vast audiences with his daring in the all-steel arena with forty wild and ferocious lions and tigers. The most awe-inspiring display of the kind in the whole world.

Other stellar features from among the 600 men and women arenic stars, will include the famous Cristiani Troupe of equestrians, direct from Europe; the world famous Flying Codonas, with Alfredo, greatest aerialist of all time; Bombayo, the Man from India,—sensational star of the bounding-rope, and over 100 other ring, track, and stage displays on the mighty 1934 Hagenbeck-Wallace program.

The performances will open with a stupendous spectacle, "Persia", featuring nearly 2,000 people and animals, and an elaborate pyrotechnical display while, for the youngsters, seventy-five of the world's best known clowns will be on hand to furnish laughter throughout the length of the two-hour program.

The big double-menagerie, the largest on tour in the world, is, this year, augmented by five great herds of performing elephants—40 in number, 30 camels, and 20 zebras. Performances will be given at 2 and 8 p.m., with the main gate opening one hour earlier.

Local Relief Force To Attend Dist. Institute

The staff of the local relief offices is plannning to attend the two days institute in Montgomery next Monday and Tuesday, when directors, their staffs of this district and others will convene, according to an announcement from Miss Kittye Clyde Austin.

Miss Austin stated that she plans for every member of her staff of workers to attend this meeting. Extensive discussion of various phases of the relief programs, especially the new rehabilitation program, is expected to occupy much of the two days, she said.

This institute, which will likely become a monthly affair, will be in the nature of a training school. Directors and workers will be invited to give illustrations of the myriad problems which they called on to solve in their particular county and others will offer solutions which they have found successful, it is understood.

The session will be under the direction of Miss Charlotte Leeper, director of the Bureau of Training and Personel, and Miss Anne Botsford, of Syracuse, N.Y., an assistant to Miss Leeper.

A purse which had contained $8 when stolen about two and one half years ago was returned by mail with a $10 bill to the owner in Lindsey, Canada.

7,200,000 Kilowatt Hours
MORE Electricity
for $214,000
LESS Money

That's How One Year's Operation of Our New Promotional Rate Plan Has Benefited Our Residential Customers

OCTOBER 1st, 1933, Alabama's new low rates for electric service were put into effect by the Alabama Public Service Commission.

When the new rates were installed we told you they would at once cut the cost of electricity to our residential customers by $336,000 annually, and furthermore provide for progressive reductions over a three year period, bringing total savings to our customers of over $600,000!

We also told you that if you wished to use MORE electricity, you could get all or part of the increase FREE, and that when you had used up your FREE electricity, any extra electricity you might want to use would come to you at special bargain prices.

One year's operation of the new rate schedule reveals the fact that our residential customers have actually used 7,221,548 kilowatt hours MORE electricity these past twelve months than during the same period a year ago, yet their electric bills for this larger amount of electricity were $214,667 LESS than they paid for the smaller amount the preceding twelve months. In brief, 13.5% MORE electricity for 8.3% LESS money! If the use of electric service by the residential customers of the company during the past 12 months had been at the average rate during the preceding 12 months, the cost would have been $564,479.00 more than the actual cost at the new rates.

Some have used the same amount of electricity and saved money. Some have used MORE electricity and paid LESS for it than the smaller amount cost them last year. Some have made big INCREASES in consumption, but their electric bills have gone up very little, if any!

Yet the fact remains that there are many customers who have not taken full advantage of the benefits the promotional rate schedule offers them. There are many customers who could actually use much more electricity than they are using now without a single penny's increase in cost. There are many customers who could operate an electric iron, waffle iron, electric fan, or increase their electric lighting without any increase in their electric bill. And there are still others who could enjoy the comfort and convenience of electric cooking, electric refrigeration, electric water heating at very little added cost for these major appliances.

Perhaps you, too, are letting your opportunity slip by to enjoy the advantages of increased electric service at no added cost or for a negligible extra sum each month. We invite you to call at our local office and talk it over with our manager.

Replies To Letters Of Lowery And Coggins

Editor, Union Banner:

In your issue of August 9, you published letters from Hubert Lowery and R. J. Coggins to which I would like to reply.

My father is said to have voted the first Republican ticket in Chilton County and I have been voting it much longer than Lowery and Coggins together. I don't think it can be said that any Republican of the Baker family ever had to be persuaded to vote for the Republican nominees fairly selected. As for myself my policy has been to swallow the nominees of the Party regardless. But, Mr. Editor, I find that the order of things have changed. Persons have been rewarded with public office running as Republicans, who were not true Republicans. Is it not a fact that Charlie Duke and his family did not vote for the Republican nominees in a recent election? I would like to inquire whether our sheriff and his family have been true to the cause? Where are the letters written by Archie Harris, candidate for Clerk after his defeat in the Primary in 1922, also would you be so kind as to point out any services rendered by him to this Party in 1928? Have you ever heard that Akins Collins' family have been voting the Democratic ticket? Do you know that the brother of our Treasurer was a candidate in a recent Democratic Primary for Constable and is now drawing a pension from the county by authority of the Commissioner's Court? Brother Editor, since Gillespie, Harris and others formed their faction about 1922, we have had this jealousy and dissention in our ranks. We have rewarded those who have been unfaithful until now, we had in office more half-breed than true Republican. This strife, within the Party, has not come about since the Primary, June 12. There has been a conserted effort of those who are now insisting that we Republicans support the entire ticket to bring about the defeat of Judge Reynolds and all of his friends. To do this a very conceivable trick has been resorted to. Caucuses were held at night, Executive Committees were hand picked, and the Chairman and Secretary of our Executive Committee began canvassing for office and retained their positions during the campaign and actually appointed committees, received and counted ballots and performed other duties in connection with the Primary. The efforts of some within our ranks have been to drive people away from the Party rather than to bring it up, and the cry has been to defeat certain of our people at any cost. It was openly said in the campaign, more than two years ago, by those who now seek our vote that the help of Judge Reynolds and his friends were not wanted.

In the recent election for County Superintendent of Education, where Mr. Bean was defeated by Mr. Little there is no secret that Mr. Bean's defeat was brought about by the failure of those who would now have us vote blindly for the Republican nominees.

The Republican party needs house cleaning. For more than a year, serious charges of gross irregularities have been brought against some of our officials and many of these I know to be true. The Republican party can not hope to succeed the way things are being handled in the county and the way I see things we voters must take things in our own hands or our Republican party will be buried so deep that it will never again be victorious in the county. It looks like the only way that we can save our Party in the future is to defeat the crowd who have brought criticism on our Party in the way they have handled the finances of the County.

Yours very truly,
JOHN BAKER, JR.

P. S. I presented the above letter to Mr. W. M. Wyatt, of the Union Banner, but he refused to print it and this is the reason I am asking the Chilton County News to publish this piece. The Republican Party in the past has been honest enough so that it could stand the search light of truth to be thrown on it and just as long as it was conducted that way the Democrats could make no criticism of us and it looks to me like it is in a bad situation when its newspaper will only allow one side of the question to be printed.—John Baker, Jr.

PLEASANT GROVE

Jemison

We are sorry to have to say we still have some sickness in our community. Mr. Monroe Franklin is still not doing so well. Mrs. Bill Davenport underwent an operation Saturday and stood it fine. We sure hope for her a speedy recovery. Little Dorothy Davenport is very sick at present, seemingly on the verge of taking Typhoid fever and Pneumonia. We also wish for her to soon be able to be up again. May God bless each sick one.

On last Monday at 11 o'clock one of Pleasant Grove's former young men, Mr. Houston Ray was buried at Pates Chapel. He was living at the time of his death with his father in Center Hill community. Quite a host of his friends and kindred of this community attended the funeral. The Rev. Maurice Hodgens conducted the services. We extend to his family our deepest sympathy. May God bless each one of them.

Mrs. Marvin Champion and son, Albert, spent a while with their aunts, the Misses Champions, Wednesday night.

Mrs. Wess Gletty took dinner with Misses Dulcie and Delia Champion, Thursday.

Miss Effie Champion spent Saturday evening with Mrs. John Davenport. She called to visit her little daughter, Dorothy, who is sick.

Miss Velma Price spent the night with Misses Agnes and Mary Lee Compton Saturday night.

Miss Dulcie Champion went to Clanton Saturday on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion visited their nephew and family, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Champion, and sons, Alfred and Albert, Saturday night and Sunday. Albert returned home with them to spend a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Erskin Martin visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wright, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arey Miskelley spent Saturday night with his sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Herma Hodgens.

Miss Dulcie Champion visited her niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Franklin, Sunday night.

Mr. Lance Franklin, who is attending school at the Institute in Thorsby visited his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Franklin, Sunday.

Miss Gail Gletty took dinner with Miss Willie C Clements Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Spivey and daughter went to Union Grove Sunday.

Mrs. Alice Childress visited her daughter, Mrs. Leonard Lenoir Saturday

Mrs. Clanrence Marcus and little son, Aldeen, spent Sunday afternoon with Miss Dulcie, Delia and Effie Champion and Mrs. Martha Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. Algie Compton spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs John Davenport to help them with their sick child.

Our sore eyes are about gone now, J. D. Davenport being the only one we know of now who has them.

Our Sunday School did not turn out so well Sunday. Folks let's don't forget that we get a blessing by working for God, so let's come out and do our best. May God bless our Sunday School and all the church work. Don't forget to pray without ceasing for God to help us.

State of Alabama

A PROCLAMATION

by the
GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the legislature of Alabama at an extraordinary session held during the year, 1932, ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which proposed amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the election be held at the General Election in November, 1934, and

WHEREAS, the General Election in November, 1934, is to be held on Tuesday, November 6, 1934, as provided by law, and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law, and by the provisions of the Act submitting the said amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for eight (8) successive weeks immediately preceding the said 6th day of November, 1934;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, B. M. Miller, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 6th day of November, 1934, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama in the manner and form required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz:—

> The Legislature of Alabama hereafter from time to time by general or local laws, but subject to the provisions of Section 281 of the Constitution of Alabama, may fix, regulate and alter the costs, charges of court, fees, commissions, allowances or salaries be charged or received by the following county officers of Mobile County, Alabama, the Judge of Probate, the Tax Assessors, the Tax Collector, the Clerk of the Circuit Court, and the Register of the Circuit Court, including the method and basis of the compensation of such officers.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of the election upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding the 6th day of November, 1934, in each County of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 19th day of July, 1934.

B. M. MILLER,
Governor.

Remembers Some Of Liberties Under Hoover

Editor, Chilton County News:

In your editorial week before last you mentioned a few of the liberties we had under Hoover, and the Republican administration, but I don't believe you did them justice. I would like to mention a few liberties you didn't mention. I remember once when Hoover made a trip through the Middle West when the farmers there were free to raise all the corn they pleased at eight cents per bushel, all the wheat they could at the same price, Irish potatoes at twenty-five cents per hundred, hogs at less than a dollar a hundred, butter fat at eight cents per pound and eggs at three cents a dozen, etc., while their farms were being sold for taxes and mortgages and the banks closing by the thousands and beating them out of their hard-earned money which they had deposited to take care of their needs.

I remember one rancher in Wyoming that shipped a trainload of sheep to Omaha, Neb., and when they were sold the commission firm wired him to send money to finish paying the freight. He wired back to them that he had no money, but could send them more sheep. When Herbert Hoover visited the West and Middle West and after viewing all this at close range and with his own eyes, he went back to Washington and after filling his dainty little pouch, he sat down in his easy chair, rubbed his hands together and informed the press that he was very well pleased with condition in the Middle West.

Don't you believe that is the kind of president and the kind of political party the farmer needs in power? Then Mr. Hoover turned to his desk and signed a bill appropriating three billion dollars for our poor railroads that were struggling so harr trying to pay dividends on watered stock which amounted to about ten or eleven times what they were actually worth, and keeping up their high executives salaries which were only around a quarter of a million dollars a year each. Of course I know the Democrats are making a lot of mistakes and if you ask me, I believe the worst one they make is letting a lot of good old Republicans administer their local affairs. Why not let men that are in sympathy with the New Deal and its welfare look after the administration of its affairs instead of a bunch that are doing all they can to prejudice the people against it. I am sorry I can't read the Banner and see all they have to say, but I just can't afford but one paper, so I just have to be satisfied with what I can hear.

I certainly don't think the Democrats have done enough yet, but still you can't expect them to get us out of a mire in a year and a half that it took the Republicans twelve years to get us into and clear to the bottom of it at that.

I was in California when Hoover was elected, had a good job in the big trees making five and a half to six dollars a day. The cars ran around with big canvas signs on the back which read, "If you want a full dinner pail, vote for Hoover." Vote for Hoover Prosperity," etc. I told my fellow workers if he was elected they would get a chance to work for a dollar a day before he went out of office. However, I was mistaken, because they didn't even have to work, because all the mills closed and gave them a vacation and their dinner pails were all full of air.

Look at the freedom he gave our veterans who fought across the seas and got maimed for life, to protect his millions. He gave them the freedom and liberty to run if they were able or be crushed under the tanks or mowed down by machine guns. He gave the air mail subsidiaries freedom to bleed the government as much as they pleased. It seems his cabinet was almost equal to Harding's, which if it had an honest man in it I never happened to hear of him. But of course there are lots of things I don't hear.

I read a little joke the other day about a traveling man talking to another one, said he could tell a Republican or a Democrat by their looks, could pick them out of a crowd. Well, they got up a bet, and a crowd of listeners collected and the traveling man walked up to one and says, "You're a Democrat." The fellow said he was and of course the traveling man felt big about it and he walked up to another one and said, "You're a Republican." The fellow said, "You're a liar, I've been sick."

However, when we look back and think of all the freedom we have had under Republicanism and Hooverism we ought not have trouble deciding which we prefer. I don't remember a Republican administration since Teddy Roosevelt that hasn't given the trusts and corporations all the freedom they wanted to rob the public, and especially the farmer and laborer, who in the end pay it all.

Yours truly,
WESS GLETTY,
Jemison, Ala., Rt. 1., Oct. 8, 1934.

Gives Reasons For Joining Democrats

Editor, Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Sir:

I'd like to use your paper as the medium to express my sentiments regarding the present political situation in Chilton County. I have always voted a Republican Ticket, but this time I'm marking my ballot under the Rooster. I feel that everyone has a right to change his political views, and I'm sure that I have sufficient reason to join the Democratic Party in this county in its effort to lend support to President Roosevelt in his program for recovery.

Had it not been for help I have received from the Federal Government, through work on the CWA and R. F. C., I cannot imagine what would have happened to me and my family during the past months. If I did not lend my bit toward helping to continue this new deal for the laboring man, I'd feel myself terribly ungratful. This is the first time that I ever remember the southern cotton farmer sharing in the benefits of his govenment. Any man who is capable of thinking must know that without government regulation we would still have been getting five cents or less, for our cotton.

I feel that these improvements and many others are the direct result of a Democratic Administration in national government, and I for one, am heartily in favor of bringing this type of government to our county.

I'm acquainted with most of the candidates on the local Democartic Ticket and I believe that they are capable men, and will bring us an administration of which we will have reason to feel proud.

So I am urging my friends when they go to the polls on November 6 to join me in casting a vote for the local Democratic Ticket, a vote for President Franklin D. Roosevelt and his New Deal for the working man.

Very truly yours,
L. P. RUSHING,
Clanton, Ala., Route 6.

Why the Sudden Change to Liquid Laxatives?

Doctors have always recognized the value of the laxative whose dose can be measured, and whose action can be thus regulated to suit individual need.

The public, too, is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that a properly prepared liquid laxative brings a more natural movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a prescription, and is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna —a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is obtainable at all druggists.

Hamp Draper Visitor In Chilton This Week

Chilton County friends of Hamp Draper, chairman of the Board of Administration during the former Bibb Graves' administration, will be glad to learn that he is spending some time in the county this week.

Mr. Draper is visiting various sections of the county, encouraging the support of the Democratic ticket in the November election. During the former administration of Gov. Bibb Graves, Mr. Draper was one of his most important allies and many Graves supporters expect him to play a big part in the coming state administration.

It is gratifying to the Democrats of Chilton County to know that the very close friends of the next state administration are encouraged at the prospects of the election of the Democratic ticket this time, thus providing for a greater harmony with the state and national administrations.

Miss Sophia C. Mullins of Chattanooga, Tenn., is the guest of her mother, Mrs. P. D. Wilson. Miss Mullins has held a responsible position for four years in Chattanooga. She is expected to be here for two weeks.

CULLMAN AIDED BY CONTROL ACT DATA SHOWS

Farm Income Is Bolstered By Provisions Of The Bankhead Law

Cullman, Oct. 16.—Farm incomes in Cullman county have almost doubled since the Bankhead cotton control act became operative, a survey by E. C. Kinney, Cullman merchant, showed today.

In 1931, data gathered by Mr. Kinney revealed, the total income from cotton lands in this county was $1,734,0000. In 1932 it was $1,090,000. The 1933 income was $2,370,000 and in 1934 it will be $2,760,000, the survey showed.

In 1931 Cullman county farmers planted 80,000 acres and produced 51,000 bales of cotton. In 1932 they planted 80,000 acres and produced 32,000 bales. In 1933 they planted 84,000 acres and produced 38,000 bales, but the price increased from $30 to $50 a bale and $320,000 was received in government payments for acreage removed.

This year 55,000 acres were planted and approximately 29,000 bales will be produced, valued at $60 a bale. Rental and parity payments aggregate $360,000 and the price of seed has advanced from $10 to $35 a ton.

Mr. Kinney concluded his survey report with the assertion that Cullman county's gain from the agricultural adjustment program amounted, in cash, to $2,306,000. He placed the income from cotton lands for 1933 and 1934 at $5,130,000, as compared with income of $2,824,000 for 1931 and 1932.

MONROE COUNTY

allowed not less than two bales minimum," said Senator Bankhead.

At Mnroeville, Saturday, Senator Bankhead concluded a five-day speaking trip into five counties. He was heard during the week at Marion by 500, Wednesday at Livingston by 400, Thursday at Butler in Choctaw by 2,000 Friday at Grove Hill by 750, and Saturday at Monroeville by over 1,500. And it was farmers who heard him during the week and they came out in spite of the heavy rains.

The writer has covered at least 20 counties in the last month and thought that the optimism among the agriculturists of Alabama was greater in the Wiregrass than anywhere.

And no wonder the farmers of Monroe are feeling good. They are not only receiving three times as much for their cotton crop, seed and benefits this year as they did the last year, they were "on their own," that in 1932, but they have raised heavy crops of other things as well.

The average corn crop in Monroe County is 85,000 bushels. This year the farmers of Monroe have raised 150,000 bushels of corn. And corn is bringing a fine price. We saw a buyer in Monroeville Saturday pay a producer 75 cents a bushel for a lot of corn. The reason the corn yield was so high was because Monroe farmers generally rented land to the government they had been planting to cotton. And the government, of course, not only paid them the rent not to plant cotton but allowed them to plant food crops and therefore the corn acreage was greatly increased, in fact doubled. In the past Monroe has not raised enough corn to do the farmers, but this year the county has raised more than enough for home consumption and will have corn to sell.

And that is not all. The acreage to sweet potatoes has been tripled and the yield is the best on record. Former cotton acres were planted to sweet potatoes although rented to the government not to be planted to cotton.

Formerly, Monroe County farmers imported 48 per cent of the hay necessary for the use of stock in the county. This year Monroe County will have a surplus of hay and some to sell. Many acres formerly planted to cotton went to hay this year although the farmers had rented the land to the government agreeing not to plant cotton.

And after all of this is said, the farmers of Monroe have raised almost double the amount of sugar cane they have ever raised before.

There is a very, very limited amount of opposition to the Bankhead bill in Monroe County today and what little there is is expected to be silenced in another two or three weeks as the farmers of this favored "land of milk and honey" show their stuff.

TO THE FARMERS OF CHILTON COUNTY ALABAMA:

We, the undersigned, hereby call a county-wide meeting of the farmers of Chilton County to be held at the court house at Clanton, Alabama, on the 20th day of October, 1934, at two o'clock p. m., at which time to take up and consider the question of protesting against the methods being used by the county committee in the allotment of cotton and gin certificates.

PAVING

terruption.

Judging from the paving project which is now underway, this additional mileage should furnish employment to approximately 100 men for a period of three or four months. Continuing thrugh the entire four and one-half miles, steady employment can be given to a large number perhaps until early spring.

Other projects, amounting to approximately $150,000, which are to be built from federal government funds will soon be underway in this county. O. H. Stone, manager of the local office of the United States Re-employment Service, recently received notice that work on the Clanton City Hall will likely begin within the next thirty or sixty days, and work on the new $55,00 Clanton postoffice will soon be underway, it is believed by those in charge of the selection of man for these projects here.

Should there be a sudden call for a large number of workmen in this county, there would be trouble in supplying them, Mr. Stone said, explaining that many have neglected to keep their files up to date by keeping in touch with his office regularly every thirty days. According to the rules of this office, those applicants who do not re-register every thirty days are assumed to no longer be in need of employment.

were arrested on evidence collected by him.

The youth, who was found in an unconscious condition on the railroad tracks underneath the overhead bridge in Clanton by Raymond Taylor as he came to his work about 6:30 o'clock on Sunday morning, lived at the Central Alabama hospital for four days without regaining consciousness. Physicians said that a piece of his skull was crushed against his brain. The wound indicated that he was struck with a hammer.

Funeral services were held last Thursday afternoon from the Clanton Baptist church with Dr. S. J. Ezell officiating. Burial was in the family cemetery in Shelby County, near Montevallo, with Martin & Sons in charge.

The youth is survived by his parents, and several brothers and sister. He is a distant relative of Judge L. H. Reynolds.

Mrs. L. C. Reynolds and her sons, Ted, Morgan and Harry, motored to Decatur Sunday, and on their return home Mrs. W. H. Thompson accompanied them home for a few days visit.

Patronage Dividend To Be Paid Farmers Who Sold Cotton Thru Cooperative In 1933 and '34

It was announced today by R. K Welch, local representative of the Alabama Cotton Co-operative Association, that a $3,000.00 melon for Chilton County would be cut at the Court House Clanton, Alabama, Saturday, October 20, 1934, beginning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Welch further explained that every farmer who sold his cotton through the association during the past season would receive a patronage dividend on profits made in the handling of cotton which amounts to 70 cents per bale.

The Association is the farmers' own organization and any profits made in the handling of cotton must be returned to the farmer as a patronage dividend on business done through the organization.

The Association is handling the 12 cents loan for the farmers this year and up to the present time has handled about 8500 bales in this county. This represents about 93% of the cotton crop of this county that has been disposed of to date.

If you sold any cotton through the Alabama Cotton Co-operative Association from your 1933 crop be at the Court House Saturday to get your slice of this melon.

FIRE DESTROYED THE HOME OF JAMES BAKER, CLANTON RT. 5

Mr. James Baker, farmer of Clanton route 5, who recently suffered the loss of his home in a fire, asked the News to express his appreciation for the many kindnesses which have been shown him and his family by their friends and neighbors.

The fire occurred Friday night, September 28, and the entirety of the Baker family's household furnishings and clothing was destroyed. The elderly farmer stated that he would like to trade wood, or turkeys, for clothing for his family and himself.

J. Mell Martin Attends Funeral Directors Meet

J. Mell Martin, popular Clanton funeral director, left early Monday morning to attend the annual convention of the National Funeral Directors in New Orleans. Mr. Martin was elected several months ago to a membership on the legislative committee. He also serves the State Funeral Directors as secrtary, having been re-elected for the fifth consecutive term.

This convention in New Orleans, Mr. Martin stated, will be one of the most important national convention of funeral directors ever held in the South. One of the most complete programs in the history of the organization has been planned for this occasion.

COL. GRAVES TO SPEAK HERE

OLIVER BACK FROM TOUR OF ROME, LONDON

Chosen As Spokesman For American Delegation To Europe

Washington, D. C.,—Rep. William B. Oliver, Ala., back recently from Europe where he represented this government in discussing important international questions at the interparliamentary union session at Istanbul and obtained many vivid impressions of present day, restless Europe, was returning to the state this week where he will spend some time going over the district and conferring with constituents.

Accompanied by Senators Robinson, Ark., and Connally, Texas., and Rep. Cochran, Pa., the Alabama member was chosen as spokesman for the American delegation in refusing on the part of the United States to endorse the resolution proposed at the union session by France urging a security pact in return for world-wide disarmament. Explaining that this nation favored disarmament, Oliver pointed out the traditional avoidance by the American governments of such alliances as a security pact might lead to.

Mr. Oliver left for the state following a personal visit to the White House, where he not only reported to the President on the results of the interparliamentary conference, participated in by leading European nations, Egypt, and Japan, but also discussed at length with Mr. Roosevelt conditions as the Alabamian found them on his visit to three leading capitals—London, Paris, and Rome—and his trip by airplane and train over a great part of the continent.

Oliver's itinerary carried him to the three capitals, aside from the union session in the Turkish capital, for the purpose of inspecting American buildings used in these countries for diplomatic purposes. As a member of the House appropriation committee, handling funds for the state department, he will consider during the next session of congress whether improvements or changes are necessary in building under the flag abroad.

In an interview following his White House visit, Mr. Oliver gave a vivid description of his impression of social and economic conditions in European

LOCAL YOUTH DIES OF BURNS LAST SUNDAY

Clothing Catches Fire At Downtown Filling Station Last Saturday

Oscar Bennett, 15-year-old Chilton County High School student, died at 3 o'clock Sunday morning at the Central Alabama Hospital from severe burns suffered late Saturday afternoon, when his clothing, wet with gasoline, caught fire at a Clanton filling station.

The youth had placed his father's car on the lubrication rack at a local station to drain the gasoline from the tank in an effort to remove trash from the gas line. A quantity of the fuel spilled on the ground and on young Bennett's clothing. Several persons who were standing near-by said the youth struck a match to burn the gasoline from the ground and became enveloped in the flames, however, he told his father, O. C. Bennett, a few minutes before his death that he did not strike the match.

When the flames engulfed the youth, he became frightened and ran, but was caught before he had gone more than thirty steps and his burning clothing was ripped from his body. The flames were leaping higher than his head, according to witnesses, and Doc Martin, a farmer of the Pletcher community, burned his hand severely when he cut the boy's belt in an effort to tear away blazing trousers.

Practically all the skin on the youth's back, from the top of his head to his feet, was burned away, but his death was likely caused by sucking some of the flames into his lungs, according to physicians who treated him at the hospital. He lived about ten hours after he was burned and never lost consciousness. Only a few minutes before he died he attempted to console his father and told him that he did not strike the match.

He was taken to the hospital in a Martin & Sons ambulance, and was able to walk to the hospital elevator though his legs were badly burned.

Young Bennett was a junior at the Chilton County High School and was a member of the football squad. At the funeral services at the Clanton

YOUTH KILLED BY COUSIN IN ROAD AFFRAY

Dan Lockhart Being Held Following Death Of C. A. Johnson

Funeral services for C. A. Johnson, 23, who died Saturday afteroon of knife wounds, said by officers to have been inflicted during a fight with a cousin, D. W. Lockhart, 38, a few hours earlier in the day, were held Sunday at 2:30 p. m. from the Chestnut Creek Baptist church at Cooper. The Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor of the church, officiated. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge.

The youth died at the Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton two hours after he was slashed to the hollow in the stomach and cut several times on the left arm and on the body. The abdomen wound severed the lining of the stomach and caused profuse internal bleeding, which was likely responsible for his death, Dr. V. J. Gragg told members of the boy's family.

The conflict Saturday, which resulted in Johnson's death, culminated a former trouble, according to R. A. Johnson, father of the dead youth. Lockhart is alleged to have made derogatory state-

ANNUAL ROLL CALL FOR RED CROSS IS SET

Membership Drive To Begin On Armistice Day In County

Organization plans for Chilton County Chapter of the American Red Cross are now being made for the annual Roll Call Membership campaign which opens on Arimstice Day, Sunday, November 11, according to a statement given out by J. Mell Martin, Roll Call Chairman. The quota assigned to this chapter is 500, and Mr. Martin says there is every indication that the goal will be reached, if not passed during the roll call campaign.

Further outlining the plans Mr. Martin states that he expects to organize a corps of volunteer workers to solicit memberships in every community of Chilton County. Several enthusiastic persons have already signified their willingness to accept a place among these workers, and others will be drafted into the cause.

About the first of November Mr. Martin will have the list of volunteer workers completed, at which time he will invite them to come to Clanton for a meeting. At this meeting full instruction will be given the workers and all plans for carrying the roll call over the top will be thoroughy outlined.

"Red Cross services to the public must be continued at their present high peak," Mr. Martin concluded. "The organization must stand ready at all times to answer calls for relief in catastrophes, great and small; it must be ready for any sort of governmental co-operation that may be needed. An increased membership will provide the means through which the needs of the coming year can be met. Chilton County Chapter will ask all our citizens to remember the fine work of disaster relief which the Red Cross rendered our suffering citizens in 1932, and join the Red Cross again this year during the Roll Call from Armistice to Thanksgiving."

INTERESTING DISPLAY WINDOW AT MAZAR'S STORE

The spirit of Hallowe'en is in the air, and if you doubt it, you should visit Mazar's Store on Main Street, Clanton, and see how nice the Hallowe'en fairies have dressed one of the big show windows there. G. W. Melton Condemns Mismanagement Says Republican Party Quit Him

Editor, Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Sir:

While I am a Republican and for over forty years have never scratched a ticket, I address this letter to you because the Union-Banner, our Republican paper, refuses to publish anything that does not suit a certain crowd regardless of whether it is fair or not.

I served as road overseer in this county something like nine years. When we started, the present road system, there was nothing but gullies and ditches in this part of the county called public roads. We built the roads up and improved them until you could go to every house in the county any day in the year in an automobile. We had a system to work the needy and unemployed until two years ago when the present commissioners took charge of the road work in this cunty. Judge Reynolds and the other commissioners had a record of helping the unemployed in each precinct and we overseers were notified how many days work to give each person, which was a great help in relieving the distressed and hungry people in our county, but the present Commissioners changed this system entirely. They picked out their political friends regardless of their financial condition and gave them the work. Under the old system we hired teams and trucks from the people of the county to do the hauling but the present Commissioners bought trucks and employed their political friends to drive them. Even Republicans that had never scratched a ticket who was out of work and without something to eat could not get work from the county unless they belonged to the Court House crowd.

The Federal Government has furnished the thousands of dollars which they only gave to furnish jobs for the unemployed and to feed the hungry and starving people of our county which our own Commissioners Court refused to help, and yet they have had a great deal more money to spend than any other Court ever had for the same length of time and we all know that our public roads in our county are in worse condition now than they were two years ago.

Republicans, I ask you this question—If the crowd that is now running our county is to be continued in office, where will your roads and finances be six years from now and what will the suffering and needy do? If it had not been for the aid from the Federal Government many of us would have been on starvation already.

Under the old Commissioners, when a tax payer of the county could not pay his taxes, we overseers were notified to give them enough work as a day laborer or with a team to pay his taxes. Look at the people's homes that are advertised now for sale for taxes. Wouldn't it have been much better for the Commissioners to have given them work, which would have saved their homes and the money, and the money would have been paid back into the County Treasury and the people would have had the money and work too.

Republicans, I have not quit the Republican Party, the party has quit me, and every other laboring man in the county and this is the reason why I am not going to vote the Republican ticket this time. Our party has been considered the party of the common people but now it seems to be composed of a faction which has drifted into a system of working for spite and it has entirely left the interest of the people of this county and I hope that Lee Smith and his crowd will be elected by a large majority.

Respectfully,
G. W. MELTON.

CLANTON GRAMMAR SCHOOL P.-T. A. SPONSORING FIDDLERS CONVENTION NOV. 9TH

A very pleasant musical event is in store for the people of Chilton County on November 9th when the Clanton Grammar School P.-T. A. is sponsoring a fiddlers convention at the court house. Business concerns are cooperating and more than twenty prizes have already been secured to award participants. Fiddlers who wish to enter the contest and try for a prize are requested to notify Mr. W. M. Wyatt, Clanton, Ala.

Farmers Approve Bankhead Cotton Plan

MEETING HELD SATURDAY AT COURTHOUSE

Only A Few Voiced Disapproval Of Plan Of Cotton Control

Those who have any doubts regarding the popularity of the Bankhead Bill in Chilton County should have attended the two meetings held at the court house in Clanton last Saturday, when approximately 1,000 farmers were present in the morning and afternoon, and out of that number less than a dozen expressed dissatisfaction with this program, which has as its aim to increase the price of cotton by reducing the crop.

At the meeting in the forenoon, when an estimated audience of 600 filled the auditorium, only six persons voted in disfavor of the Bankhead Bill. When asked to vote their reaction to the program, approximately 99 per cent of the audience declared themselves heartily in favor of the bill.

Even those in the afternoon meeting, which was called for the purpose of permitting those who had complaints to register them, declared that they are in sympathy with the spirit of the

TWO ARE FREED OF CHARGES IN INVESTIGATION

Barnes Out On Bond In Connection With Reynolds Death

Two of the three men who have been held in jail for several days in connection with the alleged "hammer slaying" of Joe Reynolds were released Saturday, following a preleminary hearing before Justice of the Peace J.L. Wilson, and the third was held on a $300 bond to await the action of the grand jury.

Bernice Barnes, a fellow worker at the Alabama Mills with Reynolds, was bound over to the grand jury on a $300 bond. Both Leon Aldridge and Douglas Hammonds, who were arrested several days ago in connection with the case, were released and the charges against them were nol prossed. Both men denied any knowledge of the slaying of Reynolds, who was apparently struck over the head with a hammer and left on the L. & N. railroad tracks for dead on Saturday night, October 6.

Evidence was shown in the trial that Barnes was with Reynolds the night of the alleged attack. He admitted that he and Reynolds were at the local theatre about 10:30 o'clock, but denied that he accompanied the youth up the railroad tracks toward their homes.

SPEAKING SET FOR 2 O'CLOCK IN AFTERNOON

Every Citizen Urged To Hear Next Governor Of Alabama

Supporters of the local Democratic Ticket are enthusiastic over the fact that Governor-elect Bibb Graves will speak at the court bouse in Clanton next Saturday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in behalf of the election of Democratic county officials

It is believed that the "Little Colonel's" plea for the election of Democratic officials in this county will be based on the fundamental idea that a more thorough co-operation with the State and National governments may be had with the installation of officials who are in sympathy with these administrations, and who will lend their energy to insure for their people the best possible government

The election of the local Democratic Ticket will bring this county government into a closer harmony with the State administration. In numerous ways this will be an advantage which would not be enjoyed by the election of officials whose ideas do not correspond with those of State officials.

Colonel Graves has a large following in Chilton County and it is beileved that his address here will find an enthusiastic reception. In the recent primaries, his vote in this county outnumbered any other gubnatorial candidate. Loud speakers will be installed with anticipation that the audience cannot be seated in the court house auditorium.

FIDDLERS ARE INVITED TO ENTERPRISE SCHOOL SAT. NIGHT

All the old-timers, and young ones, too, who slide the bow and pat the foot, have a cordial invitation to be present at the Enterprise school Saturday night, when an old-time fiddlers convention will be staged.

Those who have charge of the program declare that they expect this to be one of the best fiddlers meet ever staged in this section. Special invitations are being sent to all the old-time artists over the county and plans are underway for a big time

The Literary Digest Poll

The exceptional accuracy of past Literary Digest polls compels respect for that magazine's latest canvass. It indicates a decline in popular support of Roosevelt policies. Yet no hard and fast conclusion can be drawn from this.

In March and April, the Literary Digest sent questionnaires to 65,000 persons, asking whether they approved the Roosevelt administration's acts and policies; and in August and September repeated the same question to the same persons. Last Spring's returns showed 69.03 per cent for the New Deal, and 30.87 per cent against, compared with current returns of 50.97 per cent for the New Deal, and 49.03 per cent against.

Unfortunately, the magazine fails to disclose on what basis these names were selected in the first instance, or how many of the 65,000 actually voted in either poll. Whether the shift away from Roosevelt represents a swing to the right or to the left is not clear.

Naturally, Republican Chairman Fletcher hails the poll as a positive swing to the right. But how can those who see a swing to the right explain recent primary results? The latest Digest poll shows a decline in New Deal sentiment in Mississippi, California and Massachusetts. Well, voters in those states have nominated Theodore Bilbo, Upton Sinclair and James M. Curley, all of whom campaigned for more radical policies than those of Roosevelt. The Maine election proved that the people still distrust the G. O. P.

Whatever may be the correct interpretation of the new Digest poll, we cannot see that its trend is favorable to either the Democratic or the Republican party—Birmingham Post.

The President And The Bonus

Speaking at the dedication of a veterans' hospital at Roanoke, Va., Friday, President Roosevelt said: "I mentioned once upon a time that we must do first things first; the care of the disabled, the sick, the destitute and the starving is the first thing. To this the veterans of American wars give their approval in agreement with the overwhelming majority of our citizens. I make this statement in regard to the veterans of America, not only because I am confident of their patriotism and their understanding of national needs, but also for two other reasons. The first is that our federal government have given to them many privileges not accorded to other citizens. And the other reason is that it has been amply demonstrated that the veterans of the World War, today in the prime of life, are better off from the point of view of employment and of annual income than the average of any other great group of our citizens."

The obvious construction to be put upon this courageous declaration by the President is to regard it as an advance notice to the National Convention of the American Legion at Miami that the President's opposition to the immediate payment of the bonus is still unabated and the claims of the destitute and unemployed millions must take precedence over those of the veterans at this critical time. The President takes pains to say that the veterans of the World War are today in the prime of life and are better off from the point of view of employment and annual income than the average of any other great group of our citizens.

It is well known, however, that the bonus fires still burn fiercely and that a resounding demand for immediate payment will issue from the great conclave at Miami. Congress has given impressive proof of the powerful influence of the veterans. It chose at its last session to cast its lot with this puissant group rather than take sides with the most popular President the country has had since the Civil War. The signs are now propitious for the battle to be fought all over again in the next Congress.—Selma Times Journal.

Records Staging Comeback

The phonograph record business which many have relegated to the past is not only very much alive, but actually staging a comeback in public favor. Contrary to the general impression, the record people say that the advent of radio was not necessarily responsible for the decline of this type of home entertainment, as evidenced by the fact that records enjoyed their biggest year in 1927-1929. They blame lessened incomes and generally depressed business conditions. Public interet in records has been progressively greater with each succeeding quarter-year ince last year, according to the Victo Company, who attributed it to the easing off of the extreme phases of the depression improvements in recording and reproduction, and to an increasing love of good music by Americans.

The Roosevelt Depression

Under such a heading The New York Herald Tribune, the Voice of Republicanism, places a leading editorial article in which it says:

> Mr. Roosevelt cannot lay the blame for the depression of 1933-34 on Mr. Hoover's or any other administration. He started under the most favorable of auspices a year and a half ago, for busines was at such a low estate that, once the banks had opened, it could move only in one direction—namely, upward; he had a Congress that was ready and willing to do his slightest bidding, and to do it without question; and he has had more millions to spend than any President in our history. Yet, after a three month's flurry that can be traced directly to a combination of expected inflation and a general attempt to beat the high prices that were threatened under the NRA, the trend of industrial activity has been almost uninterrupted downward.
> We hope it is true that Mr. Roosevelt is "concerned" at the present state of affairs, and we say with the best will in the world. For if he is truly "concerned" it means that he has learned the lesson of the last year and a half. That lesson is that there is no legislative legerdemain, whether it be monetary manipulation, price fixing or regulation, that is a sound substitute for business confidence.

The Roosevelt Depression?

And who has lost by this Depression of '33-'34?

Perhaps there have been persons who have lost by the New Deal. If so, let them step forward and tell how and why the New Deal took money from them. If there are cases in which Mr. Roosevelt's policies have injured some persons (and certainly it is an unusual good wind that blows no ill or something of the sort) then let us hear those cases so that the Administration may correct them.

Meanwhile, we must question the Republican-minded Herald Tribune.

Did not The Herald Tribune less than four weeks ago start howling about the "Roosevelt Depression" in its editorial columns, only two days later to brag—at so many dollars a line, paid advertising in Editor and Publisher, a trade journal—that The Herald Tribune's advertising lineage had increased considerably over last year?

If there is a "Roosevelt Depression" the editor of The Herald Tribune should inform his business manager of that fact. For while the editorial writers of that Republican paper have been complaining about the "Roosevelt Depression," the business manager has been bragging about how good the paper's business has been lately.

So far as the business judgement of The Herald Tribune's editor and the business judgement of that paper's business manager are concerned we prefer to accept the judgement of the man who takes in the money.

The Republicans are making feeble attempts to exonerate their party.—Montgomery Advertiser.

In The Interest Of All

The farm cooperative movement is, first and foremost designed to help the agricultural producer—to obtain for him a larger share of the final selling price of his product, and to make his production methods more profitable and efficient.

In carrying out this purpose, the consumer is not "stung", he is, on the contrary, immensely benefited. It is necessary to him that a constant supply of first-grade farm products be always at his beck and call. He wants food of quality, sold at a fair price. And that is what the cooperatives strive to give him. When a farmer gets more for what he raises it does not mean that the consumer is the victim of profiteering—it simply means that the money he pays to the retailer has been fairly distributed between those who produced the products, those who handled them between farm and market, and those who sold them to the public.

From another aspect, the farm co-op is aiding the urban resident. Farmers of the country normally provide the largest single consuming source for the products of our factories. The drop in farm income is one of the most burning problems of depression. As the co-ops gradually make progress, and farm income rises, all classes of American citizens will reap the benefit of stimulated buying and increased purchasing power.

Today farm cooperation is one of the greatest social and economic forces in our national life. It has done much in its brief life-time and its period of greatest ac achievement still lies in the future.

Watch Out For Pedestrians!

Here is something that every automobile driver should keep constantly in mind: The pedestrian must always be given the right of way. He is, by comparison with the motorist, in a precarious position—when a crisis occurs, his only chance to escape unharmed often depends upon the driver of the car which is in danger of running him down.

The pedestrian accident toll constitutes one of the worst phases of our disgraceful automobile accident record. In 1933, 37.14 per cent of all motor accidents involved pedestrians. These accounted for 30.83 per cent of all injuries, and 44,95 per cent of all deaths—showing that when a pedestrian is in an accident, the chance of his being killed is greater than any other type of automobile mishap.

This year the automobile fatality record is rising over the 1933 level, and if the present trend continues the death toll will reach a new high. And, as usual, the pedestrian continues to get the worst of it. There is a legion of motorists who believe that as soon as the "go" light flares they are entitled to dash across an intersection, whether or not people on foot are still in it. It is an interesting commentary on this that the courts have held that once a pedestrian has stepped into a street under traffic light protection, he is entitled to a safe passage across, whether or not the light changes.

Every automobile driver should regard pedestrians as being his personal responsibility. You may save a fraction of a second by dashing across interesections thronged with pedestrians—but is it worth it in view of the fact that "saving" may cost a life?

Two Brooklyn men traded wives and now each thinks the other is a swindler.

That old biblical rule works both ways. Sometimes the sins of the chldren are visited upon the fathers.

Then there was the stenographer who telephoned the boss she couldn't work that day because her lips were chapped.

Correct this sentence: "He was a shiftless loafer before marriage, but is now an industrious and thrifty husband."

MORAL ECHOES

o

Everywhere we go and almost everywhere we look, we see the sign "For Sale." The words are tacked on houses and painted on barns. eW read those words on cars and goods. The doctor's skill and the clowns wit are for sale. It seems that almost everything is for sale. This is true of all human hearts. Even the Man of Galilee heard a bid made for his soul. This bid was raised three times. There are two bidders for every heart—Christ and the devil. Each bidder has gone to the limit and the matter of ownership is left within the decision of the one who is listening to the bids made. The bid of eternal life is before you and the bid of everlasting night is before you—Which will you accept? My advice is that you accept the bid of the Master and then raise this sign above your soul: "Not for Sale."

I was walking along the crowded sidewalk on a Saturday afternoon and passed two young ladies. They were in earnest conversation and I could not help hearing what they said. I overheard one as she said "I could get out at night often if my mother was not so old fogey as to believe what she heard." I did not know the young ladies, but their words started wheels in my brain. I could see an anxious mother at home trying to train her girl to love and respect the right ideals and that frivilous flapper thought her to be old fogey. Doubtless that mother heard a plenty about girls who go out at night, and it may have been well for her to believe much that she did hear. Many a mother has heard things about night rides and it would have been good for her and for her daughter if she had believed what she heard. After having walked thirty feet or more I lifted my hat in respect for that girl's mother who believed enough of what she heard to keep her own daughter at home at night.

I met a man coming up the sidewalk in haste. He carried a roll of bills in his hand and stopped me and asked that I count them. I did so, announcin that he had $99.00. Then the man replied, "That is correct, and yet the cashier gave me that amount for a check that only called for $82.00. I did not discover his mistake until I reached my place of business, and now I am hurrying back to the bank to correct his mistake." I am sure that this honest man had no trouble in getting the cashier to correct his mistake for it meant $17.00 back to the bank. I am wondering if the mistake had been the other way, if the correction would have been easily made. I see that man almost every day and I always think of him as one man who loved honesty better than money. There are more people of that type in the world than we think—men who will not take a penny that does not belong to them. Any man who is honest has a perfect right to expect other people to treat him honestly.

I heard that my neighbor was sick and I hastened over to see him. I found him shivering under many blankets. When he informed me that he had a chill his teeth did rattle. A few hours later I called again and this time he was almost burning up with fever. This freezing and burning up process continued for several days for he had a stubborn case of chills and fever. He was freezing and burning up every day. That process of temperature not only bedongs to a man with chills and fever, but it belongs to church members as well. We have a host of members in almost every church who have a bad case of off and ons—ups and downs. One year they are freezing and the next they are burning up with zeal. They are warm during a revival, but they freeze the rest of the year. Warm as long as the pastor does exactly to please them, but freezing as soon as some sermon strikes home to the heart. It is bad on any church to have members in it who suffer from religious chills and fever.

I called at the home of a lazy farmer. He sat on his front porch and seemed satisfied that he and his family would be fed. When the weather was cool he managed to plant his crop, but he failed to cultivate it when it needed his attention. He informed me that his crop was a failure, but that he was sitting in the shade and praying for food. He did not seem to know that prayer would not work his field. It takes prayer and perspiration to produce a crop. In a like manner in our churches we are praying for the salvation of souls, but we are doing nothing about it. It takes work and prayer.

A PROCLAMATION

by the

GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the legislature of Alabama at an extraordinary session held during the year, 1932, ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which proposed amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the election be held at the General Election in November, 1934, and

WHEREAS, the General Election in November, 1934, is to be held on Tuesday, November 6, 1934, as provided by law, and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law, and by the provisions of the Act submitting the said amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for eight (8) successive weeks immediately preceding the said 6th day of November, 1934;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, B. M. Miller, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 6th day of November, 1934, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama in the manner and form required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz:—

> The Legislature of Alabama hereafter from time to time by general or local laws, but subject to the provisions of Section 281 of the Constitution of Alabama, may fix, regulate and alter the costs, charges of court, fees, commissions, allowances or salaries be charged or received by the following county officers of Mobile County, Alabama, the Judge of Probate, the Tax Assessors, the Tax Collector, the Clerk of the Circuit Court, and the Register of the Circuit Court, including the method and basis of the compensation of such officers.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of the election upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding the 6th day of November, 1934, in each County of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 19th day of July, 1934.

B. M. MILLER,
Governor.

Baker School News

We are all back in school again and almost ready for the first month's test.

Everyone seems to have a real school spirit this time, and I believe we are going to have a better school than we have had in a long time. We hope so anyway.

We are going to elect Who's Who in the Junior room, taking one class each week until we are through. We are beginning this week with the Jr. III Class:

Who's Who In Jr. III

Most Studious Girl, Gladys Wyatt; Neatest Girl, Min Lee Lockhart; Most Attractive Girl, Annie Lee Bates; Best Sport, Claudell Chapman; Most dignified Girl, Min Lee Lockhart; Prettiest Girl, Annie Lee Bates; Most Popular Girl, Min Lee Lockhart; Best All Round Girl, Gladys Wyatt; Most dignified Boy, Clemon Henley; Best Looking Boy, Willie Blackwell; Neatest Boy, Clemon Henley; Most Studious Boy, Clyde Bradberry; Best Sport, Zane Lowery; Most Attractive, Willie Blackwell; Best All Round Boy, Willie Blackwell.

The Jr. III Class are going to put on a play sometime in the near future. So, folks, begin to save your nickles and dimes and be ready to come.

The girls of this school have organized a Glee Club. We are expecting to put on some real interesting programs throughout the school year. We hope everyone will take enought interest in us this year to make a success of everything we undertake.

Chevrolet Has 4-Door In Standard Bracket

For the first time since Chevrolet added the Standard six in 1933, a four-door five-passenger sedan is now included in its lower priced line. In announcing the new model as an addition to the 1934 Standards, Chevrolet Motor Company declares it to be the lowest priced four-door sedan in the field of sixes and eights. Its list price is $540, or $100 under the Master four-door sedan.

The major new feature in styling is the treatment of the rear end, where the body panels extend low in an unbroken contour to cover the back of the chassis. This construction does away with the rear cross-member cover, and provides a smooth, sweeping effect. The rear tire carrier and the rear bumper supports extend through openings in the body panel, as does the gasoline tank filler-neck.

Comfort for rear seat passengers is improved by provision for extra leg room, the back of the front seat being deeply recessed, giving plenty of space for a built-in foot rest. Maximum elbow room is obtained by means of deep recesses in the sides of the body above large arm rests. A capacious pocket in the back of the front seat is an added convenience. Upholstery is of mohair material of a new shade and texture, set off by harmonizing head-lining.

Equipment features include an adjustable sun-shade at the driver's seat, button type latches for locking all doors, dome light, and rear window curtain.

The front doors are equipped with no draft venti-panes, fitted with exterior rain shields.

BILLINGSLEY DEFEATS PRATTVILLE WITH SCORE OF 13 TO 0

Last Friday the hard scrapping Billingsley eleven outplayed Prattville to win 13-0. The first score came after fifty yards of hard driving to place the ball on Prattville's five yard line and first down, then Griffin sneaked over left guard for the score.

Thompson bucked the line for the extra point.

The teams played on even terms until the last quarter when Griffin punted from his twenty to their forty and Prattville failed to gain, and a short punt gave Billingsley the ball on the fifty at the end of the third period. Two first downs put the ball on the twenty-five and a pass from Griffin to Joe Turner accounted for the second but the try for the extra point was blocked.

STOP! EAT! DRINK!

A big time is being planned for everybody at Billingsley Saturday, October 26. Barbecue, drinks and fun of all kinds will be available.

At 2:00 o'clock a football game will be played between the fast-stepping eleven from Maplesville and the hard hitting team from Billingsley.

The two teams will be about evenly matched and will show some real foot ball playing.

Everybody come prepared for a big day. Proceeds go for the benefit of the school.

Judge Reynolds Honored On 70th Birthday

An event of widespread interest in Chilton County and throughout the State last Sunday was a triple birthday celebration at the home of Judge and Mrs. L. H. Reynolds, honoring Judge Reynolds and two other members of his family, whose birthdays were October 16.

Those honored were: Judge Reynolds, his son, L. C. Reynolds, and a daughter, Mrs. Minnie Bridges. Although the birthdays of all three occurred Tuesday, October 16, the celebration was held Sunday to permit a joint affair.

Members of the family and a few close friends joined in a simple celebration, honoring Judge Reynolds on the seventieth anniversary of his birth.

For the past forty-five years, he has been a central figure in the public life of his county. Three times a member of the State Legislature, a member of the Constitutional Convention, and probate judge of Chilton County for twenty- four years, few men in this section have lived a fuller life.

Health at this place is very good at present. People seem to be enjoying the fall weather.

Sunday School and B.Y.P.U. are still progressing nicely. It seems that more people are taking an interest in B.Y.P.U.

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. The Rev W. P. Lowery, our pastor always delivers wonderful sermons. The Rev. W. H. Wilson will preach Sunday night after B.Y.P.U.

The singing society will meet Sunday afternoon. We are expecting a good class and some good singing. We appreciate you presence and help.

Several from here attended the singing at Cooper last Sunday. They reported a nice time.

Jackson Urges Solid Support Of Democrats

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you please give me space in your paper for a few words in regard to the New Deal and the criticism that you have been getting from The Union-Banner and its "Man in the Moon." I have been reading both sides closely and can't see why you should get such criticism from The Union-Banner and the "Man in the Moon," especially to be called a flat lie. But that doesn't make it so.

The Union-Banner comes out with a front-page editorial and says: "If you are not for booze and the reckless spending of government money, together with the encouragement of atheism, communism and numerous other isms detrimental to American principles, then you are not in full sympathy with the New Deal."

Now, Mr. Union-Banner man, will you please tell the voters of Chilton County what part of the New Deal encourages disbelief in the existence of a God—that is the definition of atheism.

Now, Mr. Voter, both Democrats and Republicans of Chilton County, be careful how you listen to such propaganda as the Union-Banner has been spewing out for the past four weeks against the New Deal.

Now, let us notice some things of the New Deal and of the Old Deal under the Republican administration. The New Deal under the Democratic administration has reached down and helped the poor fellow that could not help himself and has fed the hungry and clothed the naked and has bought more than two million bales of cotton to make mattresses for the poor people to rest on, besides many relief measures have been passed by the present Democratic administration that reached down in the gutters of poverty where they were thrown by the Old Deal of the Republican administration by legislative enactment, taking from producers of the wealth of this country and giving it to the favored few, taking from the farmers 90 per cent of the value of his products in transportation and distribution, impoverishing and pauperizing the men who produce the food and material for clothing the nation.

Dear Voters, let's come together in a solid front and vote for the New Deal and give our aid in making it a success.

Respectfully,
A. A. JACKSON.

NOTICE OF AN ELECTION FOR THE ISSUANCE OF MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENT BONDS

In pursuance of an ordinance duly adopted by the Town Council of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, on the 23rd day of October, 1934, due and legal notice is hereby given that an election will be held in the Town of Clanton, in the State of Alabama, on the 26th day of November, 1934, for the purpose of the qualified electors of the said municipality voting upon and deciding the question as to whether or not the bonds of said municipality in the sum of Twenty-three Thousand Five Hundred Dollars, ($23,500) to be designated "Municipal Improvement Bonds," shall be issued, of which $6,900.00 of such issue shall be for the purpose of constructing extensions to Town's water distribution system including the installation of appurtenance and the re-location of fire hydrants; and $16,600.00 for the construction of a fire proof City Hall Building.

All of said Bonds shall be dated August 1, 1934, and shall bear interest at the rate not greater than 4 per centum (4%) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of February and August in each year, and said bonds to be General Obligation Bonds of the Town of Clanton, Alabama. The principal of the issue of said bonds shall mature and be payable in 28 annual installments, and $500.00 shall be payable on August 1 in each of the years 1936 to 1944, both inclusive, and $1000.00 on August 1 in each of the years 1945 to 1963, both inclusive, and shall be in the denominations of $1000.00 and $500.00 each. Said bonds shall be payable in any coin or currency which on the respective dates of payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds, is legal tender for the payment of public and private debts, at the office of the Treasurer of the Town of Clanton, Chilton County, Alabama.

Said election will be held at the Chilton County Court House in the Town of Clanton, Alabama. The managers, clerks and returning officer for absentee ballots will meet at the Court House, on the day of election for the purpose of receiving absentee ballots and performing such other duties in respect thereto as is required by law.

For said election the following managers, or inspectors, clerks, and returning officer have been duly appointed: Managers or Inspectors, Mrs. Hattie Alred, J. Mell Martin and M. D. Foshee; Clerks, Miss Bettie Mullins and Mrs. Clara B. Curry; Returning Officer, R. J. Jones.

Dated this the 23rd day of October, 1934.

C. FENN JONES,
Mayor.

S. F. AVERY WRITES ABOUT BANKHEAD COTTON PLAN

Editor, Chilton County News:

I have noticed in the paper some dissatisfaction with the Bankhead cotton plan, and those dissatisfied have a perfect right to be. The bill, in itself, is all right, but the application of it is all wrong. There is no one set of men who can allot to every man just what is right for him to have, but why go and do another wrong by making the man who got less than his part buy from the man who got too much—in other words, give part of his crop to someone else who made just as good crop as he did, or maybe better. That is all wrong. What should have been done is, that those who got more than their share should turn this surplus over to those who did not get enough. It is not right for a man to take part of his neighbor's crop when one made just as good crop as the other, everything considered. If all allotments had been properly made, there would have been enough tickets for every man to gin all he raised, or practically so. I believe in controlled production, ond it seems that we must have it if we get a fair price for our crops, but let's give every man his just dues. The government collects income taxes in proportion to earnings. Why not run the cotton business on these same lines? In this way the big grower will pay more, the small grower will pay less, and nobody will be hurt.

Yours for a fair deal to all.
S. F. AVERY.

Question Of Bonds For Clanton To Be Re-Submitted On November 26

The officials of the Public Works Administration have directed that the denominations and due dates of the bonds of the Town of Clanton, which were heretofore voted on by the people be changed in some particulars and these bonds cannot be changed unless the question is re-submitted to the voters and this question is being re-submitted on November 26th, 1934 and as re-submitted the question is for the issuance of $23,500.00 of bonds instead of $32,000.00 as originally voted since the Government is actually giving to the Town around $8,500.00, that is, if the Town of Claston will issue bonds in the amount of $23,500.00, the Government will give to the Town of Clanton approximately $8,500.00 for the construction of a city hall and for the extension of the water mains. The Town officials regret that this matter has been delayed, but they announce that the bid for the work will go forward with the notice of the election and in this way no additional time will be lost before the work on these projects will actually commence in the event of their approval by the voters.

FIRE DESTROYED HOME OF BEN DUKE LAST SATURDAY NIGHT

The home of Ben Duke, brother of Com. C. D. Duke, who lives in the Mt. Pleasant community, was completely destroyed by fire Saturday night. It is understood that all the members of the family were away from home at the time and the origin of the blaze is unknown. The house was in ashes when the family returned and all of the household furnishings and clothing was destroyed.

TO THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY:

Immediately following my nomination for Probate Judge in the Republican Primary on June 12, two examiners were sent to Clanton to make an examination of the affairs of my office. I have never received any report from them or from their superiors at Montgomery as to what charges, if any, they had concluded to make, until I saw in this morning's Montgomery Advertiser a statement that a report had been filed with the Governor, charging that I was due a large amount to the State, County and certain Officials, and this information reached me too late to make any answer in this week's paper and barely time to write this short letter.

I wish to say to the voters of Chilton County that these charges are entirely untrue and that I can and will answer every charge and specification contained in that report just as quickly as I can obtain a copy of the same and will do this before the close of this campaign, so that every voter will have an ample opportunity to know the facts and I ask of you that you give me an opportunity to make this answer to these charges.

I wish to say further at this time that there has never been a day in the history of Chilton County when the people needed any more to know the truth about the conditions relative to the management of our County Government, and as to the conspiracy now on foot to thoroughly wreck the principals of good government and law enforcement that the people of Chilton County believe in and to perpetuate the control of our County Government and County Treasury in the hands of a few individuals, who will profit thereby and I promise you that with my answer to these charges, I will give you information which will be a revelation as to the present conditions in politics in Chilton County.

I again ask that you suspend your judgment for my statement on this matter.

October 24, 1934.

J. Z. MIMS.

Miss Emily Sue Mullins Entertains At Birthday Party

Emily Sue Mullins entertained a number of her little friends last Wednesday afternoon at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Joe Edgar, the occasion being her tenth birthday.

The house was attractive with fall flowers. The dining room was decorated in pink and green crepe paper draped attractively over the table. The centerpiece was a pretty birthday cake on which burned ten candles.

The little guests were entertained by games on the lawn after which they were invited into the house to see the pretty and useful gifts of the honoree. Ice cream and cake were served to Misses: Jean Waite, Bess Hayes, Aileen Popwell, Joan and Mary Frances Atkinson, May Anice Polk, Jerry Alred, Ann Callen, Mell Ross Wyatt, Hazel and Mary Agnes McNair, Betty Boo Hollis, Eugenia Newton and Josephine Stanley of Mitchell Dam, Sarah Nell Sessions, Ann Glasscock, Mary Roberts, Essie White and Miss Nita Campbell. Mrs. Edgar was assited in entertaining by Mr. Ed Glasscock, Mrs. B. M. Connatser, and Mrs. Annie Mullins.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Edgar Entertained For Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mullins

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Edgar entertained at a lovely informal reception at their home Saturday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs W. L. Mullins, of Tuscaloosa whose recent marriage was an interesting event.

Guests were met at the door by Mrs. Sophia Jones, aunt of the groom. In the receiving line were Mrs. J. E. Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mullins, Mrs. Annie Mullins, mother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Connatser, and Mrs. Ruth Kate Shepherd.

In the dining room Misses Hilda Hart, Frances Davis, and Nell Ross Mullins, cousins of the groom, served refreshing fruit punch from a pretty crystal bowl, banked with pastel dahlias. The table was covered with a lace cloth and was held in place by compotes filled with nuts and mints and by crystal candle holders in which burned candles. The color motif was carried out in the refreshments and in the flowers effectively placed about the receiving rooms.

Miss Elizabeth Gragg gave a reading appropriate to the occasion.

"Oh, wad some power the giftie gie us
To see oursels as ithers see us."—Burns

Burns created a good bit of philosophy when this thought came to him while in church. The situation included an overdressed lady with a huge bug crawling on her headgear. Many a time has this quotation confronted my mind when engaged in the effort of learning to march during our most popular phys-ed. period.

Which reminds me—what was once a regular old man of the sea has made a real pleasure. (I'm speaking of recreation period). This is accounted for by the fact that Mr. Warr has indulged in some perfectly grand new equipment. A volley ball, net, indoor baseballs, horseshoes and other things have recently been added to our somewhat meagre store of playground equipment. All material is of the highest grade. Chilton's certainly going atheletic.

This week is P.-T. A. drive. To our shame, Verbena and Thorsby have exceled our local P.-T. A. in membership. Everyone knows that the Parent-Teachers Association is an important organization within the school. To the parents of Chilton High students, we desire your aid and cooperation. Join this most worthy organization and by doing so, show your interest in us.

It has been said that the American girl's vocabulary consists of two words—Cute and O. K. Is this true? Here arises a plea for the deemption of that statement. Let's not let ourselves get in a rut. Woodrow Wilson and Julius Caesar are believed to have had the largest vocabularies in history. Can we not do half as well? Add a new word a day to your lingo. It's a sure way to become wiser.

Let me tell you—things are going over in this school. Numerous improvements have been and are going on. The school buses bringing in rural students, have been generally overhauled and painted. They are in much better condition.

A broader course is being offered to ambitious scholars than ever before. There are three major sciences—Physics, Chemistry and Biology; several courses in mathematics, Home Economics, Manual Training, etc. Let us hope that all are taking advantage of the opportunity to include such a score of varied studies in their high school curriculum.

A French class has, at last, been organized, after several years of faithful endeavor. It is fondly referred to as "our faithful nine." But just you wait 'til they begin Parle-vousing around the campus and watch the Latin aspirants turn green with envy. Not that I don't adore Latin—oh, no!

All you tennis fiends come hither! The tennis club is awaiting your membership (and dues, 50c) with eager hands. It was organized a while back and a set of excellent rules drawn up. Officers are: President, Mr. Bratton; Sect. and Treas., Dorothy Waite. Who knows? A future Helen Wills may be among us. Tennis is a great game. Join now!

Columbus discovered America, so our history book states, and if it hadn't been for Queen Isabella he would probably still be propounding his theories. Last week he celebrated his boat ride, proving that if a man is given half a chance, he will make good.

Student Stuff

We must have a little humor daily, to keep the smile working.

Bill Hodges wants to know what mummies are made of. I personally appoint Mr. Varnell as a committee of one to tell him.

And then there was the little girl who wanted to read Mrs. Wiggs of the the Turnip Patch.

Found in a French Book:

If all the students in this school were the kind of student I am, what kind of a school would this be? The answer will be printed next week if you didn't guess it yet.

Don't let a little thing like a ten yard Physics problem floor you.

Idle Items

Seems like winter's playing tricks on her unsuspecting victims. What is it that talks and talks and never says anything? You guess. S'about time for goblins to strat peeking around corners. Famous last words: "The entire class will remain after school for one hour." Jane Pitts has founded a new diet so I'm told. Is Pauline Hogan's wistful look God-given? I heard that Geraldine DeLoach knows all the answers. We wonder. Charles Foshee writes in dignified verse. Oh, yeah?

Photographic—

Known to all the students dear
At cheering you can't beat,
Slim of statue, red of hair,
This girl I'll have you meet.

Grady Heflin, Jr., Celebrated Fourth Birthday

Grady Heflin, Jr., celebrated his fourth birthday recently when he entertained at a birthday party. The little guests spent the afternoon playing games on the spacious lawn. The pretty birthday cake holding four lighted candles was cut and other refreshments including mickey mouse and lolly pops, were served. Balloons were given as favors. Grady, Jr., received many useful gifts.

Miscellaneous Shower

Mrs. Tom Taylor was a delightful hostess on Friday afternon, Oct. 12th, when she entertained at a miscellaneous shower at her lovely home in South Clanton honoring Mrs. Odean DeLoach (Marie Frasher) a bride of recent date. The home was attractively decorated with fall flowers.

Receiving with the hostess were the honoree, her mother, Mrs. A. G. Fraser, and Mrs. R. W. Lowe.

Delicious punch was served to the guests as they arrived by Mrs. Luther Culpepper. Presiding over the Bride's Book was Mrs. Lonnie Richardson where about fifty guests were registered during the afternoon.

Many useful and beautiful gifts were displayed in the lovely bed room. A delicious ice course was served to the guests.

Non - Cooperators May Get 12c Loan

Farmers who did not sign cotton acreage contracts this year can now secure 12-cent loans under a certain condition.

Under the rules non-contract signers were not heretofore eligible for the 12-cent loans. However, Alabama county agents have received word from the Department of Agriculture, Washington, that non-contract producers can secure 12-cent loans provided they pledge themselves to cooperate next year in any acreage reduction program."

Farmers in the above class who desire 12-cent loans can secure more definite information from their county agents.

HIGHLAND

Last Sunday evening was our regular singing evening. We had a large crowd and some good singers. We were more than glad to have the visitors and invite them back again.

The opening song was led by Mr. Hiram Littlejohn after which prayer was led by the Rev. W. S. Cox. Directors for the afternoon were: Hiram Littlejohn. Sovereign Dickey, Zane Lowery, Fonzie Coe, Jake Henley, Coy Lockhart, George Chambers, Leonard Culp, Gladys Wyatt and Ruby Weldon. Pianists for the afternoon were Miss Dessie Wyatt and Mr. Leonard Culp.

Several quartets were sung by the Liberty Hill quartet which was greatly enjoyed. A solo was sung by Mr. Leonard Culp which was greatly enjoyed.

Everyone come back next third Sunday afternoon and bring someone with you. We are always proud to have lots of singers and listeners too. Remember, you are always welcome at Highland.

Stapp Head Red Cross Activities In Dallas

Former County Agent C. E. Stapp, who now holds a responsible position with a Selma cotton warehouse, apparently continues to live up to the reputation he won in Chilton County of being in the thick of the fight for better things for the community in which he lives. Recognition of his outstanding ability as a leader was recently accorded him by the people of Selma, when he was named chairman for the Dallas County Red Cross Roll Call, which is to be launch d November 11.

While in Chilton County, Mr. Stapp was always a leader in Red Cross activities and his friends here believe that the people of Dallas could have made no wiser choice than placing him at the helm of this worthy program in their county.

Why Doctors Favor a Liquid Laxative

A doctor will tell you that the careless use of strong laxatives may do more harm than good.

Harsh laxatives often drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.

Fortunately, the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be regulated to suit individual need. It forms no habit; you needn't take a "double dose" a day or two later.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gently helps the average person's bowels while nature is restoring their regularity. Why not try it? Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is little "convenience" in any cathartic which is taken so frequently, you must carry it with you, wherever you go!

Its very taste tells you Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delightful action. Safe for expectant mothers, and children. At all druggists, ready for use, in big bottles.

RE-ROOF for all time

DON'T take chances with an old roof when it is so easy to have Careystone applied right over it. Made of asbestos and cement formed into shingle-shaped units, these roofs have all the advantages of slate or tile without the heavy weight, high cost and tendency to crack.

Permanent and Fireproof

Careystone is a permanent roof—first cost is last cost. And it is as fireproof as stone.

Roof Beauty

Careystone is made in five attractive colors. And at no extra cost you can have the "Weather-Age" finish—made only by Carey.

Low Cost... Free Estimate

Careystone costs much less than many roofs which do not approach it in appearance or durability. Let us give you a free estimate on reroofing your home. Call, phone or write.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

Clanton Gets Adult School

Through the kindness of our Supt., Mr. Little, the people of Clanton have been given a specialist who will teach special subjects to adults, especially to maids. The main purpose of the adult school is to teach the young women how to make applications for jobs, how to approach people, home-making, personal cleanliness, economy and the like. It is believed that this special instructor will not only be helpful to our people, but invaluable to the white people of Clanton as well.

H. E. Girls Operate Cafeteria

The Home Economics girls are operating a cafeteria at the County Training School for a period of a few weeks. The girls are being given instruction in foods, and on a survey they found that some students brought no lunch at all, others brought only sweets, or meat and bread only. They also found that the lunches were not properly packed.

The purpose of the cafeteria is to inform the students as to the best type of lunch to prepare for school. Those students who patronize the cafeteria are being carefully observed in manners, choice of foods and other things.

Terracing Demonstrations

The teacher of agriculture is starting demonstrations in terracing next week in the Morning Star community. It is hoped that a large number of persons will attend each demonstration. Special care will be exercised in teaching those persons who are interested in the steps and rules of terracing. A survey of the community shows that terraces are badly needed on sixty per cent of all the farms. It is the business of all persons concerned to make good of this opportunity.

Cotton Facts

In communities with an evening school, a series of talks and demonstrations on the cotton situation will be given, beginning at the Lutheran school next week, Monday and Wednesday night. If you have not learned the facts of the Bankhead Act it will be well for you to be present at this meeting to get this and othe rinformation that will be of great help to you. Come out and learn more of your own business as farmers.

A RESOLUTION OF RESPECT

We, the members of the Co-operative Singing Society, composed of Providence, Mars Hill, Center Hill and Oak Grove, wish to offer the following resolution:

That God in His infinite wisdom saw fit to call from our midst one of our beloved members. Loyce (Rip) Northcutt.

Rip will be missed by us all, as a class and quartet singer. (He was the bass singer on the Oak Grove Quartet.) We feel that our loss is heaven's gain.

BE IT RESOLVED, that while we bow in humble submission to God's will that we extend our sympathy to his family and Oak Grove church, and that a copy of this be sent to each of the County papers and a copy to his family.

Respectfully submitted by the Committee.

Fant Receives Letter Relative To Syrup Tax

Mr. J. W. Fant, County Agent,
Clanton, Ala.
Dear Sir:

This will acknowledge your letter of October 12th relative to processing tax on sugar-cane syrup.

All syrup taken as toll for processing is taxable, and in addition to this there should be shown on the return the taxable, quantity of syrup which the farmer-producer declares for sale above the two hundred gallon exemption which he is allowed provided he sells the syrup directly to a consumer or to a person who sells directly to a consumer without changing the syrup in any way, and provided, further, that the farmer-producer does not sell more than five hundred gallons during the marketing year, June 12, 1934, to June 12 1935.

The mill operator should report all toll syrup taken by him regardless of whether the producer had any exemption syrup or not.

It is hoped that this is the information you desired.

Respectfully,
Harwell G. Davis, Collector.

ISABELLA HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB NEWS

Our Home Demonstration Club met at the schoolhouse Monday afternoon, October 15th, with thirteen members present. Two new members were enrolled.

Miss Pardue gave a demonstration on Cheese Making. All the members present were very interested in the project. Mr. Thomas, our vocational teacher, presented our club with a cheese press which was appreciated very much.

Miss Pardue urged all the members to send in their annual report as early as possible. Our next meeting will be Thursday afternoon, November 1st, at two o'clock. The demonstration will be on making Christmas gifts and toys.

NEW SALEM SOCIAL CLUB

The New Salem Social Club held its regular meeting on October 18. The members of the church are piecing a quilt and on the first day of November we are to meet at the church and quilt it, so we invite all that will to come and help us.

Instead of meeting at the church for our next meeting, we are to meet at the home of Mrs. Texann Bussie and hold our meeting there. We hold our meetings on Thursday before the third Sunday of each month.

52 LEADERS ATTEND LEADERSHIP SCHOOL HERE OCT. 18TH

On Thursday, Oct. 18th, 52 leaders met in Clanton to attend a leadership school held by Ruth Pardue, Home Demonstration Agent, and Miss Dorothy Dean, Clothing Specialist from Auburn.

In the morning a demonstration was given on Home Made Christmas ideas. Various toys and gifts were on exhibit and the leaders gathered many new ideas for Christmas.

During the lunch hour a nice plate was served by the leaders to 62 people. J. W. Fant, County Agent, made an interesting talk on Farm Bureau and Co-Operative Marketing. We hope to have a large organization in this county.

A Handicraft demonstration was given in the afternoon. Many articles were made.

After the leadership meeting a short County Council meeting was held. The following Chairmen were selected for the three objectives in the county:

Mrs. Chas. Howard—Schoolship.

Mrs. W. B. Strock—The Education of Rural Women in Responsibilities of Citizenship.

Miss Lena Downs—The Spread of Information about The Farm Bureau and Co-Operative Marketing.

The Home Demonstration (Ruth Pardue) and 8 Council members will attend a District Council meeting Oct. 27th and 28th at Camp Grandview. This should be a very profitable and enjoyable trip. The Elmore County Council will be hostess at this meeting.

CAKE WALK AND SUPPER

Everybody and especially the candidates for the offices of the county are cordially invited to Floyd church the first Saturday night in November. Come early to get your share of hot dogs, sandwiches and cold drinks.

Floyd church is located 5 miles west of Verbena and eleven miles south of Clanton.

FEEL TIRED, ACHY— "ALL WORN OUT?"

Get Rid of Poisons That Make You Ill

IS a constant backache keeping you miserable? Do you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination; attacks of dizziness, rheumatic pains, swollen feet and ankles? Do you feel tired, nervous —all unstrung?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly, for functional kidney disorder permits poisons to stay in the blood and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They help the kidneys cleanse the blood of health-destroying poisonous waste. Doan's Pills are used and recommended the world over. Get them from any druggist.

DOAN'S PILLS

AGED RESIDENT OF COUNTY BURIED AT PINE HILL MON.

Funeral services for Mrs. Elvira Hester, 85, who died Sunday morning at 4:15 o'clock followign an extened illness, were held Monday morning at 11 o'clock from the Pine Hill church. The Rev. Cochran, pastor of the Clanton Methodist church, officiated. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge.

Mrs. Hester was one of the pioneer residents of the county and her and her descendants are among the most revered families in this section. Although he was born and reared in Autauga County, she removed to Chilton many years ago and had made this county her home since that time.

PLEASANT GROVE

Jemison

Another week has passed by and we are glad to say our sick ones are all better. Mrs. Bill Davenport is doing fine after undergoing an operation at St. Vincent Hospital in Birmingham several days ago. We hope she will soon be back at home.

Our association was held at Macedonia church last Wednesday and Thursday. Qute a lot of Pleasant Grove's people attended. They reported a real good time. There was two good sermons, one each day. We all sure enjoyed worshiping God and meeting so many old friends. May God bless all that was done for good during the two days.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion and nephew, Albert Champion, visited his niece and family and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Franklin and Mrs. Dovie Dawson, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Correll and family, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Franklin, and Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Miskelley were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Zuber Sunday.

The Misses Willie C Clements and Mildred Yarbrough took dinner with Miss Gail Gletty Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davenport and son, James Frank, and daughter, Edith, visited he rsisters and aunt, Misses Dulcie, Delia and Effie Champion, and Mrs. Martha Wilson.

Miss Dulcie Champion spent Sunday night with her sister, Mrs. Frank Davenport.

Mr. and Mrs. John Davenport and son, J. D., and daughters, Dorothy, Kathleen and Nellie Gene, spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Davenport's sister, Mrs. Jim Dawson.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Davenport and daughter, Olis, visited Mr. and Mrs. Jim Miskelley and family Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Kincaid spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dock Hodgens.

Mrs. Adair is suffering from an injury received on her leg from a fall. We hope for her to soon be able to walk again. We miss her in our Sunday School.

Mrs. Herma Hodgens and son, Horace, and daughter, Arlis, spent Saturday night and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Miskelley.

Mrs. Marvin Champion spent the day Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion and carried her little son, Albert, back home, who had been spending a week with his uncle and aunt.

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day, so let's all come out and make our services one of the best we have yet had.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dawson and son, Jimmie, of this community have moved to Jemison.

Our Sunday school and B. T. U. are doing nicely now. We need more of our people to come out and join us and May God bless us in our work for Him.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lenoir are the proud parents of a new son born Oct. 14. Mother and baby are doing nicely.

Little Misses Billie Gene and Margaret Morgan spent the week end with their sister, Mrs. Way, of West End.

Mr. and Mrs. Herma Hodgens had as their guest last Thursday night the Rev. Maurice Hodgens and the Rev. Freddie Riggins.

Mr. Briggs Hodgens spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Hodgens.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Carroll had as their guest last week his sister, Mrs. Lela Mims of Clanton.

On last Saturday night Mr. Wilson Clements, one of Pleasant Grove's fine young men, and Miss Alma Askew of Oak Grove community were married at her home. We wish them a long and happy life together.

NON-SKID GRIP
is 5½ times more necessary to safety

Your big worry should be skidding—the cause of 5½ times more accidents than blowouts. Smooth tires skid 77% farther, other new tires skid 14 to 19% farther, than new "G-3" Goodyear All-Weathers (proved by 8400 tests). Since this "Goodyear Margin of Safety" costs nothing extra, get it now—ride safely during the slippery driving months.

43% More Miles of Real Non-Skid because "G-3" All-Weather Tread is flatter, wider, heavier, tougher. Blowout-Protected in EVERY Ply because Patented Supertwist Cord is up to 61% more elastic—absorbs shocks!

KITCHEN COACHES TOURING STATE

13% MORE ELECTRICITY IS GIVEN FOR 8% LESS

When on October 1st, 1933, Alabama's new rates for electric service were put into effect by the Alabama Public Service Commission, we told you they would at once cut the cost of electricity to our residential customers by $336,000 annually, and progressive reductions over a three year period would bring total savings to our customers of over $600,000!

We also told you that if you wished to use MORE electricity, you could get all or part of the increase FREE, and that when you had used up your FREE electricity, any extra electricity you you might want to use would could to you at special bargain prices,

One year's operation of the new rate schedule reveals the fact that our residential customers have actually used 7,221,548 kilowatt hours MORE electricity these past twelve months than during the same period a year ago, yet their electric bills for this larger amount of electricity were $214,667 LESS than they paid for the smaller amount the preceding twelve months. In brief, 13.5% MORE electricity for 8.3% LESS money!

If the use of electric service by the residential customers of the company during the past 12 months had been at the average rate during the preceding 12 months, the cost would have been $564,479.00 more than the actual cost at the new rates.

There are many customers who could actually use much more electricity than they are using now without a single penny's increase in cost. There are many customers who could operate an electric iron, waffle iron, electric fan, or increase their electric lighting without any increase in their electric bill.

We invite you to call at our local office and talk it ever with our manager.

Homemakers Are Invited To See The New All-Electric Kitchen

Three beautiful cream-colored kitchen coaches, each manned by an expert home economist, have just begun a tour of the smaller communities to show Alabama housewives the newest low-cost electric kitchen equipment now being offered.

Open house is being held in each community where the coaches stop and the use of many new labor-saving appliances with which the coach is stocked are being explained to housewives by the home economist in charge. The latest models in washing machines, electric irons, percolators, toasters, glow heaters, waffle irons and electric mixers are being shown as additions to the all-electric kitchen.

TAXES PAID EARLY TO AID WALKER TEACHERS

Alabama Power Company paid Walker County its 1934 taxes of approximately $130,000 on October 12, in order that the salaries of its teachers may be paid without delay.

Though not due until December 31, the advance payment was made by the Power Company in response to a plea received by Treasurer Lamar Aldridge, from A. S. Scott, Superintendent of Walker County's Board of Education, stating that no money was "in sight to meet our teachers pay roll in Walker County for the first month."

The Power Company responded at once that it would take some days to gather together the $130,000 necessary to pay its ad valorem taxes in Walker County, and later notified Mr. Scott that it would pay such taxes not later than October 12, $54,000 of which goes directly to school funds.

"Hog Killin' Time" Will Be Anytime Now

Anytime will be "hog killin' time" in the vicinity of Atmore and Florala following the completion of meat curing plants there by Consumers Ice Company, a subsidiary of Alabama Power Company, the early part of November.

The new plants will be community smokehouses installed as additions to existing ice plants and will be a boon to the farmers in those sections who now lose 50 per cent of their meat from spoilage according to estimates of agricultural authorities.

Farmers have already signed contracts to cure many thousands of pounds of meat at these plants during the coming season, but with skyrocketing prices of all cured meats and the urging of United States and Alabama agricultural agents to save all food and feed crops, it is expected that the facilities of both plants will be taxed to the limit.

CUTTING AFFRAY

ments regarding members of the Johnson family, and Saturday afternoon, while driving his parents to Clanton, Lockhart was overtaken on the road near Billingsley. Young Johnson, according to his father, stopped the car and got out, declaring that he "wanted to talk to Dan a minute."

Mr. Johnson stated that his son and Lockhart walked several steps away from the car down a road which led to Lockhart's home, and engaged in a brief conversation. Only a few seconds elapsed before the fight began. The elder Johnson said that he was unable to say which one struck the first blow "The first thing I noticed C. A. had blood on his shirt. I jumped out of the car to go to him and the next time I got my eyes on them, Dan was lying on the ground calling his brother and C. A. was standing over him."

According to Mr. Johnson, the fight lasted less than two minutes. Lockhart then ran toward his home and he got his son in the car and rushed him to Billignsley, where he called for Martin to send an ambulance to bring him to the Clanton hospital

Lockhart told officers when he was arrested that Johnson attacked him, hitting him several times with a stick. Witnesses who visited the scene of the conflict said that evidences on the ground show that the men evidently engaged in a scuffle. They said the ground was torn up in three different places, and was splotched with blood over [illegible] area of several steps, as if the men grappled and then one jerked loose and ran. Footprints, they stated, indicated that both men were running between the scenes of the scuffles.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson parents of the dead youth, were the only witnesses. Johnson stated that he had never heard his son make any threats against his cousin, and after the cutting he said that C. A. made no allusion to the fight enroute to the hospital. "I knew that Dan had made these statements, but I did not think about them fighting when C. A. stopped to talk to him," the father told a News reporter. "Dan always carried a good knife, but he and C. A. had been good friends until this thing came up. It hadn't been but a few days since C. A. carried him to a hospital in Selma," the elder Johnson stated.

Lockhart is being held in the Chilton County Jail without bond awaiting a preliminary hearing. He told officers since he has been incarcerated that he cut Johnson in self-defense.

Besides his parents, Johnson is survived by four sisters and two brothers: Mrs. Franklin Patterson, Eugene, Van, Louise, Laverne and Vivian, all of the Plantersville community.

BANKHEAD PLAN

program, but felt that the local administration had dealt unfairly by them. Almost every complaint hinged on the fact that these farmers were cultivating land with a poor cotton history, which resulted in their allotment being reduced to the minimum.

County Agent J. W. Fant and others familiar with the program explained that a 10 per cent reserve is being held and will soon be allotted to the farmers in this county. They expressed the belief that this reserve will completely satisfy those who now feel that they have reason for complaint.

Without doubt those that now feel that they have just reason for complaint will be gratified when they find to what extent they will share in this next allotment. Not one of those who registered complaints voiced a desire for the old order of things. They all believed that without this program that the Southern cotton farmer would have been in the most dire circumstances. Even after paying a tax on all of the crop, everyone admitted that this year's crop will bring more than it would have. had it not been for this program.

The Rev. E. H. Littlejohn, of Lawley who recently wrote an article in the Union-Banner, which was unfavorable to the Bankhead Bill, declared in a conversation in the probate office a few minutes before the afternoon meeting convened that he realized that something had to be done about the cotton farmer and said that he believed that he is getting more for this year's crop than he would have if the government had not given him this cooperation. His only criticism, he said, is that he thinks too much red tape is involved.

OLIVER RETURNS

countries at present, especially in Rome which he has not visited since 1928. In this capital the Alabamian talked for some time with Mussolini's brother-in-law during the absence of the Duce, and other Italian officials. He also made a personal inspection of the Duce's vast public works program, probably being conducted on a more gigantic scale than Muscle Shoals, examining many of the projects along the Italian coast that made such an impression recently upon Harry Hopkins, the President's FERA director.

Rome, he found, was not the old, romantic city of the war days and earlier. Mussolini is widening the streets of the city, replacing the sharp old cobblestones, and modernizing the capital in other respects. Italy is actively engaged in building paved trunk highways throughout the nation, electrical energy is being used more and more, and a building program is under way.

In Turkey, also, Mr. Oliver found evidence of change. In Istanbul, where the interparliamentary union sat, the city's new capital building, and the absence of the fez and veil, gave indication of a new Turkey only removed when older parts of the city were visited or camels were seen in the streets.

Evidence of uneasiness and unrest, and lack of proof that Europe is pulling out of the depression, also impressed the Alabamian, despite the changes on the continent, Only in London did he feel that the fight toward recovery has made substantial progress. High upon the agenda of the interparliamentary union were questions regarding laboring conditions and wages paid, while delegates from other countries were quick to question the American delegation on experiences this country has obtained from the NRA experiments. Memebers of the delegation who traveled over the continent were less surprised than the average American to learn of such tragedies as the recent death of King Alexander of Yugoslavia, and were ready to give more credence to reports of an arming Europe.

"The dictatorships we visited have a trict censorship on news," Rep. Oliver said, "unlike anything we know in this country. It was amusing to see the foreign papers under this domination pick up some American incident of relatively smaller important in the United states and give it large play on their front pages."

Mr. Oliver expects to open his offices in Tuscaloosa on his arrival. He will visit over the district extensively.

BENNETT DEATH

Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, fellow members of the team served as honorary pall-bearers. Another tribute by his youthful associates was paid him when members of the Intermediate Sunday School Class of the Samaria Baptist church attended in a body with the class teacher, Paul Holley, and had charge of the array of flowers.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor of the Thorsby Baptist church, the Rev. R. P. Cochran, pastor of the Clanton Methodist church, and Dr. S. J. Ezell, of the Clanton Baptist church. Following the services, the body was taken back to the Martin & Sons funeral parlors where it remained until early Monday morning when it was taken to Walker County for burial near Jasper.

Active pallbearers here were: W. H. Klinner, R. W. Lowe, E. L. Klinner, J. Z. Mims, O. P. Klinner, and C. B. Cox.

The youth is survived by his parents and several younger brothers and sisters.

WHY I AM CHANGING

o

Editor, Chilton County News
Clanton, Alabama.

Here are several reasons for my change. I have always been a Republican. I'd like to use your paper as the medium to express my sentiments regarding the present political situation in Chilton County. I have always voted a Republican ticket, but this time I am marking my ballot under the rooster. I feel that I have a right to change my political views and I am sure that I have sufficient reason to join the Democratic party in this county in its effort to lend support to the President in his program for recovery. Had it not been for help that some families have received through work on the CWA and RFC I can not imagine what would have happened to them and their families during the past few month. If I did not lend my bit toward helping to continue this New Deal for the laboring man I'd feel terribly ungrateful. This is the first time that I ever remember the Southern cotton farmer sharing in the benefits of his government. Any man who is capable of thinking must know that without government regulation we would still have been getting five cents or less for our cotton.

I feel that these improvements and many others are the direct result of a Democratic administration in national government and I for one am heartily in favor of bringing this type of government to our county. I'm acquainted with most of the candidates on the local Democratic ticket and I believe that they are capable men and will bring us an administration of which we will have reason to feel proud, so I am urging my friends when they go to the polls on November 6th to join me in casting a vote for Demorratic ticket, a vote for the president and his New Deal for the working man. — Very truly yours, J. H. Hayes, Warren, Arkansas.

Hitchhiker In Jail; Flags Wrong Car

o

Riding a bicycle is an inconvenient method of travel at its best, but at night on the highway—it is not only isconvenient, but rather dangerous.

That perhaps is why Ely Ingram, who gave his address as White Bluff, Tenn., parked his bicycle and flagged himself a ride a few miles north of Clanton Monday night..

But alas! He made a grave error. Officer John Browder stopped the car and returned the youth to Clanton where he was locked in the county jail charged with stealing the bicycle. Ingram, who was said to be hitchhiking his way to his home in Tennessee, was given food only a short time before at the home of Mrs. Branch in Clanton and when he left, officers said, he made use of little Billy Maddox's wheel which was in the yard.

A charge of petit larceny was entered against him.

Graves Tells Voters Stick To Democrats

NEXT GOVERNOR URGES SUPPORT OF PRESIDENT

Says Every Democrat Candidate Should Be Elected November 6th

REPUBLICANS OPPOSE RECOVERY PROGRAM

Governor-nominate Bibb Graves spoke to an audience, estimated at 1,000, at the court house in Clanton last Saturday afternoon, and urged them to go to the polls on November 6 and elect every candidate on the Democratic ticket. The "little Colonel" urged the election of the Democratic ticket in Chilton County in order that the county government may be in position to lend a greater cooperation with the state and national administrations in the Herculean tasks before them.

In all of his political races, he said, the people of Chilton County have been his staunch supporters, "and today I count them among my closest friends." Co. Graves urged every voter to lend his cooperation to President Rosevelt and the incoming Graves administration by marking his ballot underneath the Democratic rooster on November 6.

"You people have vested in me a great responsibility and I know that you want and expect me to do a good job, therefore I plead with you to elect local officials who are in harmony with my views and with those of our great leader, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is making such a gigantic fight for the average man," Col. Graves said.

"This is the first time in the history of this nation that the Southern cotton farmers have ever received any consideration from the national government. For once our people are being given protection. During more than 100 years, we have paid a processing tax to the industries of New England, but this is the first time that we have ever put the shoe on the other foot.

"Although your local Republican candidates may be honest in their belief and sincere in their purpose, they cannot possibly lend support to the state and national administration that can be expected from the Democrats.

"They just can't possibly lend the necessary cooperation to something which they are against. The Democratic Party stands for equal rights for all, while the Republican Party has always stood for special privileges for a few."

Comparing the process to the cultivation of American beauty roses, Col. Graves said that most of the buds on the bush have to be nipped to permit a few to grow into immense size and beauty.

"We do not want the buds of our state nipped to grow a few American beauties on Wall Street in New York City," he declared. The principal plank pank in the Democratic platform is human welfare, Col. Graves told his listeners in urging them to help him to bring about the realization of this ideal by electing county officials who are in sympathy with a program for the average man.

Often throughout his speech, Col Graves was forced to pause to let the noise of the applause die away before he could continue. He was introduced by his cousin, Dr. P. T. Hinkle, who has been fighting for a number of years for the Democratic Party in this county. Col. Graves was accompanied by his accomplished wife, who, too, is well known and admired in Chilton County.

Question Of Bonds For Clanton To Be Re-Submitted On November 26

The officials of the Public Works Administration have directed that the denominations and due dates of the bonds of the Town of Clanton, which were heretofore voted on by the people be changed in some particulars and these bonds cannot be changed unless the question is re-submitted to the voters and this question is being re-submitted November 26th, 1934 and as re-submitted the question is for the issuance of $23,500.00 of bonds instead of $32,000.00 as originally voted since the Government is actually giving to the Town around $8,500.00, that is, if the Town of Clanton will issue bonds in the amount of $23,500.00, the Government will give the Town of Clanton approximately $8,500.00 for the construction of a city hall and for the extension of the water mains. The Town officials regret that this matter has been delayed, but they announce that the bid for the work will go forward with the notice of the election and in this way no additional time will be lost before the work on these projects will actually commence in the event of their approval by the voters.

GIN REPORT SHOWS SLIGHT INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR

Statistics continue favorable for the cotton farmers of Chilton County. A recent report of the number of bales ginned in this county prior to October 18 of this year show that 215 more bales have been ginned to this date year than last year.

Until October 18, 1934, 10,564 bales had been ginned, compared to 10,349 for the same period in 1933, according to a report from W. L. Austin, director of the survey.

JACK HAYES TO OPERATE IN SHELBY COUNTY

Buys The Chevrolet Place In Montevallo; Will Have Able Help

The Hayes Chevrolet Company, one of Clanton's youngest business enterprises, has made rapid strides within the brief year of its existence and is already expanding into other territory.

Only a few days ago, the Reid Motor Company, of Montevallo, was purchased by this firm, and will be operated after November 1 as Hayes Chevrolet Company. This business was purchased by M. C. (Jack) Hayes, one of the partners in the Clanton firm, and will be under the management of Barney Burnett, who has been in the automobile business for several years. Since the opening of the Clanton establishment, he has been engaged here in the capacity of bookkeeper and office manager.

Assisting him in the operation of the Montevallo firm will be Bob Reid, well known automobile salesman, of Montevallo, and Clarence (Chick) Fiquette, of Clanton, who has been associated with the automobile business since he completed his work at the Chilton County High School in the spring of 1933.

Mr. Jack Hayes, popular second baseman for Chicago White Sox, announced that he will spend most of his time in Montevallo until he has to return to his team for spring training.

Earle Reeves, formerly of Prattville, succeeds Mr. Burnett with the local Hayes Chevrolet firm.

Noted Artists To Be Here Next Fri. Night

Edward Kane, internationally famous tenor, will be presented to a Chilton County audience at the Chilton County High School Friday night at 7:30 o'clock. The program will be sponsored by the Music Appreciation Club, and the members of this club feel that they are rendering a great opportunity to the citizenship of this section in making it possible for them to hear such a noted artist.

Mr. Kane will be accompanied on the piano by Miss Elizabeth Causey, who, too, is famous for her accomplishments in the musical field. Those in charge of the program declare that it will be one of the rarest treats ever given music lovers in this county.

Both Mr. Kane and Miss Causey have been accorded special recognition by outstanding critics both in this country and abroad.

Tickets are on sale now. Students will be admitted for twenty-five cents and others for thirty-five cents, it has been announced.

Chilton County's Greatest Opportunity Is Near

Voters Should Place Our County In Direct Line With State And National Governments

(AN EDITORIAL)

Every man, woman and child of our County owes a debt of gratitude to President Roosevelt. The just, fair and humane program of his Administration has fed our hungry—given jobs to men out of work—raised the price of cotton from five cents to a guaranteed twelve cents per pound—raised the price of cotton seed from eight dollars per ton to more than thirty dollars—lowered interest rates on home and farm mortgages, and KEPT CHILTON COUNTY SCHOOLS OPEN FOR OUR BOYS AND GIRLS.

This great program of the Roosevelt Democratic Administration has benefitted Democrats and Republicans alike. The hungry of all parties have been fed. Cotton grown by Republicans as well as cotton grown by Democrats has a Government GUARANTEE OF TWELVE CENTS A POUND. The children of Republican parents of Chilton County went to SCHOOL last term from two to four months SOLELY and EXCLUSIVELY BECAUSE THE ROOSEVELT DEMOCRATIC PROGRAM KEPT THE SCHOOLS OPEN WITH GOVERNMENT MONEY.

The Republican Party is AGAINST THIS PROGRAM. The hungry were not and would not have been fed by Republican control. You got only five cents for your cotton and eight dollars per ton for your cotton seed when the Republicans were in control. REPUBLICAN CONTROL WILL NOT SEND ONE CHILTON COUNTY BOY OR GIRL TO SCHOOL WITH FEDERAL MONEY. The Republican Party led by its Hoovers and its Mellons never spent a cent of Federal money to give your boys and girls a chance to go to school.

Do you want your children to have a FULL school term EVEN if it takes Federal money to give it to them? If you do, then you are in agreement with Roosevelt and the Democratic Party. IF YOU WANT TO CONTINUE THE DEMOCRATIC PROGRAM OF HELPING ALL OF THE PEOPLE, you are not a REPUBLICAN — YOU ARE A DEMOCRAT!

We do not believe those Chilton County citizens who have been voting the Republican ticket will continue, on account of prejudice, habit or anything else, to vote a Republican ticket, when their INTELLIGENCE tells them that the best interests of themselves and their families will be served by President Roosevelt and the Democratic Party.

If you favor a few people getting rich without labor, while millions work hard without fair wages—if you favor low prices for cotton and cotton seed—if you favor leaving farmers to the mercy of the Wall Street gamblers in cotton and wheat—if you favor policies that close your schools rather than Federal Aid for your boys and girls—in other words, if you favor the HOOVER-GRUNDY-MELLON ideas—THEN YOU ARE A REPUBLICAN.

If, on the contrary, you believe in a Government which gives a full school term to your children, EVEN WHEN IT REQUIRES FEDERAL MONEY—if you favor the Roosevelt Democratic Program which has raised the income of those who work on farm and in factory to where they are making an honest living—if you believe that Government should be run so as to give an honest reward to those who work and brings happiness and comfort to the average man—then we ask you to express that belief by voting to bring these things to pass. These beliefs make you a DEMOCRAT and you should vote the DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

A Republican County Government is out of step with the Democratic State and Federal Governments. They are not in a position to get for Chilton County the full benefit of the Roosevelt New Deal. Federal roads and Federal money for schools are best obtained by having the county government composed of Democrats who will cooperate with the other great Democratic agencies of government. Is it not reasonable to suppose that Democratic county officials for this county will be in a better position to obtain money for paved roads for our county than would Republicans who are opposed to the Roosevelt Administration and the Democratic Administration at Montgomery? Do not reason and common sense dictate that Chilton County will serve its own best interest by electing officials in sympathy with the Democratic policies of our State and Federal Governments?

The Chilton County Democratic Campaign Committee asks every voter in the County who believes in President Roosevelt and his program to vote the full Democratic ticket.

Our Democratic County candidates are good upstanding citizens and you can expect them to fight for your interest and to aid Chilton County to secure the full benefit of our President's program.

Facts and Figures

Or Political Propaganda ?

(AN EDITORIAL)

After the citizens of Chilton County have read all the propaganda put out lambasting the Democratic Party, telling of the deplorable condition the State of Alabama is in under Democratic leadership, saying that conditions are no better in the nation now under Democratic administrations, the whole thing must eventually be summed up to this—do the people want a lot of this propoganda, criticism without any facts or figures, or do they want facts and figures?

It must eventually be summed up to this, so why not face it now?

The Banking Situation

The News argues that the banking situation has improved since the Democrats took over our government. Those who oppose the Democrats say the News is wrong. We call your attention to an article in this issue from the nation's capital which shows facts, stating that bank deposits in Alabama banks have increased NINE MILLION DOLLARS from December 30, 1933 to June 30, 1934. The published statements of Clanton banks this month show plainly in undisputed figures an increase of OVER TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS in deposits. One bank alone shows an increase of more than this amount. Can these sworn statements be denied by those who are trying to tell us the Demo-

W. F. DeShazo Explains Why He Can't Support Republican Ticket, 6th

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I have been a life-long Republican in the County but circumstances having arisen making it impossible for me at this time to wholeheartedly support the whole Republican ticket.

Of course, I do not believe and I am sure that the voters of this County, as a whole, do not believe that the government should support people in idleness when work could be obtained but during the worst of the crises which the people of this County has gone through they could not get work, so it was necessary that something be done for the people of this County and the Nation who were suffering and in want. Of course, some of the policies which the National Government sponsored might not have been wholly for the best, but laws hurriedly rushed through to relieve distress in time of emergency can not be expected to be perfect in every respect. But I believe the voters of this County will agree with me when I say that things that the National Government did to help the people did more good than it did harm.

Some few months back, I understand through the Union-Banner, that the Republican Executive Committee here in this County voted unanimously against endorsing the National administration policies or any part thereof. I understand that at the time that this committee refused to endorse these policies that Mr. Zeb Mims was secretary of and a part of that committee. At the time that the crises was at its height Judge Reynolds urged upon the commissioners court to cooperate with him in taking steps to secure our part of the Federal mney for the people of this County who were in distress. They refused to do so until Judge Reynolds called a mass meeting of the people of this County and they demanded that something be done.

Judge L. H. Reynolds' political career is at an end in this County due to the unfairness and trickery of Mr. Zeb Mims, J. N. Dennis and W. H. Gillespie. Hereafter he will not be in position to help the man that has to work for a living and the people who are in want and distress. I think from Mr. Mims' records that we can easily infer that the working man need never expect any cooperation or assistance from him. Therefore, I think it behooves the voters on November 6th, to turn the County affairs over to men who are in accord with the policies of our State and Federal Government and who will cooperate with the people of this County and the Federal Government in getting everything for this County that is due it, and if the occasion should arise to take care that the people of this county should not suffer.

Before I conclude I would like to ask Mr. Mims one question. How could he expect to handle the Probate Office when his records show that he has not been competent to handle the office that he now holds. The records show that he was short around $3,000.00, and he paid it, at the time the last audit was made in his office. Another audit has been made and the audit is on record in Montgomery showing that he is short some three thousand dollars again.

I am, Sincerely yours,
W. F. DeSHAZO.

I understand that the Union-Banner will print only one side of the issues involved in this campaign so I am therefore asking the News to carry this message to you.

REPORT SHOWS 9 MILLION RISE STATE DEPOSITS

U. S. Insurance Is Given As Reason For Increase In Figures

Washington, D. C.—The deposits in 205 of Alabama's licensed commercial banks increased almost $9,000,000 from December 30, 1933, to June 30, 1934, according to figures obtained from an abstract released by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

The report covers 94 per cent of the licensed banks of the state. Commenting on the figures, Chairman Leo T. Crowley, of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, said:

"I believe the confidence engendered by deposit insurance has been an important factor in promoting this substantial increase in bank deposits."

Among other signifidant figures shown in the reports of condition of the insured commercial banks of Alabama were loans and investments totaling $166,458,000 and cash and due from banks, including balances with the Federal Reserve Ganks of the district, amounting to $58,946,000

Banking houses, furniture and fixtures of the state were shown to be valued at $7,250,000.

Total deposits in these banks as of June 30, 1934, were $181,644,000 as compared with a figure of $172,700,000 December 30, last year. The total of capital stock and other items of capital account in the banks was shown to be $47,848,000 by the tabulation.

More than 1,960 employes, including officers, directors, and persons employed on a part time basis are engaged in the banking industry of the state. It was revealed by figures asked for as a part of the report from which the insurance corporation built up this abstract.

Made public last Saturday, the abstract is much more detailed in its figures than previous pictures of the nation's banking system. It was compiled on the basis of reports received by the Federal Reserve Board, the office of the Comptroller of the currency, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Mrs. Roosevelt Advises Tired Men

Business men who are unwilling to change their old-fashioned methods have just received a sharp word of kindly reproof and advice from the President's wife. She thinks that their emphasis on "rugged individualism" is a bit shopworn, and she sees no merit in their being either too tired or too timid to realize that new times require new methods. Writing in her monthly editorial department in the Woman's Home Companion, Mrs. Roosevelt says: "This country was started on an individualist basis, and we had little or no trouble which could be termed labor trouble until our industries grew so large that we had to run them in an impersonal manner.

"I looks now, however, as though we might have to come back, involuntarily, to small businesses. With them will come the ability of employees and employers realy to know each other. This may prove one of the great blessings of the depression. Industrialists who thought only of the returns which they received from their business now think—largely out of selfish interest, to be sure—that they have come to an era where outworn customs cannot be kept going.

"In pioneer days, when a family did not get on well in one place, they were told to go West. We now talk of the government moving people when they do not get on in a certain areas, and some people seem to feel that our 'rugged independence' is being destroyed. But since there is no west today to go to, then if people are to live with profit to the country and themselves, they must be directed by somebody, because the days of unlimited new resources and new fields have come to an end."

The era of the pioneer and rugged individualist is giving way to the era of careful planning, in the belief of the First Lady. But she believes that this is a step in advance, and that it is carrying out to real fulfillment the ideals prayed for by the forefathers.

A Sign Of Approval

In November, 1932, the voters of America, wearied with three years of depression, in which time the ruling party had done nothing whatever to alleviate the conditions, entered the polls, and by a great landslide voted into office a new party and a new president.

In March, 1933, this new President, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, standard-bearer of the Democratic Party, assumed the official duties as chief executive of the United States. During the five months following his election and immediately preceding his inauguration, little talk was made by this new man, but plans were made and carried forward by him and his advisors, and they were put into practice as soon as he assumed office. These plans were designed to blunt the edge of the depression and bring our nation back to a state of normalcy.

In June, 1932, the famous NIRA and ERA programs, advanced by the progressive and farsighted president, were begun. These Acts of Congress were allotted the double task of regenerating industry and caring for the unemployed until they were naturally absorbed thru an excess demand for workers as the buying power of the average American citizen increased, thereby causing a greated demand for industry's products.

In March, 1934, Mr. Roosevelt averted a national catrophe when he so courageously met and solved the banking problems by declaring a "Banking Holiday" until the monetary system was placed on a safer plane. No doubt, this action on the part of the President served as a buoy to which the Ship of State could be anchored to ride out the storm of panic that was brewing. This also served to break the force of the storm and the Ship of State evaded the dire results such a panic would have caused.

Certainly, Congress made no mistake when it placed unlimited power into the hands of Mr. Roosevelt in the Spring of 1933. The methods he has used to meet and conquer every emergency have evoked unequivocal praise, not only from members of his own party, but from many members of the opposing clan. Only a few die-hards of the Old Guard and the Liberty League dare to stand up and say that our nation is not definitely on the road to recovery. Even those can offer no proof of their statements.

America, as a nation, has stood fairly and squarely behind every move of the President. They are a grateful people who realize the present economic conditions, as compared with those of three or four years ago, are much more conducive to a return to normal prosperity.

The American people should not hesitate toward expressing their support of and gratefulness to President Roosevelt's administration. On November 6th, the polls of the nation will again be open, mostly it is true, for local and state elections, but every qualified voter should take that ccasion to give his sign of approval—a cross in the Democratice square of the ballot.—Butler County News, Georgiana, Ala.

Calm, Deliberate Judgement

In the heat of a political battle a certain amount of leaning towards one's particular candidate or party is to be expected. January of 1931, however, was not a time of such battle, and it would seem an opportune time for clear thinking and deliberate opinions. According to issues of The Union-Banner on or about the above dates a certain controversy relative to matters concerning the Republican party arose in which Mr. J. Z. Mims, present candidate for Probate Judge in the Republican party was involved. Statements were made in the above-referred to issues of The Union-Banner which seem to bear upon the matter of Mr. Mim's qualifications for Probate Judge. We believe that the voters of Chilton County have a right to such information at this time and herewith submit for their consideration a signed statement by Mr. W. M. Wyatt in The Union-Banner on January 20, 1931.

Copy of Letter to Mr. J. Z. Mims From W. M. Wyatt, Editor, Union Banner.

Clanton, Alabama, Jan. 20, 1931

Mr. J. Z. Mims,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Sir:

I will endeavor to find a few words to suitably express myself in regard to the long letter of yours in last week's Union-Banner in which you sought to drag a few skeletons out of the political closet, and rattle again the dry bones of the last campaign in Chilton County.

First, I want to make clear that I do not feel very vitally concerned about your political ambitions, but since it appears to me that it is chiefly there that the shoe is pinching you, I will try to give you my interpretation of your situation.

I lay no claim to possessing the master mind which you so graciously credited me with in your letter of last week. I do think though, that I have a few grains of common sense and the ability to see some things once in awhile. I am satisfied to consider myself in the class of average citizens, with no political ambitions to worry me personally.

It is simply as one of those average citizens that I have seen and interpreted your actions in the last campaign, as well as your statements in last week's paper. Here I take the opportunity to give you the benefit of a few of my observations.

Concerning the details of the controversy between you and Judge Reynolds about printing the ballots in the last campaign, I am not concerned. The only interest I have in it is that interest which is common to any Republican in the ranks of the party of Chilton County. I am entitled to my opinions about the matter, and I have the right to express my opinions, both as to yours and Judge Reynold's position in the controversy. And I assure you that my opinions have been formed from my understanding of the facts in the case and the statements which I have seen and heard.

Before I proceed any further I want to say that so far as the editorial about which you attacked me is concerned, I am still of exactly of the same opinion which I expressed in that editorial. If you do not know that such foolishness in politics as was injected into the recent campaign will result in failure for and destruction of the Repubican party in Chilton County, then it is my opinion that you do not know the first lesson in politics. But if you continue to proceed in your attitude, I think that you will soon come to realize a few things without anyone having to tell you.

Now a few words about the racket that was raised over the question of printing the ballots of the last campaign. I am convinced beyond any reasonable doubt that you were the arch-conspirator in the effort that was made to brand Judge Reynolds as a traitor to the Republican party, and to make the people believe that he had invented a new scheme to keep the names of the Republican candidates from being printed on the election ballots. I say that I am convinced that you were the leader of that movement, because it is a proven fact that it was you who failed to discharge your duty under the law as Chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee, I am further convinced that instead of being willing to bear the responsibility for your own error, you became busy and very much interested in trying to make it appear that Judge Reynolds was the one who had gone wrong.

You impress me somewhat by your insistence that you were honest in what you did about the ballot printing racket; that you acted honestly; and that if you made any mistake, the same were made with honest intentions; and that if you had to go through it again, you would do just as you did before. Therefore, I understand that you insist that your mistakes ought not to be pointed out or held against you, because you are honest.

I am willing to grant you all you ask for about your honesty. But at the same time I want to say that it is my own private opinion that your mistakes in the ballot printing controversy and subsequent transactions relating thereto, as well as your own failure to comply with the law as chairman of the Repubican Campaign Committee were also mistakes that were born of ignorance of the law and your duties under the law. Then your inefficiency and incompetency was further ascented by the actions and statements which you made in seeking to lay the blame on the shoulders of Judge Reynolds.

It is perfectly clear to me that you badly bungled your job as chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee. Your lack of knowledge of the law, and your failure to comply with the law got the whole Republican ticket in a bad situation. Instead of doing what I would consider the honest thing—admitting your mistakes and ignorance—you sought to make the candidates and the people believe that you were without fault and blameless, and that Judge Reynolds was the back sheep, the traitor who had poisoned the camp.

In my opinion, Mr. Mims, the trouble with you is that you have been so busy running for Probate Judge for the last few years that you have not taken t to do anything else efficiently. You claim to have been offering yourself as a sacrifice for the interest of the Republican ticket last fall. But when you came to the real test when the sacrifice which you profess to have been willing to make was staring you in the face, you dodged it and tried to offer up the political life and influence and honor of Judge Reynolds as the sacrifice.

The facts stand undisputed that Judge Reynolds was acting properly under the law when he raised the ballot-printing question. And further, he has prov to my satisfaction that he was making all the ef he could to save the candidates from the embarrassment which your neglect would cause them and the Republican party. Judge Reynolds explained his position in this matter in his letter of October 23, 1930. You have made no denial of his statements nor the records he cited. The facts stand against you and convict you of ignorance of the law and neglect and incompetency in the performance of the duties which the Republica candidates had intrusted in you. You only insist that you acted honestly. I wonder if you think the law excuses ignorance just because it is claimed the ignorance was honest.

You say in your letter last week that I am the one who sent word all over this County about the ballot-printing racket. I presume you refer to the clipping about the matter which was taken from the Montgomery Advitiser and printed in the Union-Banner. I am sure you already know, if you have not forgotten, I I want to remind you here that the said clipping from The Advertiser was given to me by Mr. Charley Foshe and Mr. Buford Lawrence. When they gave it to me, one, or both of them, said: "We want to see if you have got the nerve and backbone enough to print thi in The Union-Banner." I met what I considered th challenge by telling them I would publish it if tl requested me to do so. They made a verbal req to that effect, and the piece was reprinted in the next issue of The Union-Banner. If you wish any fu explanation as to the motives which these gentlemen had in wanting the piece printed in The Union-Banner, perhaps they can enlighten you about it.

Now, lastly, back to the editorial you referred to, I repeat that foolishness in politics will result in failure I claim to have sense enough to see that the Republican party in the future in this county can not be s cessful if each leader in the party, each county offici with his own group of political friends and followers is separated, hostile and vengeful against other leaders officials and their friends and followers. Such a condition will be untimely inevitabe if the spirit nursed in the last campaign is allowed to continue among u

If the Republican voters of this county ever take a notion to elect you as their Probate Judge, I will not object after they have so acted. I can stand it i the majority say so. But I want to repeat again from the editorial from last October: If the men who are leaders of the present campaign would have us take the thing that came from last week as a sample of their own ability to be fair and perform the task of leading the Republican party, we are bound to say that it looks like a poor specimen of leadership to put in the place of that which Judge Reynolds has given his party throughout his long and honorable career.

Now, if you want to know again who that exp ion referred to, I will repeat here, as I did when came to see me in person about it, that it refers you and the nauseating manner in which you pretended to manage the last Republican campaign.

Yours very truly,
W. M. (Mack) W

The Great Wall

Long years ago, China was one of the foremost nations of the civilized world. In fact, if we are to accept the opinions of historians as being authentic, she perhaps was in many ways the leader of the rest of the world. A great empire had been built. An outstanding civilization had been born.

But some misguided conception on the part of someone resulted almost in the utter destruction of the principles upon which this great nation had nutured its people. Some leader conceived the idea of isolating that country, preventing the introduction of Occidental ideas into the security of an Oriental world.

Thus the great Chinese wall was built. The entirety of the empire was encompassed in the coils of a huge snake-like wall that wobbled its way over the Chinese hills, shutting the rest of the world out.

There Chinese civilization reached a point of retrogression. The worm of decay began slowly eating away the very core of this nation's progress; and down through the years that followed, doom was slowly but surely written on the efforts of a once-powerful people.

In many ways Chilton County today is situated on an isolated island. Though no great materialistic wall surrounds the boundry of our county, we are in many ways just as effectively isolated from the rest of the nation.

Any section south of the Mason and Dixon Line, where the local government is Republican, is being cheated of many of its natural rights. Not through any underhand methods of the Republican rule—not because Republican officials do not have a keen interest in the welfare of their people—not because it is the desire of any Republican official to cheat his people of their natural rights. It is because of the great wall which Republican rule inevitably builds in the heart of a Democratic South.

All the efforts of the greatest Republican officials cannot overcome this situation. It is beyond anything within their power to avoid. No Republican candidate for office can stand on his merit and ability and tell the voters of Chilton County that he has as much to offer them as has his Democratic opponent. He knows that it is not true—and if he is absolutely hosest with himhelf and his fellow-man, he must admit the truth.

Any Republican candidate knows that if he is elected, he must continue to strive in isolation to some extent. He knows that his ability to secure advantages for his people from the state and national government is not equal to that of his Demcratic opponent. His ideas of government are at times bound to be antagonistic to those of the Democratic state and national administration, thus his opportunities are endangered by his own discord.

In every other phase of our life, we intend and do profit from the efforts of others and the knowledge that trickles through to us from the outside world. Why should we not also do this in government? Why should we not place at the helm of our county government men who are in harmony with the outside governmental world?

This is not an attack on the Republicans of Chilton County. The candidates on both tickets are men who have lived in the county for a great many years. There is little difference in their creed of right and wrong in most cases. The chief difference, and the important difference, comes in the touch with the government outside of the county.

What you as a voter must do in justice to yourself and your county is to vote for the men who can render the greatest service to you and your county. That is a question that you can readily see the answer to without outside suggestion. You know that the official who is in position to secure the greatest recognition from the state and nation can help the county most. As students of human nature, you know in the present political campaign which side best meets these qualifications.

In voting the Republican ticket, have you ever stopped to realize the natural rights you lose? Have you ever thought that you have absolutely no part in the election of your state officials? That your congressman is elected without a word from you?

Are you satisfied to help build about your county a great wall? Do you want to contribute to the isolation of your county, or do you want to lend your bit toward placing Chilton County in position to share with the other counties in Alabama in state and national approprations?

You can do this by voting the Democratic ticket on next Tuesday, November 6.

Dr. V. J. Gragg Gives A Full Explanation Of Hospital Being Advertised For Tax Sale

—o—

To the Tax Payer of Chilton County:

Doubtless that you have noticed that the Central Alabama Hospital, your hospital, that has been doing so much charity work, is advertised to sell for its taxes. And we, the officials of the hospital feel that the public is due an explanation showing why it is so advertised.

First, you probably already know that there has been, for several years, a law that exempts from taxation, all hospitals up to $20,000 in value, if they do charity work amounting to 15 per cent or more of the sum total of the hospitals work. Your hospital here in Chilton County has always gone far above that figure, its average of chrity being in the neighborhood of 40 per cent.

We had repeatedly had conferences with both state and county officials at which times it was clearly shown to them that we exceeded by far the percentage of charity required and was therefore unquestionably exempt from taxation.

Mr. W. M. Wyatt, Secretary, and myself have made trips to Montgomery on several occasions for this purpose; and we had been assured that we would have no further trouble.

So all went well till recently when the State examiners came to examine the books of Chilton County's officials. When they came to the tax for the Central Alabama Hospital they found that Mr. W. G. Culp, Tax Collector, had marked it up as insolvent and had been given credit for its taxes in full settlement as insolvency, and not because of the charity work done, as requested by us. True the hopital would be insolvent if all its debts were paid, just as many, many individuals in Chilton County would be insolvent likewise if their debts were paid.

So the examiners seeing that Mr. Culp had made an error in classing the hospital as insolvent instead of giving it credit for the charity work, they charged it back to him.

Although it had been settled and Mr. Culp had been given credit by the Commissioner's Court for these taxes for the several years since he has been in office; when the examiners charged it back to him, to save his own skin, he proceeded to advertise the hospital for its taxes, just as though they were escaped taxes, and said nothing to me about it.

When these advertisements appeared, I took Mr. Wyatt with me in my car to Montgomery and when we appeared before the State Tax Commission, they promptly took off the tax for the years 1933 and 1934, but said they had no jurisdiction any further back.

We then went to Hon. Chas. C. McCall, whose duty it is to look after such matters for the state, and he advised, that if Mr. Culp would not push it, that we could bring the matter before the Board of Compromise, who he said could relieve us of the 1932 tax, thus clearing our record. I then came back to Mr. Culp and asked him to withdraw his advertisement and give us time as Judge McCall had advised. He said he could not take my word for it, but if Judge McCall would tell him that, then he would not have it in the next paper. I asked him to set the time. He did, and I took him in my car and we went to Judge McCall, who repeated his advice to Mr. Culp.

However, Mr. Culp was not a man of his word. He did not withdraw the advertisement as he had promised, but let it go right on and forced us to go before the present Board, when I had already explained to him that I had great reason to believe the present Board would be unfavorable and just as great reason to believe that the incoming Board would be lenient in their action.

Now folks, as already stated it was Mr. Culp's error to mark us up as exempt from insolvency instead of the charity we are doing. All the other hospitals that are doing like charity are being exempted; why punish us for his error? The State Tax Commission showed its attitude clearly, when it exempted us for 1933 and 1934, or as far back as it had jurisdiction, even after Mr. Culp's error in these two years. Yet, Mr. Culp insists that we must pay for his error in 1932, the year that we did so much charity that we had to close our doors. The same year that the Lord saw fit that suffering humanity would force us to open our doors within less than twenty-four hours after they were closed, and to take in sixty-seven patients, the greatest number that was ever in the hospital at one time, who were all given free treatment.

I don't believe anyone, whether a friend or foe of the hospital, who has any sense of justice and right, or respect for an institution or individual that is charitably inclined, would have th heart to make a public bid in this particular instance. More especially is this true when we come to think that this has been passed as settled for two or three years, and is now dug up and revived to cover a mistake of the Tax Collector in not distinguishing between the two words "insolvent" and charity

As before mentioned, all other hospitals in the state who are doing charity, get this exemption. Why penalize the tax payers of Chilton County?

V. J. GRAGG.

THE FIRST PRESIDENT

—o—

There has never been any question of that fact that Washington was the first president of the United States under our present Constitution, but from time to time it is asserted by historians and writers that John Hanson was really our first president.

The latest to take up the cudgels for Hanson's claim to this mighty honor is Prof. J. L. Higsaw of Memphis, a prominent educator and historian, who says:

"We have had two Constitutions. The first was the Articles of Confederation. These Articles named John Hanson president and he served a president from 1781 to 1789. I have a copy of a document which shows that General Washington addressed Hanson as 'Your Excellency, the President of the United States.' There is a statue in Maryland and engraved it is 'John Hanson, First President the United States.' The neglect of President Hanson is shameful. He is truly the forgotten man."

Whatever Mr. Hanson's proper title may have been, it is certain that he exercised little, if any, executive authority, as under the Confederation the government consisted only of the Congress, and even its powers were v limited. Hanson was merely presid of the Congress, and if the title President of the United States was sometimes used with respect to him, it must have been in a complimentary sense

In the absence of more convincing argument than Prof. Higsaw was presented, we shall have to stick to our belief that George Washington was our first president.

Martin Places His Case Before The Voters

To the Voters of Chilton County:
Dear Friends:

In the recent weeks it has not been possible for me to see each of you and talk with you personally regarding my candidacy for Tax Assessor of your county, and I wish to take this means of asking you to vote for me on November 6, assuring you that your vote will be greatly appreciated.

Assuring you also that if I am elected to this honorable position of trust, I shall never forget that I am honor bound to be true to the faith expressed in me by the voters of my county. My policy will always be "a square deal" for every taxpayer and citizen of the county.

Believing that a sufficient number of the voters in this election have faith in me to assure my success, I want now to make a vow of service to my people. I was born and reared in this county and I believe the years since I reached manhood, which have been spent in the Isabella community, speaks my character and ability to those who know me.

Regardless of politics, my policy shall be to render every man, woman, and child who comes into my office the courteous and sincere service, which I know that they deserve from the officials of their county. For the past eight years, I have served as a member of the Board of Registrars. While serving in that capacity, I don't believe that I have ever given anyone reason for offense, or failed to give them whatever service was in my power to render. I'm familiar with our county. I think I know the needs of its people. I have lived with them all my life; I have been one of the county's unsung citizens all through all these years, and have studied the needs of my neighbors and myself. With this knowledge and a sincerity of purpose, I'm confident that I am capable of making good in the office for which I am asking the voters of this county to elect me.

Assuring you again that I shall appreciate your vote and influence, I submit my candidacy to the judgement of my fellow-citizens,

Respectfully,

A. A. Jackson Further Discusses New Deal

Editor, Chilton County News:

As the election is near at hand and the enemies of the New Deal are putting out all kinds of propaganda to defeat the New Deal in Chilton County, will you please give me space in your paper for a few words in defense of the New Deal, and the present national administration of the Democratic party?

The Union-Banner is telling its readers that natural causes are now doing all in their power to bring things back to normal, and his argument is that this country would recover much quicker if the natural forces were permitted to take their course rather than try to hasten it on by these dangerous experiments; and the Banner man also says if you are not for booze and the reckless spending of government money, together with the encouragement of atheism and numerous other isms detrimental to American principles, then you are not in full sympathy with the New Deal.

Dear reader, if it was not natural causes and natural forces and atheism that sent this country to destruction and poverty under the Hoover Republican administration, pray tell me what did. Dear reader and voter, what was the condition of our government and the people of this great nation when our great President Franklin D. Roosevelt took the reins of this government from Herbert Hoover? Banks were down and out, all money had practically disappeared, the 10% of cash money was tied up in banks or looking for mattresses to hide in, pay checks had become scraps of paper because there was no money to cash them. The big fellows found themselves without enough of Uncle Sam's currency to buy gasoline, lucky fellows with $20 bills had trouble getting them changed. Just to make the story short this country was thrown so deep in the depths of poverty by the Hoover Republican administration that if Roosevelt had been a few week's later in getting to the White House the explosion of America's empty bellies would have blown this country into the worst rebellion of all history.

What did Mr. Roosevelt and his New Deal do? His first step was to go down into the gutters of poverty and raise the wages of the textile workers from 100 to 200 per cent. Secured shelter in cities where the transient unemployed are being clothed and fed, put up hundreds of manufacturing plants and is manufacturing thousands of mattresses, men's shirts, underwear, suits for children, dresses for women, and has appropriated millions of dollars for the clothing and feeding of the destitute.

Now, dear readers and voters, I have mentioned just a few things the New Deal has done for the poverty stricken people of our land. But these little things alone should be enough to convince anyone that to oppose the New Deal would be worse than atheism.

Because there are plenty of people who disbelieve in the existence of a God that would not rob the poor of their food and clothes as did the Old Hoover Republican Deal.

Now, dear voter, don't vote against the New Deal because The Union-Banner man says it is a dangerous experiment, because you know better than that. I think anyone is standing on dangerous ground who put out such propaganda against any kind of a deal that is feeding the hungry and clothing the naked. I feel if I were hindering such a deal that I would be guilty of such a tragic sin that I could get no pardon.

Mr. Banner man, in conclusion let me insist that you repent in sackcloth and ashes of the sins that you have committed against the New Deal that is giving shelter, food and clothing to the destitute. Just get in line with the hundreds of other good Republicans and on the 6th of November join the great family that created the New Deal and let's stand by it until we drive old depression and poverty out of our country.

Respectfully,
A. A. JACKSON.

Rudolph Moatts Endorses McKee And Democratic Nominees

Editor, Chilton County News:

Allow me space in your valuable paper to say a few words to the voters of Chilton County on the political situation. I have voted a Republican ticket all my life and have always been taught the word republican meant prosperity and democrat meant starvation, I am glad that I lived to see the day that we found out that that doctrine was false, for as you all know this democratic administration has done and is doing more for the poor man than any administration we have ever lived in and in order to do my part as a poor man to show them that I do appreciate it I am going to vote a democrat ticket to help the cause.

I hope not to be telling our voters how to vote, but would like to say relative to the democrat nominees of this county that they are as clean and high tone set of men as could be chosen by any party in Chilton County. Especially I would like to say a few words about my good friend Tom McKee, who I have known and been associated with neary all my life. I have always found him fair and honest and always willing to accomodate a person when called upon. If elected Tax Collector he will make Chilton County a competent and courteous public official.

I want to call your attention to what he put on his cards as his platform in this election that he would not collect a fee from the unfortunate poor person who could not pay their taxes by January 1st. He is the first man to promise the poor people that he would not collect a fee from them. I think we should vote for the man who thinks of the poor man's interest instead of filling his own pocket-book at the expense of the man who is less able to pay it. Another thing I would like to say is that I think well of the way Tom has run his campaign. I have talked to him very often and have talked with others about him and have never heard him say anything against one of his opponents. That has always been my idea of how to run a campaign.

Hoping you will help me elect T. L. McKee and the entire Democratic ticket on next Tuesday, November 6th.

I am, yours very truly,
RUDOLPH MOATTS

LABOR OPPOSES 6 REPUBLICANS

Federation Turns Thumbs Down On Senators In Reelection Bids

Washington, Oct. 19—The American Federation of Labor turned thumbs down on six Repubican senatorial aspirants as a result of its scrutiny of records and campaign pledges of congressional candidates on their attitude toward organized labor.

Contrarywise, however, the federation has made known it would support Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Wisconsin, former Republican who is running for reelection on the Progressive ticket against a Democrat.

It pledged support also to former Senator John M. Robison, Republican, candidate for the House in the Ninth Kentucky District.

Terming them "enemies of labor," the federation called upon its members to seek the defeat of Senators Herbert, Rhode Island; Fess, Ohio, Reed, Pennsylvania; Hatfield, West Virginia, and Walcott, Connecticut, along with George M. Bourquin, Montana Republican senatorial nominee.

Calls Sent To Labor

Calls were sent to organized labor to seek the election of Vic Donahey, Ohio Democartic opponent of Fess, Rush D. Hot, young Democratic liberal, contesting Hatfield in West Virginia; Peter G. Gerry, Democratic opponent of Herbert. Representative Francis T. Maloney (D.) adversary of Walcott in Connecticut, and Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) opposing former Federal Judge Bourquing. Inferentially, it threw its support to Joseph W. Guffey (D.) contesting Reed in Pennsylvania.

The position of the federation was made known in circuar letters sent to labor groups in the various states over the signature of William Green, president.

A. F. of L. headquarters explained that approval or disapproval of candidates was not based on party lines, but on whether they were favorable to legislation to improve the status of organized labor.

In his letters on Fess, Reed, Walcott, Herbert and Hatfield, Green recited their records. He said all had voted against the 30-hour work week bill and for reduction of wages, and confiramtion of Judge Jhn J. Parker, of North Carolina, to the Supreme Court after the latter had "upheld the 'yellow-dog' contract." The letters reminded the workers to "stand faithfully by our friends and elect them."

Why Liquid Laxatives Do You No Harm

The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be regulated to suit individual need. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative will bring a more natural movement, and with no discomfort at the time, or afterward.

The wrong cathartic may often do more harm than good.

An approved liquid laxative (one which is most widely used for both adults and children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a prescription. It is perfectly safe. Its laxative action is based on senna—a natural laxative. The bowels will not become dependent on this form of help, as they may do in the case of cathartics containing mineral drugs. Ask your druggist for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Democratic Administration Of State Gov't. Is Congratulated

There was a net cash surplus of $1,631,907.84 in the State treasury at the close of the last fiscal year on Sept. 30, instead of the usual deficit, this surplus having accumulated during the preceding 12-month period despite the payment of indebtedness amounting to $1,979,206.07 including road, harbor and bridge bonds and interest, in addition to meeting all other expenses of the State government.

This accomplishment is announced in a statement filed yesterday with Gov. Miller by Comptroller J. H. Hard, Jr., covering financial transactions of the State for the fiscal year recently closed, and showing net receipts during the year for State purposes incuding Federal aid and a balance of $550,127.33 on hand Oct. 1, 1933 totalled $30,410,765.11 available for all purposes. Total cash payments amounted to [illegible] $1,7[illegible] against this amount were liabilities [illegible] $78,165.15. The net cash surplus was therefore $1,631,907.84

Legislature Congratulated.

Copies of the statement prepared by Mr. Hard, have been forwarded by the governor to all members of the present legislature, accompanied by a personal letter in which he calls attention to the fact that the State is operating within its income. This was accompished, he added by the Fletcher budget law the provisions of which were later placed in the constitution by the voters of Alabama—and he congratulates both the legislators and the voters.

In a separate communication, attached by Comptroler Hard to his [illegible] statement, he said

Hard's Comments.

"I beg to transmit herewith a statement covering the financial transactions of the State of Alabama for the year ending Sept. 30, 1934. This statement is in condensed form and is preliminary to the annual report which will be published in the near future.

"The accompanying statements show the source of the receipts, the purpose of the expenditures, and the balance remaining to the credit of the various funds.

"Particular attention is invited to the balance to the credit of the general fund.

Texas Lady Tells How Black-Draught Laxative Helps All Her Family

Here's how Black-Draught fills the needs of a family laxative in the home of Mrs. J. S. Stoker, Fort Worth, Texas: "The grown-ups in my family," she writes, "have always taken powdered Thedford's Black-Draught for biliousness, headaches and other ailments (due to constipation) and found it a reliable remedy. I was very pleased when I saw Syrup of Black-Draught advertised. I bought it and gave it to my little daughters, ages 6 and 4. They needed something to cleanse their systems and Syrup of Black-Draught acted well." . . . Your druggist sells this reliable laxative in both forms. "Children like the Syrup."

GENTRY-CULVER ENGAGEMENT

Of interest to many people in Clanton and Chilton County is the following annonncement, which was published in last Sunday's issue of the Birmingham News:

"Mrs. Henry Gentry, of Mountain Creek, announces the engagement of her daughter, Florence Alma, to Clayton A. Culver, of Selma, the wedding to take place at an early date."

Both Miss Gentry and Mr. Culver are well known in this section. For several years, Miss Gentry has held a responsible position with The Fair, one of Clanton's popular business firms, and has made numerous friends here.

Mr. Culver is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Culver, of Mt. Creek.

CHICOHI CHATTER

The goblins'll get you if you don't watch out. Strange things may happen to one on Hallwe'en, so superstitious folks used to believe; for they thought that witches then road abroad on broomsticks, elves played tricks on sober folk, and the future may be foretold by jumping over a lighted candle, or by any one of a hundred magic rites.

Many of these strange superstitions have come down to us from our pagan ancestors of 2,000 years ago and more, for our Hallowe'en occurs about the time of the ancient Druidic autumn festival. This was also the season of the ancient Roman festival in honor of Pomoa, the goddess of fruit and garden; and so, after the Roman conquest of Gaul and Britain, some of the Roman beliefs and ceremonies were added. Later, after the spread of Christianity, November 1 was made a day for the honoring of all the saints, and the eve of that day was called "Hallowe'en or "All Hollow-wen", meaning the "hoy eve" of all saints' day. Many of the old pagan customs were retained, and so we still crack nuts, and bob for apples and throw apple peelings over our shoulders, and look in a mirror by candle light in a darkened room, as our pagan ancestors did centuries ago.

Is everybody happy? (accent on the py). You bet- Well, who is just about everybody? The Seniors! Then why are they happy? Here's the answer. The class rings are on their way.

—o—

Not so long ago Mr. Earl Hayes, with whose company the school has a contract for senior rings, appeared upon the scene and after no little collaboration and deliberation, the Seniors, with individuality peculiar to them, chose representative rings for the class of '35. Of all times at this time, the need of genuine cooperation is felt.

These rings are something new and absolutely different from anything in the way of class rings herefofore. Why they're—, but wait a minute, you'll soon see for yourself.

Last week Mr. Varnell's Biology students sponsored one of his best known chapel programs extant. (goggles). It was presented in interesting dialogue form in an unusual and entertaining manner, which gave a flavor of jest to intermingle with the food for thought. Some of these Sr. I's portrayed real dramatic ability. The theme of the little playlet was the discovery of the cause of the malaria germ and of its prevention. Details were brought into the discussion that make one appreciate more fully the work and sacrifice that has been done and made in this field of research.

Startling facts were revealed in numerous classes last week. Monthly tests were given so I suppose this accounts for the unusual disembarking of the following, heretofore unknown faits: Here's a record breaker, "Wall Street is where they make wall paper." Here's another which until now has been secreted from our ignorant world, "A lyric is a verse written in prose." Human beings are the hardest of all people to get along with." "The Hundred years war lasted about fifty years," and so far into the night.

To The Voters Of Chilton County:

I have just been told that certain parties are making the statement that if I am elected, I will use my time and influence to abolish the Court of County Commissioners. Such a statement is false. I say to you, I will not make any attempt to abolish this office.

I would like for every voter in the County to know that I will use my very best efforts to bring about a reduction in the automobile tag tax, a homestead exemption from tax, free school books, and any other legislation wherein the people will be benefitted, and especially do I promise to safeguard the farmer's interest.

I want to assure all citizens and voters of Chilton County that their vote and influence will be sincerely appreciated, and if honored with the office I seek it shall be my purpose at all times to render the very best service possible to the people of this county.

Respectfully yours,

C. B. COX

(Pd. Pol. Adv. by C. B. Cox, Clanton, Ala., R. F. D.)

To The Citizens Of Chilton County:

I wish to take this opportunity of making a few statements to the citizens of Chilton County regarding my candidacy for the office of Superintendent of Education of this county.

I believe that I can be justified in calling your attention to the fact that during the school year of 1932-33 the schools of this county were operated for only one-half term. During the school year of 1931-32 the teachers of the county carried the burden on their own shoulders and taught the full term but they were paid for only one-half year's work. These conditions were by no means inviting to a new Superintendent on July 1, 1933, the date upon which I assumed the duties of this office.

Many of the building hazards have been corrected or eliminated entirely since I came into the office in July of last year. This work has been done without creating any indebtedness against the County Board of Education or against the communities in which the work has been done. The $32,000, which amount was due the teachers for their services in 1931-32, has all been paid. At the close of the fiscal year September 30, 1934 the Board of Education was clear of all indebtedness and ready to start the new year not owing one dime.

All schools in the county were operated for a full term last year. The transportation system of the county has been improved as far as finances would permit. This year we have managed to furnish the schools of the county the necessary incidental needs of the school and thus eliminated incidental fees for the county.

The above facts briefly stated are sufficient to indicate the program which I should like to continue for a period of four years. The building and repair program of this county was about one-third completed during the past year. I feel that if the citizens of this county permit me to continue in this office for a full term of four years that our county school system will continue in a prgressive way as it has since July 1, 1933.

I conscientiously feel that a worthy servant is worthy of his hire and that if I have in one year's time demonstrated to the people of this county my ability to handle the affairs of this office that I should be given an opportunity to continue my services for the next four years.

Respectfully yours,

LUTHER E. LITTLE
County Superintendent

Blowout Protection? Sure! But—

NON-SKID GRIP

is 5½ times more necessary to safety

YES! A DOUBLE GUARANTEE
1. Against road hazards.
2. Against defects for life.

Your big worry should be skidding—the cause of 5½ times more accidents than blowouts. Smooth tires skid 77% farther, other new tires skid 14 to 19% farther, than new "G-3" Goodyear All-Weathers (proved by 8400 tests). Since this "Goodyear Margin of Safety" costs nothing extra, get it now—ride safely during the slippery driving months.

43% More Miles of Real Non-Skid because "G-3" All-Weather Tread is flatter, wider, heavier, tougher. Blowout-Protected in EVERY Ply because Patented Supertwist Cord is up to 61% more elastic—absorbs shocks!

REV. COX DEFENDS "NEW DEAL" AND DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT

Well Known Citizen Says Government Under Democratic Leadership Is Following "The Golden Rule" Throughout Editor,

Chilton County News,
Clanton, Alabama.

Dear Sir:

For sometime I have wanted to say something in reply to the utterly ridiculous charge made by the Union-Banner and other critics of the New Deal, when they have made the accusation that the New Deal is leading us toward atheism.

I can think of nothing more ridiculous and preposterous than such an idle charge. If there is anything in the New Deal program which remotely resembles the doctrine of atheism, I have never been able to recognize it. On the other hand it is built on the doctrine of Christ, and trends toward a greater faith in God.

For more than forty years, I have given my every effort to bringing souls to Christ; I have preached the Gospel of Salvation every day of those forty years, and my friends in Chilton County know well that I would do nor say nothing which might influence them away from their God. I would do nothing that would lessen anyone's chance to go to heaven.

Never in my life have I known a government which so nearly followed the Golden Rule, which is the fundamental principle of all reigion. President Roosevelt in his New Deal program is preching the same Gospel of brotherly love which was preached by Christ Himself almost 2,000 years ago. Any reasoning man or woman knows that this charge is entirely without foundation, and not only brands the accuser of being ridiculous, but of also being a hypocrite—clothing himself in poor-fitting sheep's clothing.

For the first time in the history of this country, the average man is getting a square deal. Never before has he received any personal consideration from his government, but today the man at the bottom is being recognized, thanks to the New Deal.

And I'm urging everyone to go to the polls next Tuesday and cast a vote for this program by marking your ballot under the Democratic rooster. The Demcratic candidates will lend their cooperation to the state and national administrations, thus insuring better team work and more rapid strides toward the realization of better times for every man, woman, and child.

Yours for the Golden Rule,
REV. W. S. COX

STATE RELIEVED OF $4,156,-367 DEBT TO THE RFC

Loans Of 1932-33 Were To Be Paid From Road Fund $800,000 Yearly

COUNTIES IN, TOO

The State of Alabama has been relieved of a debt of $4,156,367 which it had promised to pay at the rate of about $800,000 annually for five years, beginning this fiscal year, Thad Holt, director of the Alabama Relief Administration, advised Gov. Miller.

The money was borrowed by the State for relief under the old RFC and was to be repaid with interest at three per cent from future Federal road funds allocated the State, Mr. Holt said.

The announcement was made by Dirtctor Holt following receipt of notice from Corrington Gill, assistant administrator of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration that the requirequirement for payment, had in effect, been waived by an act of the last Congress approved June 18, 1934.

This means that the State for the next five years will have more than $4,000,000 available for public road construction from the Federal Government that it otherwise would not have received.

Counties Also Relieved.

The waiving of this obligation also relieves the counties of the burden of their share in the agreement, the counties having agreed that if and when the funds were available the State could deduct from the fund their share of the amount.

The money was received and spent in the State for the period from August, 1932, to June, 1933.

Beginning with the fiscal year of 1935 the State agreed to repay the amount by permitting deductions from Federal aid funds in the amount of one-fifth of the sum owed each year for a period of five years, with accrued interest at three per cent.

Of the amount received, $3,627,667 was received and spent through the Alabama Relief Administration which came into being on Jan. 9, 1933 and which was the successor to the old RFC relief organization.

McKee Appeals To Voters And Fellow-Citizens

To the Voters of Chilton County:

My Fellow-Citizens:

This campaign is nearing a close. For several weeks I have been on the road most of the time, in an effort to see all of you and ask you personally to lend me your support and influence in the election to be held next Tuesday, November 6. If I have missed some of you, I want you to take this as a personal appeal to you for your vote. And to those whom I have seen, again let me remind you that you have a special invitation to come and march with me to victory. Regardless of former political affiliations, we want and need your help that we may hold aloft for our President and the state officials to see the flag of cooperation.

I have discussed my candidacy for the office of Tax Collector with most of you citizens of the county. I have told you, and I repeat here, that if elected it will be my highest ambition to render to you the greatest possible service while I represent you in this capacity. I promise you that I shall never forget that I am working for you—for each taxpayer and citizen of the county—and at any time you have business to conduct with your Tax Collector, you will find me more than ready to give you a courteous and capable service. I feel that I am well qualified for this position which I am asking the voters of Chilton County to elect me, and if you impose this great faith in me, I shall strive to never let it be said that I betrayed your trust.

Most of my life I have lived in this county. Most of the citizens in nearly all sections of the county know me, and I'm willing for them to give you my record. I am willing to stand or fall on the reccomendations of my friends. In the community in which I now live, I believe any of my neighbors will tell you that I am a man who takes a keen interest in the welfare of the community and the county at large. For a great many years I have sought to serve the people of my county in whatever capacity my services seemed to be needed. Again I believe that I see an opportunity to serve you, so I'm asking you voters to give me that opportunity by going to the polls on next Tuesday and casting a vote for T. L. McKee for Tax Collector.

Respectfully,

T. L. McKEE

Singing Contest and Weiner Roast

On Hallowe'en night there will be a singing contest at the County Training School. A large number of quartets and glee clubs are expected from all over the county. Prizes will be offered to the winning quartet or glee club. Come out and sing with us. Following the singing contest there will be an outdoor weiner roast. Plenty of fun for both young and old. Admission will be five and ten cents. Come one, come all and enjoy this two-fold program designed especially for your entertainment.

Candy Contest Ends

The candy selling contest came to a close with the following persons winning prizes: Lillie Mae Burns, first prize, a wrist watch; Learl Oden, second prize, a fountain pen, and pencil set; Clinton Calloway, third prize, a pen and pencil set. I take this method of thanking all persons who made an effort in this contest, even though they won no prizes.

P. T. A. Meets Friday

The County Training School P.T.A. will hold its second meeting for the present school term, Friday at three o'clock. A special drive of two weeks duration has been launched for increased membership. If you have not been asked by any of the members of the P.T.A., accept this as your invitation and come out Friday. Be on time. Bring with you a saucer and a spoon and your nearest neighbor. We are going to have a big time at this meeting. We are also expecting you.

A PROCLAMATION
GOVERNOR

WHEREAS, the legislature of Alabama at an extraordinary session held during the year, 1932, ordered an election by the qualified electors of the State of Alabama upon a certain proposed amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, which proposed amendment is herein set out, and ordered that the election be held at the General Election in November, 1934, and

WHEREAS, the General Election in November, 1934, is to be held on Tuesday, November 6, 1934, as provided by law, and

WHEREAS, notice of such election, together with the proposed amendment, is required by law, and by the provisions of the Act submitting the said amendment, to be given by a proclamation of the Governor to be published in each County in the State of Alabama once a week for eight (8) successive weeks immediately preceding the said 6th day of November, 1934;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, B. M. Miller, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby give notice, direct and proclaim that on Tuesday the 6th day of November, 1934, an election will be held at the several polling places within the State of Alabama for the vote of the qualified electors of the State of Alabama in the manner and form required by law, upon the following amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, viz:—

> The Legislature of Alabama hereafter from time to time by general or local laws, but subject to the provisions of Section 281 of the Constitution of Alabama, may fix, regulate and alter the costs, charges of court, fees, commissions, allowances or salaries be charged or received by the following county officers of Mobile County, Alabama, the Judge of Probate, the Tax Assessors, the Tax Collector, the Clerk of the Circuit Court, and the Register of the Circuit Court, including the method and basis of the compensation of such officers.

I further direct and proclaim that notice of the election upon the above set forth amendment to the Constitution of Alabama, be given by publishing the same once a week for eight successive weeks next preceding the 6th day of November, 1934, in each County of the State of Alabama in a newspaper published in said County.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and have caused the Great Seal of the State to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this the 19th day of July, 1934.

B. M. MILLER,
Governor.

Davis Endorses Cox

To the Voters of Chilton County:

As this campaign draws to a close, I want to say a few words in behalf of one of the Democratic Candidates. I have known Mr. C. B. Cox, who is our candidate for representative for many years, and I know his ability and his standing as a citizen in this County, where he has lived all of his life. I believe and I think that everyone ought to feel that way, that the thing that the State of Alabama needs more than anything else is more business men and fewer politicians and lawyers in the Legislature.

We are now faced with this choice in Chilton County. Mr. Cox's opponent is a lawyer and is on the verge of becoming a professional politician, and who has been there for eight years and accomplished absolutely nothing for the people who he has represented.

I don't think Mr. Cox needs any recommendation to the people of Chilton County. He is widely known and I would not write this letter except that I have learned from different sources that a last minute attack is being planned upon him at a time when no answer can be made. This attack is about the question of abolishing the Commissioners' Court. In 1927 a bill was introduced in the legislature not to abolish the officers of the Commissioners' Court but to establish a Board of Revenue at the expiration of their term and no one was legislated out of their office at all. Mr. Pitts introduced a bill almost like it himself, cutting the County into districts only he still called it Commissioners' Court. Many people, for their own selfish reason, have willfully misrepresented the facts and used this as a "scare crow" through all the years to frighten people into voting for a Republican on the idea that a Democrat would abolish the Commissioners' Court and legislate out of office men who had been elected by the people. The truth is that that was not tried then and we have Mr. Cox's pledge that he will not support such a measure if he does go to the Legislature, and I think that it is time that the people quit thinking about some false issue and to consider sending a man down there that will do us some good and relieve us from the load of taxes that has piled upon us.

Yours for better government,
ERNEST H. DAVIS.

FARM FAMILIES BEING ENROLLED IN NEW PROGRAM

Montgomery, Ala. — Farm families dropped from relief on October 1st and those in the rehabilitation program of the past season are now being enrolled in the new Rehabilitation Program in all counties, R. K. Greene, Director of the Alabama Rural Rehabilitation Corporation, announced here today.

Mr. Greene emphasized that only those farm families to whom the last avenue of credit has been closed are eligible for the new Rehabilitation Program, and that the program would be operated upon a strict business basis. The family would be advanced a minimum amount for the making of a crop, he said, and loans will be payable in cash.

"Food crops will be the first consideration", Mr. Greene said. "These must be ample to provide food and feed for the family and livestock. Cash crops will be of secondary importance, and we do not propose to enter into commercial production on a large scale. The maximum amount of cotton acreage which will be allowed any family will be ten acres."

The eligible farm families are expected to find land for themselves, he said, the land to be obtained under lease for three year periods, with rent to be paid in a part of the crop, and with an option to purchase the tract during the period of tenure. All terms and agreements in obtaining farms, however, he emphasized, are subject to approval by the county work director and the Alabama Rehabilitation Corporation.

Rental payments upon a basis of a share of the crop, Mr. Greene said, will give the landowner a personal interest in the welfare of the farm family and his crop, which otherwise could not be expected if the rent was upon a cash basis.

In the event an eligible family is unable to find land upon suitable terms the Alabama Rehabilitation Corporation will endeavor to aid the family in finding a location, Mr. Greene said, but the Alabama Rehabilitation Corporation does not assume a definite responsibility in obtaining land.

The eligible families are those who have been classified by local Rehabilitation Committees for group 1, and consists of those who are capable and trustworthy. Most of them are families who owned farms before the depression and others were renters or managing tenants.

The non-family groups and individuals, principally of the farm day laborer type, are not eligible for the privilege of renting a farm with the aid of the Rehabilitation Corporation, Mr. Greene said. They will be grouped in farm camps in the respective counties and will be fed and housed. They will work on the group farm and will be paid in produce in proportion to the amount of work they have done.

COTTON CONTROL IS GIVEN THE CREDIT

Purchasing Power Jumps From 54.15 Per Cent To 74 Per Cent

Auburn, Ala., Oct. 31.—Like a poker player ready to "cash in," the average Alabama farmer today counted his chips and found that the system of controlled cotton production had placed him in the most favorable economic positin of recent years.

Official figures show that the 1932 crop, before President Roosevelt's recovery program for agriculture was inaugurated, was worth $483,912,000 for lint and seed. Last year the crop jumped to $717,007,000 and the crop based on the market at September. These figures do not include the thousands of dollars received in 1933 and 1934 in rental and parity payments from the government.

The 1932 cotton crop had a purchasing power of 54.15 per cent of the parity fr the six-year average from 1909 to 1915.

Last year the purchasing power jumped to 74 per cent, again without counting rentals and parity payments and agriculture leaders today estimated that the purchasing power was above the 1933 level.

P. O. Davis of Auburn, stated today that "a recent survey reveals that Alabama cotton growers are relatively more prosperous than they were a year ago. Their purchasing power has been restored and they have resumed buying from which they were suspended in the main, for three years, 1929-1932."

Cotton Adjustment Announced For 1935

Auburn, Ala.—Secretary Wallace has announced that there will be a voluntary cotton adjustment program in 1935. The number of acres the farmer is to retire from cultivation and the amount he is to receive for it will be announced by December 1.

Although no decision has been made, present indications are that the planting of about 31,000,000 acres will be the AAA goal for 1935 and that the terms of payment will be similar to those this year, says reports from Washington.

It is also announced that farmers will soon vote on the Bankhead bill. The measure will be effective next year only if two-thirds of the South's cotton growers vote in favor of its application in 1935.

GROCERY TRADE MAKING BEST PROGRESS IN 4 YEARS

New York.—The increase in the consumption of foods, which started last year and carried the total for the country to around 90,000,000 tons, for which the public paid approximately $18,000,000,000, has proceeded at a more rapid rate thus far in 1934. With the exception of May to July, monthly distributive totals have been successively higher, with abrupt gains reported for both August and September. The curtailment of sales in some of the industrial centers, and the unemployment increases in districts where there has been a lack of F.E.R.A. activities, have been more than counterbalanced by the increased expenditures of farmers.

Buying from wholesalers and manufacturers is being done with more confidence than last year, orders are for larger amounts, and a growing percentage of the better grades of goods and fancies are being included, according to a survey of the grocery trade, which has just been completed by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

To The Voters Of Chilton County:

As I find it impossible to see all of you personally, I am taking this method if ascking your support of my candidacy for the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court.

Although I have been a life long resident of Chilton County, I have never before sought any important office, and for that reason I am probably not very well known to many of you. However, I feel I am well qualified for the office. I have had many years' experience as bookkeeper for large advancing merchants; I have had long practice in the making and examining of all kinds of lagal papers; I have served in my beat for eight years as Justice of the Peace. The nature of these experiences, I believe, has given me the qualifications which fit me for the offce I seek.

You are invited to make a searching investigation of my record. This record will be found to be one of honesty, integrity, and courteous dealing with the many citizens with whom my business relations have caused me to deal. If in this investgation you fnd anything which, in your opinion, renders me undesirable as a holder of this office, then do not vote for me.

Accept my promise, if elected, to do everything in my power to give courteous, efficient service to every person with whom I have to deal, and to be as liberal with the fees which support this office as the law will alow. Ihave no desire to get rich by the office, and as I have always done, I shall practice a live and let live policy.

I have ionductel my campaign in a freindly spirit. I have had nothing to say against the character of policies of my opponent or any candidate of his party. I deplore the fact that some politicians, as well as candidates, refer to the opposing party or candidate as their enemies. I call no man my enemy; I am the friend of all humanity, regardleess of political, church or lodge affiliation and I desire only to give the best service to all.

If you believe it to the better interest of all the people to elect my opponent, I shall humby submit to your will. But if you can believe it will be to the interest of all the people of Chilton County to elect me to fill the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court, I shall be profoundly grateful. I am leaving it with you and I shall continuet to love you every one in any event.

Governor Miller Urges Straight Democratic Ticket

GOVERNOR SAYS ALABAMA OWES CONFIDENCE VOTE TO ROOSEVELT

Says People Should Show Appreciation Of Help From President

By Atticus Mullins, in Montgomery Advertiser

Every Democrat in Alabama should vote on Nov. 6 and should mark a straight Democratic ticket, according to Gov. Miller, who made a ringing statement in favor of the New Deal and the national Democratic administartion in an interview given The Advertiser yesterday morning.

Gov. Miller has already voted the Democratic ticket from Col. Graves down through an absentee ballot which has already been mailed to Wilcox County. And in addition to voting the ticket, Gov. Miller will back his vote by declarations on the stump in favor of the Democratic ticket.

Speaking of the Democratic national administration, Gov. Miller said in his interview:

"This (the Roosevelt) administration which has found 'the forgotten man,' fed him and given him work, should not be forgotten on the 6th day of November, 1934.

Gov. Miller is anxious and insistent that every Democrat in Alabama go to the polls on Nov. 6 and vote the straight Democratic ticket. He says the Democrats of Alabama owe it to the nation to make known their sentiments in no uncertain terms. Gov. Miller points out what has been done for Alabama by the Roosevelt administration in the following interview:

"Oct. 19, 1934, an absentee ballot was mailed by me to officers at Camdon, Ala., for the Nov. 6 election. It was a straight Democratic ticket from Col. Graves down. Every Democrat should vote and mark a straight Democratic ticket on the 6th day of November, 1934.

"Our ballots should show the other 47 States and our great President our sincere appreciation of and our deep gratitude for this wonderful National Democratic Administration.

"It is purchasing and intending to purchase over a million acres of land in Alabama for beautiful parks and forestry purposes.

"This National Democratic Administration has given to Alabama, without being matched by and State money, for road building, at different times, sums aggregating $15,783,975.00.

"Hundreds of thousands of dollars are being loaned, at low rate of interest by the Federal Government under this administration, to towns, cities, and counties in Alabama for water and sewerage plants and public building purposes.

"In the forestry work there has been spent in Alabama by this Federal administration the sum of $3,877,956.63.

"During the depression in 1933 and 1934 it has made monthly grants, donations to Alabama's needs for general relief, rural rehabilitation, education, and civil works administration, various sums aggregating the enermous amount of $45,928,267.79. The value of surplus commodities shipped to Alabama by Federal Surplus Relief Corporation, not included in the above figures, will approximate $2,000,000 and Aabama by Federal Surplus Relief Corporation, not included in the above figures, will approximate $2,000,000 and Alabama has also received from this Federal Corporation 50,000 head of cattle at approximate value of $500,000. All of which totals $48,428,267.79.

"Multiplied millions of dollars are being spent by the Federa Government in North Alabama, developing and harnessing the water power for the good of the State. This work was commenced by that great Democrat, Woodrow Wilson. The Republicans thereafter came into power and put it to sleep. The Roosevelt Democratic Administration woke it up and put it to work. The Wilson Democrats of the Nation instituted this industrial giant. The Republicans of the Nation thereafter in power chloroformed it. The Roosevelt Democrats of the Nation breathed life into it; and are increasing its power and usefulness. The wonderful good it will accomplish in the future for Alabama is too great to be even visioned now by any eye.

"This administration which has found 'the forgotten man,' fed him and given him work, should not be forgotten on the 6th day of November, 1934."

Lost Certificates May Be Duplicated, Stated

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama cotton producers who have lost their participation trust certificates in the Cotton Producers Pool of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration may obtain an additional advance of two cents per pound or offer their certificates to the pool for sale without delay, despite the loss of the certificates, under a plan announced by Oscar Johnston, manager of the pool in Washington.

In cases of lost certificates, the owner of the certificate should contact his county agent for the necessary forms to fill out in order to receive the duplicate.

Farming Conditions Better Than In Four Years, Says Thomas

Farm conditions in the Fifth District as a whole are better than at any time during the past four years in spite of excessive rainfall in certain sections and unprecedented drouth in others, according to Judge J. M. Thomas, General Agent of the Farm Credit Administration of New Orleans, who returned recently from a tour through Alabama, Louisiana, and Mississippi in company with Governor Myers and his party from Washington.

"Merchants, bankers, and farmers in general are more optimistic now than in years," said Judge Thomas, "and many of them expressed to me their appreciation of what the Farm Credit Administration has done in helping to rebuild their communities on a sound business basis. I was much gratified to note that many rural towns along the way have the appearance of pre-depression days.

"The average farmer is in better condition this year because he is getting better prices for his products, and has a supplementary income provided by government rental benefit checks. A large number of farmers, too, are taking advantage of the 12-cent loans on cotton while the larger food and feed crops should tide them through the winter.

"The marked improvement in farm conditions is indicated by the substantial increase in collections from all units of the Administration. Federal Land Bank collections are up 135 per cent, and the sale of bank owned farms has increased 55 per cent over the same period last year. Production credit associations report that collections average more than 69 per cent to date of the total advanced for production purposes.

"We are not entirely out of the woods yet, but in view of the continuing favorable reports, it seems reasonably certain that we are at last on the road to permanent recovery."

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Last Sunday morning found a number of relatives and friends on their way to the home of the Rev. P. G. Johnson of Columbiana, Alabama to celebrate his forty-fifth birthday.

The living room and dining room of the spacious home were attractively decorated for the occasion. Punch was served the guests as they arrived from a table beautifully decorated with cut flowers. Fifty-three guests registered during the day. At noon the guests were invited into the dining room. Pot flowers furnished the decorations for the dining room. In the center of the table was a huge birthday cake with forty-five candles aglow. Pink and white was the color scheme and was delightfully caried out.

Those enjoying this wondeful hospitality of Mr. Johnson were: Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson, Clanton; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Johnson, Maplesville; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Johnson, Pine Hill; one sister, Mrs. Hannah Taylor, Clanton; other relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Ruby Argo and children, Bessie Mat, James Lee, Joheph, Eloise and Mary Mrances of Calera; Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Johnson and family, J. W., Osmond, Myrtice, Aubrey, and Fairfay; Mr. W. M. Nelson and four children, Earleston, Audley Jean, and Lamar; Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Scott and little daughter, Arrita; Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Johnson and son, James Edward; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Johnson and baby, Carrole Lenoir, all of Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Johnson and children, Betty Gene, and Preston Odean; Mr. H. A. Milstead and baby, Billie; and Miss Louise Johnson, all of Maplesville; Miss Jessie Johnson, of Pine Hill; Mr. J. B. Cummings; Mrs. Lester Coe and baby, Dorothy Dean, of Gurnie Junction. Others were Mr. E. W. Atchison, Mr. Meadow Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Hollidaye, Mr. Luther Fowler, Mr. E. J. Barber and Mr. W. W. Carter, all of Columbiana; and Judge T. W. Bryan, of Clanton.

Tests At Safety Lane Prove Plymouth's Hydralic Brakes Are Best

Recently, the Chicago Tribune established a "safety lane" in downtown Chicago—equipped it with modern devices for testing brakes, steering, wheel alignment, lights. All motorists were invited to test their cars for safety—without charge. The results were startling!

Out of the hundreds of cars, of all makes, ages and sizes that were tested, only 50.05 per cent of all cars with mechanical brakes were declared O.K.. But 84.38 per cent of all Hydraulic Brake cars tested were O. K.!

And, said the Chicago Tribune, "The failure . . . to pass the test was due almost entirely to faulty brakes."

Plymouth led the field! 91 per cent of all Plymouths tested were given O.K. stickers. Other low price cars were far down in the standings. Among "All Three," compared to Plymouth's 91 per cent O.K., car "A" showed only 55 per cent and car "B" only 33 per cent.

The age of the cars tested had no important bearing on the results. Considering only the models of the last three years, car "A" showed only 60.8 per cent O.K.; car "B" showed only 37.2 per cent O.K.; while 92.8 per cent of the 1932, '33 and '34 Plymouths were declared O.K.

Of 1934 models alone, 94 per cent of the Plymouths tested were declared safe to drive. But only 73.1 per cent of car "A" and only 43 per cent of car "B" were safe!

This unbiased test was a great triumph for Plymouth.

IOWA POLL 2 TO 1 FOR ALL NEW DEAL NOMINEES

The first returns released in a statewide poll of Iowa being conducted by the Des Moines Register and Tribune, an independent Republican newspaper, showed that 32,523 voted "yes" on the question "Would you vote for President Roosevelt if he were a candidate for re-election this year," and 16,881 voted "no." In each of the nine Congressional districts, now represented by 6 Democrats and 3 Republicans, the poll gave the lead to the Democrats and in none did a Republican nominee for any office have an advantage.

In reporting the result, G. Guld Lincoln, political staff correspondent of the Washington Star, said: "So pro-Roosevelt and so pro-New Deal were the returns that the state gasped," and add that the Register and Tribune polls in past campaigns "have been singularly accurate." The Republican State Committee made the claim that the poll "meant nothing," because all members of that party, they said, had "been urged to take no part in it and had sent out 8,000 letters to their workers "advising non-participation."

Kept Taking Cardui Until She Got Rid of the Severe Pains

When Mrs. Ida Hege, of Edinburg, Ind., was in a painful, run-down condition, she took Cardui, with the results she describes below: "I had just been what one might say dragging around, feeling miserable and all out of sorts. I remembered how Cardui helped my aunt. I sent for six bottles of Cardui and when I had taken them, I was much better and stronger. I did not suffer so much pain. I continued taking Cardui until I had taken nine bottles. I do not have the severe pains." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Nelson Gives Ideas On School Problems

To the Voters of Chilton County:

As it is impossible for me to see every voter, I want to appeal to the voters through this paper for your support as a candidate for a member of the Board of Education of Chilton County.

If elected I shall endeavor to render honest and fair service free from any politics whatever.

I am especially interested in the schools of our County. I believe every child should have an opportunity to get at least a high school education. I take the position that good care should be taken in selecting the bus driver. I think a truck driver should be considered more than the bid. This is for the safety of the children. I believe it would be a better plan for the County Board and Superintendent to take into consideration the amount they have paid for the route in the past, the length of the route, the condition of the roads and the amount of childrent to be accomodated and then set a reasonable salary for each route and receive applications, not bids, for the routes, and in this way secure the driver that will drive with care and keep his truck in first class condition.

I believe it would be better to give the truck driver a three years contract instead of a one year contract. This would enable him or justify him in buying a new truck or have the one he now has put in first class condition and would insure the safe handling of the children, this three year contract, of course, would be conditioned upon the faithful performance of his duty as a truck driver.

Your vote and influence would be greatly appreciated. I am
Sincerely yours,

A. C. NELSON

To The Voters Of Chilton County:

As the campaign is drawing to a close, I want to take this opportunity to express my appreciation for the wonderful cooperation and support I have received from my friends. I regret that it has been impossible for me to see all the voters, but I trust I may have that pleasure before November 6th.

At the beginning of this campaign, there were four other candidates in the race for Probate Judge. These men were my friends then, and in the conduct of my campaign I have refrained from saying or doing anything which could be construed as a personal offense and no one can justly claim that I have done more than to honestly and fairly place my case and my appeal before the people of this County.

Throughout the campaign, I have invited the people of Chilton County to look into my record as a business man and as public official. During my four years as Mayor of the Town of Clanton, over $30,000.00 have been paid on the Town's indebtedness, over and above the operating expenses. While serving as Mayor, it was at all times my purpose to make use of the best business training I had and I think the records will convince all who are interested, that good business judgment can and should be used in spending the taxpayers' money. I have spent most of my life in business and in my private affairs, I have tried to apply sound business principles at all times. If honored with the office I seek I pledge the best I have in applying sound business principles to the affairs of Chilton County.

This is the first time I have asked the voters of Chilton County to favor me with a County office, and if permitted to serve you as Probate Judge I will endeavor at all times to act fairly, honestly and without regard to party affiliations when in performance of my official duties.

In conclusion, I sincerely urge every voter in Chilton County to consider my qualifications and go to the polls on November 6th, and if you are satisfied it would be to the best interest of your County, vote for me.

I am,

Sincerely your friend,

J. LEE SMITH

ODEN OUTLINES HIS IDEAS FOR COUNTY ADMINISTRATION

To the Voters of Chilton County:

The political campaign in Chilton County is drawing to a close. It has been pleasant with me in every respect, but before leaving the results with you I want to say through the News some of the things I have presented to you in person.

The first thing I promise you is an economical administration. I think this is the first and most important thing to consider in the administration of any office which deals direct with the people's money. Every question, especially when appropriations or the spending of the County's money is involved, should be carefully considered. Good judgement is necessary at all times, especially ils this true in spending public funds or else your expenditures will exceed your revenue. The County at all times should be able to meet every obligation as they are made. In other words we should pay as we go.

My second promise is, a revised road system. In this I mean we should plan a system that would, in a few years, give Chilton County a complete chain of gravel roads. This change should begin on our main roads. Some are too crooked and some are too narrow. When once properly constructed we will have but little trouble and expense in keeping them up. These roads can not be built in a year or so, but we can begin and at the same time not neglect a single road in Chilton Couny. Too there are certain ~~types or~~ kinds of work that can not be done with machinery, the people, especially those who are having trouble in making a living and paying taxes, should be given work. I believe we can employ considerably more of our people on the roads on which they live and do it for the good of the County and its people. Chilton County has made much progress in the past twenty years in the building of roads but we should begin now to plan a better and more permanent system, and where people are in need of the necessities of life and money for tax purposes I shall give you every necessary consideration on applications for work on our roads.

In my third promise I will see that we get value received for every dollar spent. This can be done by exercising good judgement on all appropriations of the people's money.

My fourth promise is, the money the commissioners Court has to spend is tax money. The people pay the taxes. I believe you should have a voice in how it should be spent. If I am elected I want you to feel free at all times to call upon me. Every call and every suggestion will be given my most careful consideration.

Fifth, I promise that I will exercise all the ability I pissess in helping to govern the Commissioners Court of Chilton County in such a way as to make the County a better place in which its citizenship might live. In me everyone of you will have a friend. I want your vote because I want to serve you. I want to serve you because I believe I have the ability.

Thanking every one of you for the courtesies shown me during this campaign, I am,

Yours Sincerely,

HOWARD R. ODEN

Baker School News

All the teachers have finished giving tests for this month. Most all the pupils made very good grades. Although it seems that we should have made better, we are hoping to do so next month.

Our attendance was very good this month. We want to urge all the pupils to come to school regular.

Those on honor roll in Jr. III this month are: Caudell Chapman, Annie Lee Bates, Gladys Wyatt, Willie Blackwell, and Clyde Bradberry.

Jr. II: Evian Littlejohn, Ruby Foshee, Kenneth Durbin, Gertice Riggins, Mary Culver, and Willie Merle Lockhart.

Jr. I: Elizabeth Culp.

Sixth Grade: Catherine Coe.

Fourth Grade: Georgia Nell Foshee, Julia Thornton, Ethel Culp, Helen Cox, Mary Jo Clayton, Victoria Williams, Tressie Lee Culpepper.

Third Grade. Bobbie Nell Culpepper, Jearldean Thornton, Gloria Mae Williams, Pauline Cummings, Gertie Mae Lee, J. B. Coe, Lecil Hamilton.

We have elected Who's Who in Jr. II this week and will do the same by the Jr. I next week.

Who's Who in Jr. II

Most dignified girl, Ruby Foshee; most popular girl, Evian Littlejohn; most attractive girl, Gertice Riggins, best sport, Gertice Riggins; neatest girl, Nellie Mae Williams; best all-[illegible] Merle Lockhart; most studious girl, Gertice Riggins; prettiest girl, Willie Merle Lockhart; best all-round boy, Kenneth Durbin; best looking boy, Clyde Headley; most handsome boy Clyde Headley; most dignified boy, A. J. Chasteen.

The P. T. A. is having shrubbery put around the school building. We hope to finish soon. The P. T. A. is also sponsoring the "Hope Chest" which will be sold according to special plans about Christmas.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our friends and neighbors for their expressions of sympathy to us on the death of our son, C. A. Johnson. We especially wish to extend our thanks to J. Mell Martin & Sons for their services. May God's richest blessings be with you all.

Personnel Of The Democratic Ticket

Probate Judge

Heading the Democratic Ticket this year is a man who is recognized by everyone who knows him as a man possessing outstanding executive ability. Chilton County needs in the office of Probate Judge a man who has business ability; a man who has not been a lifelong politician; a man who has not had his vision warped by political ambitions for a decade or two.

For many years, he was engaged in the operation of various business enterprises in this county. His success in these endeavors proved his exceptional business ability, as have his two terms in the office of Mayor of Clanton. While head of the city administration, the town's obligations have steadily been reduced. Debts have been paid. As probate judge of Chilton, his first inclination will naturally be the operation of the county's affairs along sound and business-like methods.

Supt. Of Education

Luther E. Little needs no introduction to the people of this county. They know well the merit of his work in the office during the past year. It was largely through his efforts that Chilton County's schools were enabled to operate a full term last year instead of a half-term as the year before.

Luther Little is a man of outstanding ability and under his leadership the schools of this county may look to the future with renewed hope and optimism. It would be a dangerous step to even consider making a change in this office at this time. Mr. Little is a young man and is familiar with the modern methods of education. He knows the needs of the schools of this county, having taught here for a number of years.

The office of the Superintendent of Education is being operated strictly on a business basis. Much money is being saved this year by wise purchasing of school supplies in bulk quantities. This shows executive ability that the schools of Chilton County can not afford to lose.

Sheriff

The next Sheriff of Chilton County, J. R. Hardy, is an experienced law enforcement officer. He is a former Sheriff of Coosa County and while serving in that capacity, he made an enviable record. Removing to Chilton County more than twelve years ago, he has taken an active interest in the welfare of his county and people. For the past three years he has served the Town of Clanton as Chief of Police, and has shown himself a capable and efficient officer.

Tax Collector

For this office the Democrats are offering a candidate that is well known in all sections of the county. T. L. (Tom) McKee has spent most of his life in the county, and for a great number of years has resided in the vicinity of Clanton. He is a man whom everyone knows has taken a keen interest in the welfare of his community and his county. His varied business experience well qualifies him for the position for which he has been nominated.

A lifelong resident of the county, few men have spent more time in behalf of the public than has Tom McKee. He is always active in any movement which he considers for the best interest of all the people. For several weeks he has been seeing the voters of the county explaining his policies and plans for operating the office of Tax Collector of Chilton County, so without a doubt there is little that can be said here which would not be a repetition of what voters of this county already know in connection with Mr. McKee's candidacy.

Tax Assessor

The Democrats chose a man in the recent primaries for this place who is not a politician. A. D. Martin is a resident of the Isabella community, where he has lived for the past twenty-five years. He has served the people of his county for the past eight years as a member of the Board of Registrars, and in this capacity has become acquainted with the majority of the county's citizens.

If elected to the office which he seeks, he promises the people, large and small, a square deal. He declares that he will operate his office for the best interests of all the people and will endeavor at all times to render his most capable services.

Circuit Clerk

Few men in the state are better qualified for this position than J. C. Pattillo of Verbena. Mr. Pattillo was born and reared in the southern part of the county and for many years has been engaged by the D. I. Deramus Estate in Verbena in the capacity of bookkeeper. He is a man that has all the necessary qualifications for a fair and capable public official.

Not often can a man of Mr. Pattillo's merit be found among political candidates. Not often can a man possessing his general knowledge and learning be found in a rural county. The people of Chilton can never do better than elect him as their Circuit Clerk.

Representative

Who in Chilton County does not know Charlie Cox And among those who know him who fails to recognize his outstanding qualifications for the office of Representative of Chilton? He has lived in this county practically all of his life; he is a business man with recognized abilities.

Few men in the county will be closer to the next state administration. It is doubtful if at this time it would be possible for any man in the county to better serve the people in this capacity. He knows the needs of this county, and he will be in position to secure more aid from the state than most any other man who could possibly be elected. He is familiar with the operations of many of the state departments, having been connected with their operations heretofore, and as Representative he will know the needs of these various departments. C. B. Cox is a man thoroughly capable of standing his ground with the politicians at Montgomery, and seeing that Chilton gets a fair deal.

Commissioner, 2nd District

H. R. Oden, of the Isabella community, is the Democratic candidate for this office, and is fully qualified to render a real service to the voters and taxpayers of this county. He has lived most of his life in the Isabella community, where he is known to be a man with a keen interest in public affairs. Few men in that community contributed more to that worthwhile institution, the Isabella High School, which stands like a sentinel of progress in that rural community. Mr. Oden is familiar with the roads throughout the county and will be able to represent the people intelligently on all road problems which come before the Commissioners Court.

Commissioner, 1st District

"My aim if elected will be to bend every effort toward having the county's business conducted on a business basis," declared W. R. Clements in discussing his candidacy for this office. "I see no reason why public business should not be conducted on the same economical basis as private business, and if I am elected a member of the Commissioners Court that shall be my aim," he said.

Mr. Clements has been living in the county for thirty-one years and is familiar with all sections of the county. He declares that he is heartily in sympathy with the program which is giving the average man a New Deal.

Members Board of Education

The Rev. A. C. Nelson, of the Enterprise community, and J. Polk Payne, of Maplesville, are the Democratic candidates for these offices. They are both men who are highly qualified for these jobs. Both men have lived in the county most of their lives. Mr. Nelson has been engaged as a minister in the county for several years. He is one of the foremost men in the county and takes an active interest in all public affairs, especially educational.

Mr. Payne has operated a mercantile establishment in Maplesville for the past fifteen years, and is recognized as one of the county's business leaders.

Advises Voters To Support Democrats

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I just want to say a few words, especially to our young voters. I have been voting in the Republican elections, but intend to vote a Democrat ticket this time since our great President and Governor invite our cooperation in putting over the progressive policies they advocate.

To you young voters I wish to advise you to be very careful and not be misled for now is the time to fully make up your mind as to whom you cast your vote for in the general election on November 6th. We have good honest men seeking to be elected who have not lived almost their entire life in the court house of Chilton County nor have got their living and accumulatwealth besides from the tax payers of Chilton County. We want good honest men and all should be served alike when it comes to our public schools and paying the taxes on our home and not be served in classes as per wealth of the individual.

Our tax collectors, our school board, probate judge, commissioners and other officials should be fair and very careful. If you readers happen to notice tax sale ads in week before last paper in Beat 11, Simpson Kilgore's place was advertised for sale for 1933 assessment, 52 acres of land. I want to call your attention to the fact that 10 acres of that land belonged to me and had been assessed 2 years separate from the other and taxes paid on same by me for the year 1933, also a fee of $1.25 was charged and collected. My place was advertised with the other 42 acres, and our tax collector said it was an error of his, but when my widowed mother, an aged woman, went to have this mistake corrected, the collector talked very insulting to her, and seemed to be very mad with me when I went to assist her in correcting this mistake of the tax collector. He said there had been politics brought up about it. Le us all go to the polls next Tuesday, November 6th, and elect Tom McKee and the other nominees on the Democratic ticket to serve us as our next officers regardless of our past party affiliations.

Yours very truly,
HOBSON KILGORE.

We Shall Go Forward Under Democratic Government

(AN EDITORIAL)

The time is near at hand when another one of Chilton County's political battles shall come to a close. Candidates, politicians and newspapers have had their say, and now the last word, the final verdict is placed in the hands of the people. The News has put into the battle for Democrary every ounce of its strength this time as it has consistently done in the past. We have tried to fight fair, to refrain from mud-slinging, and to present the issues at stake rather than make personal attacks.

We are deeply grateful to the many citizens of Chilton County who have expressed their intention to support the Democratic ticket. It renews our faith in the Democratic principles of government when we see the citizenship rally to the support of programs like that of our President. Some of these men and women will vote the Democratic ticket for the first time this fall. It is an inspiration to know that those who are entrusted with the ballot are big enough and broad enough to step out and endorse the things which lead to a higher regard of human welfare in government. It assures us that this government, the success of which ultimately rests with the voter, is built upon a solid foundation.

There are big issues at stake in this campaign. They rise above the usual run of politics and have to do with the welfare of our people. The Republican party failed to meet the needs of a suffering people in this nation when they had opportunity. The Democratic party was put in power and met that need. And now Republican leaders in Chilton County, according to its official organ, are attacking and condemning the very program which has been our salvation. They are condemning an administration which has stopped bank failures and guaranteed deposits, an administration which has given our people twice as much for their cotton, a program that has created jobs for the jobless, furnished food for the hungry and clothes for the naked. They have called that sort of thing a step toward atheism and various other isms.

According to the daily papers under date of October 26 Thad Holt, director of the Alabama Relief Administration stated that Alabama has been relieved of a debt of $4,156,367. This money was obtained under the old RFC plan. This means that Chilton County will not have to repay $50,000 received at that time.

Now, if Chilton County had followed those Republican leaders who are today asking the voters to place them in office we would not have received this money. In a mass meeting at the court house Mr. J. Z. Mims expressed his opposition to such relief. Upon another occasion certain members of the commissioners court sent a telegram to the effect that we did not need such relief. If we had followed this kind of leadership then and since we likely would not have had a nice new school building at Cooper, an auditorium at Enterprise, an auditorium at Collins Chapel, an auditorium and two class rooms at Isabella, the Selma highway paving project might not have been obtained, and the project of draining the swamps about Clanton would not have been a reality, and hundreds of our citizens would not have gotten work at a time when the need was desperate.

No, these leaders are opposed to the New Deal, and that opposition is not mitigated by the knowledge that this same New Deal has brought these and other benefits to the people of Chilton County, neither do they seem concerned with the fact that much of this money spent here is a grant and that whether we take it or not will have no effect on the taxes we pay. Then and now they apparently think best that whatever hardship is placed upon them the people should "tuff it out."

Their opposition was frustrated in the mass meeting in the spring of 1933, and they will again suffer defeat on November 6th, 1934.

PLEASANT GROVE

Jemison

It seems that old winter is peeping in at the door of the Southland. But "come rain, come shine, the hopeful are the gladest."

Sunday was our regular preaching day and we had two wonderful sermons by the pastor, the Rev. Maurice Hodgens. The Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. were very good but not excellent. Come dear friends, and let's do our best to build our Master's Kingdom here as He would have us to.

Mrs. Adair is improving some, but slowly.

Miss Laurene Spivey is real sick with diptheria.

Mrs. George Spivey, who is one of our sick, has mumps.

Mrs. Bill Davenport is improving fine. Her husband and little daughter, Lorene, went to see her Sunday.

Mrs. Clarence Marcus and little son, Aldene, have gone to Georgia to spend a while with her husband, who is at work there.

Mrs. Dovie Dawson is visiting her sisters, the Misses Dulcie, Delia and Effie Champion.

Miss Gail Gletty was guest of Miss Willie C. Clements Sunday.

Miss Effie Champion is spending a few days with her sisters and family, Mrs. Frank Davenport.

Mrs. Marvin Champion spent one day last week with Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion, and carried home her little son, Albert, who spent a while with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion.

Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Miskelley had as their guests Sunday the following: Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Franklin, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Childress, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll and children, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Zuber, Mr. E. C. Davenport, Mr. Govers Price and sisters, Misses Velma Myrtle and Bertha Lee, and the Rev. Maurice Hodgens.

The following were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Hodgens Sunday: Mrs. Wilse Gibson, Mrs. Lizzie Crumpton, Mrs. I. N. Waldrop and daughter, Imogene, and Mr. Briggs Hodgens.

BEN DUKE THANKS THOSE WHO GAVE AID WHEN HOME BURNED

Mr. Ben Duke of the Mt. Pleasant community, asked the News to express his sincere appreciation to the people, who contributed to his aid in his recent disaster. Little more than a week ago, Mr. Duke and his family lost all of their clothing and household furnishings, when a fire completely destroyed the home during the family's absence.

The people have been exceptionally generous in offering to help him, Mr. Duke said, and he wished to express his deepest appreciation to all who contributed to his and his family's needs. Especially, he said, does he want to thank the members of the Mt. Pleasant Sunday School and the Mt. Pleasant Sewing Club for their help.

Books And Clothing Needed Says Workers

One of the outstanding problems confronting the local Child Welfare workers is the problem of securing books and clothing for children whose parents are unable to provide these necessities and who are unable to attend school because of this. The County Welfare Supt. and the County Attendance Officer are visiting each school in the County this week and they are asking that the school children in the County, who have good clothing which they have outgrown or do not need, and who have schoolbooks which they no longer need, contribute these clothes and books to the less fortunate children of the County.

They are asking that these books and articles of clothing be brought to the local schoolhouses on Friday, November 9, or to the office of the Child Welfare Superintendent in Clanton on or before that date. It is hoped that in this way sufficient clothing and books will be provided to place and keep all of Chilton County's underprivileged children in school this winter.

crats are poor managers?

The State's Condition

It would be wise for some who still cling to the old line and say they are going to vote the Republican ticket, turning thumbs down on the Democrats, to acquaint themselves with the financial condition of our State. They try to tell us about the terrible condition our State is in under the tried and true Democratic colors. But, we refer you to an article in the News this week quoting the report to the Governor showing sworn figures that Alabama has a surplus in the treasury of over ONE MILLION DOLLARS. Does that look as if our State is in bad condition?

Money From The Government

These same politicians who are being benefitted by a Democratic administration and yet to hold their positions, are knocking the "New Deal" for the average man saying that we will have to pay and pay this money back to the government, forgot to mention the fact that the United States government has relieved the entire State, including loans to counties, of this enormous debt. It will not have to be paid back by the counties! We refer you to another article which gives this information and is published in this issue of the News.

Political Effects

Unnecessary reference was made last week to the Johnnie Plier case in Clanton, in order to attempt to divert the voters' attention from another matter, claiming it was for political purposes alone such reports are brought out. It was inferred that such reports are unfounded, untrue and used for political purposes. But, these who are fighting the Democratic landslide and who brought up this case failed to mention the fact that the records of the office of the Town of Clanton show that the alleged shortage in funds there was not political propaganda, and that a thorough examination was made of the books by a reliable, independent bonding company, and after this examination this bonding company immediately paid this shortage on March 12, 1931. Would they have paid it if the report was unfounded and only political propaganda?

Study The Facts

The Republican organ in Chilton County "appeals to the reason and sound judgment of our citizens to study the facts and think for themselves." So, the News also appeals to the citizens of this county to study the facts which are set out above for the first time. We point to the above items as FACTS and not a long drawn-out article of argument with no grounds.

An Invitation

To those voters of this county who have been voting the Republican ticket, and who have had no voice in selecting our State officials, Senators or Congressmen, to join the big swing to the Demcratic Party and place Chilton County in line with the rest of these United States.

W. B. CORLEY WRITES CONCERNING PRESENT SITUATION

Howdy, Boys! It has been a long, long time since I met you last, but I still remember and like you, and wish your paper well.

The situation looks like it needs somebody to say something, lest we forget to remember when the NRA and the CWA and many other governmental agencies were feeding, clothing the hungry millons of our people. Thousands of those who ate that bread and wore those clothes were the bitterest enemies the President had, and abuse their own government to the extent of their politically poisoned minds, aided and abetted by the incessant bleating of their leaders, who feared for their future if the people managed to throw off the yoke of political slavery and returned to a political independence guaranteed them by their great land of their own free country.

No one possessing an ounce of brains and honesty enough to be trusted with a five-cent piece, can afford to deny that our country is 50 per cent better off than it was eighteen months ago. They all know it is whether politics will let them say it or not. It is a fact just the same.

We all know that our great President has never allowed politics to play any part in his labor to put us all on better and safer footing, and we are all very poor citizens when we fail to cooperate with him instead of against him. Don't you think so?

Now, he is putting out what he calls "A New Deal." I know very little about the "New Deal", but since the same man is behind it that brought about the wonderful improvement in the conditions in our great country, I am more than ready to endorse it, and do what I can to put it over, knowing, from past experience that it will be a great boon to our people and will aid them in getting back on their feet, and the duty of every good citizen is to do the same thing.

It is not in any sense a political matter, but a duty that devolves upon the shoulders of every citizen to do his bit in backing the man—not the politician in this grand battle for prosperity. Think of these things as from a man and not as a politician. I thank you.

W. B. CORLEY.

PERSONNEL OF RED CROSS ROLL CALL MADE UP

Chairman Martin Is Optimistic Over Next Drive For Members

Selection of persons to compose the county-wide Red Cross Roll Call membership campaign in Chilton County has been completed by J. Mell Martin, roll call chairman, and all those so selected have been called to a meeting at the courthouse Friday afternoon of this week at 2 o'clock.

Mr. Martin has sent a letter to each of the persons selected on the roll call committee, advising them of their selection, and urging attendance at the meeting Friday. This is very important, as definite plans will be made at the meeting for carrying the Red Cross membership appeal into every community of Chilton County.

Below we give the list of persons selected on the roll call committee, and urge their attendance at the meeting Friday:

Baker School, Mrs. S.L. Thornton and Mrs. E.P. Littlejohn; Isabella, Mrs. S.E. Porch and Miss Mary Clay Turner; Maplesville, Mrs. F.A. Shanks; County Line, Mrs. Norman Smith; Vermont, Mrs. Claud C. Klinner; Pilgrim's Rest, Mr. Claude Traywick; Culp, A. B. Culp; Fairview, Mrs. Alma Headley; Shiloh, L.C. Keen; Enterprise,

V. J. Elmore Managers Hold An'l Conference

Bigger and better business seems to be the keynote of the V.J. Elmore 5c, 10c, and $1 Stores, and a spirit of optimism is evident among the managers of the several stores in the chain.

Monday and Tuesday of this week, the managers of the various stores in the chain congregated in Clanton for the annual conference, when they discussed plans for the 1935 program.

The following managers and workers attended the conference:

FUNERAL FOR ERNEST PIERCE HELD AT BETHSALEM SUNDAY

Funeral services for Ernest Pierce, 34, who died at his home in the Enterprise community Saturday, following a long illness, were held Sunday afternoon from the Bethsalem church. The Rev. W. M. Lowery officiated.

Mr. Pierce is survived by his mother, Mrs. Fannie Pierce, and several brothers and sisters. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Spigener in charge.

Special music was rendered by a quartet composed of Jesse Jones, Miss Lena Mae Devaughn, O.L. Devaughn, and W.W. Easterling.

MAPLESVILLE HIGH WINS

Maplevsille High School football team came out victor in a contest with Autaugaville last Friday by the score of 6 to 0.

Although the Maplesville team is inexperienced in that this is their first year to have a team, they showed some good playing in most of the game. McAfee returned a punt sixty-three yards behind good blocking for the lone score of the game.

Maplesville meets the strong Shelby County High team at Maplesville Friday.

CRIMINAL TERM COURT OPENS NEXT MONDAY

Large Docket Faces Judge Tate; Civil Term Recently Ended

When Circuit Court convenes here next Monday morning, Chilton county will perhaps have the largest criminal docket in the history of the county. Two hundred fifty three criminal cases are scheduled for hearing during the two weeks term, according to a docket prepared in the office of the circuit clerk.

Although only two first degree murder cases are scheduled for hearing during this term of court, this heavy docket indicates, officers declared, that the county's crime record is growing rapidly during the past few years. Most of the 250 cases are the result of liquor law violations, the docket shows.

Following is the docket for the term:

Monday, Nov. 12, 1934

Ethel Crawford Lampkin, Burglary.
Irona Carter A. to M. Lee Jones (alias)
Freeman Reese, Trans. five or more

REHABILITATION PROGRAM GETS WELL UNDERW'Y

Families In Need Are To Be Given New Chance To Earn Livlihood

The rural rehabilitation program in Chilton County is well under way with the classification of the 300 families removed from relief in September being done by the Rural Rehabilitation Committee. Only families with a farming background who were on relief during the month of September, and farmers who were on the Rehablitation Program the past season will be considered. No relief will be given these families until they are approved by the State Director of Rural Rehabilitation.

The purposes of the rehabilitation program are: To enable a farm family dislocated by the depression to make a new start in the production of the major portion of their livelihood from farming operations, to train and educate

Mrs. D. W. Haskew Killed In Wreck

Evergreen, Ala., Nov. 1.—Mrs. D. W. Haskew, wife of the pastor of the LaFayette Street Methodist Church at Dothan, was instantly killed this afternoon when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband overturned after striking a cow on Highway No. 44 about three miles from Repton in Conecuh County.

Mrs. Haskew is the wife of Dr. D. W. Haskew, former pastor of the Clanton Methodist church and author of "Moral Echoes," popular column published regularly in the Chilton County News. The Haskew family made their home in Clanton for some time, and both Dr. Haskew and his wife made numerous friends in this section.

The minister's wife died of a broken neck when she was hurled from the front seat to the rear seat of the automobile which turned over twice. The Rev. Haskew suffered shock and minor injuries.

The couple were returning to Dothan from attending the funeral of Mr. Haskew's brother, Matthew W. Haskew, at Bethel Church, in Clarke County, when the accident occurred. As they approached a man leading a cow, the animal attempted to cross in front of the car. The impact caused the machine to overturn.

An ambulance from Rutland's at Evergreen brought the body of Mrs. Haskew here where it will remain until Friday morning. Dothan undertakers will take the body probably to Panama City, Fla., for burial. Definite arrangements had not been completed this afternoon.

Mrs. Haskew is survived by her husband and one son, Lawrence Haskew, of Monroe, Ga. The Rev. Haskew is former pastor of the Methodist Church here.

CHILTON AND UNITY ASSNS. TO LOAD CAR FOR ORPHANAGE

According to information given the News Chilton County and Unity Baptist Associations will load a car of produce in the County Thursday and Friday, November 15 and 16 for the Baptist Orphanage at Troy.

This is an annual affair which has met with splendid cooperation in the past, and all indications point to a full car this time. Canned fruits, vegetables, dried fruits, corn, potatoes, peas, beans, etc., are acceptable as well as a wide assortment of things which can be used to advantage at the orphanage.

The car will be at Thorsby on Thursday, November 15 and Clanton Friday, November 16. This is a worthy cause and those in charge urge everyone to remember the dates and bring or send in their contributions.

LEO ALRED JOINS STAFF OF THE HAYES CHEVROLET CO.

Leo Alred, popular young man of Clanton, is now connected with the Hayes Chevrolet Company. Few men in the county are more widely known than young Alred. For several years he has been connected with cotton buying and storing business in this county.

Mr. Alred joined the staff of Hayes Chevrolet Company about three weeks ago, but through oversight the News failed to carry this information to its readers.

LOCKHART WILI HAVE HEARING NEXT SATURDAY

Is Charged With The Slaying Of His Cousin, C. A. Johnson

Preliminary hearing for Daniel Webster Lockhart, charged with the knife-slaying of his cousin, C. A. Johnson, will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock before Justice of the Peace J.L. Wilson.

Lockhart is alleged to have fatally cut young Johnson when they met on a road near Billingsley the afternoon of Saturday, October 20. According to the dead youth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Johnson, who were riding in the care with their son, young Johnson stopped their car when they overtook Lockhart on the road. He told his parents, they said, that he wanted to talk to '-Dan" a minute.

Walking only a few paces down a road which leads to Lockhart's home, the men engaged in a scuffle. Johnson stated to officers shortly after the killing that the first he knew they were fighting was when he saw blood on his son's shirt. He leaped from the car, he said, to go to them, but when he got out of the car, Lockhart was on the ground and his son was standing

REPUBLICANS JOIN DEMOCRATS IN APPROVAL OF "NEW DEAL"

Over Five Thousand Voters Cast Ballots In Chilton County Tuesday; Democratic Ticket Was Almost Landslide

Echoing the expression of faith in the Democratic Party, President Roosevelt, and his New Deal, which swept the entire nation in the elections Tuesday, the voters of Chilton County cast their decision overwhelmingly for Democracy, when ten of the eleven local Democratic candidates were elected by majorities from 75 to more than 600.

From the beginning of the unofficial count, it was evident that a sweeping change in the county's politics was taking place. Through the tabulating of the votes from 25 of the 27 boxes in the county, every candidate on the Democratic ticket held an ever increasing majority over his opponent. It was only in the last three boxes reported, that the tide changed enough to elect one candidate on the Republican ticket.

J. P. Bean, was successful over his Democratic opponent, Will R. Clements, by a margin of less than 200. The other ten Republican candidates for county offices were defeated by their Democratic opponents by majorities which ranged from 75 votes to more than 600.

The unofficial vote was as follows:

Representative—C. B. Cox, 2,628—Percy M. Pitts, 2,111,

Judge of Probate—J. Lee Smith, 2,657—J. Z. Mims, 2,279.

Clerk of Circuit Court—J. C. Pattillo, 2,504—H. A. Harris, 2,314.

Sheriff—J. R. Hardy, 2,771—Dewey Hughes, 2,314.

Tax Collector—T. L. McKee, 2,455—W. G. Culp, 2,383.

Tax Assessor—Arthur D. Martin, 2,465—Akins I. Collins, 2,377.

Superintendent of Education—Luther E. Little, 2,591—W. T. Bean, 2,282.

Commisioner First District—Will R. Clements, 2,296—J. P. Bean, 2,478.

Cimmissioner Second District—Howard Oden, 2,509—A. J. Davis, 2,283.

Member County Board of Education—A. C. Nelson, 2,309—Pink M. Martin, 2,187.

Member County Board of Education—J. P. Payne, 2,335—D. S. (Sebe) Robinson, 2,186.

The Democratic Ticket was led by J. R. Hardy, candidate for Sheriff, and W. G. Culp, running for re-election as tax collector, led the Republican ticket by a narrow margin. Hardy polled 2,771 and Culp 2,383.

With a normal Democratic vote of approximately 2,000, some 400 to 700 voters, who had formerly voted the Republican Ticket cast their lots with the Democratic candidates in an expression of faith in the leader of our nation, Franklin D. Roosevelt. For several weeks many leading Republicans in almost every beat have expressed an intention of joining hands with the Democrats.

T. L. McKee, Democratic candidate for tax collector, won by the closest score of any successful candidate, when he led W. G. Culp by only 72 votes. Arthur D. Martin won over Tax Assessor Akins I. Collins by a majority of only 88. Luther E. Little defeated his opponent, W. T. Bean, in his race for re-election as county superintendent of education by 309 votes.

This is the first time in forty-four years that the Democrats have been sucecssful in wresting control of the county government from the Republicans. Only twice during that time has a single Democrat been elected. Judge E. B. Deason and Luther E. Little have been the only two successful ones in carrying the party's banners in almost a half-century. The election of Little for a short term last year marked the first success of the party in 18 years.

Although little interest was exhibited in the election of candidates for state capacties, indications are that the state Democratic ticket polled the largest vote in the history of the county. The vote in the county election was the largest in several years, the total vote being approximately 5,500

Reports late Tuesday night from over the nation indicated a sweeping victory for the Democrats throughout the country. Early estimates placed the percentage of Democratic victories at approximately 85 to 90 per cent.

The results of the official count in each box will be carried in tabulated form in next week's issue of this paper.

Clanton Music Appreciation Club Receives High Honors At Recent District Conference

High honors were received by the Clanton Music Appreciation Club at the Fourth District meeting of Alabama Federation of Music Clubs held in Wetumpka, Wednesday, October 31, at the Baptist church, when they competed with 18 other clubs. Two members of the club were given high recognition and the Clanton club was given the distinction of winning the loving cup.

Mrs. Barey Roberts of Clanton was elected president of the Fourth District, succeeding Mrs. Walter D. Agnew of Montgomery and Mrs. W. A. Willis of Clanton was elected secretary. The loving cup was won on the merts of gaining nine Junior clubs, one Senior club and loss of no club.

The Clanton Music Club was well represented by Mrs. L. C. Ross, Mrs. W. A. Willis, Mrs. Barney Roberts, Mrs. Percy Pitts, ans Miss Della Latham.

Following is a paper given by Mrs. Percy Pitts at the meeting, which was highly complimented:

Music In The Home

Music in the Home, what a rush of tender memories those words bring to us who were blessed with singing mothers! We took our blessings for granted and little did those mothers dream that in future years their daughters would organize to carry on this work for Music in the Home, to make our American homes of today centers of entertainment and culture.

A love for music should be instilled into our children before they enter school. A little effort on our part brings forth such a wonderful response. Youngsters of three and four delight in marching and singing and may be taught to clap rythms with an accuracy that will make their future music teachers bless us for the length of our days.

A wealth of material is available for Music in the Home, for the younger children, for the older children, for singing, for playing, in short, for the asking, you may have suggestions for almost any combination of voices or instruments you desire.

Your child may be inclined to monotone. Do not neglect him. Take him every day to the piano, sing the same two little tunes very slowly into his ear, with plenty of time for him to get the pitch of each note. You may have to continue this for two or three months. Do not be discouraged, for this method has been proven and the trouble entirely overcome.

Look over your own stock of material. One mother was most successful with the old Gilbert and Sullivan operas. Her small son and daughter were thrilled to "Sail the Ocean Blue"

BAPTISTS-METHODISTS PUT ON DEBT PAY-UP CAMPAIGN

Beginning Nov. 12th, and continuing through Nov. 22nd. the Baptist and Methodist Churches will put on a joint CATCH UP DEBT PAYING campaign. It is hoped in this campaign to clear up all indebtedness on both churches, and start the new financial year with a clean slate. Both Dr. Ezell and Dr. Cochran expressed their desire and expectations that the campaign will succeed, and free the churches to do their work unhampered with debts.

It is understood that the Baptists need $750 to clear up all their accounts, and the Methodists need $750.00 to put them in the clear. Both churches will put committees to work Nov. 12th, and these will continue until all the members are seen and the funds raised.

It is hoped that the members and friends of the churches will not only greet the committees with a smile, but will also greet them with substantial checks or cash. This is a good and needed work, and should meet with the hearty cooperation of all concerned. Let us DO this job.

The President And The Bankers

President Roosevelt's appeal in his address before the American Bankers Association in Washington "for an alliance of all forces intent upon the business of recovery," points the way for approachment among all factors in a final drive against the depression.

Certain it is that the country at large was not less interested in the President's message than the eminent body of bankers who were the first to receive it. Mr. Roosevelt defined his position in unmistakable terms. Jackson E. Reynolds, president of the First National Bank of New York, confessed regretfully "evidece of misunderstanding between many of our country's bankers and those whose responsibility it is to administer the affairs of the country."

Mr. Reynolds ended his speech pretacing that of the President on a hopeful note when he declared: "If on the other hand we abandon our antagonisms for friendly understanding, sympathetic cooperation, I believe we can make a great contribution toward the perpetuation of our cherished institutions, the encouragement of our fellow citizens, and the gradual and sound rebuilding of the shattered economic and financial structure of our country."

President Roosevelt made it plain that he wants the banking business carried on by bankers. At the same time he upheld the right of the Government to protect the public interests by asserting its prerogative to "be the judge of the conflicting interests of all groups in the community, including bankers." But he emphasized that while Federal supervision must be continued, the ideal to be worked for is the restoration of the fundamental functions of banking to the bankers. Having reminded his audience that in March 1933 he asked the American people to renew their confidence in banks, Mr. Roosevelt asked the bankers to renew their confidence in the American people.

In a final appeal he declared: "The time is riper fo an alliance of all forces intent upon the business of recovery.

"In such an alliance will be found business add banking, agriculture and industry, and labor and capital. What an all-american team that is! The possibilities of such a team kindle the imagination—they encourage our determination—they make easier the tasks of those in our Government who are leadng it.

"The Nation does not merely trust or hope that we will do our duty—the Nation is justified in expecting that we will do our duty."

American Education Week

This week has been set aside by official proclamation as American Education Week. School officials, P.-T. A. organizations and others are stressing the importance education plays in our well being.

The history of education shows a basis of trends of thought. One is the cultural side of education where chief emphasis is laid on a broad knowledge of the background of the race, delving deeply into philosophy, languages, higher mathematics, etc., with rather slight concern as to their practical utility in a modern world.

The other trend of thought may well be exemplified by the business type of school which directs its every energy toward training for practical and immediate purposes in a highly specialized industrial system.

It is evident that of these two extremes there should be a median halfway between the two that will come nearer to filling our present needs. Graduates must meet the conditions of life as they are. They should have an appreciation of what is best, and a desire to obtain it in their own lives, but at the same time they must be trained in the methods of present-day business.

It is pleasing to observe that colleges and universities are striving toward this goal of a more practical education without sacrificing those things which develop the cultural side of life.

Another need in eduaction which strikes home to parents and guardians is that of a wide-awake interest in the student's progress. The educational system costs a lot of money, and for that money to be thoroughly effective full cooperation of school officials, students and parents must be a fact.

The kind of government we have not only needs an educated citizenship, but it makes it a nabsolute necessity. It is well that we set aside a time for particular emphasis of this all-important matter. Let us inform ourselves upon the problems and needs of our educational system. The welfare of our children is concerned, and it is our patriotic duty.

Religion Paces The Boardwalk

Persons who have been so "sure" that the churches are losing their grip would have had the pleasure of changing their minds if they had been at Atlantic City during the recent General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal church. Adrian W. Phillips in his account of events and hotel news as seen from his look-out at Chalfonte-Haddon Hall furnished some very interesting sidelights on the church convention. There was record attendance of men and women. "The resort has taken on a summer aspect, crowds throng the boardwalk between the sessions to window shop and visit the interesting exhibits of national advertising, "he wrote, and he related that one of the principal national industry's devoted an entire window on the boardwalk to a display of Holy Bibles. Haddon Hall erected a special Chapel for the House of Bishops during their stay at the hotel. From all accounts at Atlantic City is leading all the old time resorts in the country in popularity and it is most interesting to note te progress of religion at the recent gathering.

"Stars Did Fall On Alabama"

By W. J. Bldwin

Carl Camer's picturization of Alabama in his "Stars Fell 'on Alabma" omits the intangible; it is an interesting, and true-to-for depiction of what the naked eye can see and what lovers of tradition like to talk about when discussing the south or any of the individual states comprising it. It is the usual contribution of the Northerner who gets his usually biased facts hurriedly. It is indeed intereting and well composed. But it is only a part of the truth.

The stars did fall on Alabama. They fell in myriad heaps. When God saw fit to create the land we call Alabama and began to put into it His precious gifts for our sustenance, He let the stars fall in abundance to give this commonwealth more natural resources than any area of similar size on the globe. But Carl Camer didn't hear about it, else he forgot to put the fact into his book.

The stars fell and gave Alabama more navigable streams than any other state in the Union.

A star, a brilliant meteor, fell on John Pratt in the little village of Cherokee, and from it sprang the first practical typewriter the world ever saw.

Another star fell in the eastern part of the state, and from it was conceived the first machinery for manufacturing artifical ice.

A star fell and gave us Helen Keller, the envy of the whole civilized world.

Two brilliant stars fell on Alabama and gave us Dr. William Crawford Gorgas, the world's greatest sanitarian, and Gen. William L. Sibert, whose engineering talents, linked with the talents of Dr. Gorgan, presented to the western hemisphere the Panama Canal, which is recognized as one of the greatest engneering feats in the history of the universe.

The world received its first electric street car from Alabama because a star fell on Montgomery.

Science and medicine owe much to the genius of Professor A. F. McKissick for the first apparatus used in the United States for the demonstration of the X-Ray. A star fell on Auburn where Prof. McKissick gave his invaluable apparatus to the world.

So many stars fell on Alabama, the mineral district of the state gave to mankind the only earthly spot where iron, coal and limestone, the three essential elements of steel, are found withing a stone's throw of each other.

There is enough coal in the Alabama coal district to cover the whole of England three feet deep. It took a lot of stars to accomplish the feat.

Another star fell on Auburn and inscribed in the indeliable history of Alabama the fact that the Alabama Polytechnic Institute was the first southern college to establish a chair of electrical engineering.

A star fell on Alabama to give to the world General Robert Lee Bullard, whose record of achievements in the late world war is inscribed in the history books of every civilized nation.

Stars fell on Alabama and gave to the world such personages as Augusta Evans Wilson, Johnson Hooper, Sidney Lanier and scores of other contributors to the classic literary works of the world.

Stars fell on Alabama to give it third place among the forty-eight states in the production of hydro-electric power.

Stars of rarest purity fell on Alabama to give it the lowest death rate per white population east of the Rocky Mountains.

Stars fell on Alabama in late years and from them Alabama gave to the world of sports, literature and filmdom such celebraties as Octavus Roy Cohen, Lois Wilson, Henry Walthall, the Sewell brothers and others.

A star fell on Alabama in 1832 and gave to this nation the first railway track west of the Allegheny Mountains.

A star struck Alabama to give this state the distinction of having granted the first diploma ever issued to a woman by any chartered institution authorized to confer degrees.

Out of those barren hills and swamp-infested dells which Mr. Camer so dramatically pictured; came a horde of stalwart young men, answering the call of their nation to defend the world's democracy. No other state gave more in proportion than did Alabama. Stars must have fallen on those barren knolls and swampy lowlands.

A sentimentalist once said something about God piercing the blue canopy of heaven to make peep-holes through which to look down upon His children; that the holes we see at night are the stars; that the fragments pierced by Him fell to the earth and made violets. There are lots of violets on Alabama's "barren hills," but the blind can not see them.

Constructive Relief

One of the most worthy relief programs yet conceived is this week announced by Thad Holt, director of the Alabama Relief Admnistration. The plan is to put into effect in Alabama a gigantic construction and farm terracing program, using labor which has been on relief rolls.

This program necessitates cooperation of county and city governments. Where it is used, not only will it greatly reduce the number of relief, but it will do a work that is much needed in Alabama. We have long endorsed programs that led to better terraced farm lands in Chilton County. We have recognized that expensive machinery was needed to do this work properly and that no single individual could afford the best equipment. Now, the state relief administration offers to buy this equipment, under very liberal conditions of co-operation by the counties. The labor used will be taken from relief rolls, so, it would seem that both labor and the farmers would benefit. The equipment would later become the property of the county, and if used over a period of years should be a self-liquidating investment.

We heartily endorse this program. The state administration is to be commended for the idea, and we trust that our county officials will thoroughly investigate the matter.

In the warm mornings of spring we can see the little house wren as he is fluttering about the roofing and corners of barns and buildings in search of a nesting place. After finding a suitable place for his home he perches himself on a nearby limb and he begins to sing. His notes are so sweet and so soft until he draws his mate from out of the great unknown. The charm of his voice is carried to his lady friend and she is won over to him, and soon she is there with him directing the building of their nest. There is power in music. When we learn to sing as sings the wren, then we will be able to throw a spell of charm about the world. No one can sing better than the wren for it is his task to win through his song.

In a country home the community singers had gathered for an afternoon of music. One gentleman carried a tuning-fork in his pocket and on seeing a large spider resting quietly in his web, he decided to see what affect sound would have on this ugly insect. He struck the tuning-fork on a post and then held it lightly against one of the threads that supported the web. Immediately the spider went into action. His telephone told him that a big fly was caught in his web and hurriedly felt of all the threads. When he touched the one bringing in the sound, he ran up it with speed and leaped on the end of the fork. The buzzing sound tickled his every nerve and thinking that he had within his reach a fine meal, he hurried to his feast. Imagine his disappointment. There is so much power in music that even the buzzing sound of a tuning fork has charms for men and insects.

Before the days of steam men used to tow their boats up the lower Ohio and the Mississippi rivers with long lines. This was a wearisome task and when night came on the men would be ready for rest. They learned from experience that it was not safe for them to tie their boats to certain trees along the banks for the underflowing currents would often wash up the tree during the night and the next morning they would find themselves drifting down stream tied to a floating tree. Those boatmen learned to search out a well rooted tree some distance from the water's edge and for reasons of safety tie the boat to that tree. That is where we get the phrase "That man will do to tie to." When you want to avoid the dangers of drifting in the stream of life, you had better examine the men to whom you tie your craft. Not every human will do to tie to.

After killing the mother bear the huntsman captured her two cubs and carried them to camp, expecting to make pets out of them. They were made secure in a cage and immediately set up a whine that disturbed the camp. Food was carried to them, but they refused to touch it. The yelping continued. They were then scolded and punished, but there was no let up to the noise. At length the huntsman took the skin of the mother bear and stretched it over a large block of wood and shoved it into the cage. The little cubs came near and after smelling of it, they nestled close to it and was soon fast asleep. It was not food, it was not liberty, but it was mother that the little cubs wanted. There are times in the life of old and young when nothing will satisfy but mother.

The depot was near my parsonage home. This depot was quite a busy place. The railroad company kept a small switch engine there to shift the cars and to keep the produce moving. In my study I could see nothing of that engine but the smoke that it made, but I could hear it all the time. It seemed to me that it did nothing but smoke, rattle its bell, blow its whistle and bump the cars around. If I went down town I found it blocking traffic and hindering pedestrians. Somehow I grew almost to despise the switch engine. I would look with pride and admiration upon those big moguls that would come roaring through, drawing fifteen steel coaches behind them. Their whistle was music to my ears for they were going somewhere. I fear that many of us Christians in our churches are just switch engines, blowing our whistle, ringing our bells and bumping cars around the depot. Steam up and get out and go.

Cotton Farmers May Increase 1935 Crop

Cotton acreage of contract signers in 1935 can be increased by an average of at least 25 per cent over the acreage under the terms of the cotton production adjustment contracts which remain in force through the 1935 season.

The contract provides that the maximum acreage reduction which can be required in 1935 is 25 per cent of the base acreage, the 1928-1932 average. Acreage reduction provided in the contract for this year was 35 to 45 per cent. The average reduction was nearly 40 per cent.

A contract signer with a base acreage of 100 acres who planted 60 acres under his contract for the 1934 season may plant at least 75 acres next year. The 15-acre increase would amount to a 25 per cent increase over the 1934 acreage.

Season For Duck Hunting To Open

—o—

Shooting Limited To 30 Days In State Beginning Nov. 8

—o—

The duck hunting season, limited to 30 shooting days this year, opens Nov. 8 and no migratory waterfowl hunter above the age of 16 will be permitted to hunt in this State without the new $1 Federal duck hunting stamp.

This stamp, which will provide revenue for restoring depleted stocks of wild waterfowl, may be purchased at all postoffices in county seats, in municipalities having a population of 2,500 or more and at points especially designated by the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey.

This stamp may be obtained at Clanton.

Retail Advertising Up 5,000,000 Lines

—o—

New York.—An increase in retail advertising of nearly 5,000,000 lines was the big feature of September in the newspaper advertising field, and analysis on adverfising Age of figures based on advertsing activity in 77 cities reveals.

This substantial gain is believed to indicate improved sales in department stores and other retail outlets, as advertising volume in these establishments is usually in direct proportion to the total sales volume.

The total volume of advertising in the newspapers measured in September was 135,068,000 lines, a gain of 4,132,000 compared with the corresponding month of last year.

Make It Pay You Back

Every week you receive your paper. It is printed fresh every week, things have happened in your county and elsewhere since you received your last week's issue and you are anxious to see what the paper has to say about it.

Every week when your paper comes to you it brings something besides that which you term as "news." It brings to you messages from those places of business that are seeking your goodwill and patronage. These messages too, are filled with news for you. We call it news because these advertisements contain information which means dollars and cents to the person who buys things—anything.

If you only read that matter in your paper each week which you call "news" and which tells you what has been happening the past week, then you are passing up one of the most important parts of your paper. You pay for your paper so why not use it and make it more than return your money by showing you where you can get quality merchandise and where the low prices are before you come to town to do your trading.

We are not kidding you about this. We can show you instances where in one shopping visit to Clanton when a person has several items to buy in clothing, groceries, etc., that person can save the price of a subscription, simply by studying the advertisements each week.

Roach Control Method Is Given

The best material for controlling roaches is sodium fluoride, which could be dusted on the floors and shelves where the roaches frequent, advises Prof. J. M. Robinson, entomologist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

"It would be wise to clean up all crumbs and greasy places by scrubbing the floor and shelves with a strong, hot soap and water solution and allowing them to dry before applying the sodium fluoride," he says. "The sodium fluoride should be dusted on the floor and shelves at night in a thin dust and should be allowed to remain, if possible for several days.

"The application should be repeated at weekly intervals until the population of roaches has been greatly reduced. In two or three days after the first application you should begin to notice a number of dead roaches. Children should be kept away from the dusted floors."

Farmers Advised To Fight For Program

Auburn, Ala.—Farmers should beware of "the eternal and everlasting enemies of agriculture" who "do not want the farmers to have an equal opportunity for success and happiness," writes Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service.

"Beware of them and above all be actively on your guard lest what you have gained be lost," he advises.

Dr. Duncan congratulated the farmers on the progress they have made but warned that "in order to hold our gains, defend what we have, and improve our program, it is necessary for you to join with your fellow farmers and become thoroughly and efficiently organized.

"After a long, hard, bitter struggle of our farm leaders, working with President Roosevelt and our governmental officials, we have a sound, wise agricultural program.

"As a result of this plan our cotton crop this fall is worth far more than twice what it was in 1932. In addition to this we have been blessed with abundant harvests of corn, hay, potatoes, syrup, vegetables, and other food and feed crops," says Dr. Duncan.

"My earnest prayer is that you toke out a membership in your county organization and become an active worker in this great cause of giving the farmers a just and fair opportunity," he concludes.

GREEN FEED FOR POULTRY IS IMPORTANT THIS FALL

Many farmers and other poultry owners in the drought states are reporting unthrifty birds in their flocks without realizing that the difficulty may be a lack of green feed, a condition so unusual in flocks which have free range that it might easily be unsuspected.

The specific deficiency is vitamin A, usually obtained from grasses, legumes, some vegetables, and yellow corn in sufficient quantity to carry most flocks through the winter. But some poultry has passed through the summer with every bit of vegetation burned brown and corn and green feeds at a premium.

"Insufficient green feed or other sources of vitamin A results in greater susceptibility to disease and fewer and less-hatchable eggs," says A. R. Lee, poultryman in the United States Department of Agriculture. "The loss of poultry to any family is more than the cash value. It often means eggless and some cases, meatless meals.

"A lack of green feed can be remedied inexpensively in most cases. Leaves of alfalfa or other well-cured legumes can be fed to the hens or added to the mash. Carrots and cabbages, in addition to yellow corn, supply vitamin A. Milk takes the place of green feed and adds valuable proteins to the ration. Cod-liver oil can be mixed with feeds where no natural source of vitamin is available. Poultry flocks will obtain their own green feed from fall sown winter grains, if the fields are not too far away.

"Green feed for poultry returns such big dividends that it should never be overlooked."

Bureau Conducting Membership Drive

Plans have been made for building during November the strongest farm organization ever known in Alabama. An intensive farm bureau membership campaign is being conducted in every county of the state with farmers themselves in charge.

A strong farm organization has the endorsement of such leaders as President Roosevelt, Secretary Wallace, Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state Extension Service, Edward A. O'Neal, president of the Farm Bureau Federation; J. Litt Edwards, president of State Farm Bureau, and Mrs. E. C. Bledsoe, president of Alabama Council of Home Demonstration Clubs, and others.

They declare that it is very important for farmers to organize to protect agriculture against enemies to farmers.

On Frday night of last week, Edward Kane, tenor, sponsored by the Clanton Music Club sang in the school auditorium. Mr. Kane is the winner of a nation-wide vocal contest held by Atwater-Kent a few years ago. He was accompanied by his wife.

Miss Christine McCann, who is now teaching the violin department, Womans College of Alabama, is endeavoring to bring to the youth of Alabama real music. She believes that the young people would enjoy hearing good music were they given the opportunity. For this reason she has arranged concerts in various towns of Alabama all by young artists. Mr. Kane was one number in the series.

Miss Nolan Meroney, child welfare worker in this county was an interesting visitor at chapel on Monday. She gave us some interesting facts, arranged in an entertaining manner, about the educational situation in Chilton County. Miss Meroney came to our school in the interest of education week, November 5-9.

During this time the school will carry out various and sundry programs in its interest. It is important that we appreciate the value of education. Victor Hugo, in his visits to the slums of Paris, Berlin, London and other large cities, said that he saw many enacted but the very greatest crime he acknowledged, was ignorance.

The Senior I class is absolutely about the most popular "institution" in Chilton County High School' Nell Ross Mullins was the 60th student added to the Sr. I roll, on Monday morning. Nell Ross is not a new student, strictly speaking, since she attended the school when in those dim ,dark ages of long ago she was a freshman. We extend the glad hand to her and also do we welcome Vondell and Howard Penton, of Isabella.

Again, THE football team adds a victory to the ever-growing score. The current game was played on Friday of last week, Chilton vs. Prattville at the latter school.

As far as an ambignous, as well as ambitious, fan could determine, the teams were fairly well matched. However our team proved their superiority by placing a wreath woven of two touchdowns and much perserverance and fight, on their Alma Mater's head.

May I be permitted to elaborate with much earnestness and forethought on the good sportsmanship portrayed by our hefty atheletes. It is with a great deal of pleasure that I say to the team, truthfully; that in spite of many unpleasantries and obstacles that may have arisen, you have always done that which makes us proud to say you are a part of our school. We thank you.

"Spongers"

We look with scorn on an able man
Who begs, instead of working
But think of the pupils, round our school
Whose lives are made up, of shirking.
Some spend an hour or two at home
On a difficult lesson or two
And the shirkers next day either borrow or beg
What the workers took such pains to do.
Of course the work done—it's no trouble to lend
What you would have done anyway,
But to think that their grades are as good as your own,
And you work, while the Shirkers play.

Idle Items: To whom it may concern—I was at home in bed at eight o'clock last Hallowe'en night. Yowsah. Cecil Jones certainly was all there at Friday's football game. Margaret Davs had an angel visitor over the week end. I adore chivalry in men. One of the greatest disappointments about a football game is that the cheer leaders never seem to get injured. Here's last week's gossip:—Sara Lawrence is wearing bangs! It's too bad our ancestors didn't live long enough to see how smart we are. Famous last words: "I don't know." June: Now if we were slaves—. L. D.: Aren't we all?.

The world's worst now follows: The Diet of Worms was what Martin Luther was fed on while in prison.

Campus Photo: Last week's was called Cecil Jones.

I have a melancohly air.
That's really quite deceiving.
I'm jolly fun, a blonde, blue eyes.
C starts my name, I'm believing.

I'm glad to see Eliz. Gragg back at school. Also to see the last line of this column finished. Trustingly, Man Jailed In Ambush Shooting Last Satur.

Jim Driver, 35-year-old resident of the Eastview community, is being held in the county jail on charges of assault with intent to murder and violation of the prohibition laws in connection with the alleged "ambush" shooting of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dennis, of Cooper, last Saturday night.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Dennis were struck by a charge from a shot gun, fired into their car as they drove along a road four miles southeast of Cooper early Saturday night. Neither was seriously injured. The charge tore through Dennis' left leg and took effect in his wife's left knee.

Dogs from Spigener Prison were brought to the scene and were said to have trailed Driver to a spot some distance away, where officers said he was lying in a sedge field in a drunken condition. He denied any knowledge of the shooting, but is said to have admitted that a hat and gun found near the scene of the shooting belonged to him.

Dennis told officers when he came to Clanton to report the shooting that he had no idea who could have fired the shot. He said that he had never had any trouble with anyone in that community, however, he admitted that he recently ran over and killed a dog near there, but said that he had not had any trouble with the owner of the dog. The dog did not belong to Driver. officers stated.

A very pleasant occasion of last Sunday was the annual dinner of the A. T. Clark Bible Class of the Congregational church. It was held in the home of Mrs. J. E. Each, each member of the class bringing part of the banquet with them. Thirty-seven were present to enjoy the occasion. Small tables were set around through the rooms, the dining room table being bountifully spread with various dishes for the dinner was to be served in cafeteria style.

Numbers were passed around to the company, each two having the same number being partners for the dinner. Then each couple took from the table what they wanted to eat, then found seats at the various tables where coffee was served them while they enjoyed the feast. When everyone had satisfied the inner man the tables were cleared away and a feast of the soul had been prepared by our most efficient hostess, Mrs. Each." A program of choice readings and music, hymns in which the whole company stood up and sang, led by Mr. Butler. After this there were a few speeches of congratulations and good will, but best of all was the spirit of friendliness and kindness which prevailed and the words of remembrance of former years and of the dear ones who have gone before. Such gatherings are well worth while and leave pleasant memories in the minds of all. Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love. The fellowship of kindred minds is like to that above.

MAYOR C. FENN JONES PROCLAIMS PERIOD FOR RED CROSS DRIVE

"As Mayor of Clanton I hereby designate the period from November 11 to November 29 as a time given over to Red Cross and its value to the community; and I also set it aside as a time for the annual enrollment of members for the coming year.

"This office is in touch with the needs of those who have been affected by the depression of the last few years and we have seen the ready response of the Red Cross to meet those needs. The organization's program is so flexible that it meets emergencies and disasters of all kinds; it has also a permanent structure that is being built up year by year, to study means through which epidemics and disasters may be prevented. This community needs the permanent structure of the Red Cross as it needs the expert service which is at our command to meet whatever emergencies the coming year may bring.

"I therefore call upon former members of the Red Cross to renew their memberships during the roll call this year, and urge those who have never hitherto been members to enroll their names with those who are fighting disease and disaster and need under the banner of the American Red Cross."

C. FENN JONES, Mayor of Clanton.

Drive For School Books Promises To Be Success

The drive which is being staged by Miss Nolan Meroney, child welfare superintendent, for school books and clothes for needy children in Chilton County promises to be exceptionally successful, Miss Meroney stated this week.

She and other workers have visited every school in the county and solicited old books and clothing for underprivileged Chilton County school children. They have received splendid cooperation from the various faculties, she said, and many promises of donations from the students and their families.

Those who are willing to donate either clothing or school books are requested to bring them to Miss Meroney's office in Clanton on or before November 9. The Verbena and Oak Grove schools have already delivered a box each to the office.

Since all school books will be changed after this year, those having books that are not in use are urged to donate them that less fortunate children may have a better opportunity to secure an education.

J. L. Mims Laid To Rest At Concord Sunday

Funeral services for J.L. Mims, 38, who died Saturday in a Birmingham hospital following an operation for a tumor on the brain, were held Sunday morning at 11 o'clock from the Concord Baptist church, of which he was a member, with the Rev. G. G. Williams officiating. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Spigener in charge.

Mr. Mims, who was known to his hundreds of friends in Chilton County by the name of Leonard, was born and reared in this county and was educated in the county public school. His death climaxed an illness of several weeks. He underwent an operation in a Birmingham hospital two days before his death for a malignant growth on the brain.

Surviving him are: his widow, Mrs. Edna Wilson Mims; four children, Miss Annie Pearl Mims, Acey, Erskine, and Edna Ruth Mims; his father, E. P. Mims; six brothers, Enoch, of Montgomery, Ollie, of Birmingham, Willie, Virgil, Clydie, and Melvin, all of Canton; four sisters, Mrs. Jim Armstrong, Mrs. W. G. Tayor, Mrs. A. J. Maddox, and Mrs. Julian Easterling, all of Clanton and vicinity.

The following friends served as pallbearers: K. A. Hardy, Dalton Bice, Arthur Tippett, Cecil Armstrong, Albert Davis, and Ollie McDowell.

The singing at this place met at 2 p.m. last Sunday and was called to order by the chairman, Cecil Yeargan, with one song and prayer by S. N. Davis. The following directed one and two songs each: G. C. Weldon, Sr., Soverign Dickey, Cornelius Hand, Leonard Cudp, Fonza Coe, George Chambers, John DeVaughn, Jake Henley, Prof. C. M. Billingsley, Gladys Wyatt, Carson Boockholdt, and E. J. Williams.

We are glad to say we enjoyed several quartets by Herman Culpepper, George Chambers, Herman Lowery and a Mr. Littlejohn from Liberty Hill.

Bethsalem, Maple Springs, Pleasant Valley, Bethany, Liberty, Highland and Poplar Springs were represented.

Folks, we really had a fine singing, a house full of hearers and a large class of singers. We welcome each and every one to meet with us on the first Sunday in December.

Organists for the afternoon were Prof. Billingsley, Dessie Wyatt, and Leonard Culp.

On next Sunday this class will meet with Liberty Hill.

The chairman sang the closing song and we were dismissed with prayer by Mr. John DeVaughn.

Sixth Grade

Our school is progressing nicely this year under the principalship of Prof. J. F. Daniels. We have the largest enrollment that we have ever had. There are one-hundred-fifteen pupils in the High School and one-hundred-ninety-five in the grammar grades.

Mrs. Floyd Dorsey, our music teacher, is doing some excellent work with the music pupils this year.. We have an orchestra, a high school glee club and a glee club in the lower grades. We have the kiddie's band also.

We are proud of our football team. They play well for their first year. They played Autaugaville last Friday and won, The score was six to nothing. They are playing Columbiana next Friday. We hope they win.

We hope to be ready to play a game of basket ball soon. The boys are getting the goals and courts in readiness.

Our P.-T A. is doing many worthwhile things for our school this year. They are buying some new window sashes for the first grade room right away and we hope before the weather gets cold. They gave $2.00 to Miss Hayes' room, because they secured more members than any other room in school.

TACKY PARTY AT MT. SPRINGS

The Ladies Aid of Mountain Springs church will give a tacky party at Cane Creek school house on Friday night, November 9th. Many entertaining features are being planned. Part of the proceeds will go to the school. Come and bring your friends. A small admission will be charged.

Black-Draught For Dizziness, Headache Due To Constipation

"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught several years and find it splendid," writes Mr. G. W. Holley, of St. Paul, Va. "I take it for dizziness or headache (due to constipation). I have never found anything better. A short while ago, we began giving our children Syrup of Black-Draught as a laxative for colds and little stomach ailments, and have found it very satisfactory." . . . Millions of packages of Thedford's Black-Draught are required to satisfy the demand for this popular, old reliable, purely vegetable laxative. 25¢ a package. "Children like the Syrup."

Vermont School News

Practice, began this week on the Thanksgiving program which will be given on Tuesday night, November 28. Poems, drills, recitations, songs, dialogues,etc., will make up the program.

Remember parents and friends of Vermont school, our P.-T. A. meets tonight at 7:00. We are expecting a large group out, as we have our neighbor school, Pilgrim Rest, presenting a program of real worthwhile interest. Our membership Committee has been busy in their drive for new members. If they have not yet approached you, do not wait, just fall in line. We need your cooperation.

The boys' new basket ball arrived this week. We hope to purchase both boys and girls new uniforms by the time basket ball season rolls around.

At this writing our P.-T. A. drive for funds on school shades has produced 33 hens, 4 dozen eggs and $9.00 in cash. Several other donations have been promised. Our goal is $30.00 by the 15th day of this month. We'll reach it, too if just a few more steady hands will join the cause and give it one healthy and encouraging boost. Vermont school has not failed on a single issue it has undertaken, to add to its security and welfare. We're not failing this. Come out and visit our next P.-T. A. meeting and you'll understand just why we'll not falter.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Johnson motored to Birmingham last week end.

Misses Dorothy Manning and Ethel Cagle spent the week end at their respective homes.

Miss Meroney, Child Welfare Worker, and Miss Cobern, Child Attendance Officer, visited our school last week. Miss Meroney made a fervent appeal for all books, clothing, etc., which anyone might not be using but which could be used by someone less fortunate. If you have anything of the above which you can very well dispose of, we want you to save it, for Miss Meroney will be out to gather them up and pass them out to someone whose needs are very acute. The date of her arrival will be announced later. Miss Cobern spoke about five minutes to each room, placing special emphasis on the value of regular attendance.

Miss Manning conducted a very interesting, yet unique, program at chapel period last Tuesday morning. A number of odd, yet everyday questions were given to the Junior High School pupils who gleaned their answers from Book of Knowledge. The questions were gathered from a number of different subjects such as, Why do we Cry?; Why do boys and girls Play? Why does oil float on water?

What is it like above the clouds? Does a bridge shrink in the sun? What is a night-mare? Why is the sun brighter at noon than earlier or later in the day? Does rain melt rock? What happens if an irresistable cannon ball hits an immovable post? Why is fire hot? Why does it not hurt to cut on hair?

Take Surplus Gin Certificates To Co. Agent

Tenative plans for closing the surplus cotton tax-exemption certificate pool to further receipt of surplus certificates on November 10, were announced by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Purchase of certificates from the pool it was emphasized, would continue so long as the pool had certificates on hand. State allotments boards have been urged to assist producers who wish to turn in surplus certificates to the pool. The pool now has on hand orders for more certificates than it is able to fill. Orders received by the pool up to October 15 for surplus certificates are equivalent to 638,260 bales of cotton, with indications that the total demand may be equivalent to as much as 750,000 bales. On all of these orders, the purchasers expect to pay four cents a pound, the rate fixed by the Secretary of Agriculture as the standard selling price for surplus certificates purchased through the national pool. Producers who turn certificates in will be paid approximately $20 a bale for all certificates sold through the pool. When the pool is liquidated, each producer will be returned his share of any unsold certificates. These may be used next year if the Bankhead Act is effective for 1935.

All farmers who have surplus gin certificates in Chilton County should bring these certificates to the County Agent's office before Saturday November 10, if they want them sent to the National Pool for sale.

IN MEMORY OF HUSTON RAY

Huston Ray died October 7th at the home of his father, Mr. Dave Ray.

He leaves a wife, father, mother, five brothers, three sisters. All was done for Huston that medical aid and loving hands could do, but God said it is enough. Huston, your work on earth is done, come up higher and dwell with me.

Weep not for Huston has only gone home to rest. Though he leaves a vacant place in his home that no one else can fill. A place for love in each one's heart that no one else can enter. We hear his footsteps no more on earth, but up in Heaven he is singing around the great white throne. Houston has a host of relatives and friends to miss his fun and cheerfulness, as he went among them from day to day.

What I gave, I have,
What I kept, I lost."

How strange it is that the whole progress of so many lives can be summed up in a few simple words. Since the days that Esau sold his birthright to Jacob for a mess of pottage, Man has continually seen the fallacy of selling to another what he has.

Three week ago near three hundred children, a large group of parents, visitors from the State and County Departments of Education, and the teachers of Enterprise school met with their hearts and lives full of enthusiasm for the year's work. A year's work—not of selling but of giving—in order that each may contribute to the development of every individual who meets together five days during the week. ',Enterprise" realizes that such a spirit of enthusiasm of cooperation is necessary if it is to be worthy of its name—Enterprise, a bold attempt for something lofty.

We feel that heretofore the adventures which this school set out to meet were accomplished. Last year a large auditorium was built and four hundred seats placed in it. Now we need lights, a curtain, and heaters for that auditorium. Also, we need a more sanitary drinking system, a library, two more class rooms, and a number of other things. Is that not an enterprise? In time that enterprise must be stamped with a mark of success and it is dependent on every individual if it is done.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF CLARA

On Thursday afternoon, October 25, God called from our midst a loving friend, who was a dear comrade to me and others. We were pals together in our school days. To know her was to love her.

She always wore a smile. At the age of 18 our friend was in the bloom of youth and womanhood, however, God, in his infinite wisdm and loved doeth all thigs well. It is my hope that his comforting love and blessing may abide with Bill (her husband), her parents, and her many friends. Weep not, for she is not dead but asleep.

—A loving friend and schoolmate, Irene Abbott.

When bandits held up Miss Lulu Harrison of Kansas City she saved her diamond rings by concealing them in her mouth while they robbed her two male companions.

Lady Went Back To Taking CARDUI and Was Helped

For severe periodic pains, cramps or nervousness, try Cardui which so many women have praised, for over fifty years. Mrs. Dora Dungan, of Science Hill, Ky., writes: "Several years ago, when I was teaching school, I got run-down and suffered intensely during menstruation periods. I took Cardui and was all right again. After I was married, when I felt all run-down and was irregular, I always resorted to Cardui and was helped." . . . It may be just what you need. Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Miscellaneous Shower Given For Miss Alma Gentry

The lovely country home of Mrs. Tom Kemp was the scene of a beautiful party on Thursday afternoon when she was hostess at a miscellaneous shower for Miss Alama Gentry, whose marriage is to be at an early date.

Guests were met at the door by Mrs. Grady Heflin and in the receiving line were Mrs. Tom Kemp, Miss Alma Gentry, Mrs. L. H. Gentry, mother of the bride-to-be, and Mrs. A. A. Culver, mother of the groom-to-be.

From the dining table, which was beautiful in the decoration of yellow and white dwarf Chrysanthemums and on which burned two large yellow candles. Miss Carrie Foshee and Mrs. Dick Kemp served dainty sandwiches, mints, and coffee. The color motif of yellow and white was also tastefully carried out in the decorations of the other rooms.

From the dining room the guests were invted into the gift rooms where the many lovely and useful gifts were displayed by Mrs. P. A. Taylor and Mrs. Horace Davis.

During the calling hours of two-thirty and six o'clock, about one-hundred guests registered in the pretty bride's book where Miss Euna Powell presided.

Telephone Users Consider Quality and Dependability of Service as Paramount

Telephone service is such an intimate, personal service that anything adversely affecting it at once becomes a subject of individual interest to the millions of users. Because this service has such an important part in your every day social and business life, its quality and dependability are matters of serious concern to you. Service inferior to the high standard to which you are accustomed would not be acceptable, even at a lower price.

Recognizing this fact, the Bell System has always so shaped its policy as to insure the best and most dependable service that science and careful, farsighted management could produce, at the lowest possible cost consistent with financial safety.

Due to this constructive policy, the telephone business has never earned speculative profits.

In the best years of the Southern Bell Telephone Company's history, and during a time when other businesses were earning large profits on soaring prices, the cost of the telephone service was kept at a level where the return on the investment was never more than 7%. In 1930, when the depression was first felt, these earnings declined rapidly, and in 1933 they shrank to about 4% on the investment.

It is obvious that further reductions of such already inadequate earnings would seriously endanger the financial soundness of the business, and be reflected in the quality and dependability of the service.

Fant Suggests Treatment For Screw Worm

Screw worms, which have been a menace to the livestock industry in Alabama, are gaining considerable headway in this county, according to a statement from County Agent J. W. Fant. Mr. Fant stated that a survey of the county reveals that more than 150 cases exist in Chilton county.

Steps are being taken to prevent the spread of this malady, he said. Beginning this week, men are being sent oven the county aiding the cattle owners in protecting their herds, and adopting methods of curing those cattle diseased.

"There is little need for the loss of any livestock bteause of screw worms if the proper precaution and treatment is administered," Mr. Fant explained. "These workers who are covering the county are familiar with the best methods of treating cattle suffering from screw worm, and the campaign will also be an educational one with the aim in view of aiding farmers in protecting their herds."

Screw worms attack abrasions and bruised places on the animals' body, and by administering the proper treatment to all such injuries the danger can be greatly lessened, it was pointed out.

The following information relative to the treatment of cattle suffering from screw worms and the prevention of the spread of the menace was issued recently by Dr. C. A. Cary, state veterinarian:

1. Build chute with stanchion at outlet and it may be 20 inches wide. Have boards on inside of chhte and 4 to 5 feet high.

2. If necessary to get at pocket, if worms are under skin or in the tissue, open with knife.

3. Have chloroform or benzol to apply on the screw worms. Do not drop live worms on ground. Use small machine oil can to shoot or squirt the benzol into pockets and deep wounds.

4. Then apply a mixture of pine tar, 1 part to 2 parts of old crank case oil, or use pine tar oil.

5. Repeat this treatment every day for 3 days; thereafter, treat once every 3 or 4 days.

6. Burn or bury all old meat and dead carcasses and all waste meats from kitchen and around slaughtering places.

7. Use fly traps to catch screw worm and blow flies.

How to Bury Animal Carcasses

1. Spray gasoline all around the carcass and upon grass or some dry pine straw or dry hay or leaves. This maybe 5 to 10 feet wide. Do not spray gasoline upon carcass. Let all flies settle upon carcsass; then throw a torch of flaming paper to fire it. This flame will burn off the wings and destroy many of the flies.

2. Dig a trench near the carcass 1 foot wide and 1 foot deep and 4 to 8 feet long. If wood is used, fill the center part of this trench with pieces of light wood, dry limbs etc. Then drag or roll carcass upon the wood, cut abdomen and throax open with sharp butcher knife and open the stomachs. Place more wood over and beside the carcass. Pour some kerosene or gasoline over part of wood and fire it or light with a torch.

3. If old crank shaft oil or crude petroleum is used to burn the carcass, place some wood in trench or dry pine straw; then place iron pipes or rods or iron pieces across the middle portion of trench; then roll or drag carcass upon these irons; pour oil over the carcass and let it run down in trench; then fire it with a torch.

How To Bury The Carcass

Dig hole near carcass 2 to 3 feet wide and 4 to 7 feet long and 5 to 6 feet deep, according to size of the carcass. Roll carcass into hole; cut open the body cavities and stomachs; cover with lime dust and then cover with dirt so that there will be 4 feet of dirt over the top part of the carcass. May leave out the lime dust.

Fly Traps

Fly traps may be used to advantage; bait them with a piece of bad smelling meat. They may be placed in sheep or cattle pens, lots, or barns. Every screw worm fly destroyed prevents the fly from depositing 200 to 400 eggs. It pays to kill flies in moist, wooded areas and animal barns or lots.

If you cannot burn or bury carcasses just as above directed, then do the best you can. Always burn or bury carcasses as soon as possible after animal dies. All waste meat left around country slaughtering places should be burned or buried; All waste meats from tables should be burned or buried.

IN MEMORY OF C. A. JOHNSON

God has called from the walks of men, a friend who was a dear comrade to me and many others. The accident that my friend met with was deplorable and regretable.

His life and companionship was held in high esteem by his mayn friends and loved ones. It seems to us that at the age of 23, our friend was in the bloom of youth and manhood, however, God, in his infinite wisdom and love doeth all things well. It is with sorrow that we have said goodbye to C. A., but we know that God knows best, and that some day we will meet again.

It is my hope that His comforting love and blessing may abide with his parents and friends, and that the grief-stricken hearts may be healed. His quietness and optimistic attitude toward life will serve as an inspiraton to me in days to come, as it has been my privilege to be frequently associated with him as a close and personal friend for nearly 8 years.

The fitting tribute that the Rev. J. W. Jones paid concerning the young man's total abstinence from strong drink and profanity, was heartily endorsed by those who knew him best. His personal life justified such statement being made.

Left to mourn his death are his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Johnson; two brothers, four sisters, and a host of relatives and friends.

—Written by a friend, Barney Adams.

National Bureau Meeting Will Be Held In Nashville

For their 1934 annual convention officials and delegates representing State and County Farm Bureaus throughout the United States will assemble in Nashville, Tenn., December 10, 11, and 12. It will be the annual convention of the American Farm Bureau Federation and the second national gathering of this organization n the South.

And a southern farmer, Edward A. O'Neal, of Florence, Ala., will preside he being president of this organization. Previously he was president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation. And he continues to operate—by long distance—his large farm at Florence.

A large number of Alabama farmers are making plans to attend.

NOTICE OF AN ELECTION FOR THE ISSUANCE OF MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENT BONDS

In pursuance of an ordinance duly adopted by the Town Council of the Town of Clanton, Alabama, on the 23rd day of October, 1934, due and legal notice is hereby given that an election will be held in the Town of Clanton, in the State of Alabama, on the 26th day of November, 1934, for the purpose of the qualified electors of the said municipality voting upon and deciding the question as to whether or not the bonds of said municipality in the sum of Twenty-three Thousand Five Hundred Dollars, ($23,500) to be designated "Municipal Improvement Bonds," shall be issued, of which $6,900.00 of such issue shall be for the purpose of constructing extensions to Town's water distribution system including the installation of appurtenance and the re-location of fire hydrants; and $16,600.00 for the construction of a fire proof City Hall Building.

All of said Bonds shall be dated August 1, 1934, and shall bear interest at the rate not greater than 4 per centum (4%) per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of February and August in each year, and said bonds to be General Obligation Bonds of the Town of Clanton, Alabama. The principal of the issue of said bonds shall mature and be payable in 28 annual installments, and $500.00 shall be payable on August 1 in each of the years 1936 to 1944, both inclusive, and $1000.00 on August 1 in each of the years 1945 to 1963, both inclusive, and shall be in the denominations of $1000.00 and $500.00 each. Said bonds shall be payable in any coin or currency which on the respective dates of payment of the principal of and interest on the bonds, is legal tender for the payment of public and private debts, at the office of the Treasurer of the Town of Clanton, Chilton County, Alabama.

Said election will be held at the Chilton County Court House in the Town of Clanton, Alabama. The managers clerks and returning officer for absentee ballots will meet at the Court House, on the day of election for the purpose of receiving absentee ballots and performing such other duties in respect thereto as is required by law.

For said election the following managers, or inspectors, clerks, and returning officer have been duly appointed: Managers or Inspectors, Mrs. Hattie Alred, J. Mell Martin and M. D. Foshee; Clerks, Miss Bettie Mullins and Mrs. Clara B. Curry; Returning Officer, R. J. Jones.

Dated this the 23rd day of October, 1934.

C. FENN JONES,
Mayor.

Attest: C. H. PIPES, Clerk.

Why Children Need a Liquid Laxative

The temporary relief children get from unwise dosing with harsh cathartics may cause bowel strain, and even set up irritation in the kidneys. A properly prepared liquid laxative brings a perfect movement. There is no discomfort at the time and no weakness after. You don't have to give the child "a double dose" a day or two later.

Can constipation be safely relieved in children? "Yes!" say medical men. "Yes!" say many mothers who have followed this sensible medical advice: 1. Select a good liquid laxative. 2. Give the dose you find suited to the system. 3. Gradually reduce the dose until the bowels are moving regularly without aid.

An approved liquid laxative (one that is widely used for children) is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. The mild laxative action of this excellent preparation is the best form of help for children—and grown-ups, too. The dose can be regulated for any age or need.

Your druggist has Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Member N. R. A.

over him, blood streaming from his wounds.

However, Lockhart told officers that he made several attempts to get away from Johnson before he used his knife. Persons who visited the scene of the conflict are said to have told officers that the ground bore evidence of scuffling over a large area.

Young Johnson died at the Central bama Hospital in Clanton less than two hours after he was cut. He had suffered several severe lacerations in the abdomen.

Lockhart is being represented by Percy M. Pitts and it is believed that he will enter a plea of self defense.

MUSIC CLUB

on "H. M. S. Pinafore."

Music in the Home is a tie that binds the older and younger children no matter how wide apart their paths may be at school and in their social activities. There is no lovelier picture than a family grouped about the piano for a musical hour.

School boards all over the country have been obliged to refinance budgets. In one of our small cities it was rumored that music might suffer a severe blow. A teacher of long experience in the grades was interviewed as to the wisdom of such procedore and she exclaimed. "Never! Music is the children's joy. Don't ever take it away from them."

The interest of prominent educators, the cooperation of state presidents, the enthusiasm of our state chairmen is most gratifying; our united efforts should be a strong force for home music. There is such joy in music, let us find a way to express it. "Alas, for those who never sing but die with all their music in them."

SECOND PAYMENTS HERE FOR GOVERNMENT RENTED LAND

Mr. J. W. Fant, County Agent, announces that some of the checks for the second payment on land rented to the Government have been received at his office.

These checks will be carried to the different delivery points in the County within the next few days. Cards announcing the schedule for delivering the checks will be mailed out within the next few days.

The Roll Call membership campaign begins Sunday, November 11, Armistice Day, and continues through Thursday, November 29, Thanksgiving Day. The quota assigned to Chilton County this year is 500 members.

Mr. Martin, the roll call chairman, has set out with the determination that we shall go over the top with our quota. It is hoped that all members of the committee will come to the meeting Friday, get their plans for working, and present the opportunity for Red Cross membership to every person in their respective communities.

such families in the best accepted methods of cultivation and farm management, and to assist those families who have shown themselve adapted to land ownerhip to obtain a chance to purchase a farm home. Recommendations of families for the purshase of land to Credit Agencies will not be made, however, until they have demonstrated their sincerity of purpose and have first produced a year's subsistence for themselves and their live stock.

It is planned to use steers almost entirely for the rehabilitation program, and in no instance will the purchase of mules be approved where feed must also be purchased.

This year definite rental agreements will be made by the Rural Subscribers in Group I. The following agreements may be accepted:

1. If a share of the crop is paid by the subscriber to the landlord, the land should be obtained for a period of more than one year with the option to purchase, at any time during the period of this lease, or at it's expiration, at a specified price.
2. The Rural Rehabilitation Corporation will furnish all fertilizer and supervision and one-fourth or one-fifth of the cash crops such as corn, cotton and peanuts will be the consideration. Any necessary repairs under this agreement are done by the landlord. If land embraced in this contract are lands already rented to the Government they should have a much lower value.
3. Where cash rent is the consideration, rentals should not be considered unless cotton rights accompany the land. On land having cotton rights, where a portion of the total acreage is offered for Rural Rehabilitation, such acreage should carry it's prorata part of such cotton rights. The option to purchase is desirable in all rental agreements.
4. Where improvements are the consideration for rent a lease for a term of years commensurate with the appraised value of such improvements will be expected.
5. All rental agreements must be approved by the Director of Work, and will be subject to further approval by the State Office before family is accepted as a subscriber.

Subscribers in Group I are expected to make their own arrangements in regard to securing land. The Relief Administration will endeavor to help the applicant find such location, but the burden of obtaining land will rest with the applicant. Inability on the part of applicant to secure land may mean that he will be dropped from Group One into Group Two.

Subscribers in Group II will be concentrated on farms under supervision. Work stock and equipment belonging to the Rural Rehabilitation Corporation will be used for the cultivation of these subsistence farms. Local representatives of the Rural Rehabilitation Corporation will undertake to obtain private employment for members of this group. This will be done by arranging with farmers to hire this labor at the local wage rate, to build terraces, dig ditches, etc. The Rehabilitation Corporation will furnish the necessary engineering work. Crops grown on this farm will be stored for their future use, and the plan is to make this group self-sustaining so far as food is concerned. They will be furnished necessary food and will receive as additional compensation a share of the farm products in proportion to the amount of they have performed.

U. Of A. To Appear In Clanton Fri. P. M., 16

The University of Aabama Glee Club, under the direction of Tom Garner, will appear at the Chilton County High School, Clanton, on Friday night, November 16, for the presentation of one of its famous programs.

The program is being sponsored by the Clanton Grammar School P.-T. A. and will begin promptly at 8:00 o'clock. Those in charge of the program declare that it will be one of the greatest musical treats ever rendered in this section.

The Gadsden Times had the following to say regarding the program recently rendered in Gadsden:

"The program presented by the University of Alabama Glee Club was one of the outstanding musical treats of the year."

Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hardy of Birmingham were the week end guests of relatives here.

Red Cross Campaign Gets Underway Here

CHILTON QUOTA HAS BEEN SET AT 500 MEMBERS

Organization Perfected And Work Started Last Monday; Success Seen

Great success is anticipated in the Annual Red Cross Membership Drive. which was officially begun in this county November 11, according to a statement Monday from J. Mell Martin, chairman of the roll call.

A greater interest is being manifested by the workers in the various communities than I believe I have ever known since I first became actively interested in the promotion of this great work in our county. I understand that the response at a special meeting which was held in Clanton last week was considerably better than was anticipated.

"Many workers who have been assigned duties in their respective communities during the drive are coming into my office and making reports. The concensus of opinion from every section is that we will go over our quota of 500 memberships."

The organization in the county has been perfected and is beginning to function, Mr. Martin stated, and it is believed by the time the drive is closed, Thanksgiving, Chilton County's response will be such that its citizens as well as the outside world will have reason to be elated.

Mr. Martin pointed out that the people of Chilton County are not unfamiliar with the type of assistance that is rendered those who suffer from major disasters. Two years ago, storm-stricken Chilton County received aid from the Red Cross that meant much to hundreds of people who were victims of a storm which swept the northern section of this county.

"We are sure that our people are going to respond to this appeal and lend their bit to help others who will be the unfortunate victims of some unkind fate," Mr. Martin declared.

TVA and ARA Approve Terracing Program

Auburn, Ala.—The farmers' cooperative terracing program which has spread like wild fire over Alabama and the southeast since it was started two years ago by the Alabama Extension Service now has the approval, endorsement, and active support of the Alabama Relief Administration and the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Thad Holt, director of the Alabama Relief Administration, announces that the ARA proposes to purchase a farm terracing outfit in the amount of approximately $4,000 for each county which agrees to employ relief labor in the amount of $1,000 a month for four months and at the rate of $1 a day or more for at least 20 days each month.

The TVA is cooperating by assigning 10 men to aid county agents in counties in the Tennessee Valley watershed. This is being done to protect and preserve the fertility of the soils in the Valley and to protect the reservoirs above the dams on the Tennessee River.

KIWANIS CLUB AIDS DIPTHERIA IMMUNIZATION

Local Club Sponsors Campaign To Give School Children Toxoid

Through the cooperation of the office of the county superintendent of education and the local relief organization, the Clanton Kiwanis Club is sponsoring a campaign to give diptheria immunization treatment to the school children of this county.

Physicians have reported that several cases of the disease are known to be in the county and it is understood that they advised the toxoid treatment, which it is said immunizes a child for life. Only a few of the school have been visited by Mrs. Sarah Crim and Mrs. Thelma D. Pasley, who are administering the toxoid.

Until Tuesday of this week, five schools had been visited and the treatment had been given to 322 pupils. At Baker school, sixty children were treated; Jackson Chapel, 67; Mt. Pleasant, 91; Refuge, 27; and Concorn, 76.

Luther E. Little, superintendent of education, stated this week that it is hoped that the campaign may be carried into the other schools in the county within the next few days.

Beat The Deadline

Because so many items are reaching us too late for publication in the current issue, we wish to call attention to the fact that it is almost impossible to handle material turned in at the last minute. The management of the News urges that this be taken into consideration in submitting articles for publication.

More attention can be given advs. both as to typography and position when copy is turned-in to the printer earlier. Your cooperation in this matter is earnestly solicited.

Reynolds' Son-In-Law Takes Own Life Thurs.

John O. Newell, son-in-law of Probat Judge L. H. Reynolds, was found dead in his hotel room in Fort Payne, Ala., last Friday morning. It is believed that the 46-year-old Birmingham salesman ended his life because of dreal that he was suffering from an incurable stomach disease.

Hotel attendants noticed when he registered early Thursday night that he was in a highly nervous condition. Shortly after he went to his room, a muffled shot was heard, but no significance was attached to it, they said. When Mr. Newell failed to come to breakfast Friday morning, an attendant was sent to his room and his pyjama-clad body was found lying across the bed with a revolver bullet wound in his right temple.

For some time, it was learned, Mr. Newell had been suffering from what he believed to be an incurable stomach ailment and it is believed that he became melancholy over his condition and ended his life.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Willie Reynolds Newell; four daughters, Helen, Mary, Elizabeth and Catherine. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon and burial was in the Elmwood cemetery in Birmingham.

AD IN NEWS GETS CUSTOMER FROM BAY MINNETTE

South Alabama Man Reads Ad In News And Sends Order To Leader

The fact that advertisements in the Chilton County News get results is convincingly illustrated by a letter received by M. Lande, proprietor of The Leader, from J. S. Lowery, Bay Minette, Ala.

In a recent issue of the News, Mr. Lowery discovered that The Leader was featuring an outstanding brand of men's suits at exceptionally low prices. He immediately wrote Mr. Lande a letter, giving measurements, and requested him to ship one of these suits to him.

This illustrates the wide reading appeal that an ad in the Chilton County News commands. Following is the letter from Mr. Lowery to The Leader:

Mr. M. Lande, Prop.,
The Leader,
Clanton, Alabama.

My dear Mr. Lande:

I saw your ad in Chilton County News in which you have some Hart, Schaffener & Marx and Society Brand suits at $7.95. I am sending you check and my measurements for one of these suits. I prefer an unfinished worsted blue, with Herring Bone Stripe or Oxford Grey, but will take most any color at this price. I do not like Blue Serge for myself. If you have not got one on hand at present that will fit me or is somewhere around my size, you can keep the money and I am sure. you being the good merchant you are, you can get me one. I will take two of these suits if you have them or can get them for me, provided they have vest with them. Of course I do not expect you to cut these suits to my exact measurements, but am only sending you the measurements for your convenience. Thanking you in advance for your prompt advice and with every good wish, I am,

Yours very truly,
J. S. LOWREY.

CRIMINAL TERM CIRCUIT COURT IS CONVENED

Henderson Case Is Set For Wednesday; Several Plead Guilty

Only two jury cases had been disposed of in the first week of the fall term of Circuit Court in Chilton County at the beginning of the third day of the session.

The cases disposed of are: Oscar Smith, charged with manufacturing whiskey and possession of a still, and Irona Carter, on trial for assault with intent to murder in connection with the cutting of Hattie Chandler.

Smith drew a sentence of 13 months to 18 months. Miss Carter was given a five dollar fine and charged with the court costs, which amounted to approximately $400, according to figures from the offce of the circuit court clerk. This was the third time the case has been in court. She was convicted of assault and battery.

Judge Emmett S. Thigpen, of Andalusia, is presiding for Judge F. Loyd Tate, who is ill.

Numerous other cases were disposed of, on pleas of guilty, but it was not possible to ascertain the punishment given at the time of this writing.

One of the most sensational cases of the entire term was sceduled for hearing Wednesday, when Willie Claude Henderson was to go on trial for the slaying of his brother, Charlie Henderson, during a family argument on last June 12. Henderson is charged with first degree murder and is being represented by Percy M. Pitts and John Foshee.

He is alleged to have shot his brother at the Henderson store in Mountain Creek during a family altercation several months ago. Since that time he has been held in jail without bond.

Walter Quarles, Verbena negro, is also scheduled to face trial on charges of first degree murder at the Wednesday session in connection with the ax-slaying of another Verbena negro more than a year ago.

Orphanage Car To Be Loaded Nov. 22 and 23

Last week the News carried an announcement relative to the loading of a car of produce for the Baptist Orphanage at Troy. It was stated this car would be loaded on November 15 and 16, which was in error. The correct dates are Thursday and Friday, November 22 and 23.

This is an annual affair which has met with splendid cooperation in the past, and all indications point to a full car this time. Canned fruits, vegetables, dried fruits, corn, potatoes, peas, beans, etc., are acceptable as well as a wide assortment of things which can be used to advantage at the orphanage.

The car will be at Thorsby on Thursday, November 22 and Clanton Friday, November 23. This is a worthy cause and those in charge urge everyone to remember the dates and bring or send in their contributions.

LOCKHART IS AT LIBERTY ON $500 BOND

Preleminary Trial Held Last Saturday Before Justice J. L. Wilson

Bond for Daniel Webster Lockhart, charged with the knife-slaying of his cousin, C. A. Johnson, was set at $500 at the preleminary hearing before Justice .L. Wilson Saturday morning.

Lockhart, through his attorney, Percy M. Pitts, produced evidence to prove that he struck Johnson in self-defense on the fateful afternoon of October 20. Lockhart did not testify, but Sheriff Gillespie and Deputy James Gillespie gave testimony bearing out his claim of self-defense, when they stated that ground at the scene of the altercation indicated that more than one scuffle was engaged in.

Mrs. R. A. Johnson, mother of the slain youth, testified that she, her husband, and her son were driving along the road enroute to Cooper when they overtook Lockhart on the road. She said that the defendant threw up his hand. Her son, who was driving the car, stopped and got out and walked several steps down an old road where Lockhart was waiting. She said, as did her husband, that she was positive that there was only one fight.

The mother of the dead youth told of seeing blood on her son's shirt and rushing with her husband to his rescue. Before they reached him, she said that Lockhart ran toward his home and they helped young Johnson into the car and he was brought to the Central Alabama Hospital in a Martin & Sons ambulance, where he died a short time later.

Grover C. Walker, county solicitor, representing the State, made a plea that killings are getting entirely too prevalent in this county, and declared that the courts must put a stop to these occurrences by send ing men like Lockhart to prison.

Stone Is Transferred To Covington County

O. H. Stone, manager of the Chilton County Office of the United States Re-employment Service, has been transferred to Andalusia, where he will assume managership of the Covington County office.

Mr. Stone has been located in Clanton for about three months, succeeding W. B. Kelley. In commenting on the work here, Mr. Stone stated that he has received no definite information as to the date when work will be begun on the several federal projects in this county, but anticipates active work on at least two of these projects by the first of the year.

Approximately $105,000 will be spent in Chilton County during the coming months on three major building projects, according to figures available from the United States Re-employment Office. Fifty-five thousand dollars were appropriated several months ago for the construction of a new post office in Clanton; a program has been perfected for the construction of a new city hall here and the extension of the Town's watermains. which will cost approximately $32,000 and will afford employment for hundreds of men for several weeks, and the installation of a $28,000 waterworks system in Thorsby is a part of the Chilton County program.

Mr. Stone stated that he has not been informed officially who will succeed him as manager of this office. Stone left for Andalusia Wednesday and stated that his successor will be named this week, he understands.

Dr. Gragg Urges Local Cooperative Health Insurance Plan For Chilton County People

Many of the large industrial concerns like the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., The Standard Oil Co., The Tennessee Coal and Iron Co., The Endicott-Johnson Shoe Co., and many other corporations have arranged to furnish group medical and surgical care for their working people and their families, and find by that method such service costs them much less on the average, year in and year out, and that it relieves them of the financial strain that would be plunged on them at once and at the same time they were suffering from illness, accident, and probable death.

Many hospitals in various parts of the United States have gathered around them groups that are being taken care of on a somewhat like plan. You will find this the rule, rather than the exception, in Birmingham, New Orleans, and practically all the larger cities now. In fact, some such plan or arrangement whereby the people interested, while well, collectively take care of their burdens individually, while sick, is the rule generally everywhere there are large industrial centers.

Some of the larger Insurance Companies are now taking up this plan; and while giving their policy holders benefits enough to make it attractive, are reaping for themselves a rick harvest from the premiums over and above the expenses incurred in carrying out the plan.

I want to ask the public of Chilton County if it is interested in working out a similar group plan whereby money can be saved, time can be saved, life can be saved, and suffering and sickness can be greatly eliminated all in one and the same plan?

If such group care is found to be good, as is proven beyond doubt, for the workers for these big corporations already mentioned, then would it not be still better for the farmer and small town laborer whose income is less than the laborer of the large industries?

If the plan is good for the people living fifty miles away from the hospitals of large centers, would it not be much better to form a group in your own county and near your own home?

If these plans are good for Birmingham, New Orleans, and New York, and large cities in general where wages are high, would they not be still better in the rural districts where the income is much less?

If it is necessary for the high paid industrial laborer to budget his income while well to take care of his expenses lies and friends and neighbors, to help build million dollar offices and expenwhen sickness comes, is it not much more necessary for the farmer and rural laborer with a more meager income, to take advantage of the same safeguard?

If the Insurance Companies are reaping profits, as they are doing, from such plan, after paying agents, executives, home office, branch office and field forces, in addition to meeting the real cost of the medical and surgical care of the insured, then why could not the farmer and laborer in the rural community set up a plan of their own that would be self-supporting without all the cost of high paid insurance centered in the home office of New York and dribbling down through branch and district offices to the rural com-

OBITUARIES — IN MEMORY

It becomes necessary for us again to call attention to the fact that we make a charge of one cent per word for all obituaries over 150 words published in the Chilton County News. So, if you want an obituary, or in memory article, published about a departed friend or relative, it must be confined to not over 150 words, or else money order for the remainder should be included if sent by mail, as outlined above.

If obituaries are sent in containing over 150 words and no money accompanies same, it will be either omitted entirely or, if possible, condensed to come within the requirements, and published.

Popular Grocery Store Changes Ownership

Moatts & Taylor Grocery Company, successors to Culver's IGA, is the name of Clanton's latest grocery firm, dealing in retail groceries. This popular store is located on the highway across from Dixie Cafe and caters to a wide trade in this territory. Under the management of M. C. Culver it has won many friends in the past.

The new management pledges itself to the very highest quality of goods and service and invites the public to visit this store. Re-arrangements and improvements are underway in order to better serve the trade.

R. W. (Roland) Taylor and Rudolph Moatts are the new owners, and both have had years of experience in the grocery business. They assure their friends that quality merchandise plus courteous service will be their watchword. Connections have been made so that the very lowest prices can be offered with no sacrifice in quality. A complete meat market as well as a full line of staple and fancy groceries, together with a line of feedstuff will be carried at all times.

ALA. POWER CO. AGAIN HELPS IN SCHOOL CRISIS

County And Special District Taxes Paid Early Upon Little's Request

During recent years school systems have had a difficult time making ends meet. Chilton County has been no exception and every available source of revenue has been tapped. Many taxpayers have waited until the last days before delinquency to make payments, making payrolls hard to meet. One of this county's largest taxpayers, the Alabama Power Company, has shown a very gracious interest in the school situation. For several years this company has paid its school taxes ahead of time in order to help meet pressing obligations. This year, under date of October 25, Supt. Luther E. Little, addressed the following letter to Mr. Thomas W. Martin, President of Alabama Power Company, Birmingham, A'a.:

"Mr. Thomas W. Martin,
President, Alabama Power Company,
Birmingham, Alabama.

Dear Mr. Martin:

"Your company has for the past few years responded graciously to the emergencies in various counties with reference to making a partial payment of your taxes to enable these counties to meet their payrolls. This act on your part has always been highly appreciated by the general public.

"I trust that you will find it possible to forward your check to the Tax Collector of Chilton Cunty by November 1, to enable us to meet our pay roll due o nttahdat roll due on that date.

Very truly yours,
LUTHER E. LITTLE,
County Superintendent."

In response to the request made above Supt. Little received the following letter, under date of October 30, 1934:

"Hon. Luther E. Little, Superintendent,
Chilton County Board of Education,
Clanton, Alabama.

Dear Mr. Little:

"Responding to your letter of October 25th, 1934, to Mr. Tho. W. Martin, President of this Company, asking that the Company make an advance payment of school taxes in your county by November 1st, so that the teachers' payrolls may be met, we are today delivering to the Tax Collector of Chilton County, our check to cover the county wide school taxes and special school district taxes.

"Our total ad valorem taxes in your county amount to approximately $95,000; and, of this amount over $40,000 goes directly into State and County school funds.

"Assuring you that we are glad to be of aid to the school authorities in this situation, I am,

Yours very truly,
LAMAR ALDRIDGE,
Treasurer."

VOTE INDICATES WIDE APPROVAL OF "NEW DEAL"

Hardy Leads County Ticket In Democratic Landslide Here Last Tuesday

The official count varied the vate in last Tuesday's election very little. Ten of the eleven Democratic candidates were declared victorious over their Republican opponents by majorities ranging from fifty votes to more than 600.

John P. Bean, candidate for commissioner from the Second District, was the only successful Republican candidate. He defeated his Democratic opponent, Will R. Clements, by a vote of 2479 to 2298, or a majority of 181 votes.

J. R. Hardy, Democratic candidate for sheriff, lead both tickets, when he polled 2771 votes, defeating his opponent, Dewey Hughes, by a majority of 613 votes. C. B. Cox polled the next highest vote, defeating Percy M. Pitts by 574 votes in the race for member of the house of representatives. Cox votes was 2688, compared to 2279 for Pitts.

In the race for the office of probate judge, J. Lee Smith lead his opponent, J. Z. Mims, by 409 votes. J. C. Pattillo, candidate for circuit clerk, heaped up a majority over H. A. Harris of 195. T L. McKee won over W. G. Culp, seeking re-election as tax collector, by only 54 votes, and Arthur Martin unseated Tax Assessor Akins I. Collins with a vote of 2471 to 2380

Luther E. Little defeated W. T. Bean in the race for the office of superintendent of education by a majority of 314 votes. Little polled 2598, compared to 2284 for Bean. Howard R. Oden was elected commissioner from the First District when he lead his Republican opponent, A. J. Davis, by 245 votes. Both A. C. Nelson and J. Polk Payne, Democratic candidates for membership on the county board of education, were successful over their opponents, Pink M. Martin and D. S. Robinson. Nelson and Payne both received an equal number of votes, 2253, and there was only one vote difference between Robinson and Martin. Robinson polled 2228 and Martin received 2227.

Apparently between 500 and 700 former Republicans voted for Democratic candidates as an endorsement of the national administration. Reports from almost every state in the Union, where elections were held Tuesday, showed sweeping tide for the Democratic candidates.

There were 11,541 bales of cotton ginned in Chilton County from the crop of 1934, prior to November 1, this year, as compared with 11,579 bales ginned to same date, 1933, according to report furnished this paper.

LEGIONNAIRES OF CHILTON CO. STAGE PROG'M

Legion Cooperates With The Thorsby School For Armistice Prog'm

Members of the Chilton County Post of the American Legion in conjunction with the management of the Thorsby Grammar School presented an instructive as well as an entertaining Armistice program at the school building last Sunday afternoon.

The program began at 2:30 o'clock with the rendition by the school Glee Club of several patriotic numbers. Enthusiastic applause was received by those who featured in this part of the program.

An outstanding feature of the entire program was an address by Secretary of State Pete Jarman, who spoke on the subject "The Meaning of Armistice Day." The speaker paid tribute to those thousands of boys who failed to return from the conflict, and to those millions of others who did their bit in the world-wide struggle.

The Legion awards for "Americanism" were awarded to Marvin Martin and Willie Connatser, both graduates of the school last year. Two other students, whose names were not learned, gave readings on citizenship.

An audience that filled the building attended the program. Several members of the P.-T. A. of the school took active part in making the program a success.

Forces Of Recovery Unite

Evidence accumulates that forces bent upon recovery will hereafter present a more united front in their effort to bring back better times. The elements entering into this renewed drive against the common enemy—depression—under the high command of the President of the United States, have been more discernible since the memorable appeal of Mr. Roosevelt to the convention of the American Bankers Association in Washington.

The President's appeal for "an alliance of all forces intent upon the business of recovery," met with instant response from the bankers in whose hands are those tremendous resources which, properly marshaled, can bring production and consumption back to normal, with work for millions now without jobs. The prompt action of the bankers in asking for places on the President's "All-American" recovery team is regarded in influential quarters as a real milestone on the road to recovery—an augury of better understanding between the Government and private enterprise.

From another high quarter came another significant appeal for cooperation from all American business in shaping the future pattern of NRA—the pattern of the governmental organization which is to continue the work of recovery after next June when the present Recovery Act expires. This other appeal came from the seasoned veteran of NRA, A. D. Whiteside, president of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., and a member of the National Industrial Recovery Board. Mr. Whiteside in a speech at Atlantic City invited American business men to offer suggestions for the new NRA which Congress will be called upon to authorize next year.

"The Government," said Mr. Whiteside, "is tending more and more to withdraw from Codes where the Code Authorities know what they are about. In other words, Mr. Whitside told the business men of the United States that it's up to them to let Congress know the kind of a recovery law they want.

Finally, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States struck a new note of optimism in a summary of national business affairs issued after the President's talk to the bankers. This summary declared that "further indication of a convergence of the general aims of business and the administration in promoting recovery, and a growing realization that it must come about through the revival of industry and employment, characterized developments of the last fortnight."

Declaring further that this new union of aims between business and the administration in Washington was revealed in a number of ways, particularly in the President's address to the bankers, the Chamber of Commerce statement went on to say that continued improvement of business sentiment is discernible and "the Presidents assurances that present governmental lending operations are not to be permanent and that private enterprise will be supported have been favorably received."

All of these trends are reassuring, particularly in view of President Roosevelt's plainly expressed purpose to curtail the activities of Federal recovery agencies in just such proportion as private agencies take up those functions in which government of necessity has been forced to assume leadership

Newspaper Nonsense

A COURIER from Fairhope met a COURANT from Evergreen just as the LaFayette SUN was shedding its final rays above the Western horizon and the Ozark STAR was peering in all of it's brilliancy in the East. Presently they were joined by a REPORTER from Columbiana and the three sat themselves on the roadside to reflect upon the OUTLOOK in Alexander City and to discuss PROGRESS in Prattville.

"What is the NEWS from Sylacauga?" inquired the inquisitive reporter. Optimistically all three agreed that business conditions were as bright as the SPOTLIGHT in Haleyville. An ADVERTISER from Moulton appeared on the scene. Hitching his horse to the Mobile POST, he joined the optimists.

"What brings you here?" asked the three in unison. "I am a LEADER from Roanoke seeking a DEMOCRAT from Grove Hill," he retorted. "Perhaps you seek a SOUTHERN DEMOCRAT from Oneota," they advised.

"Look!" they cried aloud, as a MOUNTAIN EAGLE from Jasper came into view. Frightened, the quartette arose and followed the Brewton STANDARD bearer to his DAILY HOME in Talladega. Safe from the mighty bird, the four sat down to resume their conversation. No sooner done than they discovered an ONLOOKER from foley waving a BANNER from Fayette. "Tis a UNION-BANNER from Clanton," they opined as they searched the Clayton RECORD.

"Let's go to OUR SOUTHERN HOME in Livingston, one of the scribes suggested. Entering, they again sat themselves down and the discussion centered on the subject of a FREE PRESS at Clio, and what they should ADVOCATE in Greenville. At this juncture, a rap on the door attracted their attention. It was a WIREGRASS FARMER from Headland seeking a REAPER from Geneva who claimed he was a CITIZEN from Pritchard.

"Let's ADVANCE on Atmore," suggested the tribe as a MESSENGER from Troy joined them. "Who comes there?" cried a SENTINEL from Hackelberg. "Friends," they replied. "We came in answer to the CALL from Citronelle."

And they arose and went straight-way to the Press Room at the Gay-Teague Hotel, where plans for the next annual meeting of the Alabama Press Association were formulated.—The Clark County Democrat.

Are Times Hard

The Advertiser's "Buck Doe" gives us this one:

"George McKee, of Andreson, S. C., says times are not hard. That all depends on what you mean by "Hard." Here's the way George puts it:

"Don't talk about hard times. I was born eight miles rom a railroad, five miles from a school house, nine miles from a church, 885 miles from New York: 200 yards from a wash hole, 15 feet from a cornfield, and 8,767 miles from Hongkong.

Our nearest neighbors lived two miles away and they couldn't read or write. I never saw a suit of underwear until I was 17 years old. The only book in the house during my early childhood was a Bible and a catalogue somebody sent us.

"There were 12 members in our family, but you see, we had three rooms to live in, including a dining room which was also the kitchen.

"Some of us wore brogan shoes occasionally in the wintertime. We had nice white shirts for summertime use. We slept on straw ticks, and pillows were not thought of or required. I didn't know that money would rattle until I was nearly grown. Father got hold of two half-dollars at the same time, and let us hear them rattle. Taxes were not higher but harder to pay than now.

"We owned two kerosene lamps, neither of which had a chimney. Our house wasn't ceiled, but two of our rooms had lofts in them. We had a glass window in our 'company' room. Our nicest piece of furniture was a home-made rocking chair. Our beds were of the slat of tight rope variety. The 'trundle bed' took care of yunguns under five years of age, and it stayed full all the time.

"We went to school two or three months in the year, but not in a bus. We attended church once a month, but not in a car; we used a two-mule wagon. We dressed up on Sundays, but not in Silks or satins."

Pampered Criminals

Will Rogers says that pampered criminals just do not pay. Cast a glance over the criminal record of Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., a former Nashville, Tenn.; young fellow now hunted throughout the United States for having forcibly entered a Louisville, Ky., home knocked Mrs. Stoll unconscious, kidnaped, and carried her away and demanded $50,000 for her safe return home. After seven days waiting and the payment of the ransom by her husband of Mrs. Stoll was finally found and returned home from Indianapolis, Indiana, where they had been held a prisoner in an apartment house by Robinson. The record of Robinson in Nashville was that of a thief and a very undesirable type of humanity. He had often been picked by the police and was once an inmate of the Tennessee insane asylum where he had been sent to avoid the penitentiary, but soon released after a short period, being just simply criminally inclined instead of an unbalanced mind.—Cullman Tribune.

In Union There Is Strength

"As individuals, one farmer's strength cance's another's," said Chester C. Davis, AAA Administer, recently. "Through organization, his strength multiplies. Only as he can and will express himself through organization is the farmer's influence felt in national councils."

That brief statement concerns every American farmer. One of the greatest difficulties faced in the past, both by private and public bodies, in seeking to stabilize and improve farming conditions, has been lack of organization. Too many farmers existed solely as individuals and had no one to speak for them. In brief, agriculture lacked centralized authorities of the farmer's own choosing, who could exert continued and aggressive efforts to bettering his status.

That was true, and is probably still true, of the majority of farmers. But a minority of farm producers have a different story to present. These farmers have joined in creating great organizations. They have elected directors who hire trained, experienced executives. And no one who has watched agriculture during recent years can help but be impressed by the progress these associations have made. Dealing in milk, cotton, fruits anl other products, they have met and solved many problems. They have had their ups and downs. While they haven't brought about an agricultural millenium, members of these cooperative farm organizations have had a much happier time of it than have unorganized farmers.

The old saying that "In union there is strength," was never more apt than it is today—and it goes for farmers as well as all other workers and producers.

A School Problem

Earnest educators throughout the United States are giving serious thought to a reform of curricula, with a view to better adapting them to the needs of the present-day student. No current question deserves more thoughtful consideration.

It is no reflection upon our educational leaders that present methods are proving inadequate to the demands of the times. With the ever-increasing store of available knowledge, it becomes more and more difficult to choose that which should be taught in the limited time that can be given to formal education by the average student.

But the problem is not new. As far back as 1758 the prevailing system of education in England came in for drastic criticism by Thomas Sheridan, who labored with little success for its reform.

Sheridan contended that the established system of that day did not fit the young for their duties in life; that it was uniform for all and profitable for none. He also stressed the importance of imparting a better knowledge of the English language.

The latter point, at least, might well be taken to heart today. It would be a great step forward if our children might emerge from his school with a reasonable acquaintance with their mother tongue.

"Our task of reconstruction does not require the creation of new and strange values. It is rather the finding of the way once more to known, but to some degree forgotten ideals and values."—President Roosevelt.

Price fixing is a fine idea for everybody except the consumer.

Isn't it a bit egotistical to think the fittest survive just because we happen to be among the survivors?

And they there are those who think a President of the United States is further dignified by conferring on him an honorary college degree, or making him a Kentucky colonel.

Postmaster General Farley accuses Senator Reed of playing politics by accusing Farley of playing politics. Who would have thought it of either?

America Suffers Eighty Times Each Year From Major Disasters, Red Cross Reports

Beginning this week the annual Red Cross appeal is being carried into every community in Chilton County. Membership in this humanitarian organization is one dollar, and fifty cents of that amount remains in this county for local aid. We do not believe it is necessary to explain in detail to the people of Chilton County what the Red Cross does in time of disaster.

We Still Remember the Events of March, 1932

D. W. Haskew

We were quietly driving along over an open highway at forty miles an hour when a cow came dashing out from the south side of the road and occupied the space belonging to my car. She was less than thirty feet away and to miss her I swerved the car a little to the left. In less than five econds the car was turnng over. The brightest Christian I have ever known was snatched into eternity by my side. She had no time to prepare herself to meet God and needed no time. God called her and she was gone. Some one will read this who is going to die without a moments notice. Are you prepared to meet God? Automobile accidents are happening everywhere and never before has it been so necessary that we keep our accounts settled with God.

For years my wife and I have had an agreement between us that if an accident was looming at any time in our travels together, that I was to take care of the car and she would turn off the switch to prevent a fire. She saw that a crash was inevitable and the last act of her thinking moments was to turn off the switch. A second later she was on wings flying away to her eternal home. Truly, she was faithful unto death. What a joy to be closely linked with people who love and who are faithful all the time and everywhere. When we gather on the other side God is not going to ask us if we have done any great things, but He is going to ask us if we have been faithful. The Bible does not say "Do the spectacular things and I will give thee a crown of life," but it does say "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life."

My heart was bleeding as never before and for a few moments I was left in my room with the Lord alone. In that quiet moment I said to Him, "Lord, come to me and bring my beloved and tell me if any guilt of carelessness or negligance is charged to my account in this tragedy." Believe it or not but a calm came over my heart such as I have never felt before and the room was all aglow with glory. To be sure I saw no one but there was a raidance within and without that I have never seen on land or sea. I am like John Holland in that I am convinced that "God deals familiarly with men." When our hearts are broken He say "Behold, I come quickly." In the midst of the mysteries of life we cannot understand but He is present to sustain and His light will bring us through.

When my loved one was gently placed on the carpet of grass, a nicely dressed lady came to me saying, "Will you please tell me your name?" When I told her who I was she asked again, "Are you the minister who writes Moral Echoes?" When the truth was known I was no longer among stranger and all that friends could do fell upon me like rays of sunshine. You know, we some times feel that all the world is bad. We meet with cold shoulders and heartless contacts, but when a man is in trouble, all men are not bad. There must be some good in everybody. How I do wish that we could all have a vision to see the good that is in folks. Allow me to say this: "No man ever loses anything when he is kind to the one who is bleeding by the roadside of life. God pity a cold brooded, heartless business man, and there are just a very few of these."

Many a time this year has my companion related a dream that came to her during the night. For months she would dream two and three times each week of moving into a beautiful parsonage and at the breakfast table she would say: "Had another look in on our parsonage next year." About ten days before the tragedy she said to me: "I saw that parsonage last night and the strange thing about it was that I was there but you were not." We did not know what was in that dream, but evidently there was a Divine spirit moving in her semi-conscious moments, giving to her a look in on what would be her habitation next year. She moved out of her earthly parsonage, but there was one waiting for her that was far more beautiful than the ones occupied down here. It was the Man of Galilee who said, "In my Father's house there are many mansions." To be sure the preacher's wife will have a better parsonage up in heaven than many of them have had down here. God bless the departed—she left this earthly parsonage mighty lonely.

Foreclosures Are Being Stopped by Farm Loans

More than 1,500,000 loans aggregating more than two billion dollars were made from the organization of the Farm Credit Corporation June 1, 1933, to the end of the first week in November, 1934. In addition, more than 400,000 farmers having Federal land bank loans when the FCA was organized have obtained direct benefits through interest reductions and deferment of principal installments provided under the Emergency Farm Act.

"The lending of this money has practically meant the stoppage of foreclosures, which were at their peak when FCA was organized and the credit extended for production and marketing purposes was provided at a time when other sources were unable to meet the need for short-term agricultural loans," said Governor W. L. Myers of FCA in announcing the figures. In addition to direct loans to farmers, the farmers' cooperative marketing and purchasing organzations which have obtained loans under FCA have over a million members.

IN LOVING MEMORY

On Thursday night, October 25, 1934, the death angel came into this community and took from us a loving schoolmate, Clara Turner, who was only nineteen years of age.

Three months a servant for her Master she was a new member of Antoch church. She was dearly loved by all who knew her. She was confined to her bed only a month before her death

She was laid to rest in Sardis cemetery Friday afternoon to await the resurrection morn. 'Tis hard, so hard, to break the cord when love has bound the heart.

The parents of this friend wishes to express their appreciation to those who helped during her illness and death.

—A friend, Lizzie Mae Lewis.

SELF-HELP CLOTHES FOR CHILDREN

An exhibit of children's clothing, designed for easy making and easy laundering, and to help the child to dress himself, will be shown at the Jemison High School November 12-16, 1934. The designs have been furnished by the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and the exhibit will be under the direction of home economic classes.

Freedom and comfort for the active child, encouragement to selfhelp, and the saving of his mother's time and energy are the main objectives in all the Bureau of Home Economics' designs. All the garments in this exhibit are adjustable, also, to the growing child, extra materal being allowed for lengthening. There is a minimum of buttons, and those that are used are conveniently placed, and of a size and type easy for children to manage.

Most of the fabrics are cotton, but there are also some washable woolens. The materials in all the garments were chosen because of their all-round parcticability for children's clothes. Cottons can be secured in many weaves and qualities, for any sort of suit or dress, as the exhibit demonstrates.

The garments included in the exhibit are play suits, sun suits, and sun suit ensembles for girls and boys, dresses for little girls, infant's wear, and rompers for creeping babies. They were designed by the staff of the Division of Textiles and Clothing in the Bureau of Home Economics at Washington, and four such exhibits are constantly in circulation throughout the country in response to requests from colleges and other institutions or organizations concerned with child welfare. The bureau does not distribute patterns for the garments, but several pattern manufacturers have adopted the bureau's designs and put the patterns on the market. The names of these firms, together with the pattern numbers; will be furnished by the bureau upon request.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

New Method I Introduced

As old man winter begins to turn the corner, the N. F. A. club boys are ready to take up where they left off last winter, killing, trimming and curing pork. During last winter the club boys assisted in introducing the new methods recommended by Mr. Sewel of Auburn.

Along with their vocational instructor they killed, trimmed and cured meat for many families in the Training School community. Clinton Calloway is president of the club and will assist farmers who would like to use this excellent method. Let the club boys show you.

Why The Big Slump

During the past two years there has been a marked slump in the number of farmers who plant vetch, peas or oats in our community. There are many reasons given for their failure to plant. Most farmers say they are unable to buy seed, price too high, can't get them on credit, reduced cotton acreage, etc. Nothing is more important than that a farmer increase the fertility of his soil.

It seems to me that there could be some sort of legislative enactment that would permit farmers to buy peas and vetch in the fall and pay the following fall; which would be more beneficial than getting fertilizer in the spring and paying the following fall. I believe that all farmers would soon have Alabama soils pregnant with fertility.

American Education Week Observed

In keeping with American Education Week which had as its theme Character Education, the chapel exercises of the week at the County Training School were given over principally for its observance. Activities relating to education were exhibited on various days. Extra effort was made to make this week's program inviting to patrons and friends of the school. A radio was secured for the week in order that the various lectures, etc., from all parts of the country could be enjoyed.

Monday, Senior III presented the evolution of the school building, bringing it from the log cabin school whch was our first school, the red school, which followed and the Rosenwald school which was made possible by the great educational Philantropist, the late Mr. Julius Rosenwald, to our present day consolidated schools.

Tuesday and Wednesday interesting radio programs were enjoyed, one of which was devoted entirely to Negro Education, coming from the Nation's Capitol, Washington, D. C.

Thursday, Miss Mitchell discussed in a brief way 'How the Rural Schools are Supported."

Friday Junior III rendered an Armistice Day program which terminated the observance of American Education Week at the County Training School.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Downs had as their Sunday dinner guest Mr. Bonnie Miller.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Downs and family had as their guest Sunday Miss Daisy Downs.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Glenn spent Monday night with Mr. O. L. Devaughn and family.

Mrs. Bill Wise and Miss Mamie Downs spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. W. F. Glenn.

Mrs. Oliver Glenn and Misses Elsie and Lera Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Downs and son, Lester, made a business trip to Maplesville Sunday morning.

Mr. Arnold Glenn was the Monday dinner guest of Mr. Curtis Jones.

PLEASANT GROVE

Jemison

Seems that Winter is here at last Jack Frost is doing his work now. though most people have their crops all harvested.

Quite a number of the folks went to the singing convention at Birmingham Sunday. They reported a nice time.

Mrs. John Clower and Mrs. Jim Miskelley visited the Misses Champions Monday evening.

Mrs. Erskin Martin spent a few days with her home folks, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Wright, last week

Mrs. Z. Woodley gave an old time quilting Tuesday. All who attended report a good time.

Mr. Terrell was buried at Pleasant Grovt Wednesday evening. Mr. Terrell was the grandfather of Mrs. T. P. Franklin. He was 87 years old and has served as an old Confederate Soldier.

Mrs. Thula Gibson is spending a while with her niece and family, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Zuber and little Mary Alice.

Mrs. Roxie Price spent a while with the Misses Champions and Mrs. Martha Wilson Friday night.

OF INTEREST TO LADIES

DeMabel and Miss Kelley have returned from the South Central Beauty Show, which was held in Birmingham at the Thomas Jefferson Hotel. They saw many new and interesting things to tell about. Hair must be short with a definite upward march of both curls and waves. The trend is off the face and off the neck, leaving ears partly uncovered. Platinum blonde has passed and in its stead red hair has come into favor, in all shades from Venetian red and Roman gold to dark auburn. This calls for lighter make-up and whiter skins.

Naturalness is most important. Eyelashes are darker than ever. Many hints too numerous to mention, so visit DeMabel's Salon where you will get any help you need to have a smarter coiffure.

CHICOHI CHATTER

One score and three days ago, all Seniors (oh, how I love tthat word) met ther Waterloo. In plainer language, in walked they one bright and happy morning, carefree as little children, to find gaping at them from each ancestral desk an intelligence test. Wow! and then some. If I had only eaten my brain food for breakfast. Think, now, what if someone approached you with the query as to 'who your brother's nephew's wife's sister's aunt's cousin's son's niece was and to answer in ½ minute. Just a little example, my good people, of the hazards overcome on that unforgettable day.

During the past two weeks we have been unsually fortunate in enjoying chapel programs on several different subjects. Last week the County Superintendent of Education, Mr. Little, attended the assembly period and talked on the value of education. Mr. Little's talk was built around the fact that education means more than the assimilation of knowledge from mere books. He is a schoolgirl's ideal chapel speaker.

On Sunday, November 11, came the dawn, as usual, and with it, Armistice Day. Sixteen years ago on that day, the last gun ceased firing and peace swept over the world once more. Only a few of the students in C.C. H. S. were in the world at the time, and they were too small to understand the thrill that encircled the globe.

On Monday, the school endeavoerd to effect a program in honor of the peace bestowed upon us on that memorable day. Songs, appropriate to the occasion were sung and following these was the devotional, led by Dr. Ezell. Satan, A War-Dog, was a fitting story, told by Annie Cordelia Smith. Two impressive poems, In Flanders Field and America's Answer, were given by Alice Petty and Guy Alred, respectively. After this, Mr. Mack Wyatt and Mr. Bill Fant, who are ex-service men, talked about Armistice and Peace. Mr. Warr presented the speakers.

In interest of education week a program consisting of representatives from every department in school was given last Thursday. The program for the occasion was as follows:

School song—Assembly.
Devotional—Lois Foshee.
History—Celia Gerald.
English—Margaret Davis.
Science—Edith Parrish and Philip Nelson.
Mathematics—Wade Alford.
Occpational Studies—Annie C. Smith.
Foreign Languages—Mary C. Jones.
Man. Arts—Sydney Reynolds and J. T. Marlar.
Home Economics—Margie Nell Jones.
Phys. Ed.—Pearl Bennett.
Chapel and Proper Conduct—Alice Petty.

Dorothy Waite presided on this occasion.

Flash! Grace Plyler has been elected captain of the girl's basketball team. Watch her!

Idle Items—

I feel a shiver coming on. Mr. Varnell's swan song is 'Beware of the A student' Don't worry, brother, they're a rarity. Truth will become stranger than fiction when Miss Brooks fails to hand in a 9-mile list of names for detention period. Why have all the Pr. IIIs suddenly cropped out with bangs? Why did she come to school Monday morning looking like the proverbial cat that ate the kitten or sump'n? Why will people try to write dumb things for intelligent people to read? Arbor Day Proclaimed By Governor Miller

Montgomery, Alabama, in common with the other states, annually observes Arbor Day, a day set aside to advance forestry and tree planting as an aid to the economic and cultural development of the state and nation. Governor Miller has designated Friday, December 7, as Arbor Day in Alabama for 1934. The Governor's proclamation is as follows:

WHEREAS, although approximately two-thirds of the land surface of Alabama is more valuable for the growth of trees and the production of forest materials than for any other purpose, many thousands of acres of such land are lying idle or are being put to unsuitable and unprofitable use; and

WHEREAS tree growth on lands which otherwise may lie waste serves to enhance the value and usefulness of the property through increase of soil fertility, stabilization of water run-off and yields of essential products; and

WHEREAS the presence of trees and forests lends beauty and attractiveness to the landscape and to the homes and enviornment of our people, and contributes many elements to the culture of our commonwealth; and

WHEREAS the restoration to normal productivity of unused lands tends to stimulate individual and community prosperity, encouraging all citizens to renewed efforts in bringing about solutions of many of our economic and social problems; and

WHEREAS during recent decades nation wide interest has been aroused to the seriousness of the steady depletion of the country's available timber supply, and plans have been initiated in most sections of the United States for a renewal of the forest resources through planting and other reforestation procedures; and

WHEREAS, through the Recovery Program inaugurated by the President, the Federal Government is furnishing substantial aid in advancing forest, park and tree development in connection with proper land use, now

THEREFORE, I, B. M. Miller, Governor of the State of Alabama, do hereby designate and set apart the day of Friday, December 7, 1934, as Arbor Day, and do earnestly recommend that all citizens, individually and in association, and the pupils of all schools in the state, by the planting of trees in suitable locations and by other appropriate exercises give due observance to the occasion.

The State Commission of Forestry, according to custom, has published a pamphlet of suggestions for Arbor Day programs for the use of teachers, clubs and other organizations interested in promoting the public welfare. It is very hard to estimate the number of such publications that will be desired by the various groups, and in order to eliminate waste caused by oversupply, or inconvenience on account of too few being printed, it is hoped that all individuals who wish to use the 1934 booklet will write to the State Forester, 500 Dexter Avenue, Montgomery, Alabama, by or before November 10, stating the number desired.

Hardy Thanks Voters

To the Voters of Chilton County:

I wish to take this method of expressing my most sincere appreciation to you for the very gratifying vote which I received in last Tuesday's election. This is an honor which I shall endeavor to deserve by doing all within my power to make all the people in the county one of the best sheriffs they have ever had.

Again allow me to express my appreciation to everyone who voted for me, and to those who voted for my worthy opponent—the campaign is over and when I take office it will be my most earnest desire to render the same service to every man, woman and child in our county.

Very truly yours,
J. R. HARDY.

FIRE CHIEF ASKS THAT NAME BE GIVEN IN REPORTING FIRE

CHILTON YOUTH RECEIVES LETTER FROM WHITE HOUSE

PIERCE CULVER

Pierce Culver, a young man of the Mt. Creek community was honored with a letter from President Roosevelt answering a request regarding the study of law recently. Mr. Culver wrote and asked the President if he thought it would be advisable for a young man to study law at the present time. The letter was answered in a very satisfactory manner. It pointed out that everyone is master of his or her own life and we must control it to the best of our ability. This is not only true in the law field but can be applied to any other field. If we make the best lawyer in town we will get the business. If we make the best doctor the same is true.

Mr. Culver is a graduate of Verbena High School and is now studying Commercial law at the Massey Business College. He is also a former Chilton County business man, having been connected with several Clanton business concerns. He is now located in Montgomery.

In answering this letter the President showed that was interested in the youth of today.

LIBERTY HILL

Last Sunday was our regular preaching day here. Sunday School met at 10:00 o'clock and at the 11:00 o'clock service our pastor, the Rev. J.S. Holland, delivered a wonderful message which was enjoyed by a large crowd.

At 2:00 o'clock our singing society met with one of the largest crowds of the year and the best singing of the year was held. After prayer by our Chaplain, the following directors sang one and two songs each: Leonard Culp, Cecil Yeargan, Mack Durbin, Jake Henley, William Cor, L. D. Hughes John Devaughn, Houston Melton, D. T. Melton, Lorenza Williams, Clarence Billingsley, Dr. Williams, L. J. Crew, Orville Hughes, Cornelius Hand, Paul Hughes, and Soverign Dickey.

The closing song was sung by S. J. M. Webb. Pianists for the afternoon were Olene Mims, Leonard Culp, and Clarence Billingsley.

We appreciate the help from visiting societies and all are invited to attend our preaching and song services each second Sunday.

THOMAS JR. 4-H CLUB

o

On Wednesday, November 7, Miss Pardue, the home demonstration agent, came to our school and organized the Thomas Jr. 4-H Club. She first made a very interesting talk about the club.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Marjorie Aldridge; Vice president, Mildred Popwell; Secretary-treasurer, Alma Blalock; Reporter, Claris Thornton; Cheer leader, Mary Pearl Holley; Song leader, Annie Laura Devaughn; Local club leader, Miss Clara Vines; Record bookkeeper, Ester Lee Dennis.

Miss Pardue selected clothing as the project for the coming year. The club will meet once each month at the school building. Our club was organized with forty-nine members. Each was given a record book to keep a report of her work during the year. There being no further business, the club was dismissed until the next meeting.

MT. PLEASANT

The enrollment of our school this year is 220. The percentage attendance is 96 and the average daily attendance is 97.44. We are hoping for a better attendance next month. We are proud to see the school progressing so nicely.

The basket ball team is very successful in planning their team. The boys, with the assistance of the coach, Mr. Glasscock, and the girls, have been very successful in their drive to get a basket ball. Everybody cooperated in selling the candy to get money with which to buy the ball.

A special drive is be staged by the pupils of the school in an effort to secure a set of Compton's Pictorial Encyclopedia. A turkey will be given as a prize in connection with this campaign, and the teachers and student body urge everyone to lend their help for this cause by contributing to those who are soliciting funds in this drive.

We are badly in need of new grates for our stoves. We are in hopes of getting some sometime soon.

No new cases of diptheria have been reported since the serum has been given.

Mr. J. W. Fant and Miss Ruth Pardue visited our school Tuesday to organize 4 H clubs for the Junior High School boys and girls. There are at present twenty-four girls and twenty-five boys in the clubs. Meetings are to be held once each month. A great deal of interest was aroused at the first meeting, and we feel sure we will profit by those meetings in the future.

A farmer's meeting was held last week at the school house for the purpose of discussing those problems they have met with recently. Mr. J. P. Montgomery of Jemison, Mr. J. W. Fant of Clanton and many farmers all over this community were present.

WITH THE STUDENTS OF ISABELLA HIGH SCHOOL

We are very glad that our principal, Mr. Matthews, has recovered from his illness and is back in school.

A large crowd gathered in the auditorium Saturday night, November 10th, to enjoy the box supper sponsored by the football boys. The program was very interesting and the many beautiful boxes were auctioned off by Mr. John Cox, in his entertaining mannner. The football boys wish to thank all who took part in making the evening a success.

Isabella played Marbury last Friday afternoon and we are sorry to say that the score was 13 to 0 in favor of Marbury. The boys played with a fightingi spirit and the game was not easily won.

On Friday afternoon, November 16, Isabella will play Maplesville on Isabella home field. This is the last game to be played on our field and the boys are coming back with a stronger determination than ever to win. Admission will be 10 and 20 cents. Come out, we assure you an afternoon filled with plenty of excitement.

On Saturday night, November 24, at 7:30 o'clock the Senior class will present "The Antics of Andrew." Andrew is a young college student who finds himself in hot water from leaping before thinking and who has to overcome many amusing situations. This is the first play to be given in the new auditorium and we want to see every seat filled. Next week's paper will publish full details of the play. Watch for it.

F. F. A.

The Isabella Chapter of Future Farmers of America has been meeting regularly since school started. Our membership has increased considerably and the majority of the members have their dues paid up to date. Our president, James Calfee, is striving to follow as near as possible our "Program of Work" and to accomplish its aims. One of its projects in the community nursery started at the school. Our annual F. F. A. banquet, one of the greatest events in F. F. A. work, will be given sometime in the near future.

Dairymen Advised To Use Home Feeds

Cows cannot be fed out of an Iowa corn crib and a Missouri hay field and make a profit in Alabama, declares F W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, who advises dairymen to cull low producers and produce their feed at home in order to increase their profits.

"All roughage should be produced at home and an adequate permanent pasture to supply sufficient grazing for the herd from March until November should be obtained," he said. "Corn should be the main part of the concentrate ration produced on the average Alabama dairy farm. By supplementing corn with cottonseed meal and either oats or velvet beans a satisfactory grain mixture can be had at a minimum cost."

McKee Thanks Voters

At this time I wish to attempt to express my deep feeling of appreciation and gratitude to my good friends in Chilton County who made it possible for me to serve them as their Tax Collector during the coming term. Since it will not be possible for me to see many of you during the next few weeks, allow me to express to you through the columns of this paper my sincere gratitude.

The confidence you have expressed in me is indeed great, for I am not unmindful of the high respect in which my opponent is held by the tax-payers of this county; and I realize that the task of filling his place will not be an easy one, but I shall endeavor with your cooperartion to do a good job.

Respectfully,
T. L. McKEE

Martin Thanks Voters For Support Given

My success in the recent election is of course extremely gratifying to me, and I pledge myself to endeavor to the utmost of my ability to make all the people of Chilton County one of the best Tax Assessors they have ever known. To realize this ambition, I know that I must seek the coopeartion of every citizen and tax-payer in the county and I wish to beg of you now to lend me that cooperation that I may make an official worthy of the great confidence the voters of this county have reposed in me.

I wish it were possible for me to see every man in the county who cast a vote for me and tell him personally of my deep appreciation, but this is not possible, so I am taking this opportunity of saying to you that I am deeply gratful for the expression of confidence which I have received at your hands.

Sincerely,
ARTHUR D. MARTIN.

BILLINGSLEY RUNS WILD OVER SILURIA TO WIN; SCORE 40 TO 0

Billingsley won over Siluria last Friday in a contest played at home and the game was witnessed by one of the largest crowds ever to gather at a game there.

Siluria held the winners scoreless the first quarter but Billingsley opened a drive in the second period which endel in a 19-point lead at the half. In the beginning of the last half the boys of Billingsley were determined to play better ball and they started another march that was good for another touchdown. The scorers for Billingsley were Norace Patrick, 2; Otto Turner, 1; Edward Golson, 1; Sidney Griffin, 2; and Thompson bucked the line for four extra points.

Lady Says She Took CARDUI for Cramps; Was Soon Relieved

Women who suffer as she did will be interested in the experience of Mrs. Maude Crafton, of Belleville, Ill., who writes: "For several years, I suffered from irregular trouble and cramping. There would be days when I would have to stay in bed. I would get so nervous, I was miserable. My aunt told me to try Cardui. She believed it would build me up, regulate me and help the nervous trouble. I knew after taking half a bottle of Cardui that I was better. I kept on taking Cardui and found it was doing me a world of good. I am in good health, which means a lot to me." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician. . . . Price $1.

Smith Expresses His Thanks To Voters

Editor, Chilton County News:

Please allow me space in your paper to thank the voters of Chilton County who have honored me with the highest office within their gift. At this time may I also thank my friends and supporters for the wonderful cooperation I received throughout the campaign.

To those who saw fit to support my opponent I hold no ill will, but will at all times serve all the peope in a fair impartial manner.

When I assume the duties as your Probate Judge, I want the people of Chilton County to feel that this is their office and I invite you to advise and consult with me regarding County affairs, so that the taxpayers may get a dollar's worth for every dollar spent. The voters whom I contacted during the campaign know that I will be able to carry out every promise I made, which was for the best interest of our County.

I feel that it is my duty to congratulate all the candidates for the manner in which they conducted the campaign.

In conclusion I wish to again thank my friends and supporters for the great victory.

Yours very truly,
J. LEE SMITH

Payne Thanks Voters Of Chilton County

To the Voters of the County:

I take this means of expressing my sincere appreciation to the voters of Chilton County who gave me their vote and support in the recent election. Since you have chosen me as your servant to serve as a member of the County Board of Education, I assure you as well as those who did not support me in this election, that I realize I am a servant of the people of this county and my very best efforts will be put forth to serve the people of the county and to support such measures as will be to the best interest of the schools in our county.

Again, I thank you for this honor, I am,

Yours very truly,
J. P. PAYNE.

Feels a Lot Better When Black-Draught Relieves Constipation

From many states come reports like the following from Mr. W. M. Henderson, of Jasper, Fla: "I have been taking Thedford's Black-Draught twenty years. I take it for constipation that gives me a dull, tired, aching feeling, and I have headache, too. Black-Draught relieves me of this trouble. After a few doses, I feel as good as new. I keep it in my home. I have a big family. When one of us is ailing (from constipation), we take Black-Draught and almost always feel a lot better. It has been worth its weight in gold to my family." . . . Sold in 25¢ packages. "Children like the Syrup."

To save the diary of his father, early Washington pioneer, Cleve Hauptly dashed into his blazing store, at Union, Wash., and was suffocated.

William Faraday, a wealthy Cardiff manufacturer, left most of his estate to a sister and only one shilling to his wife.

Pattillo Thanks Voters For Support Given

To the People of Chilton County:

Permit me to take this method of expressing to you my deep appreciation of the honor you have conferred upon me by electing me to the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court.

I am indeed proud to know that you have reposed this confidence in me, yet I am made to feel very humble when I contemplate the responsibility of the position and the debt of duty I now owe to all of the people.

I hope and pray that every unpleasant note of the campaign may now be forgiven and forgotten and that we may all work together to promote the progress toward happiness and prosperity for every citizen of the County.

Bankers Planning Help For Farmers

Auburn, Ala.—The Agricultural Committee of the Alabama Bankers Association is making plans to render maximum service in improving agriculture of the state during the remainder of this year and throughout 1935.

To discuss ways and means by which the bankers may be of the greatest benefit to agriculture and farmers, the committee met here Monday with Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service, and Dean M. J. Funchess, director of the state experiment station, and members of their staffs. Members of the agricultural committee of the Bankers Association are: H. J. Whitfield, chairman, Demopolis; P. O. Thomas, Selma; Glen Foster, Tuscaloosa; Harvey Herzfield, Alexander City; G. I. Weatherly, Fort Payne; and F. J. Callen, Clanton.

In addition to the members of the committee, Walter E. Henley, Birmingham, president of the Alabama Bankers Association, Dan H. Otis, of the American Bankers Association, M. A. Vincentelli, Montgomery, secretary of of the state assocation. Dr. M. F. Jackson, farm produce agent, Birmingham, and Ashton B. Collins, secretary of associated industries of Alabama, and others attended the meeting.

Some of the projects the bankers plan to assist in promoting are winter and summer legume planting, soil erosion control and drainage, conservation of feed and food crops, forest protection, more and better livestock, and the making of farm inventories and financial statements.

POPLAR SPRINGS

On last Sunday a committee was appointed to take charge of anything that this church wants to send to the Orphan's Home at Troy. A car will be at Clanton on Friday to be loaded and we want to have a share in this worthwhile cause. The committee will take charge of anything you want to give at Sunday School next Sunday, or will come by your home for it f you will let them know where to come. Be sure and notify them before Thursday, November 22, so that they may have plenty of time to get everything to the car on Thursday or early Friday moning.

The Missionary Society quilted the quilt this week that they have been making for Miss Eunice Long, who is in school at Howard College.

Several from here went to the B.Y.P.U. Convention at New Salem last Sunday afternoon. They reported a nice time.

Don't forget that our singing society meets on the fourth Sunday at two o'clock. We are expecting a good singing.

Mr. W. M. Devaughn and son, Floy, spent Saturday and Sunday in Birmingham at the State Singing Convention.

We are very sorry that Mrs. W. F. Gilliland continues on the sick list.

A. A. JACKSON ON COTTON CONTROL AND BANKHEAD ACTS

Editor, Chilton County News,

Dear Sir:

Will you give me space in your paper to show the defect and the remedy to correcting the defect in the Cotton Production Control Act and the Bankhead Law.

A and B has 40 acres of land each, with 30 acres in cultivation. A, during the 5 year average, could not see much in the production of cotton and therefore planted a small acreage in cotton with a small amount of fertilizers used. The law gives A 8 acres to plant in cotton with a yield of 150 pounds per acre.

B, during the 5 year average, planted a large acreage to cotton and used a lot of fertilizer. The law gives B 16 acres to plant in cotton with a yield of 300 pounds per acre. This, we see, A is allowed to sell 1200 pounds tax-free at 12 cents per pounds and gets $144.00. C is allowed to sell 4800 pounds tax-free at 12 cents per pound and gets $576.00. So we see the law discriminates against A in favor of B to the amount of $432.00.

Let Mr. Bankhead as soon as Congress meets, amend his law so that it will take As 8 acres and Bs 16 acres and add them together, which would be 24 acres. Divide the 24 by 2, and that would give A and B 12 acres each. Take As 150 pounds per acre and Bs 300 pounds per acre and add them together, that would be 450 pounds. Divide it by two, and that would give both A and B 225 pounds each or 2700 pounds of lint cotton each tax-free As the law stands now A gets $144.00 for his crop and B gets $576.00 for his.

We do not want the law repealed but do want it so amended as to put A and B on an equal footing and bring to an end this ungodly discrimination against one farmer in favor of another and allow no one farmer less than two bales of cotton tax-free.

If the above proposed amend is not fair and honest I want to meet the person who says it is not.

New Program For Jemison F. H. A.

One objective of the Jemison F. H. A. Club is to increase interest in wholesome recreation. The club certainly fulfilled this goal on last Wednesday, Nov. 7.

The club was called to order by the President, Vesta Smith. Minutes were read by the Secretary, Evelyn Martin. New business was discussed. The club voted to refinish toys at the next meeting for Christmas presents to less fortunate children. The social and program committee then took charge of the meeting. Frances Gore gave a talk on candy making. Then the club members drew cards for kitchens and groups and also drew the name of the kind of candy they were to make. Then following a very interesting hour of candy making. Five kinds of candy was made, divinity, fudge, date loaf, Mexican pecan, and sandwich candy.

The club packed a pretty box of candy to sent to members, Misses Evely Cooper and Thomasine Dorminey, who are attending school at Livingston State Normal.

Frances Glasscock, Minnie Merle Smith, Lucylle Traywick and Frances Gore were in charge of the program and social.

ALUMNI BABY DAY

The Child Care class of Jemison High School held an "Alumni Baby Day." The following came and brought their children: Mrs. Augusta Campbell Thrash, Mrs. Saderia Glasscock, Mrs. Rubye Merchant Cobb, and Mrs. Edna Mc Innish Reynolds. Master Albert Peterson, Jr., and Mrs. Howard also attended.

The children were entertained by a marionette show under the direction of Miss Gail Gletty.

Refreshments were served to the members of the class, and the visitors.

We hope to make this an annual affair.

PLETCHER CLUB MET

Our home demonstration club met last Friday afternoon. November 9th at Pilgrims Rest school house with thirteen members and five visitors present.

Miss Ruth Pardue gave an interesting demonstration on Home Made Christmas Gifts. Our next meeting will be held Friday, December 14th at the home of Mrs. R. W. Kendrick. We want to urge every member to be present. We are planning on having a good time as we are going to have a Christmas tree for our club.

GRAGG LETTER

munities with the extra expenses incidentally occurring all the way down?

Now, I want it thoroughly understood that I am not in the attitude of adversely criticizing the insurance company or the big industries for the step taken in furnishing this surgical and medical care. They are doing a wonderful work for suffering humanity. They are saving millions of dollars to or for the people who are being served, and they are so arranging the finances that it is being paid in small amounts and while enjoying health and able to work, instead of coming as a terrific crash while suffering from sickness and probably unable to earn a livlihood.

Now, the question I want to get home to you is, are we people in Chilton County endowed with enough common sense, business ability and cooperative spirit to get our hearts and minds together and take care of ourselves for the least expenditure possible; or will it be better to admit that this is untrue and that it is going to be necessary for us to take away from our famisive equipment in New York or some other large city away from home and pay for high prices officials all the way down from president to high-powered salesmen to give us a similar service, inconvenient, miles away from home and friends, operated and carried out by people who are entirely foreign and strange to us?

You have several doctors here in Chilton County who would gladly equip themselves to do the special work necessary to such organization if they only knew that the people were behind them in the movement and were willing to co-operate in carrying it out.

I will close by saying that if you are interested, write me in the next few days giving me your view of some such organization in Chilton County.

Yours respectfully,
V. J. GRAGG.

Retail Sales Show Rise In October

Washington.—Retail sales throughout the country swung higher during the first half of October, according to an analysis made by the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

In a mid-monthly survey among stores in 75 representative cities the association estimated that department store dollar sales through the country as a whole increased approximately 8 percent in the first 13 shopping days of October as compared to the similar period in October 1933. This gain follows a 4-percent increase in department store sales in September compared with September 1933, as reported by the Federal Reserve.

What was considered of especial significance in the results of the poll was a considerable increase in the number of unit sales in the reporting stores. The association figured the countrywide increase in transactions for the first half of October as against last year amounted to 6.75 percent—probably the greatest advance in this figure achieved over a period of many months.

JURY FAILS TO REACH VERDICT IN GRAY TRIAL

Experts Testify That Joe Gray Was Insane When He Shot Chandler

"Hopelessly tied," was the decision reached after 13 hours of deliberation by the jury in the trial of Joe Y. Gray, charged with the slaying last August 4 of his friend, Harvey Chandler, in what officers termed as a "drunken party" at the old Thornton hotel building in Clanton.

The case was given to the jury at 9:50 o'clock Friday night and the twelve jurors were locked in the jury room until 11 a.m. Saturday, when they unamiously reported that it "seemed impossible to reach a verdict.'

At midnight, Judge Thigpen, presiding in the absence of Judge Tate, called the jury into the court room and explained to them that it was not possible to secure sleeping accomodations for them at either of Clanton's hotels. They were then returned to the room for the remainder of the night. When court was convened at 9 o'clock Saturday, they again reported that they could not agree, but were again sent back for further deliberation.

The vote of the jury, it is understood, was ten to two for acquital. After 13 hours of deliberation, it was decided that it would be impossible to ever agree.

The defendant, through his attorney, Lawrence F. Gerald, made a plea of not guilty to the charge of manslaughter by reason of temporary insanity, produced by continuous intoxication. John Gray, brother of the defendant, gave testimony that his brother had been a heavy drinker for more than twenty years. He related instances of his brother becoming apparently insane, declaring that he'd argue with the artists on the radio—would imagine that he saw cows dressed in overalls, and constantly believed that someone was after him. This condition had existed periodically for eight or ten years, he testified.

Dr. Sam Johnson, who qualified as an expert on insanity, declared that in his opinion, Gray is hopelessly insane. He said that he would be afraid to sleep in the same house with him

Ninety-Year-Old Resident Laid To Rest Wed.

Funeral services for Mrs. Susan Cooper, age 90. who died Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of her son, C. H. Cooper, in the Isabella community, were held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Pleasant Grove church. Dr. S. J. Ezell and the Reverend Honeycutt officiated. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Spigener Funeral Home in charge.

Mrs. Cooper's death came after an illness of little more than a week's duration. She became ill little more than a week ago, but hopes for her recoevry were held until only a few days before her death.

She was a lifelong resident of the Isabella community, having been born only about three miles from the place where she died. She perhaps was the oldest person in the county.

Suriviving her are five sons and daughters, C. H. Cooper, Maplesville route 2; W. B. Cooper, E. W. Cooper, Mrs. Mariah Henley, all of Clanton, and Mrs. Essie Swint, of Columbus, Ga. She is also survived by seventeen grandchildren, thirty-five great-grandchildren. and six great-great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Farley and son of Birmingham visited Mrs. Farley's father, Mr. Tom Parrish Sunday.

GENTRY-CULVER MARRIAGE WAS SOLEMNIZED SUNDAY

The wedding Sunday morning of Miss Alma Gentry, of Clanton, to Mr. Clayton Culver, of Selma, was one of the outstanding social events of this section this week.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. R.P. Cochran at the Methodist Parsonage in Clanton in the presence of a few close friends and members of the families.

Immediately following the simple ceremony. the bride and groom left for a brief wedding trip. They will make their home in Selma, where Mr. Culver is employed by a packing company.

Miss Gentry is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Gentry, of Mountain Creek, and is widely known in this section, havig held a responsible position with The Fair, one of Clanton's leading business establishments, for several years.

Mr. Culver is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Culver, of Mountain Creek.

Paper To Be Published Day Earlier

Because of the legal holiday next Thursday and to permit the News staff to observe Thanksgiving, the paper will be printed a day earlier and will be placed in the mails to reach subscribers Wednesday instead of Thursday as is customary. Correspondents and advertisers are urged to remember this and lend their cooperation by submitting copy at least one full day ahead of usual time.

Extensive Survey To Help Poorer Children

Under the direction of the county child welfare superintendent, Miss Nolan Meroney, a survey for the purpose of compiling statistical information regarding the number and individual condition of dependent, delinquent and neglected children in Chilton County.

The local relief office is cooperating in this survey. Former field workers, who have an expert knowledge of the condition of most families in poorer circumstances in this county, are lending their efforts toward carrying out this program.

Information compiled is to be submitted to the State Department of Child Welfare, and will likely be used in presenting to the legislature at the next session a true picture of the conditions in the state with the aim of securing state aid in carrying on a bigger child welfare program during the coming months.

Directing the survey over the state are Misses Thelma Welch and Virginia Denton, both members of the state department staff.

SECOND WEEK OF CRIMINAL COURT IN SESSION HERE

Judge J. Fritz Thompson Of Birmingham Presiding For Judge Tate

Circuit Court convened Monday morning for the second of a two-weeks criminal term with Judge J. Fritz Thompson, of Birmingham, presiding in the absence of Judge F. Loyd Tate, who is ill.

Cases scheduled for hearing during the first half of this week are all of minor importance, being most liquor cases according to information from the office of Circuit Court Clerk J.Z. Mims.

Judge Emmett S. Thigpen, of Andalusia, presided last week, when disposition of approximately sixty cases was made.

Cases disposed of last week were:

State vs

Ethel Crawford Lampkin, burglary. The case was withdrawn and filed, because the defendant is serving a term in the penitentiary; Irona Carter, assault to murder. Miss Carter was fined $5.00 and costs, which amounted to $475.75; Oscar Smith, manufacturing whiskey and possession of a still, was found guilty, but appealed and is at liberty on $500.00 bond; L. R. Norris, burglary, nol prossed; Chap Horton, defaulting a bond, continued; Alton Barefield, bastardy, continued; Horace Busby, et al, defaulting bond, continued; Robert Burton, assault to murder, continued; Dixie Spigener, assault to murder, continued; Carl Nelson, manufacturing whiskey, continued; Arthur R. Mims, transporting five gallons of whiskey, nol prossed; Arley Guy, transporting whiskey, nol prossed.

William Darby, possession of still and manufacturing whiskey, continued; Aaron Guy, transporting whiskey, agreed to plead guilty at next term of court; Ed Smith, manufacturing whiskey and possession of a still, agreed to plead guilty at next term of court; Charlie Smith, fanufacturing whiskey and possession of a still, agreed to plead guilty at next term of court; Will Abercrom-

New Manager Named For Chilton Co. U.S.R.S.

M. C. Slaughter, who has been connected with the United States Re-employment Service in Crenshaw County for most of its duration, has been named to succeed O. H. Stone as manager of the Chilton County re-employment office in Clanton.

He assumed the duties of the management of this office last Thursday, when Mr. Stone left for Andulusia to take charge of the Covington county office. Mr. Stone had been here for about two and one-half months.

Although extensive construction work is scheduled for this county during the coming months, both Stone and Slaughter stated recently that they have no advance information as to the exact date that activities may be expected to begin. The concensus of opinion in official circles is that work on rural county projects may be expected to get underway about January 1.

LOCAL HOSPITAL IS SOLD TO PAY ITS 1932 TAXES

Dr. Gragg Says Sale Is To Be Blamed On Error Of Tax Collector Culp

The Central Alabama Hospital, Chilton County's only hospital, was sold for its 1932 taxes at a regular tax sale held at the court house Monday afternoon. Taxes and the costs of advertising and special fees amounted to $277.88.

There were no bidders and the property, consisting of considerable footage beside the space on which the building is located, was bought for the State.

The sale will not interfere in any way with the operation of the institution, according to Dr. V. J. Gragg, staff physician and surgeon. "I consider it highly complimentary that no one offered a bid on this hospital, which everyone knows has done far more than its share of charity work during its existence," Dr. Gragg stated in commenting on the sale.

Hospitals and institutions of this type, he explained, are exempt from taxation to the amount of $20,000, provided that their charity work amounts to 15 per cent of the institution's cases. At present, the Central Alabama Hospital is doing approximately 50 per cent of its work on a charity basis, he said, and in 1932, which was the year of the great storm, perhaps the charity cases amounted to nearer 75 per cent of the hospital's work.

Dr. Gragg declared that the whole thing is an error on the part of Tax

Miss Jane Roberts Represents Clanton At Ball

Miss Jane Roberts, attractive daughter of Mrs. Barney Roberts and popular student of Woman's College, Montgomery, has been chosen to represent Clanton at one of the season's most outstanding balls in Birmingham next Friday night, when Miss Roberts will present Clanton's contribution to the Crippled Children's Clinic, which is being sponsored by the social elite of the State.

Chosen from 23 candidates, Miss Roberts will be one of the guests of honor at this function. She will remain in Birmingham from Friday evening until Sunday as guest in the homes of Birmingham debutantes.

Various clubs in Clanton are cooperating in raising a contribution to this fund for the cripple children's clinic. Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. N. S. Johnson gave a card party, funds from the admission of fifty cents to go into the contribution to this fund.

THANKSGIVING PROGRAM BEING PLANNED HERE

County Agent Fant And Miss Pardue Plan Many Interesting Features

Under the direction of County Agent J. W. Fant, and Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Ruth Pardue, a countywide Thanksgiving program is being planned to be at the court house from 10 to 11:30 o'clock on Thanksgiving Day Thursday, November 29th.

The purpose of the program is to gather as many people from all over the county as possible to join in the occasion of songs and thanksgiving. The main feature will be singing, in which all who attend will have an opportunity to take part.

The program will open with a short devotional service, followed by a talk by some speaker to be selected, on the purposes and meaning of Thanksgiving Day and why the people of Chilton County should be thankful in the good year 1934.

This will take up only a short period of time. after which it is planned to turn the meeting into an occasion of songs, in which all will have an opportunity to participate.

An invitation is extended to all singers and leaders of music in Chilton County to come and bring their classes and song books. Also every singer and lover of music is urged to come and take part.

Mr. Fant specially requests that announcement be made of this program at all places in the county next Sunday, in order that everyone may have ample time to make preparations to come to the courthouse on Thanksgiving Day. Any and all song leaders in the county who may wish to gather more details of the plans for the program are urged to get in touch with T. E. Wyatt, at the Union-Banner office.

The Farm Bureau is sponsoring such a program in every county in Alabama for Thanksgiving Day, and it is the hope of Mr. Fant and Miss Pardue that the people of Chilton County will respond in such a manner as to make our Thanksgiving program the biggest and best in Alabama.

Any singers who will do so are invited to make any suggestions which they may think of to help make the program as good as possible. More definite details of the occasion will be published next week.

WOMAN'S DEMOCRATIC CLUB TO MEET NEXT TUESDAY

The next meeting of the Woman's Democratic Club will be held at the Wilson Hotel in Clanton, Ala., on Tuesday, November 27, at two-thirty o'clock.

A program has been arranged which will prove interesting to all members. Plans for the coming year's work will be discussed.

A cordial invitation is extended by the club to all women of the County to attend these meetings.

Joe Moore came down with the University of Alabama Glee Club Friday and made a visit with his parents through Friday night.

PRESIDENT VISITS ALABAMA FOR INSPECTION OF MUSCLE SHOALS

Roosevelt Impressed With High Spirit Of Residents Of Tennessee Valley And All Points Visited On Trip Into South

By Ralph Hurst in The Birmingham News-Age-Herald.

Muscle Shoals, Ala.—With a fulfilled promise as an impetus, President Roosevelt left behind him here Saturday night, after he completed an official inspection of the Muscle Shoals—TVA properties, thousands and thousands who believe his dream and plans to give America a more abundant life through the development of the Tennessee Valley with cheap power as a means to an end to teach America how to live, will be the world's most far-reaching and phenomenal success.

As compared to his former visit here the spirit of the people Saturday was at its highest peak. When he came before they did not know what he had in mind to do with Muscle Shoals projects.

He told them "we are going to put Muscle Shoals back on the map." Since that time the depression has been overcome by prosperity of the New Deal, and it was evident that President Roosevelt was impressed with this one thing above all else.

F. D. R. Impressed

Senator Bankhead stated here Saturday night following the president's visit that it was his impression the president was impressed with the changed attitude of the people, their new hold on life and their ambition to win with him in the battle to give all a chance to enjoy a more abundant life.

Surrounded by celebrities from almost everywhere, President Roosevelt saw a vast change in the Muscle Shoals district since he first saw it on Jan. 21, 1933. His broad smile and expression of satisfaction as he boarded his special train en route to Tupelo was evidence enough to sustain this opinion.

Banquet Held

As a climax to the day's activities, the Colbert County Chamber of Commerce entertained at a banquet Gov. Miller, Gov.-Elect and Mrs. Graves and practically all of the Alabama delegation from Alabama in Congress.

Mrs. Roosevelt will leave the presidential train at Birmingham Sunday afternoon and fly to Atlanta for a broadcast, rejoining the train in Atlanta.

"I am delighted to be here," the president said at Wheeler Dam, to which he motored after leaving his train at Town Creek. "Two years ago I came here to find plans under way for a small navigation dam. I went to Washington and changed those plans. You are going to have a real dam."

This was the only public utterance of the president during his visit through North Alabama. His Birmingham talk is the only one scheduled, although his train will travel across the entire state Sunday, following the Frisco into Birmingham and out of there on the Southern through Leeds, Pell City, Anniston and Heflin to Atlanta and Warm Springs.

Tens of thousands of Alabamians greeted the president as he came into the state, thronging the railway tracks at Athens, Decatur, Wheeler and Town Creek. As he passed through Wheeler, he received a waving salute from Miss Annie Wheeler, daughter of Gen. Joe Wheeler, for whom the $20,000,000 dam is named.

Many more thousands lined the roads around Wilson Dam, across which the president and his party drove twice before going to Nitrate Plant No. 2 where the government experiments on concentrated fertilizers are under way.

Commissioners Adopt New Relief Program

The Chilton County Commissioners Court recently adopted a new plan for relief in this county, which was submitted by the State Relief Administration, providing work for any desirable number of workmen on public projects at the prevailing wage scale of $1.00 per day and a guarantee of twenty days work each month.

This work is to be paid for out of county funds and the Alabama Relief Administration will reimburse the county with materials to the amount expended for labor.

W. A. Cone, district supervisor, and Floyd Smith, county director, met with the court and explained in detail the operation of the new program, which they declared in their opinion is the best program effected since the introduction of the work in the state.

The number of men to be employed is left entirely in the jurisdiction of the county officials, with the one requirement that those employed under this scheme must be taken from the county relief rolls.

HENDERSON IS GIVEN TWENTY YEARS BY JURY

Found Guilty Of The Murder Of Brother In Family Quarrel Last June

The final chapter in an alleged family feud was written last Thursday morning when a jury of 12 citizens of Chilton County returned a verdict of guilty against Willie Claude Henderson, and set his punishment at 20 years in the penitentiary, for the murder of his brother, Charlie Henderson.

Deliberating little more than three hours, the jury filed into the court room and told Judge Emmett Thigpen that they had found Willie Claude Henderson guilty of murdering his brother at the Henderson store, in Mountain Creek. on the afternoon of last June 12, and placed his punishment at 20 years in the state penitentiary.

Thrugh his attorneys, Percy M. Pitts and John Foshee, the defendant had made a hard fight for his freedom on grounds of self-defense, declaring that he shot his brother when he advanced on him with a crowbar, after he had warned him that he was armed. On the stand in his own behalf, Henderson told of his brother coming to the store, which has been operated by the family for more than twenty-five years, and telling him that he was going to "settle" a few things. Charlie, he said, advanced on him with a heavy piece of iron in his hands. He warned him not to come any farther, he told the jury, but he continued up the steps toward where he was standing inside the building.

A single shot struck Charlie in the region of his heart and he lived only a few seconds. For sometime, there had existed trouble between members of the Henderson family, according to testimony given in court. Will Henderson, who had been in Bryce Hospital in Tuscaloosa for a period, is said to have accused Charlie of being responsible for send ing him there in an effort to get rid of him.

The day before the slaying, Will Henderson was said to have ordered Mrs. Charlie Henderson away from his mother's home. This is said to have been the direct cause of the altercation which resulted in Charlie's death.

Miss Mary Henderson, sister of the two men, told of trying to prevent the trouble. She said that she told Charlie when he came to the store that Will was sick and not to bother him.

Joe Nations testified that he met Charlie as he came from the store after making some purchases. Charlie, he said, appeared to be angry and was running. E. H. Freeman and Joe Thrailkill, election managers at the voting place near the scene of the killing, declared that they saw Charlie going toward the store door with a piece of iron in his hands.

Henderson left Friday night for Kilby Prison to begin serving his sentence.

He was represented by John Foshee and Percy M. Pitts. The prosecution was headed by Winston Huddleston, assisted by Grover C. Walker.

Serving on the Jury were: B. J. Sessions, Luke Garner, George T. Dickerson, W. Hunter Rascoe, J. D. Hardy. John W. Howard, J. G. Newton, Coy J. Klinner, Ben D. Dennis, John O'Brien, John Childress, and Andrew J. Davis. B. J. Session served as foreman.

MISS BERTIE TEEL SUCCEEDS MISS ALMA GENTRY AT FAIR

The management of The Fair announces this week that Miss Bertie Teel is now connected with its staff in the capacity of saleslady, succeeding Miss Alma Gentry, who severed a connection with the firm of many years recently when she became a bride.

Miss Teel has had wide experience in this type of work, having been employed by several of Clanton's leading mercantile establishments. During recent months, she has been connected with the Bibb County relief staff, and prior to that time she was engaged as a teacher in the public schools of Chilton County. She invites her friends to visit her at her new location.

CITY LIMITS OF CLANTON MAY BE EXTENDED

Mayor Jones Discusses Plans For Increasing Town's Area, Population

A program of expansion for the Town of Clanton is being formulated, according to an announcement by Mayor C. Fenn Jones, who stated that steps are being taken to extend the city limits to enlarge the Town's area by about one-fourth its present size and to add approximately 1,500 to its population.

Any information at this time, Mayor Jones explained, is necessarily very indefinite, however, plans have been discussed by the council for extending the city limits to such degree that will encompass territory which by all rights is situated within the recognized boundaries of the Town. To just what point in the various sections this extension would reach has not been determined, he said.

Mayor Jones said that he is conducting a goodwill campaign for this improvement by talking to those who will be affected and inviting them to become a part of Clanton and enjoy those improved condition, which are naturally guaranteed to residents of the Chilton County metropolis.

Should this program materialize as it is now being planned, Mayor Jones said that it will bring Clanton's population to approximately 3,500, instead of its present 1,800, and the area of the Town will be increased to approximately two by two and one-half miles

Under the plans as they have been discussed, the city limits will be extended on the south to the J. N. Dennis home; on the north on the paved highway to the Willis Tourist Camp; along the old highway to a point where the Alabama Mill village will become a part of the Town; in a westewardly direction to include the whole of the Candler Terrace division, at the intersection of the Clanton-Selma highway; and eastewardly on the Lay Dam road to Dudley Collins' home, and on the Higgins Ferry road to Dr. W.L. Parrish's home.

This will only include property that by all reasonable conclusions is a part of the area recognized as being within the boundaries of the Town of Clanton, Mayor Jones said.

Comparing this area to the areas and populations of other Alabama towns, Mayor Jones said this extension will give Clanton the place of prestige which it is due. At present Clanton is not receiving the recognition from those who do not know the town that it would if its population was placed at a figure more commensurable with its real area, it was declared.

In discussing the extension, Mayor Jones said that it is his aim to be guided by the wishes of the majority of those affected. "We expect to extend a friendly invitation to our neighbors to become a part of our town," he said.

Funeral Rites For John R. Parnell Held Sat.

Funeral services for John R. Parnell, former Thorsby merchant, who died Friday morning at 7:20 o'clock at his home in Thorsby after an illness of several years duration, were held Saturday from the Thorsby Baptist church, of which he was a member. The Rev. J. W. Jones officiated and Martin & Sons were in charge. Burial was in the Thorsby cemetery.

A native of Chilton County, Mr. Parnell was born near Stanton and spent his youth and early manhood in that vicinity. Thirty-four years ago, he removed to Thorsby, where shortly after he became engaged in the mercantile business. He continued in this business until about ten years ago when he had to retire because of ill health.

Little more than four years ago, the former member of the Chilton County Board of Registration suffered two paralytic strokes and since that time he has been confined to his home most of the time. He had been bedridden for the past three months.

Mr. Parnell would have been 76 years of age had he lived to see his birthday, which comes in February.

Surviving him are four daughters, Mrs. G. W. Freeman, Mrs. R. H. Popwell, Miss Gladys Parnell, all of Thorsby, and Mrs. J. W. Carroll, of Washington, D. C., and one son, W. M. Parnell, also of Thorsby.

Don't Forget City Election Next Mon.

Voters of the Town of Clanton are urged to remember that the special Municipal Bond Election for the purpose of securing PWA loan for funds to build a new city hall and extend the Town's watermains will be held Monday.

Go to the polls and cast your vote in this election. Because of a technicality, it was necessary to resubmit this matter to the voters in a special election. Several weeks ago, the voters of the Town voiced their sentiments in favor of the proposal by an overwhelming majority.

A Renewal Of Faith

The Bibb Graves victory dinner at the Tutwiler recently added an interesting chapter to Alabama history. Never before was seen, perhaps never again will be seen, in this state such a gathering. Nearly a thousand diners—men and women representative of every walk in life and from the 67 counties of the state—were present to honor the governor-elect and celebrate with him success.

But it was more than a political rally. It was more than a mere celebration of victory. It was a re-dedication of progressive forces which swept Mr. Graves back into the governor's chair and a renewal of faith by them with the voters of Alabama.

Colonel Graves went before the people of this state on a platform of progressive action unequaled by any other ever to seek that high office. It was a platform so straightforward, so definite and to the point that there was left no room for doubt as to what he expects to do and to attempt to do. So it is significant that Mr. Graves clings closely to that platform and since his nomination has lost no opportunity to re-affirm it. It is re-assuring to hear him using the same phrases and stressing the same issues as he used and stressed as he traveled up and down the state, gathering as he would go the support and confidence which made last night's celebration possible. It was an appropriate pause but the most important feature of the meeting was general recognition of the fact that it was but a pause and that the real celebration of victory must wait until the new governor and new legislature have been seated in Montgomery and have translated into fact and action the Graves program.

We disdain careless prediction but we are sure the glimpse that we have gotten justifies full confidence in the belief that with the election of Mr. Graves Alabama has seen the dawn of a new era in its economic and political history.—Birmingham Post.

Alabama Welcomes President Roosevelt

It is Alabama's good fortune to have a generous share in the Southern tour of President Roosevelt and the first lady of the land. The state's happiness over having the president and Mrs. Roosevelt as its guests is intensified by reason of the fact that they are spending the greater part of two days on Alabama soil, making visits to several communities in the Tennessee Valley and stopping at other places for a little while, giving to many thousands of Alabamians the pleasure of seeing them and of hearing Mr. Roosevelt's voice.

Birmingham itself is delighted at the definite assurance that the president's train will stop here this afternoon long enough for Mr. Roosevelt to address the gathering which will be on hand to greet him. It is an event to which Birmingham is looking forward eagerly.

This is Mr. Roosevelt's first visit to Alabama and Birmingham as president. When he was here two years ago, he was then the president-elect. It was just after he had been chosen by a tremendous vote of the American people as the nation's leader. He comes to Alabama now just after his administration has received the endorsement of the American people by a vote no less impressive. His popularity continues at its height, and the people's trust in him is not merely undiminished, but strengthened. Nowhere else will he find either greater than in Alabama. This state's welcome to him and its expressions of good wishes and good cheer come from the heart.—Birmingham News.

Optimistic Mr. Ford

Optimistic statements from Mr. Ford have provided a diversion from pessimistic sentiment in many periods of gloom. In fact, Mr Ford seems to make a practice of planning a big development when business in general is waiting encouraging signs. Sometimes it almost appears that he deliberately launches projects to maintain his unconventional business policy.

This characteristic does not, however, nulify the significance of Mr. Ford's announcement that he will build 1,000,000 or more automobiles in 1935. The Detroit manu facturer is ready to invest $415,000,000 in motor car production on the assumption that a market for the increased output will be found. He will spend large sums for steel, rubber, lumber, glass, freight, etc., which in turn will stimulate other industries, increase employment and, in some measure at least, enhance purchasing power. In short, Mr. Ford is attacking the vicious circle of idle money, idle men and extensive want in a simple and direct way.

"Why," Mr. Ford says, "The depression would be over for the whole country very soon if American industralists would just forget these alphabet schemes and take hold of their industries and run them with good sound American business sense."

As applied to industry in general that view is undoubtedly naive. Not all industries have sufficient resources to justify a policy of full steam ahead while many hazards are apparent. Yet it is unquestionably true that a courageous, forward looking policy on the part of great industries helps to remove such hazards, and thus carries the whole industrial system nearer to normal operation.—Andalusia Star.

Good Advice To Chilton Democrats

"Don't rub it in boys," says Will Rogers, "for there ain't any finer folks living than a Republican that votes the Democrat ticket."

Would Lower Home Mortgage Interest Rates

In directing the Federal Housing Administration to fix 5 per cent as the basic interest rate on home mortgages not in excess of $16,000 which are to enjoy the insurance benefits of the Housing Act, President Roosevelt wrote to Administrator James A. Moffett:

"One of the Major purposes of the National Housing Act was to encourage a greater uniformity in mortgage interest rates throughout the country and especially to eliminate as far as possible exorbitant and usurious rates charged in many places. I realize that your task and program do not involve the lending of government funds. I am aware that a uniform rate may in the beginning cause less response to your program on the part of lenders and investors in some sections than in others.

"Nevertheless, the National Housing Act should not foster the continuation of high interest rates on insured mortgages in any part of the country. We all know that even in those sections where first mortgage money has been available at reasonable costs, home ownership has had to struggle under the handicap of exorbitant second mortgage interest rates.

"Almost everybody knows of practices far too widespread where lenders have demanded and received 8 per cent, 10 per cent and 12 per cent on first mortgages and much higher rates on second mortgages.

"I am firm in the conviction that every practical attempt at lowering the cost of homes to the great mass of our people is worthy of our best efforts. It is time to make these lower interest rates apply to every part of the country."

In announcing the new basic rate, on the same date as the President's letter, Administrator Moffett stated: "The purpose is to seek a solution in the fundamentals of home financing. There must be a sounder mortgage debt structure than exists today. The security of real estate values and mortgage investments must be re-established."

Titles II and III of the National Housing Act, which became effective on the date of the President's letter and the Administrator's announcement of the regulations, are designed to provide a system of long-term financing of residential mortgages to (1) make possible the reconstruction of a large volume of existing mortgage indebtedness and (2) arrest the flight of old capital from, and attract new capital to, that field of investment

"When these results are attained," continued Administrator Moffett's announcement, "new residential construction will start, reach its normal volume and thereafter sustain its proper relative position in the economic system by (1) the flow to it of a more constant supply of funds; (2) a more evenly distributed employment of labor and consumption of materials; (3) leveling the peaks and valleys of housing production, and (4) greatly reducing, if not in fact preventing, the residential business booms and consequent collapses of past experience."

Administrator Moffett expects operations under the long range plan to throw at least two billion dollars of private funds into home building. Four days after his announcement the first application for approval as mortgagee was that of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, the largest trust company in the world.

At the end of the first week in November a committee of industrial leaders, builders and financial experts estimated that a total of $2,000,000 a day is now being spent on modernization and repairs of homes throughout the country.

"Money Has Fallen On Alabama"

"Do you feel that the farmers in your county are, or will be by the end of the year, financially better off than last year?"

This question was put recently by the Southern Agriculturist, of Nashville, Tenn., to County Agents in 13 Southern states—Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisana, Texas.

Replies received numbered 574. Of these, it is reported, only 16 per cent said "No." The "No's" came almost entirely from the drouth areas of Arkansas and Texas. In the other 11 states, less than seven-tenths of one per cent said "No."

Alabama County Agents were practically unanimous in their conclusion that Alabama farmers are much better off this year than last. Here are a few excerpts from Alabama County Agents' answers to the question:

1. "Yes, very much better." 2. "Decidedly better off." 3. "Yes, 95 per cent will be many times better off, compared with last year, due to the increase in net profits." 4. "Yes, at least 40 per cent better." 5. "Yes, they will have twice as much money as last year. Cotton is selling at a much higher price, and cottonseed for three times more than a year ago." 6. "I do. The increase per capita will be 30 per cent greater than in 1933." 7. "The farmers in this county are 100 per cent better off this year than last." 8. "Without any doubt. Farmers themselves will admit it and when they agree to it, it's so!"

"This expression of opinion," says The Southern Agriculturist, "from the body of men who know most about the condition of the Southern farmers puts the final O. K. on the previous bulletins which we have issued, giving statistics on the flood of enormous new wealth which is pouring into the agricultural South this year."—Birmingham Realty Company.

"Trade School News"---Greetings:

An exceptionally neat and well-printed little paper came to us last week, "The Trade School News" of Gadsden, Ala. It was the first issue, and as an indication of what the boys are doing in this school it speaks well. The general make-up and content of the paper is exceptionally good. The printing is neat and clean, showing that enthusiastic care went into its making. These boys are to be congratulated. The paper is a credit to the school and to them.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

I was sitting on my front porch overlooking the water of the bay when I heard a darkey scream for help. He was on duty looking for a school of mullet and saw one coming and called to his fellow fishermaen to come to his aid. The men were scattered along the shore and some of them were at at their homes many yards away. The watchman was sitting with his oars in hand and ready to pull his boat around the school of fish, but his helpers were slow in coming to manage the seine. After much loud talk and slow motion, the men finally gathered to stretch the seine, but the fish had passed by. Then they leaped into the boat and rushed a half mile away to catch the mullet at another sand point, but they never came that way. Many a time have I called for help in a revival meeting. but the workers in my church would be scattered. It would take me a week of hard preaching to get the church ready to do something, but then the seeking souls would be gone. Opportunity comes but once, and we must be ready to spring into action when it comes. Our slow motions and scattered condition will let the fish go by.

A mocking bird would sing to me in the early morning and make bright and happy the inmates of the parsonage home, but this bird became obscessed with the idea of fighting. He fought other nirds when they came on his playground. One day he flee by the church window and saw himself reflected in the glass, and thinking that he had found another bird, he flew against the window and fell down upon the window sill. He lifted his head above the wooden sash of the window and he saw his head reflected in the glass and he set up a fight. For an hour he fought his shadow in the window. For ten days after that he spent the most of his time fighting his shadow in that window. When he was hungry and thirsty he would go off and eat and drink, but soon he was back at the window fighting his shadow. Like that bird, the most of us are allowing ourselves to fight shadows. We produce the things that seemingly threaten us and we fuss and fume and fight over our own shadows. It is all right to fight a real enemy, but beware of your own shadows.

Before the day of the automobile I was out for a Sunday trip to fill an appointment at a distant country church. I made ready my auto-be-a-mule with bridle and saddle, and I made ready myself by putting on my best Sundays. Everything being ready I walked out to my transportation machine and throwing the bridle over the mule's head, I put one foot in the stirrup, one hand on each end of the saddle and made a spring for the driver's seat. I overdid the thing in the spring that I took, and in place of landing in the saddle I went on over the mule's back and landed in the dust on the other side. The next time I was more careful and landed safely in the driver's seat. Too many of us are guilty of overdoing, or underdoing. We do too much, or too little.

Three little sand doves played about in my front yard and I observed that their wings were short. When they flew they made much noise with their wings, and would only fly a short distance before resting. Then I observed that the sea gulls were passing by just beyond the shore line and with their long wings they weer silently sweeping throught the air with great speed. Anyone can tell the difference between sea and land birds by the length of the wings. When a bird is made to fly over the sea the length and the strength of the wing is made for long flights. Man is not a beast of the field—he is not made for the narrow limits of the shore lines of time. The length and the strength of his being indicates that he is made for eternity. Some day he is expected to leave the shore lines of time and go out into one vast eternity. Then he shall need length and strength of wing.

A man was coming along the sidewalk with his head down and his eyes fixed upon something in his hand. My car was making fifteen miles an hour and I was following the instruction of the green light, but this man walked right in front of my car and I had to drag my wheels to keep from striking him. He was surprised and I was indignant. What was, he doing that caused him to crash a red light and endanger himself Just rolling a cigarette. He was absorbed with a bad habit and was paying no attention to traffice regulations. Many a man has hurt himself and injured others just because of bad habits. When a habit robs a man of other people's rights, it is time to become alarmed.

Vermont Adult School News

Our Adult School opened on November 1st with an enrollment of twelve. Now we have twenty-one on roll and are going strong.

Mrs. Matt Deason, a pupil of seventy-three, is very much in favor of our work and you should hear her boost our school.

Mrs Loraine Klinner, who is seventy-two years young, is an excellent student. Though she can't see to read very much, she can really spell and is on time each night to learn all she can.

Some of the pupils had never written a business letter until we took up letter writing in "U. A. S.," correctly.

On last Thursday night we made an interesting trip over in Switzerland. We climbed the snow covered Alps and found just why Switzerland is called the playground of Europe.

We have had several visitors to our classes. We welcome visitors and invite them to come.

There are yet some who should be enrolled with us. Anyone who would like to join our classes will please see Miss Minnie Coleson or come to Mrs. Matt Deason's at six p. m., on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Fri- nights.

Jemison Vocational Teacher Is Doing Fine Project Work

Mr. Montgomery of Jemison High School has just finished a series of evening school lessons at Union Grove.

Demonstrations were given in the inoculation of vetch seed and treating fruit trees for the peach tree borer. Special attention will be given to home orchards throughout the season. Demonstrations will be given on pruning and spraying.

The farmers of Union Grove were especially interested in insect control. Detail recommendations were given for such insects as the tomato fruit worm, corn weevils, cucumber beetles, bean beetles, San Jose Scale and many others. Emphasis was also paid to landscaping the home grounds and improving the home.

Twenty men enrolled and each will carry a project and definite program.

Ernie Lee Robinson, president of Alabama F. F. A. recently made a trip to Kansas City as a state delegate to the National F. F. A. convention.

The terracing machine given to the Jemison High School by the Commissioners' Court is very much appreciated It is now with another machine being used daily in instructing terracing to a class of 28 boys.

Frank Nelson of Thorsby leads the F. F. A. boys in doing community work. Frank is always picking up a job, terracing, planting or pruning an orchard.

Bus Passengers Hurt In Mishap Saturday

Quick Thinking Of Driver Saved Many Lives

Quick thinking by a Greyhound bus driver probably saved the lives of 30 passengers and prevented the bus from being demolished when the vehicle plunged off Montgomery Highway between Prattmont and Montgomery Saturday afternoon as the result of a blowout in the right front tire.

A. P. Fuquay, a traveling representative of the News-Age-Herald, who was an eye-witness to the accident, said that J. W. Pierce, veteran driver of the lines, quickly gained control of the bus after the tire blew out and drove it straight off a four-foot embankment into the field, instead of permitting the machine to careen off the road.

Isabell Eleven Walks Over Maplesville Eleven with a Score of 27 to 0

One of the biggest football games of the season was played last Friday on Isabella's field against Maplesville with a final score of 27 to 0 in Isabella's favor.

The game was called at 2:00 o'clock with Maplesville kicking to Isabella. Maplesville hit the line with a fighting spirit, holding Isabella 0 to 0 in the first quarter, but in the second quarter the tide changed. After two or three incomplete passes, Will L. Martin bucked the line for a touchdown and an extra point.

At the beginning of the third quarter, Isabella came back on the field with more spirit than ever. During this quarter, Wilbert Conway ran through for a touchdown, and Bill Jones made the extra point. Later Jones carried the ball through for another touchdwn and Conway made the extra point. The score being 21 to 0 at the end of the third qharter.

The boys were still playing with a fighting spirit at the beginning of the fourth quarter. During this quarter Martin went through with the ball for another touchdown, and the extra point was made, but didn't count because the backfield was in motion. This making the score 27 to 0.

Isabella's line men are to be commended for opening up Maplesville's line, and the cooperation and team work of the whole team in winning the game.

Isabella hits Clanton next Friday for the last and the best game of the season.

Antics of Andrew Presented by the Senior Class of Isabella High School

Saturday evening at seven-thirty, in the Isabella High School auditorium the curtain will rise on the first play of the season.

The Senior Class will present "Antics of Andrew," a three-act comedy by Jay Tobias.

When Andrew, a young college student, contrives a way to get his rich uncle to increase his weekly allowance by fabricating a wife and mother-in-law things begin to happen.

A telegram arrives on the evening of Andrew's twenty-first birthday celebration, announcing the rich uncle's intended visit. This sets Andrew and his two pals, Willie and Harold, thinking. A wife and mother-in-law must be produced in fifteen minutes. Harold and Willie agree to play the parts; And then, what complications arise Andrew has a time explaining the unexpected absence of Harold and Willie to their girls—and what a time trying to explain a wife to his girl.

THANKS FRIENDS FOR HELP

Editor, Chilton County News:

Will you please give me space to thank all my friends and neighbors for their help when our home was destroyed by fire. We especially thank Mr. John Blow for is help and Mr. Quilly for his truck to get us things to get our home together again.

We were out of a home only four days. Listen, friends, I thank you for everything you gave us and if I can ever be of help to you I stand willing at any time. People if you never lost all you had you don't know just how you feel, but I can say very sad, with cold weather here and no home, no coats or sweaters, but by the help of good friends and neighbors we are at home again with all the family.

I would like to see you all that helped us and thank you face to face but as it is impossible I just write these few words and thank you just the same.

Yours truly,
J. L. and Sophie Peters.

"Pains Gone," Says Lady, After She Had Taken CARDUI

In describing how her health improved after she had taken Cardui, Mrs. Ralph R. Courtney, of Wytheville, Va., said: "I was run-down and suffered from pain in my side. I wanted to feel well and get rid of the pain in my side, so I sent for Cardui and began taking it. By the time I had taken three bottles of Cardui, I was feeling much better. The pains had gone. I am very glad to recommend Cardui to other young women." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

$291,430 Hydro Tax Paid To Schools Of Alabama

Martin Hands Check to Butler for Part of $2,200,000 Taxes for Year 1934

Birmingham, Ala.—Oct. 24—Mr. Thomas W. Martin, President, Alabama Power Company, today delivered to Mr. S. R. Butler, Chairman, State Tax Commission, check of Alabama Power Company for $291,430.41, to cover the hydro-electric kilowatt hour taxes for the benefit of the special educational trust fund of the State. Upon delivery of this check to Mr. Butler, Mr. Martin stated that the company was very glad indeed to be able to contribute this amount to education, especially at a time when educational funds have been curtailed in so many respects.

The entire amount of this check will be devoted to educational purposes. From previous years' distributions of the Educational Trust Fund, it appears that from this payment by the Power Company today, counties will receive for elementary and high schools $171,000; and State institutions, $120,000. Among the larger beneficiaries appear to be the five Teachers' Colleges, $19,000; Alabama College at Montevallo, $10,000; Alabama Polytechnic Institute, $32,000; University of Alabama, $23,000; Jefferson County, $12,000; Montgomery County, $4,000; Mobile County, $4,000; Walker County, $5,000; Cullman County, $5,500.

Mr. Martin further stated that the Company's total taxes for 1934 would approximate $2,200,000 and that the company continued to be the State's largest taxpayer, its ad valorem assessments for 1934 being the highest in the Company's history, contrasted with statewide tax reductions of approximately 25% since 1930.

The check for approximately $40,000 paid by the TVA some months ago went into the general fund of the State and only a small percentage of such fund is available for educational purposes.

Modernize Your Home Lighting

The campaign for converting old style floor lamps into modern serviceable I.E.S. student lamps is meeting with phenomenal success. The demand for parts is taxing the facilities of the jobbers. If you have not seen how simply this conversion can be done, ask your Home Lighting Specialist for a demonstration. With an expenditure of between $3.50 and $4.50, you can have a really modern lighting fixture, and learn what a comfort adequate lighting is. Almost upon us are the winter months, when lighting is such an important factor. Tell your friends of this plan of modernizing their present lamps, and pass on all prospects you can to your Home Lighting Specialist.

Willkie Addresses Birmingham Rotarians

Commonwealth & Southern President Discusses Power Problems

JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES
In Birmingham Age-Herald Nov. 8, 1934

To say that President Wendell L. Willkie, of Commonwealth & Southern, is a fine speaker and that his address to the Rotary Club Wednesday impressed everyone is putting the matter mildly. Birmingham has now had an opportunity to hear—from Mr. Willkie and Mr. Lilienthal—brilliant expositions of the two sides of the TVA question, and it would be hard to say which side has been the more appealingly put. Summarizing Mr. Wilkie's arguments, they run like this: (1) Given the write-downs, donations, low freight rates, lower taxes and other advantages the which he says make possible the TVA retail rates, the Alabama Power Company could give rates 30 per cent lower than TVA rates, and (2) private capital, no matter where it comes from, is better in the long run than federal capital or no capital at all.

The Family Budget

Reliable statistics show that the average family budget, upon a percentage basis, is as follows:

Give Electrical Gifts This Xmas.

Once upon a time Christmas shopping was a slow, tedious affair—or else a "free-for-all" fight at bargain counters. In either case, all too often friends and relatives received gifts they did not want or could not use to advantage.

Fortunately, electrical appliances have simplified Christmas giving. Everybody wants them. Everybody can use them. For your convenience, a few Christmas suggestions are listed below:

Up to $1.95—Small lamps, hot plates, hair curlers, lamp bulbs.

$2.00 to $3.95—Egg cooker sets, heating pads, toasters, table lamps, percolators, clocks.

$4.00 to $5.95—Percolators, heaters, waffle irons, toasters, hand irons, lamps.

$5.95 to $9.95 — Waffle irons, heating pads, table lamps, clocks, percolators.

$9.95 to $19.95—Cleaners, mixers, floor lamps, urn sets, cookers, percolators.

$19.95 to $79.50—Mixers, radios, cleaners, refrigerators, washing machines.

$79.50 and up—Ranges, radios, washing machines, refrigerators, dishwashers.

Let us help you with your Christmas shopping, or visit your Electrical Appliance Dealer.

W. L. Sander Comments On Hospitalizat'n Plan

Editor Chilton County News:

Please allow me space to say a few words about Dr. Gragg's letter in last week's paper.

The words "Group Hospitalization" captured my attention and I read his letter first.

His invitation to give our vicinity such an organization I now accept and not only to Dr. Gragg but the entire county.

You remember when I announced as candidate for Representative to the Legislature, the first plank in my platform was to establish a free hospital in Chilton county for its people. I said the peoples health should be protected in an organized way and this I still say.

Some might say that since Dr. Gragg is the head of the Cenral Alabama Hospital, that he is looking out for selfish interests and expecting a big job. The charitable operations that Dr. Gragg has performed is evidence that he wants to do something for the public. He is in a position to know the financial condition of most of those having operations performed.

You remember a few days before the tornado swept Chilton county that the hospital had to be closed down. This was caused by the poor people being unable to pay their bills.

The hospital was not collecting enough to pay its expenses, therefore, it was almost a charitable institution on the shoulders of a few. Hospital and Doctor bills are always higher when only a few pay.

People should not be left to suffer and die because they are poor. So you see, the man that can pay has to pay enough to give service to those that cannot pay, however, this doesn't seem fair. These practices can be greatly eliminated if the people will come together and establish a system to give medical and surgical aid in a cooperative way.

Chilton county needs a hospital to build up the physical part of the individual as well as a school to build the mental part. We have in Chiltor county five high schools, eleven juniors, thirty two elementary and twenty negro schools making a total of sixty eight school buildings. The erection and equipment of these schools cost the people large sums of money, besides the expense of operating them. It seems that if the people can erect and equip sixty eight schools and furnish each of them from one to eight teachers to build up the mental part of their children; surely they can erect and equip one hospital, and pay a Doctor and sufficient nurses to build up the physical part of both children and adults.

There are scores of children in schools who are unable to make their grades on account of enlarged tonsils, adenoids and bad eyes. It would be economy for the county to pay for whatever medical or surgical attention these children need in order that they might get through school in a shorter length of time.

Not only would it enable them to get through school earlier, but would be the means of developing stronger men and women. Who in the future (by such aid) would be an asset instead of a liability to the county.

There are numbers of men going about their daily work in misery, wearin uncomfortable belts, trying to hold up their rupture. This could be eliminated with little expense if we had a hospital supported by the general public.

Scores of women with various disorders, suffer and sometimes die for the want of attention. Minor operations, in time, would eliminate much suffering and possibly be the means of saving one's life.

People whose finances are very limited often pay the death penalty for not being able to have the proper operation performed. A person's health or life should not be at the mercy of the dollar. What per cent of the people in Chilton County would be able to pay a hospital bill if they had to have an operation today? Would there not be numbers that would suffer if they were not permitted on the credit or charitable list?

I do not know just what kind of organization Dr. Gragg has in mind, nor how he expects to finance it, but I'm sure he has some feasible organization that will render a great service if the people will only give it this support.

I hope the people will seriously consider this question, and take some step toward the establishment of a hospital to serve one of our greatest needs.

W. L. SANDERS.

SARDIS HOME DEM. CLUB

The Sardis Home Demonstration club met Thursday p. m., November 15, with Mrs. H. L. Ratliff. There were twenty-three members and three visitors present. Four new members were added to the club.

Plans for landscaping our school grounds were discussed. We planned to begin work at once on funds for buying shrubbery.

Miss Pardue gave an interesting demonstration on "Home Made Christmas Gifts." We feel indeed fortunate on securing such a competent and efficient home agent and leader as Miss Pardue. She has meant much to our community, especially to our club women.

Our next meeting will be held Thursday p. m., December 20, with Mrs. E. W. Clenner. We plan on a grand time as we are to have a club Christmas tree. All members are urged to be present. We welcome visitors at any time.

To Those Who Are In Arrears With Bills To Dr. Gragg:

Listen Folks:

If you think I don't need what you owe me, you are badly mistaken.

I owe some just debts myself and the reason I have not already paid them is because I am collecting so little myself. How can I pay when so few are paying me?

I just notice that people who have been owing me for years, can pay fines in court cost without trouble, but can't reach me.

Now, if you can't settle your account in full, you can pay some.. If you can't pay the money, bring shelled corn or peas or peanuts. I will allow you the market price or better where you find it difficult to pay the money on your accounts.

If you think your bill is rather large, come and let's talk it over, maybe we could "scale" it down some for the cash.

I thought my practice was among the best classes, but the way they are paying off certainly doesn't look that way.

Come, let's get together. Pay me and let me pay the man I owe and we'll all be glad. Please don't put this matter off, I need it now.

Yours very truly,

V. J. GRAGG.

Chilton Churches Send Missionaries To China

The Chilton County Missionary Baptist Association at its recent annual meeting agreed to pay one hundred dollars on the transportation of the Rev. Frank T. Woodard and family back to China as missionaries. It will be remembered that Mrs. Woodard is a product of Chilton County and a sister of the Rev. G. G. Williams. The amount asked for has been raised and more, the amount raised being $118.10 from the following churches:

Bethsalem, $5.02; Pleasant Grove No. 2 $5.00; Highland, $5.00; Mars Hill, $2.00; Friendship, $3.00; Thorsby, $10.00; New Harmony, $5.10; Pleasant Grove, No. 1, $2.00; Mulberry, $15.00; Chestnut Creek, $10.00; New Salem, $5.25; Mineral Springs, $2.00; Refuge, $3.00; Union Grove, $3.00; Jemison, $14.00; Pilgrims Rest, $2.00; Pates Chapel, $5.45; Corinth, $2.00; Shiloh, $3.01; Macedonia, No. 1, $5.00, and Liberty Hill $11.05.

It is to be hoped that the other churches will send in other funds to be added to this love gift for this noble work. We will be hearing from the Woodards through the columns of this paper. However it will be some time as they have just sailed for China.

BLIND MINISTER IS NAMED FOR POST IN COUNTY BABTIST ASSN.

The Rev. Paul Oden, the blind preacher, has been elected as Missionary to the churches of the Chilton County Association and has already visited three or four churches. His work under the Executive Committee will begin January 1, 1935. His work will be to visit all churches, show pictures of our mission work and also the Life of Christ and that of Paul. Also to preach missionary sermons and do the general work that is necessary to the advancement of the Kingdom work.

The Rev. Oden is well trained for his work and is as interesting speaker and will doubtless have a good hearing on the part of the people of Chilton County. The old adage is "Use me or lose me" and we must use the useful man.

Withered Little Legs May Patter At Play

Renewed hope will bubble in the chests of a score of Chilton county youngsters next Friday morning.

Dreams of happy days out there ahead will fill many little minds. Dreams of racing little feet will bring a glow to pale little cheeks. Little lips will part in a smile of courage.

They will have a right to dream—to smile. For may be they will have their chance in life. It may be that they will be made able to romp and run like other children—to know the full joy of childhood in the same carefree way that they see other youngsters doing.

Miss Nolan Meroney, county child welfare superintendent, has made arrangements to have more than a score of crippled children in this county given a free examination by expert hands at the Crippled Children's Clinic in Montgomery.

It may be found that a minor operation will restore normal usage to many little withered legs. It may be that yet their little feet will patter over the floors as they join with their playmates in games that do not have to be played from a cooped space on the floor from their chairs.

This examination is made possible through the cooperation of the State Departments of Education and Child Welfare, Miss Meroney explained.

MT. CARMEL LADIES SPONSOR BAZAAR NEXT SAT., NOV. 24TH

The ladies of Mt. Carmel Baptist church are gathering articles such as chickens, eggs, syrup, etc., for the bazaar next Saturday, November 24, to be held at Farmers Hardware front, in Clanton, Ala. A new quilt and a guess cake will be called at 2:30 p.m. Pumpkins and probably turkeys will be the Thanksgiving suggestion. All articles sold at market price. This will be a great treat. See the booth, anyway, whether you buy or not.

Black-Draught Brings Refreshing Relief of Constipation Troubles

Constipation produces many disagreeable sensations, several of which are mentioned by Mr. T. E. Stith, of Boonville, Ind., who writes: "I have used Thedford's Black-Draught many years when needed for biliousness and other minor ills when a laxative was needed. I have a tight feeling in my chest when I get bilious. I get dizzy and feel very tired, just don't feel like doing my work. After taking Black-Draught, I feel much better. This is why I continue to use it when needed." . . . Thedford's Black-Draught is a good, purely vegetable laxative, obtainable for 25¢ a package.

IN MEMORY

There is a picture of a smiling face, that within my heart will dwell forever. If only I could have taken his place, no tongue could have expressed the thankfulness whatever.

Still—all things are thine—no gift have we, Lord of all gifts—to offer thee. And so with grateful hearts today thine own before thy feet we lay. And—there is also a picture of a wonderful boy in many of his friends hearts that does remain. Working for God which he seemed to enjoy, who is now with the Savior forever to reign.

BILLINGSLEY DEFEATS VERBENA BY A SCORE OF 14-0

Billingsley football team went over to Verbena Friday, November 16, and played their best game of the season, when they defeated the local team 14-0, after stopping two vigorous threats of the fighting Verbena plungers. Many fans enjoyed the game from the beginning to the end.

Billingsley will close the season by playing Autaugaville at home Friday. We are expecting a large crowd to enjoy another good game.

Remember our Thanksgiving program, which will be given on next Tuesday night, November 27, 7:15 o'clock, in the school auditorium.

Miss Cagle and Miss Manning motored to Montgomery last Saturday to witness the football game between Auburn and Florida.

Our P.-T. A. met in regular session on Thursday night, November 8. As a special feature, Miss Lecroy, teacher of Pilgrims Rest school brought her group of children and presented a very appealing little program. Several parents accompanied them. A total of about 200 were present for both the meeting and exercise. The refreshments committee contributed their bit to the evening's festivities by serving a variety of cakes and punch, composed of fruit juice. Fifteen new members joined our P.-T. A. ranks which now makes an approximate total of 57. Several matters of business were discussed in connection with our drive towards the addition of necessary classroom equipment. Our next regular meeting will be on Thursday night, December. Come out and help make this one our most enthusiastic.

The school well is complete with the exception of installing the pump. An order has been placed for this and we expect it sometime this week.

Another test week is in session. Some expect to advance to a higher mark. We hope none will be listed as a failure in any subject.

Attendance for this month will exceed that of last month. This should be a most gratifying announcement because various forces, such as work, illness, lack of necessary school supplies, etc, has tended from time to time to reduce our attendance percentage to a very low ebb. In no uncertain terms does the writer place special emphasis on regularity in attendance. The mainspring of any measure of life is regularity. It leads to those larger and more abundant degrees of success of which we have all heard in familar tones many times. The Vermont pupils have pledged themselves to not delay their educational attainments by irregular attendance except when unavoidable circumstances force their absence.

School will be dismissed next Wednesday for the Thanksgiving Holidays, so here goes our heartiest good wishes for a most pleasant Thanksgiving season.

Don't forget folks, our Fiddlers Convention has been postponed until Saturday night, December 8. We are not relaxing in our plans to make it a huge success. Tell your friends about it and let's meet and have a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Culp of Mt. Pleasant and Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. Johnson's mother of Jemison.

Several parents visited our school on last Friday evening. That's the proper spirit Vermont parents. Visit your school and see just how the progress of your child is advanced. Their teachers covet your kind cooperation and this is one way in which cooperation can be merited. Come on out and see just what's happening in your school.

We regret deeply the loss of the families of Mr. and Mrs. D. Sansom and Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Gandy. The former is moving te Perry County while the latter is moving to Wilcox County. Both families have been loyal patrons of Vermont School for several years and we are going to miss their presence.

Mr. Fant, County Agent, and Miss Pardue, County Home Demonstration Agent, were in our school last Friday. They successfully organized the boys and girls 4-H Clubs. R. P. Kendrick was elected President of the boys club and his twin sister, Frances, was elected President of the girls club.

The Jr. Three Class met this week and elected class officers. A report of this meeting will be given next week

The boys and girls basketball teams expect to play a couple of practice games with Isabella and Maplesville soon.

We are glad to announce the addition of several new pupils to our school. This brings our enrollment up to 157.

Due to other programs, etc., the staging of the comedy-drama play will be set back until after the Christmas holidays. You will see announcements relative to it later.

Constipation Symptoms Soon Go Away After Use of Black-Draught

Mrs. S. G. Ramey, of Henryetta, Okla., writes that she has taken Thedford's Black-Draught about twenty-five years, when needed, and has "found it very good." "When I have a sour stomach and my mouth tastes bitter, and I feel bilious, sluggish and tired, I will very soon have a severe headache if I don't take something. I have learned to keep off these spells by taking Thedford's Black-Draught. Very soon I am feeling fine. I feel that Black-Draught can't be beaten as a family medicine." . . . Notice to the Public

The Physicians Credit Association will revise its list of delinquents on or about December 1. It also insists that its members (who are all the doctors in the county) strictly keep their obligations, with reference to not allowing credit to the ones who are on the delinquent list. If your name appears on that list, it will be to your interest to see the doctors you owe and make satisfactory settlement with them at once and save yourself trouble, and your doctor embarrassment.

Jemison High School News

All those people taking part in paying for our electric clock system, installed last year are to be commended on taking part in such an unusual project. The clock has been a wonderful factor in adding regularity as it has. We are very glad to announce we made our last payment recently.

Mr. J. R. Ekblad carried his business law class to Clanton last Thursday to hear a criminal case in court. Everyone enjoyed the trip. We feel that it was a very benficial trip as well as one of pleasure.

Miss Leacy Newell, our Home Economics teacher, had a sudden call to Selma because of the illness of her sister, Monday morning.

The loving smile of Miss Celia Cumbee was heartily welcomed Monday morning when she came back to school after an absence of several weeks because of the illness of her mother.

Our library is bigger and better than ever this year as we now have two new sets of encyclopedias and an ample supply of new magazines. New rules have been adapted by the librarians. Our present management of Mrs. Susie Bald deserves honorable mention.

The Jemison High School basketball team was defeated by Felix High School last Friday afternoon, November 16 by a score of 19 and 18. This game was fast and close throughout the contest. Nelson and Cobb were high score men for Jemison, making seven points each.

Felix will return the game Tuesday night, November 27. A very interesting game is promised so everyone is urged to attend. The team will appreciate the support of the student body and community.

There will be an oyster supper sponsored by the P.-T. A., gives at Jemison High School auditorium, Friday night, November 23. Proceeds will go to the school. Everyone come and bring someone with you.

"To be or not to Be"

One—Not the teacher's pet nor yet the school's black sheep. A's do not shine from his report and by their radiance blind all other letters that might by chance have found their way in one precious little block. Nor yet a hero of the gridiron or a mathematics shark—no string of hearts and conquests so coveted by some, add to his laurels. I've heard however, he's the best loved guy in school. No need wondering why—He's just a good fellow!

It makes you long to read a book when you see a charming sketch of it, written in a well-ordered fashion with several of its most catchy scenes, included. Your literary desires become overwhelming by the time you have finished pursuing the review and have glanced over an attractive binding of the mentioned report, portraying in original and novel manner, the character of the book. The Jr. Twos have been doing such as this, each time they complete a book. They have been generous enough to share these pleasures with others.

Book Review—

The magnificent Obsession. It has been said of this great book, that no one reading it, will ever again, be the same. Out of dire curiousity, I read the book. I have tried since then from pure stubborness, I suppose, to convince myself that I was not affected by the book. I know that this is not true. It is a character analysis of a man who grapples with his personality and tries to master it, as a mechanic might control and master a machine. His success in this intricate endeavor is discussed by Lold C. Douglass in his story which is composed of vital human elements, emotions and magical descriptions, together in a surging tide of words which sweep on from the first sentence and grip you until the very last word.

I, Chat, evidently chatted too much last week. Please note or remit or something, that the captain for the girls basketball team has not been chosen for this, our every present year. My mistake. I retreat into the background, shadowy, with maidenly blushes and all that.

Need I remind you, my schoolmates, that those days of this week in which you are breathing naturally, are days in which our brains go to battle with the gray matter of our superiors and we strive to prove we're smarter than they in order that we might convince them of such facts as the possibility of Abe Lincoln helping his father build the rude log cabin in which he was born, et cetera. Here's food for thought—monthly tests are tests not only of knowledge but also for will-power and honor.

The Glee Club of the U. of A. sponsored by the P.-T. A. of the Grammar school, presented their program in the school auditorium on Friday night. It has been some time since Clanton people have been offered the opportunity of listening to a group of voices as well-trained and as rich in talent as were these boys.

Friday's gridiron joust was just another strong link in our ever-growing chain of victories. The stately bleachers, if they may be styled in such dignified English, were swelled considerably by attendance of some of the U. of A. Glee Club stars and starlets. We're all terribly proud and happy'n not too nonchalant over our recent victory. I just hope our spirits won't come crashing down to zero this Friday when we play our last game, with Isabella, and I know they won't. By the way, our friendly enemies last Friday were none other than that Holtville gang.

DEMOCRATS OF NATION ARE "SITTING ON TOP OF WORLD"

Vote Seen As Smashing Vindication Of President Roosevelt And New Deal

Smashing through Republican barriers that have been impregnable for more than half a century, Franklin D. Roosevelt and his new deal policies rolled up the greatest political triumph that has been recorded in an off-year election since the War Between the States.

Pennsylvania went Democratic. That fact alone tells the story of Tuesday's balloting. For when Pennsylvania fell, there fell the citadel of Republicanism and those political precepts which have dominated the American government, with few exceptions, for 60 years. Not even the first Roosevelt (T. R.) in his hey-day, plus Woodrow Wilson and the famous schism of 1912, could accomplish what the New Deal accomplished Tuesday.

The result:

The Democrats picked up 10 seats in the Senate, increasing this total to 70, or four more than two-thirds. Neither party has ever approached those figures.

In the face of all precedent, the Democrats held their own in the House of Representatives. If, indeed, they did not increase their already overwhelming majority. It will take the final figures to tell the story, but it will not be surprising if they reveal 320 Democrats in the Seventy-Fourth Congress as compared with the 313 Democrats elected two years ago in the Roosevelt landslide.

Democratic domination of the new Congress is, of course, assured—not alone from a mathematical standpoint, but also from the fact that the most conspicuous opponents of the New Deal—Senators like Reed in Pennsylvania, Robinson in Indiana, Fess in Ohio—went down to defeat.

The only outspoken Republican critic of the administration who escaped the holacust was Senator Austin in Vermont—and he skimped through by a bare 3,000 votes in a state that has never been represented by a Democrat in Congress.

The Republicans were stunned by the extent of the Democratic sweep. At that,, they were little more surprised than the Democrats themselves. For while administration leaders had hoped for and expected a creditable showing for the New Deal, never in their most optimistic moments had they secretly anticipated anything like what happened.

They thought Jim Farley was talking through his hat a few weeks ago when he said that after this election the Republican party would be reduced to its lowest point of effectiveness since its birth. The bitter truth of that prediction was borne home to them Wednesday as straggling final returns only served to emphasize the magnitude of the Democratic victory.

There was nothing sectional in the New Deal victory. It extended from Maine to the deep South and the Far West, taking in the politically fickle grain belt that runs from Ohio to the Rockies.

Fun Planned At Thorsby Jr. High

A group of young men will present Hogwallow Minstrel at Thorsby Jr. High School on Thursday evening, November 22. This entertainment is one of good clean fun and the proceeds will be used to pay off the balance on the indebtedness incurred in moving the primary department from the basement of the school.

On Thursday evening, November 27, a Fiddlers Convention will be given at Thorsby Jr. High. Fiddlers throughout the county are invited to take part. The following prizes have been donated by Clanton and Thorsby merchants:

1 pair socks, V. J. Elmore; 1 pair work gloves, The Leader; 1 mans' tie, Chicago Sales; 1 pound fruit cake, Ward Baking Co.; 1 pair mens' socks, Tom Kemp Merchandise Co.; 1 lb. box of chocolate, Thorsby Fruit Store; $1 hammer, Thotsby Hardware Co.; 1 lb. can Maxwell House Coffee, Thorsby Cash Store; 1 48-lb. sack of flour, Thorsby Meat Market and Grocery Store.

1 24-lb. sack of flour, Willis & Scott Grocery; 1 pair mens' socks, A. L. Bean's Grocery Store; 1 work shirt, G. F. Harper; 1 call, Dr. H. G. Franklin; 5 gallons gasoline, Thorsby Garage; 1 fountain pen, Wright's Soda Fount; 1 pipe and can of tobacco, Wyatt Drug Co.; 1 inner tube, Franklin Garage.

HIGHLAND

Last Sunday afternoon was our regular singing afternoon. We had a large crowd and some good singers. We were really glad to have the visitors with us and invite them back again.

The opening song was led by the assistant Chairman, Mr. Fonzie Coe, after which prayer was led by Mr. S. J. M. Webb.

Directors for the afternoon were: Messrs. Corneilus Hand, William Cox, Johnnie Minor, Sovereign Dickey, Herman Culpepper, and Miss Gladys Wyatt and Ruby Weldon. Pianist for the afternoon was Miss Dessie Wyatt. Closing prayer was led by Mr. M. D. Dickey.

Don't forget we have our singing every third Sunday afternoon and invite one and all to come and be with us.

We wish to thank the people of this community and other communities for their cooperation with us last Friday night at ur box-supper. We appreciate the good behavior very much and ask you to come and be with us again.

The Junior Three Class is planning on staging a play in the near future. We hope to have everyone out here with us. Watch the papers for further announcements. The name of this play is "Her Aunt Elvira." Come and be with us, you will not regret seeing this play. It will furnish you plenty of laughter.

We were glad to have the Liberty Hill Quartet with us Tuesday morning during the chapel exercises. They sang several songs, which were enjoyed by all the school children, and some outsiders who were present. We hope to have them with us again soon.

Don't forget to watch the papers for further announcements of the play. Save up your dimes and quarters and be ready to come to the play.

at night unless he was under guard. Several other physicians were placed on the stand to prove that it was possible for a man to use whiskey and drugs to such an extent over a period of years that his mental and nervous faculties would be dulled to such a degree that he would not be responsible for his actions.

Testimony was given that Gray consumed as much as two cases of flavoring extract, which contains a high percentage of alcohol, in one day. John Gray said that he had known him to take as many as a dozen sodium amatal (Blue Bird capsules) in a day. At the time of the slaying of Harvey Chandler, it was proven that he had been using drugs for several days. Deputy Lewis Gillespie testified that he found a quantity of these capsules in his coat pocket shortly after he was arrested.

The slaying occurred on Saturday, August 4, shortly after noon. Gray and Chandler were together in Chandler's room at the old Thornton hotel building, when other occupants of the building told officers they heard two or three shots. When officers reached the scene, Chandler was lying on the bed and was already dead from a 32-calbre bullet wound in the abdomen, and Gray was sitting on the side of the bed holding Chandler's hand.

Gray was represented in the trial by Lawrence F. Gerald. Winston Huddleston, circuit solictor, headed the prosecution.

Members of the jury were: Wallace Foshee, Jim D. Hill, D. L. (Bud) Coe, John Childress, J. D. Haggard, W. Arthur Honeycutt, Sanford M. Devaughn, Emmett E. Marlar, Leonard Gentry, W. Bryant Crowe, Luke Garner, and Zebedee McDowell. S. M. Devaughn acted as foreman.

"Now I'm the Picture of Health," Says Lady After Taking CARDUI

Here is how Cardui helped an Alabama lady. . . . "I suffered from pains in my back and sides," writes Mrs. A. G. Gray, of Cusseta, Ala. "I was so thin and weak, I read of Cardui and decided to take it. I noticed at once it was helping me. I kept taking Cardui until I had finished five bottles. I gained. My health was much better. Now I am the picture of health. My color is good and my weight increased." . . . Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, nsult a physician.

Collector W. G. Culp. The hospital was exempted by Mr. Culp on the grounds of insolvency, when it should have been exempted because of the amount of its charity work. This resulted in an error in 1932.

Repeated efforts have been made to get the matter straightened out, Dr. Gragg said, but Mr. Culp has offered little cooperation in the matter, when he is well aware of the fact that this institution should not be subject to taxation, Dr. Gragg avered.

Dr. Gragg did not divulge any plans for correcting what he termed "Culp's error," but said that the sale will in no way intefere with the hospital's operation.

Mrs. M. R. Orr, Miss Dolly Harris, and Miss Ressie Harris spent the week end in Guin, Ala., with Mrs. Louise Harrison. On the return trip they stopped in Birmingham to see President Roosevelt.

Farmers Conference At Tuskegee

The forty-fourth annual Negro Farmers Conference will convene Wednesday, December 5. The general them for discussion will be "Rehabilitation and the Negro" in town, city and county. Mr. Thad Holt of Alabama Relief Administration will be the principal speaker.

There will be group meetings for farmers, teachers, preachers and persons integested in industry. It is hoped that at least 25 persons will represent Chilton County. The Chilton County party will leave Clanton at 6:30 Wednesday morning. See me and I can arrange your trip.

N. F. A. Club News

The members of the club are offering their assistance to farmers who would like to have their old orchards renovated. Already they have agreed to help Mr. L. A. Price and Mr. Otho McKinney. They stand ready to help any farmer improve his orchard.. Let them help you. They are already going forward with terracing.

Debate

The N.F. A. and H. E. Clubs are planning a debate in the near future. The subject is "Resolve, that Home Economics is more important than Vocational Agriculture." This debate promises to be very hotly centested with representatives on each side saying they can't lose.

Evening School Organized

Miss Rose U. Lee, teacher of Home Economics has just organized her adult evening class with a large enrollment. It is hoped that home-makers in the community will come out and learn how one might make the home a better and more comfortable place in which to live.

Voters Approve City Hall And Water Mains

BIDS ON BOTH JOBS COMING

Only A Few Voice Their Disapproval Of The Proposed Jobs

Although the vote in the re-submission Monday of the question of whether or not the people of Clanton favored the issuing f $16,600 worth of municipal bonds for the purpose of building a city hall, and the issuing of $6,900 for the extension of the Town's watermains, was exceptionally small, both propositions were carried overwhelmingly.

Only four votes were cast in opposition to the waterworks extension, compared to 147 for it, and eight against the city hall bonds with 143 votes in its favor. This is the second time this question has been submitted to the voters of Clanton. Not many months ago it was carried overwhelmingly, but because of some minor error it was found to be necessary that it be resubmitted.

Bids on both jobs have already been asked for and will be opened December 12, according to information given the News this week.

COURT DOCKET ALMOST CLEAR AS WEEK ENDS

Long Clogged Docket Is Cut Down By The Judge And Attorneys

With the closing of the second week of the criminal term of Circuit Court in Chilton County, the county's criminals term of Circuit Court in Chilton County, the county's criminal docket is perhaps nearer clear than at any time during the past three years. Far more than fifty per cent of the 286 cases docketed for trial during the term were disposed of, according to information from the office of the circuit court clerk J. Z. Mims.

Thirteen Chilton Countians who were sentenced to terms in the penitentiary during the recent term of Circuit Court have already been transferred to state institutions to begin their sentences. Several others are expected to leave some time this week, according to Sheriff W. H. Gillespie.

Following is a list of those who were sentenced last week:

Hugh Lockhart, VPL, 89 days; John W. Bean, manufacturing whiskey, 13 to 19 months; Howard Chapman, burglary and grand larceny, 18 months to two years; John William Maherg, bigamy, two to two and one-half years; Lonnie Rhodes, VPL, 75 days; Winfred Cleckler, VPL, 81 days; Charlie Kirkland, VPL, 181 days; Claude Hunt, VPL, 82 days; Jadie Mims, VPL, 76 days; J. C. Goodson, assault and battery, six months and seventy days; Walter Quarles, murder, life; Willie Henderson, second degree murder, 20 years; George Hardy, burglary and grand larceny, 13 to 19 months.

Cases disposed of during the second week of the term were as follows:

HARDY-CHILDRESS WEDDING OF WIDE INTEREST IN COUNTY

Of interest to many people in Chilton County was the recent wedding of Mrs. Roberta Childress of Thorsby to Mr. J. R. Hardy, of Clanton.

The ceremony was performed Thursday evening by Dr. S. J. Ezell at the Baptist parsonage in Clanton in the presence of a few close friends and members of the families.

Mrs. Childress before her former marriage was Miss Roberta Bean, and is well known in Clanton, having held responsible positions with several of Clanton's business firms. Mr. Hardy is chief of police in Clanton and was recently elected sheriff on the Democratic ticket.

FINAL DRIVE IN RED CROSS MEMBERSHIPS

Produce Will Be Taken As Payment For Membership Cards

The annual Red Cross Roll call, which has been in progress since Armistice Day, will come to a close with the end of this week. Officially the drive for membership would end on Thanksgiving Day, but Mr. J. Mell Martin, roll call chairman for Chilton County, stated Monday that he will not end the campaign in this county until Saturday night this week.

The response of membership enrollments has been highly gratifying so far, according to Mr. Martin, but he insists that workers continue solicitation up to Saturday night, in order that Chilton's quota of 500 members may be reached.

Workers in some rural communities have requested information about the matter of accepting produce in payment of Red Cress memberships. Mr. Martin has worked out a plan whereby such can be accepted, and he urges all workers to accept either good thick sorghum syrup, can syrup, or corn, in payment of Red Cross memberships. The syrup must be in gallon cans, or if a large quantity, in barrels.

Any roll call worker is, therefore, authorized to accept syrup or corn and issue membership cards to the persons from whom received. Mr. Martin wishes it to be understood that sweet potatoes can not be accepted for this purpose.

All workers are urged to continue their efforts and completely cover the field of prospects during this week, and make prompt reports of all members enlisted directly to Mr. Martin immediately after the end of this week.

Five Chilton Crippled Tots Will Be Treated

There is reason for thanksgiving in at least five homes in Chilton County this week. For five of the crippled children taken to the Clinic in Montgomery last week may be made able to walk, according to Miss Nolen Meroney, child welfare superintendent, who said that these children are to be treated by Dr. Skinner, of Selma.

Twenty-one children from Chilton County were taken to Montgomery to the district clinic for crippled children held last Friday for an examination. Five of these it was learned could have their troubles corrected more easily than some of the others, and they will be treated from a special fund for this purpose.

One little seven-year-old girl who has never taken a step in her life will soon be able to walk is the hope of those in charge of the treatment. She suffered an attack of infantile paralysis when only a few months old.

Another child, a girl of 14, it was found can be enabled to walk with a simple operation; and there are three other from Chilton County who will receive treatment at the Kings Memorial Hospital in Selma.

SINGING AT COOPERS NEXT SUNDAY P. M. AT 2 O'CLOCK

The News is requested to announce that the Coopers Singing Society will meet at the Coopers church next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. All singers and others interested in good music are invited to attend.

Thanksgiving

Again the season of the year has arrived when the frost is on the pumpkin and the corn is in the crib. The season for relaxation and meditation is here. It is the season to calmly take stock of those blessings received during the year and render thanks to the Giver of all good gifts.

This beautiful custom was handed down to us from those staunch old ancestors, who in 1621 gathered together in the fall and gave thanks to God for protection from the Indians and deprivations of a life in an unknown land.

It had been a stormy year, and many had failed to survive the struggle, but there on bended knees they set the precedent for the beautiful custom of Thanksgiving.

Let us pause a minute today and think how much more we have to be thankful for than did those grizzly forefathers of ours. They were thankful for the bare necessities of a life in a wilderness. Let us take stock today of our lives; let us see how much more thankful we should be. Think of the millions of improvements that make our lots beds of roses compared to those for which the Pilgrims knelt in sincere thanks to their God.

We have just passed through a stormy crisis and apparently we are on the way to happier days. Should we not make today more than just the observance of a beautiful custom—Should we not make it a true Thanksgiving, in that same reverent spirit that filled the hearts of our forefathers, who knelt there under the skies in 1621?

The News gratefully accepts this opportunity to express its sincere appreciation for the loyal support of our friends. We feel that we have made progress, and you, our friends, have made it possible. We thank you.

Thanksgiving Program Is Ready For Thursday

Program Begins At Ten O'Clock On Thursday Morning; Local Speakers To Appear On Program To Be At Court House

Final plans for the County-wide Thanksgiving program which is to be held at the court house in Clanton on Thursday morning, are fast being completed, according to County Agent J.W. Fant and Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent, who have charge of the program.

Mr. Fant will preside at the presentation, which will begin at 10 o'clock and continue until noon. "The Purpose of this Thanksgiving meeting" will be the first feature on the program, followed by the singing of "America" by the entire audience.

One of the local ministers will read a brief scripture and conduct prayer. "Historical Background of Thanksgiving" will be another feature of the program. J. N. Dennis, president of the Farm Bureau, will render the President's Proclamation, and "Alabama's Crop, Facts and Figures" will be given by Howard Roper.

Recently elected Representative C.B. Cox and Senator Earle Thomas will appear on the program and discuss "Farm Bureau Members Part in Continuing the New Farm Program." "The Outline of the County's Plan for Continuing the Program" will also be discussed.

The following letter is being mailed to thousands of persons in Chilton County urging them to attend this meeting and join in the county-wide rendering of thanks for this year's blessings:

"Dear Farm And Women Leaders:

"As the Thanksgiving Season approaches it is only fitting that we stop and give thanks for the many, many blessings we are privileged to enjoy each day. Without thinking, we are sometimes guilty of doing just as the pig that grunts his satisfaction as he eats the acorns and never looks up to thank the old oak tree. So—

"We are inviting all the farm men and women in the county to meet in the court room at 10:00 a.m., Thursday, November 29, for a short Thanksgiving service.

"Make your plans to come to the meeting promptly at 10:00 a.m., and you will be home in ample time for your turkey dinner. The program will consist of congregation singing, quartets, new cotton program, and Thanksgiving service.

"Attendance ot this meeting should come before every other consideration. Do not let ANYTHING keep you from coming."

Sincerely your County Agents,
—J. W. FANT, County Agent;
—RUTH PARDUE, Home Agent.

J. Renfroe Mullins Advised Of Election To Howard College Board

In a letter from T. V. Neal, president of Howard College, J. Renfroe Mullins, manager of the Clanton business firm of J. R. Mullins Company, was advised that he has been named a member of the Board of Trustees of this institution, of which he is an alumnus.

Mr. Mullins was elected at a recent convention of the Alumni held in Birmingham. President Neal immediately notified him of his election.

Election to a membership on the Board of Trustees of one's alma mater is considered one of the highest possible honors that can be paid one by the institution. In discussing his election, Mr. Mullins said that he considered it a great compliment, declaring that it will be his aim to render the best service of which he is capable to the institution and its students.

Following is President Neal's letter to Mr. Mullins:

"Mr. J. Renfroe Mullins,
Clanton, Alabama.
Dear Mr. Mullins:

I am pleased to advise you the recent State Convention elected you a member of Howard College. You were good enough to advise me that you would serve so I am looking forward with pleasure to cooperating with you in the interest of a "greater Howard."

"Official confirmation of your election has been received from the Secretary of the Convention.

Cordially yours,
T. V. Neal."

Mr. Mullins and several other members of the Alumni motored to Birmingham Friday night to attend the Annual Alumni Banquet.

Mr. Mullins was a member of the class of 1900, when he received a B.S. Degree in business administration.

Jane Roberts Attends Ball In Birmingham

Miss Jane Roberts, popular daughter of Mrs. Barney Roberts, represented Clanton at the Debutantes' Ball in Birmingham last Friday night, when she presented Clanton's contribution to the Crippled Children's Clinic Fund, which is being sponsored by various clubs and social organizations of the state.

The Birmingham Post had the following to say about Miss Roberts in an extensive story of the affair published on the society page in Saturday's paper:

Clanton Represented

"From Clanton came Miss Jane Roberts, whose escort was Edward Mullins. She wore a white taffeta frock with square neckline. A double row of ruffles reached from the shoulder around the waist. The skirt had inserted flares at the sides. A clasp of rhinestones fastened the sash. She wore a corsage of roses. Miss Roberts, the daughter of Mrs. Barney Roberts, is a junior at Woman's College in Montgomery where she is specializing in music."

"MOON SHY" AT BILLINGSLEY HIGH SCHOOL SAT. NIGHT

The faculty of Billingsley Vocational High School will present "Moon Shy" a farce comedy in three acts Saturday night, December 8, at the Billingsley High School auditorium.

This is a clean comedy that you will be delighted with—full of laughs. Scene, the living room of a summer cottage by the sea. Don't fail to see Esmerald who says she is a man-hater; Duke, the maid's burglar beau; and E. Mortimer Perkins, goodness, how shy.

CONGRESSMAN OLIVER SPEAKS

Other Speakers Add Much To Program Here On Last Thursday Night

Members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club and visitors at the regular weekly meeting last Thursday night were told that it is the efforts and influences of just such organizations as the civic clubs which has resulted in producing a civilization in America that greatly surpasses that of most of the European countries.

Congressman W.B. (Buck) Olver who recently returned from a extended tour of Europe and Asia declared that the people in many locations there are living in very much the same manner that they did 2,500 years ago. Much of the credit, he declared, for the advancement of civilization in the United States is due civic and religious organizations.

Congressman Olver, who is one of the right hand men of President Roosevelt in the furtherance of his program of a New Deal for the American people outlined and discussed [illegible] phases of the administration's efforts at preventing retrogression and continuing advancement in our nation.

Besides Mr. Oliver, several other outstanding guests were present. Judge J. Fritz Thompson, who held court here last week, was the guest of J. B. Atkinson, and spoke briefly of his visit in Chilton County

Miss Kittye Clyde Austin, social director for this county, was a speaker on Thursday night's program. She discussed in detail the aims of the new rehabilitation program which is soon to be begun in this and other counties of the state. This program, Miss Austin declared, seems to be the most feasible plan which has bten put into effect since the beginning of the government's efforts to help its more unfortunate citizens to regain a foothold in the economic world.

Another speaker of the evening was Miss Nolen Meroney, child welfare superintendent, who told of the work that is being done by this department to help crippled and other unfortunate children. Miss Meroney has been connected with this work in the county for only a few weeks, but she declared that she has received the most splendid cooperation and said that she believes the work is going to accomplish much in building a better-fitted manhood and womanhood in Chilton County in the years to come

Spends Full Day In Clanton Before Making Hurried Trip To Wash'gton

Coming to Chilton County for a brief visit before returning to Washington, Congressman W. B. Oliver spent last Thursday in Clanton and vicinity seeing as many citizens as possible.

He was prevailed on by his friends to stay over Thursday night to be a guest at the regular weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton at which he was the principal speaker.

Congressman Oliver stated while here that the government is doing all possible to carry on the program of reconstruction throughout the Southland and told of several new phases of the program which is rapidly making progress and placing the country on an even keel.

He plans to leave shortly for Washington, having received a summons to attend several important committee meetings prior to the convening of Congress.

Easy To Follow

To fly from London to Melbourne in less than three days may seem at first sight an extraordinary feat. Yet nothing could be simpler than the story as summarized by The Canadian Press yesterday and printed in The New York Times under the heading, "How Scott and Black Won." This is how they did it:

Saturday, 6:30 a. m., left Mildenhall Airdrome; 8:15 p. m., left Kirkuk after short halt to get gasoline; 9:00 p. m., arrived at Baghdad; 9:33 p. m., left Baghdad. Sunday, 9:15 a. m., arrived Allahabad :10:15 a. m., left Allahabad; 10:23 p. m., arrived Singapore; . Monday, 11:08 a. m., arrived Darwin; 1:55 p. m. left Darwin; 10:40 p. m., arrived Char'eville. Tuesday, 12:59 a. m., left Charleville; 5:53, p. m., arrived Melbourne.

That is all there was to it. As in the case of all great human achievements, the secret is that there was no secret. You leave London and arrive at Baghdad, leave Baghdad and arrived at Allahabad, leave Allahabad and ultimately get to Melbourne. That was the way "Hamlet" was written. Having finished Act I, the author started won Shiloh, then he took Richmond. First he won Shiloh, won Shiloh, then he too Richmond. First he won Shiloh, the he took Vicksburg, then he captured Petersburg, then he accepted Lee's surrender at Appomattox, and so got to Richmond.—New York Times.

Fighting Fires Before They Start

Most of us think of firemen only as capable firefighters, ready to dash into burning buildings, to save lives and to direct powerful streams of water against the flames. How far modern fire departments have progressed from this is emphasized by three recent news reports:

In New York City, firemen installed several protective devices and safety materials in a condemned tenement house, and in order to test them, set the structure on fire. Although considerable inflammable material had been distributed in the building and fires were started in different places, the tenement refused to burn. Automatic sprinklers and other safeguards put out the flames as fast as they were started.

In Indianapolis, during Fire Prevention Week, the fire department gave a demonstration of extinguishing oil and gasoline fires, to show that this type of fire shoud never be fought with water. The fires were quickly extinguished by the use of foam.

Another report tells of firemen who are attending Fire College and studying fire engineering. As many as 10,000 enrolled for the courses this year. Some of the subjects taught are chemistry, poison gases, rating, and building code.

All of this checks with reports received at the National Board of Fire Underwriters, showing that firemen are cooperating splendidly in efforts to educate people to the danger of fire hazards. Firemen inspect homes and business establishment and recommend necesary improvement and changes They give talks in schools, before civic clubs and over radio stations, and often are interviewed by newspapers for articles on fire prevention. They are doing their part to make America safe against fire, and shou'd have the cooperation of every citizen.

Train Tomorrow's Drivers Today!

High schools throughout the country are being called upon by leading educators to enact a major role in solving the automobile accident problem. Theirs is the task, it is said, to put a more careful and competent generation of motor car driver on the streets and highways by making instructions in safe driving a credited part of the regu'ar scholastic curriculum.

As a contribution to this cause, and to give the schools definite tools with which to work, the Education Division of te National Safety Council in New York City has prepared a textbook on the subject called: "Good Driving—A Manual for the High Schools." The book was prepared under the direction of a secondary school committee consisting of such men as Dr. Thomas Gos'ing, Director of the Junior Red Cross; Francis L. Bacon, principal of the Evanston, Ill., Township High School; Prof. E. K. Fretwell of Columbia, and Prof. Robbins B. Stoeckel of Yale.

In brief, the manuel attempts to describe what an automobile is and how to operate it. It is illustrated with charts and photographs and contains a list of references material for those who wish to develop special topics. Six units of instruction are outlined: Automobile in modern life, the automobile, the driver, the operation of an automobile on the highway, accidents, and accident prevention.

The importance of this work is emphasized by the fact that in some states there is no law to prevent a child from stepping from the tiller of his kiddie car to the wheel of a highpowered automobile. In no state is there any legal provision requiring pre-license instruction. Last year automobiles killed nearly 30,000 persons.

The opportunity for high schools to perform an invaluable service to humanity could hardly be greater.

Thanksgiving Day

Thanksgiving Day, as we know it, is a distinctively American institution, although festivals of similar import may be traced back many hundreds of years. The Hebrew Feast of the Tabernacles, the Greek Thesmophoria, the Roman Cerealia and the English Harvest Home all appear to have had something in common with our national holiday.

Immediately after the first harvest of the Pilgrims in 1621 Thanksgiving was first observed in America. Similar observances were instituted by other colonies—by Massachusetts in 1630, by Connecticut in 1639, and by New Netherlands in 1644. During the Revolution several Thanksgiving Days were appointed by the Continental Congress.

President George Washington designated November 26, 1789, as "a day of public thanksgiving and prayer," and in 1795 he made a similar designation. President Madison appointed a day of thanksgiving at the close of the War of 1812. Various states observed the day irregularly during succeeding years, but it was not until 1864 that the day became a fixed annual event.

In that year President Lincoln appointed the fourth Thursday of November as a day of national Thanksgiving by official proclamation, and the example thus set has been followed by all succeeding Presidents.

Washington's original Thanksgiving proclamation is preserved in the Library of Congress. The precious document was lost for more than 100 years, until it was discovered among some Washington manuscripts being auctioned in New York in 1921, when it was purchased for $300 and restored it to the government archives.

Recently a blunt-nosed train, looking much like a rocket on wheels, rolled into the Grand Central Station in New York. Bearing the name, "M-10001," it brought with it, in the words of the New York Herald Tribune, "the railroad's answer to aviation." Only 57 hours before, it had left Los Angeles—a continent away. Counting all stops, it averaged almost a mile a minute on the run—and those aboard spent but two business days in transit.

M-10001 is a new development by the Union Pacific Railroad, which has pioneered so many phases of transport in the past. Stream-lined to the highest practical degree, and built of aluminum, the train represents the ultimate in comfort, speed and efficiency. It marks a new forward step in the long march of development of surface transportation.

It is a far cry from the day when the golden spike was driven, marking the completion of the first transcontinental railroad, and a wheezy locomotive moved forward to the shouts of jubilant thousands, to the day when the M-10001 pulled triumphantly into New York. The best in railroad travel of that time was much inferior to the worst of the present. Yet, as time is measured, the spike was driven only yesterday—almost all of the major progress in railroad transport has taken place within living memory. The American railroads have shown a spirit of aggressiveness and the "will to achieve" that constitutes one of the most dramatic and inspiring pages in our industrial annals.

To quote the Herald Tribune again, "It is hard to doubt that passenger travel on the railroads is entering a new period." When the M-10001 crossed the United States, clipping off a mile every sixty seconds, it made transportation history.

A Century Of Progress

From the advent of the railroad until the beginning of practical aerial transportation there elapsed approximately a century. The mighty advances of science and invention which came in between these epochal events were so great as to tax the imagination. Within the span of these hundred years a thousand marvels have been born, which it would take months or research to enumerate and describe. Consider a few jotted down offhand:

Railroads, steel ships, perfected cotton gins, the telegraph, the telephone, photography, the phonograph, the sewing machine, anaesthetics, sanitation, the X-ray, radium, motion pictures, automobiles, radio, aircraft, television and many others, together with inumerable improvements and refinements which have been added to the original inventions and discoveries.

The advance of the past hundred years appears all the more remarkable when we reflect that mankind had lived and labored under some sort of civilization 10,000 years. The achievements of the last century have been greater than those of all the hundred centuries which preceded it.

These achievements were strikingly portrayed by the big fair held in Chicago this year in celebration of "a century of progress."

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

The man who claims to know affirms that there is nothing in the universe that is absolutely still. He says that if a man should climb to the top of a mountain and there come to absolute rest, that the atmosphere of our world, as light as it is, would sweep by him at the rate of nineteen thousand miles per second, and that this friction would set him on fire and burn him into ashes in less time than a seconl. That statement, if true, leads us to say that we are living in a moving universe and that we are going somewhere all the time. Whether that statement be true or not we know that we should be progressive and that we should fear standing still. In this life we must keep moving or we will rust out, burn out or rot out. "Move on" is the loud voice of nature, and we must move or get run over.

A scientist of Vienna put several dollar bills under close observation. The bills were worn and ragged from circulation and the scientist was trying to find out if the money had become infected in its travels through the purses and pockets of the trading world. The result of his investigation showed that on each bill there were not less than nineteen thousand microbes of surh diseases as Diptheria, Tuberculosis, Small-pox, Sex impurities, etc., The bil's were literally working alive with infection and impurities of all kinds If our money becomes infected with microbes when it passes through our hands how much more so will we infect society when we are living the low life. If every evil use to which we put our money infects it, how careful we should be with our earthly treasures. We hear much being said in these days about "tainted Money" and we must say that it is tainted in more ways than one.

I was standing on the sidewalk and was observing an old darkey as he quietly drove his mule team down the street. He was making about four miles an hour and all the automobiles had to honk their horns and pass him by. At that moment I heard the shriek of the fire cheif's car and everything in the street roosted on the curbstone. The chief went by at the rate of a mile a minute and everybody gave him room. The obstacles that loom in a man's way are determined by the speed he is making. If you are driving through life with the momentum of a mule wagon, you will be troubled with traffic, but if you go through life with will power and speed, the world wil give you room. We have the habit of roosting on the sidewak when a man of momentum is going by. Obstacles will get out of your way if you are a going man.

In my boyhood days I would often run across large droves of wild turkeys on the old home plantation. As a lad I observed that the small turkeys would fly at once when frightened, but that the large gobblers would run forty or fifty feet before taking the air. I reasoned that the heavy bodies of the large turkeys required momentum before their wings would lift them into the air, and that was why the turkey woull run before flying. Men who have the weight of character, when they meet temptation, wi'l give to themselves periods of right thinking. Thus running on the legs of the best thoughts they give to their soul life momentum and they are able to fly above the temptations that would ruin them. The momentum of right thinking and right living will give to any man elevation of soul, it matters not as to the testing hour. Blessed is the man who can run from temptation and then fly.

Beneath my parsonage window where I sit and study there is a cluster of flowers that belong to the lily variety. In the early fall this bunch of flowers decided to bloom, and they bloomed in profusion. For two weeks I enjoyed a vase of beautiful lilies just outside the window. Then those blooms died and I thought that the lilies had done their do, but not so. I saw new life coming from the joints of the old stalk and I heard that stalk say, "I believe that I can bloom again", and it did. Not one time but many times it bloomed. When frost came on those old stalks were still saying, "I think that I can bloom again," and they did. When you have done well how many times have you felt like quitting? It matters not what you may do, say to yourself, "I think that I can do some more", and then do it. Keep on a keeping on.

LOWERY-LITTLEFIELD WEDDING EVENT OF RECENT DATE

Of cordial interest to a wide circle of friends throughout this section was the marriage of Mr. Herman Lowery and Miss Olyce Littlefield last Saturday night, November 17, at the home of the Rev. Davis of Mineral Springs community. The nuptial vows were taken in the presence of a few close friends of the bride and groom.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Littlefield of Meneral Springs, and her charming personality has won for her a host of friends in that and surrounding communities.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Baker and the grandson of the Rev. W. P. Lowery, widely known in this county. He has been connected with the Alabama Harness & Shoe Shop in Clanton for quite a while, and has many friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowery will make their home in Clanton.

A PLUCKY WOMAN

Of recent years many women explorers have braved the dangers of mountain, river and jungle in search of adventure or scientific knowledge, or both. Among them Mrs. Alicia Renthall, an English woman, is one of the most daring.

For 20 years she has been traversing remote wild regions, mostly on foot, and has been around the world six times. Her wanderings have carried her across Africa several times, as well as into Tibet, Arabia, Syria. India, Central America and elsewhere.

One remarkable characteristic of Mrs. Renthall is that in her jungle explorations she goes unarmed, carrying nothing more formidable than an umbrella. She recently said:—

"I have been quite close to lions and leopards in the bush, but they have never harmed me or any of my carriers. I always go unarmed, and I think wild animals know by instinct that I have no desire to kill."

While admiring Mrs. Renthall's superb courage and taking her word for the harmlessness of lions and leopards, most folks would shrink from penetrating an African jungle armed only with an umbrella.

Fairview Club Thanks Miss Pardue For Help

To the Commissioners Court of Chilton County:

We are writing to try to express the appreciation for the faith and outstanding worker of the county, Miss Pardue. We feel that our county has been helped in worth beyond dollars and cents.

There has been cold and needy children helped by her demonstrations, especially the demonstrations given on making clothing from socks, renovation of garments and all the demonstrations on canning and preserving foods. Through her work the county has furnished cans for half of products for those who were not able to buy them. There are numbers of other things which might be added but the work she has done is proving for itself the help she has been. As for our club, we feel that none other could have done any more and we appreciate her so much. We feel that she is not getting the salary that she should.

No one knows the hours of hard thinking and work she does but herself. She has been so faithful; she never misses going to meet the clubs on their meeting days. We all know that her expenses are very great. She buys patterns and other demonstration materials which amounts to approximately $10.00 per month, besides the upkeep of her car, which we know is great because she has so much territory to cover.

As a club we feel that saying the least she should get a raise of $25 per month and part if not all, of her gas. She really is receiving the smallest salary of any person in the county, doing that kind of work, and she should be receiving equally as much as anyone.

We sincerely hope you Commissioners will consider the salary question and help Miss Pardue as much as possible. We thank you all so much for getting Miss Pardue in the county. We wish each of you Commissioners could attend some of our meetings and see the good you did by getting Miss Pardue into the county.

Thanks,

—The Fairview Demonstration Club.

WITH THE STUDENTS OF ISABELLA HIGH SCHOOL

Isabella Scores Over Clanton 6 to 0

On Friday afternoon, November 23rd, Isabella played Clanton on Clanton's home field. The enthusiasm of this game was running high, and the two teams put forth every effort to win the game. Neither team scored until the last quarter, when Will L. Martin ran for a touchdown, making the score 6 to 0, in favor of Isabella.

"Antics of Andrew" presented by Sr.'s

On Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock, the Senior Class presented the "Antics of Andrew." The play was a great success, being one of the best plays ever given at Isabella. The proceeds of the play will go to help pay for the school clock.

The Senior Class held a class meeting on Monday, November 26. The meeting was called to order by the President, Clifford Manning. The date of graduation has been set for January 14. The following have been selected by the class to prepare their speeches for Class Night: Poet, Avoline Jones; Historian, Will L. Martin; Giftorian, Bill Jones; Prophet, Clifford Manning; Class Will, Braxton Lecroy; Pianist, Ruth Martin. The meeting was then adjourned.

CHICOHI CHATTER

With Indians as guests of honor, about tables loaded with game and fish, wild fruits from the forests and cornbread and vegetables from their new gardens, the Pilgrim Fathers celebrated their first American harvest festival in October 1621, the first Autumn of the exiles from their new homes.

A quaint old account thus describes the occasion:

"Our harvest being gotten in, our Governor sent foure men on fowling so that we might after a more special manner rejoyce together after we had gathered together the fruit of our labours. They foure in one day killed as much flowle as, with a little help beside, served the camp almost a weeke." Many of the Indians, among them Chief Massasoit, the Pilgrim's friend and ally, joined in the three-day's feasting.

Since Lincoln's time, each president has set aside the last Thursday in November for a like festival, so that Thanksgiving Day is now as firmly fixed as a national festival as the Fourth of July itself.

Although Thanksgiving Day is wholly an American institution, like festivals are held sometimes in the Fall, all over the world.

"Be thankfu, for God is good—."

Book Review:

The following paragraphs are excerpts from a book review written in letter form, by Margaret Davis, Sr. III:

"I have just finished the book which the Grand Duchess Marie of Prussia, has written telling the story of her life. I enjoyed it so much that I could not resist writing and telling you of it.

"The book is the true story of the Grand Duchess' life and education. She was the neice of the Emperor of Russia, her father being the youngest of the Royal brothers. Because of his marriage to a commoner, her father was exiled from Russia. Marie and her younger brother were greatly attached to their handsome father, and were inconsolable over the separation. Their uncle, Grand Duke Serge, was appointed their guardian. At the age of 18, Marie was married to the Crown Prince of Sweden."

Margaret goes on to tell of Marie's annulment of her marriage and her work in the World War. This is an interesting true story of royal life.

DATE OF ANNUAL TUSKEGEE FARMERS CONF. ANNOUNCED

Tuskegee, Ala., Nov. 26.—The forty-fourth annual session of the Tuskegee Negro Conference will be held at Tuskegee Institute, December 5, 1934. The conference this year will be held for for one day only. The general subject for the conference is "Rehabiltation and the Negro.,,

In as much as the Alabama state setup in rehabiltation plans and methods has been so highly recommended to the other statesby the Federal government the principal guest speaker for this year will be an outstanding Alabama official. Invitations will be issued in a few days and definite details of the program will be announced at an early date.

It is hoped that all county superintendents, probate judges and plantation owners will give their cooperation in getting the Negro farmers and teachers interested and in making it possible for them to attend. Whatever helps the negro farmer to help himself will help the white merchant and the entire community and the South.

Weathering the Depression as We Have, We Feel Very Grateful Indeed to Any and All Individuals, Firms or Corporations That Have Contributed to Our Success, as Indicated by Above Cond. Statement.

This Bank Completed 15 Years of Successful Service on the 19th Day of November, 1934.

1st Year Postal Surplus Double Estimate, July

Last July, while President Roosevelt was in Hawaii, Postmaster General Farley reported to him that preaudited figures for the fiscal year ending June 30 indicated a surplus of "approximately $5,000,000." This compared with a net deficit of $152,246,188 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, and a set deficit of $50,685,605 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933, which included the first four months of Roosevelt administration.

In reporting to the President in mid-November that postal revenues continue to show an increase, and that the gain in October was 11 per cent over October, 1933, Mr. Farley said:

"The audited figures for the last fiscal years are now available and I am more than gratified to be able to inform you that these show a surplus of $12,161,415.03, after making the adjustments authorized by the Act of June 6, 1930, for certain subventions and free-mailing privileges.

"This surplus is the first one shown in the operations of the Post Office Department since 1919 and is greater than for any other fiscal year in the history of the postal service with the exception of that for 1918, during the administration of Postmaster General Burleson under President Wilson. It is also interesting to note that the surplus accomplished during the first full years of this administration exceeds the aggregate amount of the surpluses for all years prior to the Wilson administration, beginning in 1913.

"For the first time in 15 years the taxpayers of the country have been relieved of the necessity of making good a postal deficit."

Thorsby Institute News

There will be school on December 1st at the Institute. Classes will meet from 8:30 until 1:30 as on other make-up days.

On Saturday evening, November 24, the students of Thorsby Institute presented their annual stunt program. Each class presented a stunt or group of stunts and these were enjoyed by a large audience. The opening number of the program was presented by the Freshman class. This was a comedy in which the characters announced their own parts. The play centered about the daring rescues of the tiny kitten belonging to the Princess. In spite of the Queen's protests the King still refused to give the hand of his beautiful daughter to the daring Duke. The scene came to a tragic end with the five characters lying dead around the throne. The second stunt was a scene from the home of a young married couple with the interesting result of the young husband trying to copy a radio receipt that had gotten mixed with directions for setting up exercise. The closing feature of the group was a scene from the life of Mozart showing the great musician as he played by candle-light in the attic of his boyhood home. This was very impressive and beautiful.

The Sophomores entertained the audience with a representation of Mother Goose characters. A short history of the first Mother Goose book was given, and this was followed by the reading of a number of delightful jingles that we are all familiar with. As the verse the platform dressed in gay costumes. the patform dressed in gay costumes. Even Humpty Dumpty toppled from his perch and the cow jumped over the moon. When Mary and her lamb, Jack and Jill, Mother Hubbard and her hungry pup, Little Bo-Peep, and many others had nearly filled the platform the entire group sang "Four and Twenty Black Birds." The merriment was suddenly brought to a close when the Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe appeared with her switch and sent them all to bed. All but Simple Simon straightway jumped through the window in the show. He gave the Old Woman a merry chase, but finally toppled in backwards.

The Juniors took the audience to an old attic where three girls were exploring on a rainy afternoon. A number of large pictures were covered up in the corners and leaning against the walls. Then these were uncovered one by one, each picture came to life and the individuals stepped from the frame and visited with the three girls. After finding how strange the dresses and customs had become during the years they had been covered up in the attic, they decided not to stay in the rush and confusion of modern times, and stepped back into their frames to be covered up again.

The Senior stunts were equally as interesting. The first was a play entitled, "The Light-House Keeper's Daughter." The setting was in the top of a light house and each character climbed the long and winding stairs to the top. The beautiful young daughter who was supposed to meet her lover after attending to the lights, was overtaken by her rival and killed in the little tower of the lighthouse. The murderess slipped away and the body was found by the lover, who hurriedly descended the stairs and soon returned with the doctor and the girl's mother. The two men carried her body down the winding steps followed by the weeping mother. The second part of the Senior stunt was the demonstration of three useful household devices. These models were skilled in the art of sweeping, etc. The operation of these devices was interesting to observe.

The stunts were contested and at the close of the program Mr. Butler read the judge's decision. The Sophomore class was selected as the winner.

Corn-Hog Program For 1935 Announced

The 1935 production control program for corn-hog farmers has been announced by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Corn adjustment payment will be made at the rate of 35 cents per bushel of yield estimated for the number of acres by which the corn land area is kept below the 1932-1933 average.

For complying with the hog adjustment provisions of the new contract, the participating producer will receive a hog adjustment payment of $15 per head on the number of hogs represented by the 10 per cent adjustment. One-half of this payment, that is, $7.50 per head, will be made upon acceptance of the contract by the Secretary of Agriculture. The final payment, less the contract signer's pro rata share of the local administrative expenses, will be made on or about January 1, 1936.

New Deal Favored Throughout Nation

Agricultural leaders throughout the nation feel that President Roosevelt's new deal program for farmers is bringing excellent results, declares Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service, after conferring with farm officials from every state in the union.

"Generally there was a very fine spirit of optimism among these leaders of agriculture that we are making sound and substantial progress, especially in agricultural recovery," he said.

"There seems to be a very unanimous consensus of opinion that President Roosevelt's plan of taking full stock of our land with a view to making the best possible use of it was most fundamental and important."

Pink Corn Worms Causing Damages

Pink corn worms are playing havoc with corn in a number of cribs in north Alabama, reports Prof. J. M. Robinson, entomologist of the Alabama Experiment Station, who has received complaints of damages from several farmers and county agents.

"Fumigation is by far the most common method of controlling this pest," Robinson said. "When a farmer fumigates his crib of corn he not only destroys the pink corn worms and moths but he also rids it of other insects, such as corn weevils."

The best time to fumigate is during warm weather when the temperature is 65 to 70 degrees F.

Of the many different fumigants used to control pests in stored products, carbon disulphide ("high life") is perhaps the most satisfactory. This material is a clear liquid that volatilizes rapidly forming a heavy gas which penetrates well into piles of stored seed. It is both effective and economical. Carbon disuphide has the disadvantage, however, of being highly inflammable, its vapors when mixed with air, are violently explosive.

The amount of carbon disulphide needed to kill insects varies considerably, depending upon the tightness of the fumigation chamber. In a practically air-tight bin 5 pounds of the material to each 1,000 cubic feet of content is sufficient. The average tongue and-groove crib in Alabama, designed especially for fumigation, requires 8 to 10 pounds for each 1,000 cubic feet. In many cribs 15 to 20 pounds must be used for the same amount of space, if fumigation is possible at all.

A booklet on controlling insects in stored grains may be obtained free by seeing the county agent or writing Professor Robinson at Auburn.

Mrs. W. F. Glenn had as her guest Sunday afternoon Mrs. Wiley Jones, and Mrs. Lester Mims.

Mr. Oliver Glenn has as his dinner guest Sunday Mr. Jim Dunlap.

Mr. Wiley Jones was the Saturday dinner guest of Mr. W. F. Glenn.

Services Of National Reemployment Service

The National Reemployment Service is a free employment bureau, being a branch of, and operated under the United States Deparment of Labor.

The Reemployment Service has almost a complete file of all available skilled and unskiled labor in Chilton County, and its services are available without charge to any empoyer.

In the local Reemployment office, employment of a cook, laborer or skilled worker is as convenient as the telephone. All applicants after being registered and properly classified according to work for which they are best fitted.

Throughout the state many calls from private employers have been received by the Reemployment Service, and the management of the local NRS office urge and invite private firms and individuals desiring help to cooperate by notifying the National Reemployment Service which is in a position to supply the kind of help required with full recommendations of former employers. Farm land owners desiring tenants, wage hands or other farm laborers are especially urged to call on the Reemployment Service when in need of labor.

Alabama Farmers Lead Nation In Crop Production

Alabama farmers this year led the nation in crop production, reports F. W. Gist, state and federal agricultural statistician.

"The prospective crop yields, including the indicated yields per acre of 33 important crops in Alabama, compared with the ten-year average indication is 122.7 per cent, which is the highest of any state in the Union," Gist said. "The next highest is South Carolina with 122.4 followed by Georgia with 120.2. Eighteen states show higher yields this year than the ten-year average. All other states will give yields below the ten-year average, some of which, due to the unprecendented drought, being as low as 22 per cent."

Mr. Gist estimates crop production in Alabama this year as follows: Corn, 48,370,000 bushels; peanuts, 8,208,000 bushels; soybeans, 56,000 bushels; cowpeas, 722,000 buhels; sorghum, 3,975,000 gallons; sugarcane, 3,625,000 gallons; potatoes, 3,760,000 bushels; sweet potatoes, 7,560,000 bushels; apples, 588,000 bushels; pears, 326,000 bushels; satsumas, 140,000 boxes; pecans, 2,100,000 pound; oats, 1,914,000 bushels; hay, 482,000 tons; cotton, 980,000 bales; cotton seed, 436,000 tons.

HOUSING QUESTION BOX

Q. Are ending institutions which have been approved by the Federal Housing Administration authorized to make loans for minor improvements to farm property?

A. The regulations cover a wide range of work and give the farm owner the opportunity to make needed repairs, or improvements at once. New foundations may be put in, or old ones repaired; walks and steps repaired, feeding floors built in, driveways laid, barn and poultry houses built, or repaired, milk houses and cooling tanks constructed, terrace outlets and retaining walls built. The lowest loan is for $100, but a number of these minor repairs may be grouped into one loan to make or exceed this sum?

Q. What may be done with an old basement under Federal Housing Administration regulations?

A. Lending institutions are authorized to make loans to improve, or rebuild the basement. Old rickety stairs may be placed and the basement so thoroughly modernized that it may be transformed into a modern recreation room or workshop. Any contactor will give you the necessary information and costs.

Q. I wish to modernize my home so that my children may enjoy it while they are with me. With my income and saving I will be able to build or buy a new home within five or six years. But that would be too late for them to enjoy it. What can I do to improve the present dwelling?

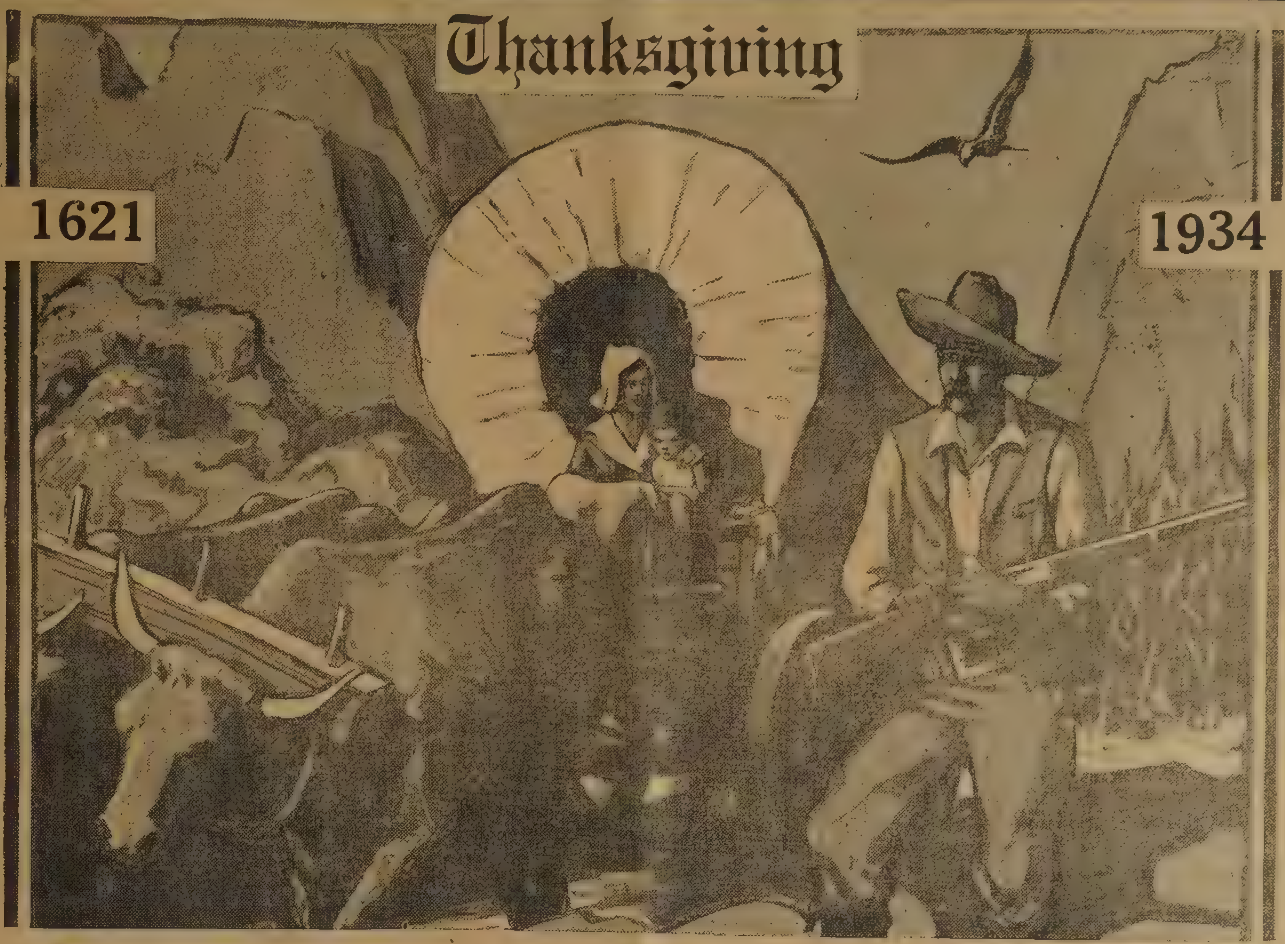
A. Your local contractor, any member of the Better Housing Campaign Committee in your city, or the banks and credit institutions will give you the necessary advice. You may borrow from $100 to $2,000 for modernization or additions. Every building, no matter how old, lends itself to improvement. As you say, do it now, instead of years later. It is a good investment and will preserve the property.

Q. I have always wanted to raise chickens. I have quite a large piece of property on which my home is located. May I negotiate the necessary loan for a chicken house?

A. Yes. Such loans are authorized by the Federal Housing Administration subject to approval by your banker, or other approved credit agency, the Department of Agriculture, or your state agicultural engineering department has plans and will give you the necessary advice.

Q. In the modernization of homes, as contemplated in the Beter Housing Campaign, there is evident need to recognize "hobbies" of children as well as grown-ups. What would you suggest?

A. There could be a muted room for study so that the children could concentrate. The same room could be used by would-be orators, actors and musicians. It would be a helpful addition to the home and one which would undoubtedly be welcomed by the neighbors.



With Sincere Gratitude We Extend To You

Judge Reynolds Is Recovering From Oper't'n

Reports received by members of the family Monday morning indicated that Judge L. H. Reynolds is expected to recover from an operation for the removal of a cataract from his right eye in the minimum period of time.

Judge Reynolds underwent the operation at Hubbard's Hospital in Montgomery early Saturday morning. Attendants at the hospital informed Omar Reynolds, his son, Monday that his father's condition is as good as could possibly be hoped for.

Although he will possibly have to remain in the hospital for ten or twelve days, Dr. Thigpen, who performed the operation, said there is no reason why normal vision for a man of his age should not be restored. The lens, which was said to be diseased, was removed that a special spectacle len will be nec- that a pseciaI spectacle len will be necessary to afford vision at all, but with this special lens, which will have the effect of replacing the removed lens from the eye, normal vision will be restored.

For some time Judge Reynolds has been almost unable to recognize friends except by the tone of their voice. His vision in the right eye was practically gone, and the vision of the left eye, too, is greatly impaired. A like operation on this eye will be necessary when the disease in the lens had reached the proper stage. Judge Reynolds was told at the hospital.

Isabella Wins Over C. C.H.S. For Champ'nship

A victory of 6 to 0 over the Chilton County High School Eleven in the final game of the season last Friday afternoon gave the Isabella High Team the honor of county championship.

From the first kick-off to the final play, the game was close. Although Isabella had the edge throughout the game it might have been anybody's game until the referee's whistle announced the end of the struggle, and Isabella walked off the field the champions of Chilton County.

With the close of Friday's game, the Isabella fighters had played and defeated every other high school team in the county.

Will Martin, speedy quarterback for the Isabella eleven, ran down the field fifty yards for a touchdown, crossing the local team's goal line wth only a few minutes more to be played in the last quarter. Martin intercepted a pass for the only score of the contest.

SCHOOLS MUST HAVE U. S. AID TO CONTINUE

However, Government Help Looms, Provided That Terms Are Met

Montgomery, Ala.—Application for a maximum grant of $3,550,000 of Government aid for keeping public schools open in Alabama for normal terms, was forwarded yesterday by Gov. Miller to Administrator Harry L. Hopkins of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, in Washington.

The application was based on data furnished by Dr. A. F. Harman, State superintendent of education, on financial needs of the schools over and above revenues on hand and anticipated from State and local sources, and followed receipt of a telegram from Congressman Hill of Montgomery advising that if Federal aid was desired to keep Alabama's schools open, request for the amount needed should be made to Mr. Hopkins immediately.

Indications seem favorable that the United States Government will again play the part of a wealthy parent and come to the rescue of Alabama in the dilemma it is facing in devising means for the continuance of schools.

Last year the schools in Chilton County were the recipients of more than $40,000 of federal money, supplied by a kind Uncle Sam that the schools of this county could be continued to their normal lengths. It is again probable that our schools will receive aid from the federal government to prevent the closing of the doors several weeks earlier than they should be closed, according to the opinion of Supt. Luther E. Little.

However, Mr. Little explained that it is far from definite just what plan will be put into effect, or whether federal aid will be available at all. Congressman W. B. Oliver has expressed himself sympathetic with extending some type of aid to the schools of Alabama again this year, though he expressed the opinion that if federal aid is secured it will likely be on a different plan than last year. He suggested that perhaps aid my be extended in the form of a long time loan to the State of Alabama.

At a meeting in Tuscaloosa last Friday of approximately 300 representatives of almost every county in the Sixth District, which was called at the request of Congressman Oliver, the venerable statesman declared himself heartily in accord with the idea of extending federal aid to Alabama schools again this year. The meeting was called for the purpose of furnishing data to Mr. Oliver that he might be better equipped to submit the matter to the Appropriations Committee, of which he is a member.

Without federal aid, the schools of Chilton County may be forced to close on terms two to four months shorter than normal. Mr. Little said that without federal aid he does not see how the schools will be able to operate after March 1, and some of the elementary schools will likely be closed even earlier.

Those who attended the Tuscaloosa meeting were:

Superintendent Little, L. C. Warr, principal of the Chilton County High School, W. M. Wyatt, editor of the Union-Banner, John C. Page, cashier of the First National Bank, and R. W. Lowe, commander of the local post of the American Legion.

FINE PROGRAM WILL SOON BE CARRIED OUT

204 Families Of County Are Approved By State To Share In Aid

Plans are still being put into effect to perfect the new Rehabilitation program, which it is hoped will be the chief source of government assistance to needy farm families in Chilton County during the coming year, according to information from Miss Kittye Clyde Austin, Chilton County's social director.

Already 204 families in the county have been approved by the State Department to share in the benefits of this program, she said. Of this number, 120 will be classified in Group 1 and the other 84 are to be placed in Group 2 classification.

This program has been termed by many who are familiar with the ideals and aims back of it to be the best program yet set up to give real and permanent aid to rural families. The aim of the program is to place as many families as possible on a footing whereby they will be enabled to care for themselves after another year, it was explained.

In the Group 1 classification, aid will be furnished in much the same manner that merchants extend help to make a crop. Groceries and other necessary articles will be furnished these farmers and may be paid for from products produced on the farm. Goup 2 is more of a colonization idea. A group of these farmers will cultivate a large plantation under direct supervision and will be supplied necessary articles in proportion to the amount of time worked.

Te relief load has been gradually reduced in the county for several months, and Miss Austin declared that in her opinioin this rehabilitation program will likely be practically the only source of relief available to this county during next year.

CITY LIMITS EXTENSION GETS APPROV'L

Large Number Heard To Give Approval To The Proposed Move

The proposal to extend the city limits of Clanton is receiving much favorable comment, according to Mayor C. Fenn Jones, who stated this week that he believes that the majority of the property owners in the area to be included in the proposed limits are in favor of the proposition.

Several persons have seen him on the streets, or written letters, giving their endorsement to the program. The proposal as outlined by Mayor Jones will increase the population by approximately 1,200 persons and will enlarge the area of the town by about three-fourths its present size, he said.

It will be necessary for the Legislature to pass the proposal in the form of a bill, it was explained. Plans are being formulated to have this presented during the coming session of the Legislature, which will be convened in January.

Nivens Named Chief Deputy Under Hardy

J. A. Nivens, night policeman and a former candidate for sheriff on the Democratic ticket, has been named chief deputy to serve with Sheriff-elect J. R. Hardy, according to an announcement this week by Mr. Hardy.

"I know that many people in the county are interested in knowing what type of man will be employed in this capacity, and I am sure that the appointment of Mr. Nivens will meet with hearty approval from every section of the county," Mr. Hardy stated.

Mr. Nivens was selected from a large group of applicants because he possessed necessary qualifications to fill this position, Mr. Hardy explained. "In selecting my chief deputy, I felt that I was duty bound to my friends and fellow citizens to select a man to whom they can point with pride. I believe that Mr. Nivens is this type of man."

FARMERS GET OPPORTUNITY TO VOTE ON THE BANKHEAD ACT

Election In County Set For December Fourteenth With Cotton Plan Being Praised Throughout South; Fant Gives Out Eligibility Of Voter

The farmers of Chilton County will have an opportunity on December 14 to go to the polls and voice their opinion in regard to the continuance of the Bankhead Cotton Control Act for another year.

Various changes in the bill are being made, it is understood, and minor irregularities are being ironed out in order that every man will be given a fairer chance to produce and sell his 1935 cotton crop.

County Agent J. W. Fant is mailing thousands of letters to the farmers of this county this week, giving them tabulated results of what the Bankhead Bill has meant to the cotton growers during the past year. With the improvements that are being perfected, those acquainted with the situation are of the opinion that it will be an even greater boon during 1935.

Reviewing the cotton farmer's problems during the past three years, County Agent Fant has presented a graphic picture of what government control has meant. In 1932, the year before the plow-up campaign, the cotton crop of Chilton County, including seed, only brought the growers $439,566, compared to $865,805.84 for the 1933 crop. And in 1934, the cotton farmers of this county were the recipients of $1,126,931.71 for the staple.

These improved conditions are wholly a result of steps taken by the United States Government to obtain for the cotton farmers a fairer price for their product. The price of the staple has jumped from around five cents per pound to above 12 cents, and the value of seed has risen from $10 per ton to almost $40 per ton.'

Votes may be cast at the regular voting places in all of the beats in the county with the exception of Beat 4 and Beat 9. In Beat 4 all votes will be cast at the court house and in Beat 9 ballots will be cast at the city hall in Thorsby.

Eligibility of Voter on the Bankhead Act

Any person who signed a 1934 and 1935 Cotton Acreage Reduction Contract, any person who is or was eligible for tax-exemption certificates in 1934, asy person presenting proof he owns, and at present has a right to produce cotton, on a cotton farm, or any person who signs and files a witness written statement that he has made arrangements to produce cotton on a cotton farm in 1935 (that is, has entered into a lease or share cropping agreement to grow cotton on a cotton farm in 1935) is deemed eligible to vote on the continuation of the Bankhead Act for the crop year 1935-36 (June, 1935, to May 31, 1936). (A cotton farm is any farm on which cotton has been produced commercially one or more years since 1927).

PEOPLE URGED TO MAIL XMAS GIFTS EARLY

Pointers On Mailing Given By Postmaster To Aid Proper Delivery

With the Christmas mailing season at hand, Acting Postmaster Billy Smith is urging mailers of Xmas packages to do their mailing as early as possible. He made the following statement this week:

"Christmas mailing is expected to be much heavier this year than it was last, and I cannot urge too strongly that Christmas packages be mailed as early as possible. These packages may be marked "Do Not Open Until Christmas" if so desired.

"Packages should be securely wrapped and properly addressed, with the name of the sender on them. When a package is brought to the post office for mailing and is securely wrapped, properly addressed, it takes only a few minutes of the senders time to have it weighed and stamped. This will do a great deal toward avoiding delay at the windows, as well as insuring proper delivery of the packages. When insuring packages, it is not a good idea to place the address on both sides. One side is sufficient if the package is to be insured

Atlanta, Nov. 29.—The average Southerner had reasons to relish his Thanksgiving turkey in a mood that is the most optimistic since the depression struck.

FOUR CHILTON MEN NABBED FOR ROBBERY

Officers Of Seminole, Okla. Hold Maplesville Men For Information

Four Chilton Countians were arrested last Thursday in Seminole, Okla., as suspects in connection with the recent $2,500 robbery of the Red Bay, Ala., Bank, according to AP dispatches.

The four were docketed under the names of H. T. Graves, Glenn Wooley, Brown Wooley, and Lee Davis, all of Maplesville. They were said to have been apprehended on information furnished by Sheriff Reynolds, of Selma.

Information in the Associated Press story said that the men were being held awaiting further investigation by Sheriff Reynolds and others in Alabama. The men are alleged to have left their automobile near Maplesville after having a wreck, and shipped their baggage to Seminole.

When arrested, they were said to have in their possession newspaper clippings regarding the robbery. They also had, according to a statement from Chief of Police Simms, of Seminole, two 1935 Alabama automobile tags, which were identified by License Inspector Hugh Simpson as having been stolen from this county. One, he said, belonged to the Jefferson Lumber Company and the other to Jake Wallace, postmaster at Maplesville.

THREE OFFICES ARE INVOLVED IN CONTESTS

Will Be Drawn Out Affair For The Courts And Witnesses Here

HARRIS FILES PAPERS AT THE LAST MINUTE

The political pot in Chilton County has begun to bubble and boil again

Complaints contesting the election of three of the ten victorious Democratic candidates in the recent election have been filed in the office of Circuit Court Clerk J. Z. Mims, it was revealed last Friday.

T. L. McKee, winner in the race for tar collector, Arthur D. Martin, victorious candidate for the office of tax assessor, and J. C. Pattillo, who was elected circuit court clerk, have been named contestees

The complaints were filed in the names of their recent opponents W. G. Culp, Alvin L. Collins, and H. A. Harris and contained the exact wording. These complaints were signed by O. D. Street, J. Osmond Middleton and Percy M. Pitts as attorneys for the contestants.

Each of the complaints charged fraud and promiscuous voting of illegal votes. Eacr charged that the election managers at some of the voting places miscalculated votes and that if these alleged illegal votes were deducted from the majorities of their opponents, these majorities would be reduced sufficiently to elect the contestants.

Culp and Collins filed their complaints on last Wednesday, but Harris did not file his his until late Thursday, which was the last day that the law allowed for entering such complaints.

In the election, November 6 the official count when canvassed showed that McKee had won over Culp by 54 votes; Martin over Collins by 91 votes, and Pattillo over Harris by 195 votes.

It is understood that the contestants base their complaints chiefly on the returns from the absentee box, which gave McKee 340 yotes, compared to Culp's 78; Martin 351, Collins 66; Patillo 351, Harris 60.

Machinery is being set in motion by the defense to give one of the hardest fought legal battles in the history of the county. Each contestee declared that he does not believe they have a chance in the world to prove any illegality or fraud and are confident of the outcome

Reynolds & Reynolds, J. B. Atkinson, Grover C. Walker, and John Foshee have been employed as attorneys for McKee, Martin, and Pattillo. They have expressed the opinion that the charges are groundless

These contests, if carried out, will doubtlessly result in hopelessly clogging the court dockets again, since approximatey three to four months will be required for the trial of each case. There is a possibility of the necessity to summons thousands of witnesses into court in this lawsuit, it was explain-

LARGE COPPER STILL NABBED BY OFFICERS

Sheriff Warns Violators Of Strict Enforcement To Continue

Although his days as Sheriff of Chilton County are almost passed, Sheriff W. H. Gillespie served notire to law violators in a statement this week that from now until January 15, when his commission expires, that he intends to pursue the same vigorous course of prosecution to all law violators that has marked for the past four years as one of the "most feared" sheriffs the county has ever known.

Until last Saturday noon, 1,227 arrests had been made during his term of office by members of the sheriff's forces. Early Saturday morning together with three of his deputies, Sheriff Gillespie captured 71 gallons of liquor and landed a man, whom he termed an old-time bootlegger, in the county jail.

Kelley Barnett, aged 34, was the 1,227th alleged law violator to find himself within the clutches of Sheriff Gillespie. Barnett was arrested at his home near the Chiton-Perry county line, where officers said they found 21 gallons of whiskey, and a short distance from his home a 200-gallon copper still was destroyed. Buried nearby was a fifty-gallon barrel filled with liquor that had evidently been prepared for the Christmas trade.

Barnett served a federal sentence a few years ago, when he was convicted of possession, after he had been captured with 180 gallons of illicit whiskey at his home, according to Sheriff Gillespie.

Deputies James Gillespie, P. L. Ribinson, and Ellis Ellisos accompanied the Sheriff on the raid Saturday morning.

Farm Electricity

It is only a few years since the first systematic efforts to extend electric service to the farms of the country were begun, but by 1930, the year of the latest Federal census, the farmers of the country were spending 46 million dollars annually for electrical powers.

This was three times as much as was spent by all the electric railways, and the amount of current used by the rural population has steadily increased during subsequent years. With the extension of power lines farther and farther into rural regions, electric motors do an increasingly large part of the laborious farm tasks.

With their aid, milking, sawing wood, cutting ensilage, pumping water and other back-breaking labors have been lightened. In the farm home the housewife's Monday drudgery likewise has been removed by the use of washing and ironing machines. Any number of other handy and inexpessive items of household equipment conserve her health and strength in other home activities.

With continued cooperation by farm organizations, power companies, and in some localities by the government, the rapid extension of electric service to the farms of America seems assured. This will prove an inestimable benefit, especially to farm women, who have borne an all too heavy burden in the past.

The two Federal agents who gave their lives in the attempt to apprehend "Baby Face" Nelson are martyrs to the cause of American safety. In removing another of the thugs who have preyed upon life and property in a ruthless manner, they paid the highest price.

The Case Of 20 Kulaks

The sentencing to death of 20 Soviet kulaks, rich peasants, while not unusual for the U. S. S. R., nevertheless is of interest for two reasons:

First, it shows that all Russians are not in favor of the Soviet plans of government. If this many men were willing to risk their lives by refusing to produce a cotton crop to the best of their ability, then there must be thousands of others who are not in sympathy with the government of their country.

Second, the fact that the Russian government is strong enough to mete out death in such a wholesale fashion for a crime of this nature, shows that it still considers itself firmly in the saddle. A weak government could not expect to get by with such drastic action.

The incident also shows that those in power have not relaxed in the least, and will not stop at anything to carry out their purpose.

It looks as if there will be a battle to the finish with the U. S. S. R. willing to give in.—Montgomery Advertiser.

Industry's Program

Encouraged by President Roosevelt's apparent desire to stimulate private industry as the next step toward recovery, industrial leaders will draft their program for boosting business at the Congress of American Industry to be held in December in connection with the annual convention of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Nationally known industrialists have been working quietly for several months upon a platform for recovery, to be ratified by the convention in the form of recommendations to Congress and the administration.

An important feature of these recommendations will be a statement of industry's views respecting legislation which should be adopted by Congress to take the place of the present National Industrial Recovery Act, which expires June 16, 1935.

More 'Great Stuff'

When the National Forest Preservation commission approved the purchase of 2,053,000 acres of forest lands under option, it increased the total acquired by the government during President Roosevelt's administration to more than 6,900,000 acres.

The West's great drouth last summer was enough to prove the wisdom of forest preservation.

But the National Forest Service is doing more than buying up timber lands and let them stand idle. They are protected from fire, recreational and scenic values are developed, and the timber itself is treated as a crop—the right to harvest mature trees, with careful protection of smaller stock, being sold to lumbermen.

The $20,000,000 allocated by the president for purchases is exhausted. There is every reason to believe he will obtain more funds for the work since, as Mr. Roosevelt remarked of the Tennessee Valley project, it is "great stuff".—Birmingham Post.

For A Bigger Clanton

At this time it seems appropriate that some mention be made of the endeavor that is underway to extend the city limits of the Town of Clanton, thus increasing its area and population to compare favorable with other Alabama cities of its rank and importance. The movement, as we understand it, is to increase the area to almost double its present size and add to the population by approximately one-half its present figure.

Too long Clanton has suffered in comparison with other cities of this section because of the fact that it has been bottled within limits far smaller than its prominence should have commanded. And Mayor C. Fenn Jones and others, who are actively lending effort to placing Clanton in its proper sphere, are to be congratulated.

Congratulations are also due several property owners within proposed corporate limits, who have expressed a friendliness to the proposal. We are sure that the people of Clanton will join with Mayor Jones and the City Council in extending a cordial welcome to our neighbors to become a part of our Town, and thus share the benefits to be enjoyed.

Alabama's Status In The Next Congress

Two years ago one of Alabama's distinguished sons and a ranking Member of Congress made a very creditable race for Speaker of the 73rd Congess, the Hon. John McDuffie, Congressman from the First Congressional District of Alabama. Again a son of Alabama aspires to the Speakership in the person of Congressman Wm. B. Bankhead. Congressman Bankhead is a ranking member of the powerful Rules Committee, and in all probability will be its next Chairman in the usual run of things, provided he is not a successfull candidate for Speaker. His ambition is a worthy one, but in view of the existing circumstances, in all probability his chances for success are meager. His continued efforts to be Speaker may work to the disadvantage of Alabama's delegation in the next Congress, and it may be, and in all probability is better that he gracefully withdraw from the contest in the interest of Party Harmony and for the benefit of his fellow members of his State's delegation in Congress.

Without the arousing of antagonism and discord, we find that in all probability Alabama's influence in the next Congress will be paramount with Geo. Huddleston of the Birmingham District elevated to the Chairmanship of the powerful Interstate & Foreign Commerce Committee; with Henry B. Steagall of the Wiregrass Section of the State, Chairman of Banking and Currency Committee; and Wm. B Bankhead of Jasper, Chairman of the powerful Rules Committee; Lister Hill of Montgomery, of high rank on the Military Affairs Committee; Wm. B. Oliver of Tuscaloosa, Chairman of the sub-committee on Appropriations.

And with the proper line-up, John McDuffie of Mobile District would in all probability take his former place as Democratic Whip, which he so ably filled when Vice-President Garner presided over the House; with A. H. Carmichael of the Muscle Shoals District, in a place of authority and with great interest in the Tennessee Valley Authority; with Maj. Joe Sternes of the Gadsden District placed on the Veterans Legislation Committee; and with Judge Sam F. Hobbs of Selma, in recognition of his legal ability, a place on the Judiciary Committee, it is doubtful if any State's delegation in Congress would have any better chance for usefulness and in the promotion of the policies of the New Deal, under the matchless leadership of our President.

To accomplish this much to be desired status, and in fact to practically assure it, the entire Alabama Delegation should line up behind the candidacy of the Hon. Sam Rayburn of Texas, the man who has backed consistently the President's program, and is author and co-author of much of the New Deal Legislation,—a man who is respected in both houses for his ability and achievements, and who, as head of the Texas delegation in the Democratic Convention at Chicago in 1932, combined his forces with those of Senator McAdoo of California and thereby assured the nomination and subsequent election of the Roosevelt-Garner ticket and started the New Deal on its way.

No Increase In Taxes

Information from Warm Springs that President Roosevelt is opposed to any further increase in taxes is one of the most cheering developments of recent times and it should relieve apprehension along this line.

Business men have recognized for a long time that one of the most serious obstacles to economic recovery is the enormous tax bill of today and the fear that the burden might be increased has had a retarding effect in all directions.

The cold truth is that business now is burdened beyond all reason and that these burdens in themselves constitute a most formidable obstacle to recovery, while every suggestion of added burdens has served to accentuate the apprehension upon this score.

Next in order, as a further stimulus to confidence in the future and to ability of business to face the future with certainty, should some actual tax reductions. Measured by national income, the burdens of today are from three to four billion dollars in excess of what is justified upon any sound basis of figuring, and the quicker this wide disparity between income and tax exaction is reduced the quicker will be the pace toward business recovery.

Assurances that there will be no added burdens are comforting. Reductions would be even more so.—Tuscaloosa News.

Dangers In The Home

Appalling as is the annual slaughter by automobiles, deaths from accidents in the home are only about five per cent less, according to the National Safety Council. After a study of more than 100,000 accidents, a leading life insurance company determined that the risk of being injured in one's home is more than six times as great as when riding in public conveyances, including boats, trains, busses, taxis and airplanes.

During the year 1932 approximately 28,000 persons died from injuries received in homes, nearly one-half of which were caused by falls. Poor lighting of stairways, and especially of porch and cellar steps accounts for a great number of falls. Slipping on rugs or in bath tubs is another common cause of injuries. Stumbling over misplaced furniture and other articles in the dark accounts for many more.

Most serious is the danger from burns, many of which prove fatal. Open grates, explosions, and carelessness with matches and burning cigarette stubs are frequent causes of fires in the home as elsewhere.

Practically all these accidents are easily preventable, but they will cntinue to occur with shocking frequency so long as people refuse to be careful.

Caldwell Suggests Meet About Hospitalization Plan Of Dr. Gragg

Editor, Chilton County News:

We have carefully read the letter of Dr. Gragg in your issue of November 15 in regard to a coopeartive health plan for Chilton County.

I do not know what kind of a plan the Doctor has in mind but I presume some kind of a plan could be formulated that would be satisfactory and would work. I have also read the letter of Mr. W. L. Sanders in your issue of November 22, in regard to his plan. Whle Mr. Sanders is very liberal in his views, I cannot altogether agree with him on free hospitalization and medical attention. This free proposition has already been worked overtime at the Clanton Hospital—this may have been the cause of this hospital having to close temporarily when it did. It seems better to me that there should be some hospital charges and some doctor's fees. Were it a free proposition all the way round, too many may be inclined to patronize the hospital and doctors for minor ailments or complaints.

We need the hosptal in Clanton. Were it not for this hospital, there are a lot of people that would be in a bad way. I know of a good number that would be. If enough citizens seem interested why not these two gentlemen call a meeting in Clanton right away and find out if enough interest is manifested to justify going farther toward formulating some plan. This certainly would be "a noble experiment" and enough interest can be aroused to put it over.

Respectfully,
E. G. CALDWELL.

Funds have been programmed for the construction of this project in the amount of $30000.00. In the event contract unit prices indicate a total cost of the project as planned (including engineering and contingencies) in excess of the amount of funds programmed for the project, the length of the project will be shortened if necessary to keep the cost of the work within the funds allotted thereto.

The attention of bidders is directed to the Special Provisions covering subletting or assigning the Contract, and to the use of Domestic Materials.

The minimum wage paid to all skilled labor employed on this Contract shall be 75 cents per hour.

The minimum wage paid to all intermediate grade labor employed on this Contract shall be 45 cents per hour.

The minimum wage paid to all unskilled labor employed on this Contract shall be 30 cents per hour.

The proposed work shall be performed in conformity with the Rules and Regulations approved by the Special Board for Public Works for carrying out the provisions of Section 204 of Title II of the National Industrial Recovery Act approved June 23, 1933, and the Act of June 18, 1934 (H. R. 8781) authorizing grants to the State Highway Departments for the emergency construction of public highways and related projects in accordance with the provisions of the Federal Highway Act.

A certificate of compliance on the prescribed form which will be furnished for that purpose shall be signed and submitted by all bidders, in accordance with Executive Order No. 6646, issued by the President on March 14, 1934. Only bids accompanied by such certificate shall be considered or accepted. The contractor to whom award is made shall require subcontractors and dealers furnishing equipment, materials, and supplies to sign similar certificates before making awards to or purchases from such subcontractors or dealers, copies of which shall be furnished to the contracting officer.

Plans and Specifications are on file in the office of the State Highway Department at Montgomery, Ala. Proposals will be furnished authorized representatives of Contractors upon requests that are received before 5 p. m., December 13th, 1934.

Contractors' Financial Statement, Experience and Equipment Questionnaires on form furnished by the Department shall be filed with the Contractor's Proposal for the work, provided same has not been filed since July 1, 1934.

Any additional information may be secured from the Highway Director, Montgomery, Alabama.

Certified check for Two Thousand Dollars ($2000.00, made payable to the Highway Director must accompany each bid as evidence of good faith.

The Highway Director reserves the right to cash the low and the next low bidder's checks and refund when the contract has been executed.

The right to reject any or all bids is reserved.

LANGDON G. SMITH,
Highway Director

NOTICE

Notice of the Filing of Bill of Complaint by State of Alabama, Complainant, vs. one Ford Roadster, 1932 model, Respondent.

State of Alabama, Complainant, vs. One Ford Roadster, 1932 model, Respondent. In the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama, in Equity.

The Bill of Complaint of the State of Alabama, on the relation of G. C. Walker, as Deputy Solicitor of Chilton County, Alabama, against one Ford Roadster, 1932 Model, being exhibited to me, and it appearing therefrom that on the 8th day of November, 1934, one unknown party did transport in one Ford Roadster, 1932 model, certain prohibited liquors and beverages, from one point to another in the State of Alabama, and that said automobile was on said day seized by the Sheriff of said County and said Bill of Complaint praying that said automobile be declared forfeited to the State of Alabama, and for an order of condemnation and sale thereof.

It is therefore ordered and decreed that notice be gven for three successive weeks in The Chilton County News, a newspaper published in the Town of Clanton, Alabama, and that all persons claiming or asserting any right, title or interest in said automobile be required to appear and assert such claim by the 26th day of December, 1934, and that failing so to do, the right, title or interest will be forever barred.

Given under my hand, this the 4th day of December, 1934.

Judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit

Parents who coax and coddle and threaten when a child refuses to eat are on the wrong track, according to Dr. Frank Howard Richardson, a noted child specialist. They are merely causing the child to become neurotic and self-centered by paying too much attention to his whims.

Instead of humoring the child by urging or bribing him to eat, he should be made to sit down at the table five times a day, for 30 minutes at the three regular meals and for 20 minutes at mid-morning and mid-afternoon lunches.

Suitable foods are to be placed before him each time, but no effort whatever is to be made to induce him to eat. He may eat or he may not as he chooses. Bht at the end of the time set he should be made to leave the table whether he has eaten or not.

Dr. Richardson declares that there is no danger that a child will starve himself under such circumstances, but that within two or three days the "cure" will be under way. In conclusion the doctor says:

"The relief afforded sorely tried parents by this course of action is so genuine that parents usually wonder why they waited so long before adopting it."

REBUKE TO PEDANTS

Teachers of English who cling to all the ancient rules were given a thorough-going rebuke in a recent lecture by Dr. Frank H. Viztetlly, one of th greatest living authorities and editor of a leading dictionary.

Among other things, the doctor countenanced ending a sentence with a preposition, approved the split infiniti testified to the forcefulness of a mod rate amount of slang and otherwis played havoc with many pet tradition of the pedants.

The English language, like all others is still in the making and will continu to grow. Spelling, pronunciation, grammar and everything pertaining to th lanuage have undergone many modifications through the centuries. The rules and usages sanctioned by the best writers and speakers will always constitute the highest authority in an particular period.

It is important to learn the rules bu it is often as important to know wh to break them for the sake of clarit and vigor of speech.

Gragg Writes More About Mutual Health Association For People Of This County

Dear Editor:

Since my letter, in your paper two weeks ago to the public, I have had numerous inquiries, personal, and by letter, about a plan for such co-operative association.

As mentioned before, there can be no doubt that such plan is economically sound and can be carried out for the betterment of its membership as a whole. As proof of this there are numerous such associations that have been in existence from one to ten years or more. And we have large corporations or industries, thousands of them, all over the world that carry their emplyees on a list and give them service on practically the same plan.

My vision of such plan would be to furnish hospital service including bed, board, nursing, operating room examinatiins, prescriptions and dressings absolutely without cost other than a membership fee, and have doctors who have prepared and equipped themselves, as specialists in their particular line of work, and who are as well qualified as the average specialist in the larger centers. These doctors to do this work for the membership at greatly reduced fee (probably less than half the usual fee). Medical cases would be treated in the hospital for very small fee by these doctors (say one dollar per day for their service, and no charge for the hospital.)

X-Ray and other laboratory service would be put down to a below-cost basis (say about one-third the usual fee).

All serums, vaccines, bacteria, etc. to be given free when furnished by the state or other governmental agency.

Free lectures on Hygiene, Sanitation and preventive medicine to be given to members and their dependents.

I want to especially thank Mr. W. L. Sanders for his letter. I believe Mr. Sanders is thinking in advance of his time, and I would not be surprised at a full realization of his thoughts in the not far distant future. That is, medical and hospital service to be free to all just as the educational system furnishes free school now.

For the present, I believe, in addition to the above mentioned plan, it would be possible for our welfare department to join with this health association in working out a plan whereby the really destitute or indigent could be taken care of adequately at a very small cost to the government supplying the aid, whether it be federal, state, county or municipal.

At present less than 50% of our people are getting adequate medical service and still less surgical service.

It would, in all probability, be impossible to find a school in Chilton in which less than 75% of the pupils would show need of medical or surgical attention or both to their eyes, nose, throat, not to say anything of other ailments.

Now, at the beginning of this letter, I gave you a rather rough sketch of my plan. It would doubtless need some changes, but I am convinced that with a little addition here and a little subtraction there, it would be possible to give a much more thorough and at the same time more economical service than the public is now getting.

If we would get it into our hearts and minds to cooperate, we might start an improved cooperative health association that would later be followed up in much the same plan far and wide.

Yours very truly,
V. J. GRAGG.

RECOVERY PROGRAM SUPPORTED BECAUSE OF CONCRETE RESULTS

Nothing is more conductive to the continuous growth of a business than continuous advertising.

It's the everlasting hurry of a lot of automobile drivers that causes so many accidents. A lot of them with nothing but time are always trying to see how quickly they can get there.

My friend, James E. Barrett, managing director of the Oklahoma Biltmore Hotel in Oaklahoma City, says that citizenship confers obligations and responsibilities upon all. Some citizens have not awakened to that fact. It is time they put their shoulders to the wheel and help their home city forge ahead.

The advertisements in your newspaper are a "Parade of Quality." Get the habit of reading them carefully. You can save by doing so.

It doesn't pay to rest on your oars too long.

Cheap prices for cheap goods advertised in cheap handbills make no appeal to those who want true value for their money. People who want quality goods at reasonable prices read the advertisements in the home town newspaper before they shop. They believe in safety first.

The political business is the biggest business in America today.

All business men should practice what they preach and buy at home.

"The evident determination of a vast majority of the people to vote for nominees whom they are convinced beyond doubt will support the Roosevelt recovery program is based primarily upon their knowledge that the program is accomplishing its objectives," said Chairman James A. Farley of the Democratic National Committee in a message published on the front page of the current issue of McFadden Weekly.

"They had been told by the President at its inception that there would be ups and downs, and they are perfectly willing to make allowances for errors of judgement in the administration of the huge temporary mechanism it required. But they have seen and felt, personally, the cumulative results obtained through the various legislative measures which it may be recalled they urged their representatives in Congress to enact, by unprecedented petition.

"The people comprehended thoroughly that these measures are first, last and all the time in the public interest, and that they depend for ultimate success upon public cooperation. They have heard each measure discussed over the radio by the man to whom they turned in their dire distress in a manner without comparison in our entire political history.

"Far more than the spokesmen for what is left of the Old Guard that brought the nation to the brink of ruin, the average man and woman in America understands the purpose to be attained. That is natural. Because a well-balanced legislative program that does not neglect a single segement of our society, but provides for the recovery of all, is not only a novelty, it is just so epochal that all who are not concerned with the selfish interests of a favored few are determined that it shall be carried throuh to a happy conclusion.

"The fear that produced the despair of two years ago was re-exemplified by the same selfish interests that tried this year to hamper and retard the recovery program. And they came back with no more to offer than this revivified fear. It is the fear that reactionary forces experienced when Columbus set forth for the Indies, because it might upset their monopolies.

"The Roosevelt administration has complied with the spirit and the letter of the people's mandate. It has given to each and every problem confronting it an honest and sincere devotion to duty. It has recognized that true government has the dual function of sound and efficient administration and the protection of the social needs of the people. For the record it has made in that respect, it has the active support of an intelligent and thoroughly aroused and appreciative public opinion."

County Plans Large Terracing Program

County Agent J. W. Fant and Works Director Floyd Smith presented information to the Commissioners Court at the regular meeting Tuesday morning regarding detailed plans for an extensive terracing program to be employed by the county government in connection with the relief administration.

Equipment for this purpose can be bought, it was explained, and can be paid for from funds available to the county for relief purposes, provided a like sum is expended in employing men now on relief on county work projects.

The plan as outlined by Mr. Fant will be to purchase this equipment and rent to farmers at a minimum hour charge to do terracing. Over a period of time, this method will repay the purchase price. It was pointed out that soil erosion is fast depleting the lands of this county. Mr. Fant stated that statistics show that on unterraced lands at least nine times as much plant food is lost by erosion as is used by the crops.

In Tallapoosa, where a similar plan has been in operation for some time, the farmers have found that this machinery can be very successfully used for plowing in cover crops, and at a rate of cost far lower than the individual farmer can possibly do this work with his own equipment.

Recently Mr. Fant sent a questionnaire to most of the farmers in the county, explaining this plan of a co-operative terracing program, and already, he said, many have answered and declared that they are desirious of securing a like program for this county.

The members of the Commissioners Court and County Agent Fant plan to make a trip to Tallapoosa County this week to make a study of the success of this program in that county before deciding definitely whether or not it will be advantageous to Chilton County.

RITES FOR FORMER RESIDENT HELD AT LIVINGSTON WEDNES.

News was received here late Tuesday night by Mrs. Clara Curry of the death of Mrs. W. G. Curry, former resident of this county, who died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Whatley in Pineapple, Alabama.

Mrs. Curry was the widow of the late Rev. W. G. Curry, who was a former pastor of the Clanton and Verbena Baptist churches. The family resided in Chilton County for some time and have many friends here.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at Livingston, Ala. Mrs. Curry was in her 90th year.

Betty: Just look at that wonderful stain-proof porceliron work-top! They say it will never wear out or discolor.

Jane: Isn't it a darling color combination? And the enamel is baked on. No wonder it's so smooth and satiny!

Betty: Oh, Jane! See how this base shelf extends when I open the base door—brings pots and pans to your fingertips. Think how that will save stooping!

ane: Did you ever see anything slide more smoothly than these drawers? See—they're suspended from the top. That's why they'll never jam.
I sure like those drawer pulls, too—they'll not tarnish.

Betty: Look at this big metal flour bin—holds 30 pounds—and that sifter is certainly convenient.

Jane: Gracious! This big, roomy bread-box drawer slides so quietly you'd never know it was metal. See, Betty—the cutting board right here.

Betty: Here are those famous Sellers ant-proof casters. Mrs. Jordan says they keep ants and all other insects out of her cabinet.

Jane: This hardware is all heavily nickel plated See how substantial it is, too.

Betty: Have you noticed how fine the cabinetwork is? Just like the finest furniture . . . and they say there is not a stick of soft wood in it.

Jane: Look at this back, Betty—entirely closed. No mice can ever get in it.

Betty: Try this roll curtain . . . it extends clear across the front and yet it moves at a touch.

Jane: Oh, I like that . . . Look, Betty, it has a Klearfront—no swinging doors over the work-table.

Betty: That big glass sugar jar is certainly handy, isn't it?

Jane: Yes, and isn't this plush-lined silver tray clever! They thought of everything.

Just look at this amazing array of Extras given at NO EXTRA COST!

Come to Sunday school next Sunday and worship with us.

Mr. O. F. Wells and family have moved into our community. We welcome them into our midst.

NIGHT MAN HAS BEEN EMPLOYED AT LOG CABIN BEACH FERRY

With the purpose in view of rendering an even better service to the people of Coosa and Chilton Counties, a plan for 24 hour service has been put into effect at the Log Cabin Beach Ferry on the Clanton-Rockford highway, according to an announcement by Bob Guyse this week.

Although a lay and night service has been available to persons wishing to cross the river at this point, it has often been necessary to awake the ferryman at night before one could cross. Mr. Guyse announced that he has employed another ferryman to be on hand throughout the night to avoid this ininconvenience to patrons.

New reguations provide that women teachers at the University of Caifornia may smoke in the privacy of their club house, where cigarettes have been placed on sale.

Tom, a black cat owned by Geo. Kellare of Bloomington, Ill., has learned to cimb up and ring the doorbell when he wants to be let into the house.

Farmérs Will Receive Parity Payments Soon

Within the next two weeks, Alabama cotton farmers will begin receiving parity payment checks amounting to $2,346,493.04, advises C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton production section of the AAA.

The parity payments will make a total of approximately $7,803,000 which farmers of the state will receive from the Agricultural Adjustment Administration during November and December.

Cobb also announces that the total benefit and parity payments to Alabama farmers for reducing their production of cotton this year will amount to $10,405,842.40. Over $3,000,000 of this amount was sent farmers early in the season.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends and relatives for their kindness and assistance during our baby's illness and death and for the floral offerings at the funeral of our darling Dewey Frank who died on November 18, from Colitis and other ailments, after an illness of four weeks.

We wish to thank the Rev. Lowery of Thorsby for his comforting words also Dr. Lawrence and nurse of Clanton and Drs. and nurses of King memorial Hospital of Selma for their never tiring efforts to save this little life. Everything that loving hands could do was done but God saw fit to take him home and his will must be done, not ours.

May God bless each and every one who aided in any way is our most sincere prayer.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wright and children.

Yule-tide Family Reunions by Telephone

Families and friends become scattered with the years and we miss their smiling faces and cheery voices—more especially at Christmas time. Probably you are wishing now that you could visit them this Christmas. Why not? Are they too far away? You can't get away? Or is it that it costs too much? Then why not surprise them this holiday season with a telephone visit instead? You can reach them anywhere by telephone. Distance doesn't matter.

A voice visit by telephone, you will find, has the personal charm of a face-to-face visit, is convenient and costs little wherever you call. For example, by using Station-to-Station service you can talk with folks fifty miles away for about 35c, and a hundred miles for around 55c, and greater or less distances at correspondingly low cost.

If you can't go in person, go by telephone.

Black-Draught Good For Biliousness and Bad Taste in Mouth

"I have found Thedford's Black-Draught so good for biliousness, bad taste in the mouth and other disagreeable feelings due to constipation," writes Mrs. Mary Garner, of Burleson, Texas. "My mother used it for a number of years and we do not think there is a better medicine. I was pleased when I saw Syrup of Black-Draught advertised. I sent for it and gave it to my children (as a laxative) for colds and when they felt bad. Soon they felt fine." . . . MAPLE SPRINGS

Sunday School and B.Y.P.U. was very well attendel Sunday. Quite a bit of singing was done in the Leading Light book. Sunday night we invite all who will to come and bring your Leading Light books and help us in our singing. We had several visitors Sunday night. We like visitors and we invite them back any time.

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Come.

Ladies, remember the W. M. S. will meet at the church next Thursday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. Everybody has an invitation.

The Junior B.Y.P.U. put on their program Sunday night before the Senior Class. Their subject was "Counting Your Blessings." Each one carried out his part well.

Miss Irene Driver from Verbena spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Jodie Lansford.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Devaughn and sons, Coolidge and Billie Dan were the Sunday all-day guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Davis and children.

Mr. Lester Downs, Merritt Wilson and Charlie Sandlin spent a while Sunday morning with Mr. W. F. Glenn and family.

Mrs. Merritt Wilson, who has been very sick is able to be up again.

Mrs. Frank Guy is spending this week with her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Mims.

Messrs. Virdie and Virgil Glenn had as their dinner guest Friday Mr. Coolidge Devaughn.

Mrs. Bertha Mitchell spent Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. W. F. Glenn.

Mr. Arnold Glenn had as his week end guest Mr. Cecil Wilson from Friendship community.

Messrs. Arnold Glenn, Cemil Wison and Arthur and Evan Mitchell spent a while Saturday night with Mr. Joe Lansford.

Mr. W. F. Glenn spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. Oscar Wells near East view.

Mrs. Merritt Wilson is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Malcom Tindall of West Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Glenn spent Wednesday night with Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Devaughn.

Oak Grove News

We are happy to anounce that our Sunday School and B.Y.P.U. are doing some nice work. Everybody is deeply intesested in doing anything that we can that will be of benefit to others.

We give everyone a speial invitation to come and be with us in our prayer services every Wednesday night. We are so thankful that we have an opportunity to worship our Lord and let's make him "Lord of our thoughts, deeds and actions."

Our pastor, Brother Maurice Hodgens, rendered us some fine sermons this week end. We are so thankful for such a nice pastor to come and bring us such good inspiring messages. May the Lord always lead him, direct him, and keep him from all danger.

Our preaching days are the first Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. We extend to everyone a hearty welcome to come and be with us any time that you can.

We had our regular singing here today. Everyone seemed to have a bad cold but as a whole the singing was good.

We had some 'visitors at Sunday School from Pleasant Grove" Sunday. We are glad you came and come again and bring someone with you.

Mrs. Martin and family from Birmingham visited their brother, Mr. Orb Martin, this week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Eubanks, Mrs. D. S. Edwards, and Misses Willie and Kate Deese spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sutley and family.

Miss Muriel Ellison from Sylacauga is visiting Miss Loy Mae Glass.

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Satterwhite had as their dinner guest Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Smith from Longview, Brother Maurice Hodgens and Miss Mary Jim Sutley.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Northcutt and daughter spent this week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Northcutt and family.

Misses Irene Lessley, Dorothy and Lillian Deese are spending a few days in Birmingham.

If nothing prevents our B.Y.P.U. will go over to Center Hill and try to render a program that we hope will be inspiring and beneficial to each and every one present next Sunday night, December 9th, 1934.

We ask you Christian people who pray not to forget us in your prayers. "Help us, Lord, to pray more, for prayer is the key to heaven."

Don't forget, folks, next Saturday night we are going to have our Fiddlers' Convention. Everyone interested in having a jovial time can't afford to miss this event. All lovers of music are cordially invitel to attend. One dollars' worth of genuine fun for only ten cents. All those musicains must register with Mr. Johnson before the program begins.

The Thanksgiving season of 1934 has closed with everyone back in school, ready to get in three good weeks work before the arrival of the Merry Xmas Season. From all reports last Monday morning, everyone seems to have had a most pleasant vacation during the holidays just closed.

The Thanksgiving program was presented very cleverly on Tuesday night, November 22, to a record-breaking crowd. Standing room was at a premium. All seats were taken up long before the program got under way. The writer wishes to insert the fact that he has never seen better behavior or a more attentive and enthusiastic audience. Usually large crowds of this size bring more or less a great amount of confusion and discomfort to those who wish to listen, but this event was an exception. So the faculty and student body wish to register their deep appreciation for your kind consideration and your real attentiveness. We want you to come back next Saturady night and will assure you in advance that with the same attentiviness as before you will again go away a better and happier person.

The faculty spent the holidays at their respective homes.

Supt. Little is expected to visit our school this week.

Our well pump has been ordered but thus far it has failed to arrive.

Those patrons who are due wool to our school are again reminded that we are in dire need of pine to use in starting fires each morning. Won't you show your real patriotism by letting us have several loads real soon. We have a sufficient amount of oak, etc.

Both boys and girls teams went over to Maplesville last week for a practice game. Even though they went down to defeat in both games they made a creditable showing in team work. The girl's court has been made ready for practice this week. The county road machines stopped by last week and dressed up our atheletic field.

Eleven new students enrolled in our school the second month.

Report carls will be distributed this week. They are late, due to Thanksgiving program, etc., consuming so much time, the teachers were unable to complete grading examination papers and making proper entries.

Our basketball teams are booked to play Enterprise Jr. High School one week from tomorrow, December 14, on their court.

The Jr. II Class organized last week electing the following students to their respective places:

Francis Kendrck, pres.; Madge Williams, historian; Adelle Scott, poet; Robert Traywick, prophet; Lizzie Mae Lewis, Valedictorian; Gladys Sonsom, last will and testament; Hugh Hayes, grumbler; R. P. Kendrick, giftcrian.

WITH THE STUDENTS OF ISABELLA HIGH SCHOOL

The Senior II Class with the aid of their Home Economics teacher, Miss Heflin, served the faculty a Thanksgiving luncheon Wednesday in the dining room of the Home Economics Department. Lora Deen Chambers served as hostess. Margaret Owen and Maxine Oden served as maids. The luncheon was enjoyed and highly praised by all the teachers.

F. H. A.

The F. H. A. met Wednesday, November 28th at the regular club period. The meeting was called to order by the President, Avoline Jones. On the absence of the Secretary, Ruth Martin read the minutes. New business was brought before the club, which was selecting our club song and motto. The following song was selected:

Work, Help, Serve

In our club rooms bright we sit,
Learning how to do our bit,
Doing things worth while in both our work and play,
And the thoughts that fill our minds
Tell us always to be kind—
Helping, Serving, Cheering, someone every day.
chorus—
Work! Help! Serving! the day is fleeting.
Cheer up, girls, the time will come
When we take our stand in life
Mid the pleasures and the strife
Let us all be up preparing for the day.

The motto of the club is: "As our girlhood is now, so shall our womanhood be.

The following program was rendered:

Devotional: Maxine Oden.

Origin of Thanksgiving: Willie B. Cox.

VALUE HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT SEEN BY PROGRESS MADE

Miss Pardue Presents An Interesting Report To Commissioners Court At Recent Meeting; Work Worth Thousands Of Dollars

Within the brief period of two years, home demonstration work has apparently gained for itself an outstanding place in the activities of Chilton County. Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent, presented an annual report to the Commissioners Court at its regular session Monday morning, which showed that the second year's work has been worth to the county and to individual families in the county more than $60,000.

Much of this amount has been realized because of the work of Miss Pardue. She was employed less than two years ago by the Commissioners Court after a large delegation of farm wives and others appeared before the court and petitioned the services of an agent.

Below is given Miss Pardue's report:

General Activities: Days in field, 208; Days in office, 119; No. home visits, 187; Number individual letters written, 622; Number demonstrations given, 312; Number in attendance, 5333; Average miles per month traveled, 1350.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

The New Convert Community

It is quite gratifying to note just how hard those people out in the New Convert community are working in order to complete their new three-room school building. They have not only made a good stride, but are still moving along very rapdly. One year ago very little was done but today those people have gone into the forest felled trees, cut timber, cut their lumber themselves, and erected a creditable building for their children. As Booker T. Washington said, they let their bucket down at home and it has come up filled with glad hearts and greater opportunities. We need more people like them.

N. F. A. Club News

The N. F. A. club is sponsoring its annual "Father and Son Banquet" Thursday night. Along with their banquet they sent a challenge to the H. E. girls to enter a formal debate with them on the subject: "Resolve, that Home Economics is more important than Vocational Agriculture." The club boys are looking forward to the best banquet ever witnessed at the County Training School.

Without Vsion the People Perish—

It is obvious that many of the people in the County Training School community have lost their vision if they ever had one, especially when it comes to the interest that should be manifested in their school. No community is any better than its schools. In proportion as any community supports its school in the same proporton the community will prosper. No school can prosper without financial aid. So don't let anyone have you believe that the school can run itself. Without vision in a community the people are not safe; without vision we rear gamblers, thieves, liars and other undesirable people. Let the people have a vision.

Farmers' Conference

The annual Chilton County Negro Farmers' Conference will be held at the Chilton County Training School Friday December 14. This conference was postponed until after the conference at Tuskegee Institute, so that the agricultural leaders might bring to their community new observations and give them to the people. The time has come that the farmers must venture out for new and improved practices in agriculture. Unless he does he will find himself in that class that hardly exists, and moves yearly. Those farmers who are able should go to the conference at Tuskegee and wind their way back to the County Training School for wholesome agricultural advance.

Down At Cross Roads

The farmers down at Cross Roads are really progressive. They eagerly accept instructions on farm improvement. The Coopers and Prices together with othes down there have really established a cooperating community and with special instructions in terracing, killing and curing pork, permanent gardens ad other agricultural improvement they are sure to make for themselves a more progressive community.

Chop Suey Party

The H. E. Girls, Senior I and Junior III sponsored a Chop Suey party Wednesday evening in the H. E Department. The party was strictly Chinese and featured such things as Chinese dancing, fortune telling, fishing pond and guessing box. Even the food was Chinese. Everybody had lots of fun in China with the Chinese at this party.

Funeral Services For Former Resident Held

Funeral services for Joseph A. Williamson, 65-year-old former resident of Chilton County, who died Sunday at his home in San Antonio, Texas, were held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Verbena Methodist church. Dr. Henry M. Edmonds, of Birmingham, officiated. Burial was in the Verbena cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge.

Mr. Williamson was a former resident of this county, but he had been living in Texas for several years. For a number of years, he was connected with the Southern Express Company, holding important positions in both Birmingham and Nashville, Tenn.

At the time of his death, he was engaged in the stock brokerage business in San Antonio. The body was shipped from the Texas city, arriving in Clanton Tuesday afternoon on Number 4. He was prepared for burial by Marting & Sons.

Surviving Mr. Williamson are his widow, Mrs. Clara Mason Williamson; two daughters, Mrs. Walter Roholt, both of San Antonio, and Mrs. Hap Wells, of Lima, Peru; and the following brothers and sisters, S. K. Williamson, of San Antonio, C. M., and Dr. J. S., both of Birmingham, Mrs. W. C. Sheppard, Miss Mary Williamson, and E. B. Williamson, all of Verbena.

Farmers Warned About Oat Seed

Red oats from South America now being imported into the United States for feed may look like good seed, but the Federal and State Departments of Agriculture have issued warnings both to farmers and to dealers not to buy these seed for planting.

"Dealers are warned not to sell these oats for seed," said Seth P. Storrs, commissioner of agriculture. "Farmers are warned that although the South American oats look very much like the well-known Red Rust-proof oats they are in fact Red Algerian seed which has been tested frequently at experiment stations and has proved unsatisfactory," he said.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By

John O'Donnell, Editor of the Oil City (Pa.) Derrick, says:

"All material progress is the fruit of human desire. Advertising is the natural stimulant of this desire. Were it not for newspaper advertising this the world's population, would not be operating 85 per cent of the world's automobiles and 50 per cent of the world's railroads, consuming 70 per cent of the world's petroleum and 60 per cent of the world's steel.

"No nation approaches the United States in the volume and appeal of its newspaper advertising, and by the same token no other nation can compete with us in the volume of human consumption. No nation is so advertising conscious. It is the scientific use of newspaper advertising which more than everything else will pull us out of our present economic rut.

"See what publicity has done for Roosevelt, Lindbergh, General Johnson, Dizzy Dean and Babe Ruth. And what is good advertising but glorified publicity?"

DEATH OF MR. SAM SCOTT OF VERBENA

Editor, Chilton County News:

Please allow a small space in your valuable paper to say a few words about the death of Mr. Sam Scott

We, the colored citizens of Verbena were shocked and sadly grieved to hear of the passing of Mr. Sam Scott, one of the leading white citizens of Verbena. We have been knowing him some of us all of our lives, and found him to be one way. Whereever you meet him you would meet him with a smile which won the respect and admiration of the colored citizens that knew him. We hate to lose such type men as Mr. Scott but God knew best. We hope our lost is heaven's gain.

Cardui Helped Lady For Nervousness and Run-Down Condition

"I have taken Cardui several times for weak, run-down condition and it has helped me," writes Mrs. Walter M. Coulon, of Forsyth, Ga. "I was nervous and suffering from a weak condition. There were days when I had to lie down during the day. I sent for six bottles of Cardui, as it had helped me before. Cardui gave me strength, stopped the nervousness and helped me in every way." . . . Cardui may be just what you need. It can't do you any harm, so why not try it? Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Dennis Explains Why He Favors Cot. Control

In less than two weeks the cotton growers in every cotton-growing county will be called upon to express themselves by ballot on the Bankhead Cotton Control Act.

Regardless of the success or failure of said Bankhead Law at the polls on December the 14th, all farmers who signed a contract this year and all farmers who have secured a government loan on their cotton as well as all who have been helped by loans of any kind by the government have already agreed to comply with the required reduction program and will not be permitted to plant more than 75% of their five year cotton acreage. Therefore, more than four-fifths of the cotton growers cannot increase their acreage above the requirement, so why should we be willing for the Bankhead Act to be killed letting the small number of non contract signers plant all the cotton they want at our expense, thereby offsetting the benefits to be derived by all and making it possible for us to sell next crop for six cents or less and seed for less than eighteen dollars per ton.

Each contract signer in the past will have certain acreage and yields allotted to him for 1935 and I am firmly in favor of all cotton growers being required to cooperate in helping maintain the price of cotton and cotton seed and expect to vote for a continuation of the Bankhead Act with the belief that it will be amended and work no hardship on cotton growers generally.

Respectfully yours,

J. N. DENNIS.

Samuel Scott Laid To Rest Last Friday P.M.

Funeral services for Samuel Scott, one of the County's best known characters, who died Thursday night at his home is Verbena, following a brief illness, were held Friday afternoon from the Verbena Methodist church. His body was laid in the family plot in the Verbena cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge of the burial services.

Although his health had been failing for some time his illness was of brief duration. During Wednesday night and Thursday morning he had complained of suffering from a pain in his chest, but later in the day Thursday, he seemed in a much improved condition. His death came about 10 o'clock on Thursday night, when it was believed that he suffered a sudden attack of the heart.

Mr. Scott was one of the most widely known characters in the county. For more than 20 years, he was a familiar figure on the streets of Clanton, where he operated a studio. But few people in the county had not at some time had Mr. Scott make a picture for them.

Born and reared in Virginia, he came to Alabama at an early age and settled in Montgomery, later removing to Birmingham where he operated his business for several years. He then came to Clanton, making his home in Verbena, where he continued his business for more than 20 years, retiring only a few months ago because of failing health.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Lila Gulledge Scott, of Verbena; five daughters, Mrs. John Ward, Selma; Mrs. John Smale, Berkeley, Calif.; Mrs. Billy Roberts, Pensacola, Fla.; and Miss Mary Scott of Birmingham; two brothers, Armistead Scott, Taswell, Va., and Watson Scott, of Texas. He is also survived by two grandchildren, Anne Ward and Betty Alice Smale.

Mr. Scott's death came at the age of 78. The following friends of the family served as pallbearers: T. B. Deramus, W. A. Powell, O. L. Howard, Hugh Champion, W. C. DuBose, and W. F. Irvin.

ELECTION CONTEST

ed by the attorneys.

Though the battle is only in its first stages, every indication is that it will be long drawn out and fought to the finish by the Democratic defendants. Several leading Democrats from over the State and Nation have already offered to contribute funds for the defense of this "slur" on the honor of the Party. It is believed by those in charge of the defense that the unsolicited contributions will greatly surpass the expenses of the defense.

The contestants are required to post bond for the entire cost of the procedure, and if they lose are required to pay all court costs. In event they should win, they are still responsible for the cost which they incur, provided that the defendants are unable to bear it.

The bonds were signed by: H. A. Harris, J. L. Wilson, L. D. Hughes, W. J. Billingsley, S. M. Yates, W. G. Shaw, J. N. Dennis; Aikins I. Collins, Mary Douglas Collins, J. H. Collins, Mrs. J. BUSINESS ON UPWARD TREND hit hard by the depression.

Bustling crowds in department stores again are buying and the Federal Reserve Board's report on their activities show the South is leading in the value of department store sales. The Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta reported an increase of 18 per cent in the October, 1934, sales over October, 1933, while the Richmond district reports a gain of 20 per cent. Sales from January1 to October 31, 1934, have increased 28 per cent in the Atlanta district over the same period in 1933, while the Richmond bank reported an 18 per cent increase. This compares with a 13 per cent increase for the nation.

Billion Spent In South

Higher prices received by farmers for their crops and the outpouring of federal funds have contributed greatly to revive business, leaders declare.

Alphabetical agencies of the New Deal have passed the billion dollar mark in expenditures in the South, according to figures compiled by regional offices of these organizations.

In the 10 deep South states, the Home Owners Loan Corp. has expended approximately $191,000,000. Civilian Conservation Corps work has brought expenditures of $100,000,000. The Public Works Administration has expended up to August 1, $193,000,000. The Farm Credit Administration has made loans totaling $235,000,000.

The seriousness of the relief situation, however, is seen in the expenditure of approximately $205,000,000 up to October 1 by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration in the 10 states.

Circus Makes Profit

Better prices have brought $733,000,000 for the 1934 cotton crop, including seed. This is lower than the $794,000,000 valuation of the 1933 crop but this season's crop was about 3,500,000 bales less than in 1933. Cotton brought about $14 more a bale this year. In addition the cotton farmer received $76,000,000 from the government for reducing his 1934 acreage.

All this have given the Southerner money to spend. And he's spending it for the frivolous as well as the necessary. Chief of Police G. E. W. Britt, of Augusta, Ga., blames better times for the increase in drinking. Carnivals, road shows and circuses are again enjoying good seasons.

The circus which advertises itself as the "greatest on earth" netted a million dollars this season, according to an official source, in comparison to the $350,000 netted in 1933.

Taxes Are Lagging

States are reporting increases in gasoline tax collections. But for the most part, municipalities anl cities are scratching to balance the budget as the property tax collections lag. Mayor James L. Key, of Atlanta, has recommended that the city of Atlanta open liquor stores in order to raise funds to avert a 30 per cent cut in salaries of city employes.

Undoubtedly influenced by the Tennessee Valley Authority's building program, bank deposits in Knoxville, Tennessee, increased 118.4 per cent in September, 1934, compared with the same month in 1933. The Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank reported bank deposits in the seven larger cities of the sixth federal reserve district had increased 25.8 millions over a year ago.

Horse And Mule Shortage Found

There is a shortage of horses and mules in Alabama which will require at least four years for farmers of the state to remedy, declare extension livestock specialists.

"Prices of good, sound animals will continue high and owners of good stock will find it well worth while to breed and raise high-grade animals," they report.

Farmers are urged to take care of the stock they have. Too many farmers they say, have drifted into the custom of letting their horses and mules shift for themselves. The rations are limited and the quality of the feed, especially during the off season, is usually bad, indigestible, damaged, or mouldy.

Work On Draining Of Frog Level Is Underway

Work was begun Tuesday morning on draining the area of West Clanton generally known as Frog Level, according to Mayor C. Fenn Jones, who said that Floyd Smith, director of the FERA program in Chilton County, has agreed to have this work done on the basis of a regular works project.

The draining of this section, which is largely inhabited by negroes, will mean much to the health of the town in Mr. Jones' opinion. This section is one of the worst breeding places for mosquitoes in the entire Town, he said. By eliminating these breeding places, the chances for malaria will be greatly lessened.

Aside from the improved health conditions, this work will mean much to the property owners of this and surrounding sections, because the danger of overflow will be minimized, it was explained.

Mayor Jones recently presented the problem to Mr. Smith and together they worked out this plan for rendering the improvement possible.

A series of small ditches will be opened to lead into the larger ditch, which was opened by the CWA employes during last winter.

A TERRACING PROGRAM MAY BE PUT OVER

Idea for Work Receives Much Approval Over County's Farm Lands

The possibilities seem favorable that the Commissoners Court may take steps to secure the terracing program, which has been discussed for several weeks, for the farmers of this county.

The proposition has been discussed several times and many farmers from all sections of the county have declared themselves in favor of the program. Recently County Agent J. W. Fant sent out questionnaires in an effort to determine the reaction of farmers to the proposition, which is in the nature of a loan to those who wish to have expert terracing done at a minimum cost. He reported that replies have been received from a large percentage of those to whom the questions were directed, and they have been unanimously favorable.

Under the plans that have been discussed, the county would purchase the equipment, which will cost approximately $4,000, and will rent it to farmers for terracing purposes at a minimum rate. It is believed that a small amount cleared on each transartion will result in repaying the county the money expended and will mean much in improving farm lands in the county.

More than 100 persons braved the terrible cold of last Friday to attend a demonstration of this machinery on the farm of Earle Thomas, vocational teacher, near Isabella.

On last Thursday, members of the Commissioners Court and Mr. Fant made a trip to Tallapoosa County to make a study of the work that that has been done in that county with the program. Commissioner Duke declared this week that he was favorably impressed with the results in that county and said that he is going to do all he can to help the farmers of this county secure the program if they want it.

A meeting of the court has been called for Saturday morning to discuss this matter further.

"AIRPORT DAIRY COMPANY" SERVING PEOPLE OF CLANTON

A new business enterprise is now serving the people of Clanton and vicinity, or at least it is now being operated under an entirely new name.

On the streets of Clanton may be seen daily a modern up-to-date milk delivery wagon, displaying in large letters the firm name "Airport Dairy Company." This service to the people of Clanton is being rendered by E. W. Miller, whose dairy is located near the Clanton airport.

GREAT & SMALL MOURN DEATH OF "PLAIN BILL"

Whole State Bows Head In Tribute To Former Governor Brandon

By Luther Hearn

Tuscaloosa, Dec. 8.—The great, the near-great and the lowly gathered here today to pay the last tribute to former Gov. William W. "Plain Bill" Brandon as he was laid to rest in the soil of the state he had served in capacities ranging from legislator to governor.

Dr. M. M. Davidson, pastor of the First Methodist Church, read the Methodist funeral ritual. He confined the service to simplicity "in keeping with the character of the man we are honoring." The services opened at 11 a. m.

Among those in attendance were Gov.-elect Bibb Graves, State Treasurer H. Blan, Justices Charles R. Bric-, James Rice and William H. Samford of the Court of Appeals, and many others.

But predominating in number were farmers and working men and women, the people with whose interests the

County Shivers As Mercury Skids To 19

Chilton Countians shivered Monday and Tuesday as the mercury slipped toward zero, bringing the lowest temperature of the winter. Unofficial reports in Clanton Tuesday placed the day's lowest point at 19 degrees, which is rare weather in this section of the state. Few times in a winter does the mercury go below 25 here.

Flurries of snow caused coat collars to be drawn a bit closer, and motorists rushed about the precaution of putting a shot of anti-freeze in their cars. Coal dealers experienced their busiest season during the first three days of this week.

All of which goes to prove that Old Man Winter has made his arrival in Chilton County, and is putting things in order for Saint Nicholas and his reindeer.

MERRY XMAS FOR POOR KIDS SAYS KIWANIS

Local Club Puts On Drive To Fill Stockings Of Underprivileged Tots

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton invites all persons, organizations, societies, or business concerns of the county to join with the club in what will be an organized effort to furnish something of interest to the underprivileged children for Christmas time.

John Hollis, Mell Martn and Leonard Williams, have been designated as the Kiwanis Club Committee to handle this program.

In a statement this week Mr. Hollis, speaking for the committee, requested the co-operation of everyone who may be interested in joining the movement to bring Christmas cheer to children who will have no Christmas unless those more fortunate provide it for them.

Mr. Hollis requests that all who may wish to give anything to the poor children, send a list of what they will give to either member of the Kiwani Club committee or to either of the newspapers in Clanton. Gifts of toys, fruits, candy, clothing or food of any kind will be acceptable. From the lists so furnished the committee will arrange to collect the gifts, assemble them at one central point, and arrange for distribution to the children on Christmas morning.

The Child Welfare Superintendent of Chilton County will furnish to the committee a list of needy children, and

Judge Reynolds Writes Concerning Cotton Act

Dear Editor:

I would like to call to the attention of the cotton farmers of Chilton County an election which will be held on next Friday, December 14, to give them an opportunity to express their views on the Bankhead Bill.

I hope that every cotton farmer and producer of cotton and everyone who is qualified to vote in this election will do so and after they have duly considered their interest and the interest of all the cotton farmers of the South that they will vote their honest convictions and that they will duly consider all the advantages that they have received and all that they will receive if the Bankhead Bill is continued.

I have observed the operation of this Bill, and it is my opinion that it has saved the farmers of the South thousands of dollars and has put them on the road to recovery. I know that there are imperfections in the law and some feel that they have been discriminated against, and I will admit that there are some amendments that should be made and I know that the law has been administered by human beings and that mistakes have been made, which I am sure will be corrected at the next session of Congress, but if we take it as a whole we are bound to admit that it has been a great help to the Southern farmers.

I believe that President Roosevelt has shown himself to be a friend to the common people and he made a statement the other day on leaving Warm Springs for Washington that he was going to advocate an amendment to the Bankhead Law in order that all farmers who raise only two bales of cotton will be exempt from the operation of the law and I am sure that this will go a long way toward satisfying the small farmer.

We must remember that we have been in one of the worst panics we have ever had and we must keep in mind how much better off we have been this Fall than we were last Fall, and I am sure that we realize that to a great extent this is on account of the prices we have received for cotton and cottonseed and we know that we

VETER'N EDITOR PASSES AFTER LONG SERVICE

Gen. J. B. Stanley, Alabama's Oldest Editor, Is Laid To Rest At Greenville

Greenville, Ala., Dec. 9—Gen. James Berney Stanley, 90 years old, and for 69 years publisher of The Greenville Advocate, died here early today after an illness of several weeks. Gen. Stanley had been in bad health for two or three years and there had been a gradual decline in his physical condition due to his age. Death called the veteran publisher, who perhaps was the oldest founder and publisher of any newspaper in the United States, at 2 a. m. Members of his family, including his six children and only sister were at his bedside

Ill for several months with a failing heart, Gen. Stanley it was said, knew that the end was near. His condition assumed a more critical turn about a week ago. He was conscious, however, until 4 p. m. Saturday.

The funeal was held at 10:30 a. m.

LOCAL AIRPORT IS HOST TO SEVERAL VISITORS RECENTLY

Several outstanding flyers were visitors to the Clanton airport during last week, and rumors are current that the local field may become one of the bases for the Maxwell Field air corps maneuvers.

Among the visitors this week was Lieutenant McDonald, a member of the famous "Flying Trapeze" squadron of Maxwell Field, who performed several daring, hair-raising stunts over the Clanton field. Flyers Anderson and Simms, of Memphis, Tenn., also stopped here for a brief visit of an extensive tour of the state.

"The Voice of the Air," famous ship owned by the Wofford Oil Company, is expected to be in Clanton at an early date and will give some fancy demonstrations in the air, it is understood.

Local Railroad Man Ill In Birmingham Hospit'l

Information has been received here that T. J. McDonald, operator for the L & N Railroad Company here, suffered a paralytic stroke in Birmingham Monday and is in a serious condition in the St. Vincent's Hospital. The ailment struck Mr. McDonald while he was in the waiting room of a Birmingham physician, according to information received here by his family, and his condition was so serious that he was unable to inform the physician of the whereabouts of his relatives.

Burt Higgins, of Deatsville, is filling his place here until his condition improves sufficiently to allow him to return to his work.

Mr. McDonald removed to Clanton little more than a year ago, and since that time has been engaged as operator on the third trick here.

Airport Road Being Repaired By Com. Duke

Visitors to the local airport will soon have the pleasure of riding over a good, graveled road right into the entrance to the field. Work has been underway for several days under the supervision of Commissioner C. D. Duke, who stated this week that he expects the road to be completed by the latter part of the week.

Road machines and other equipment have been busy repairing and widening the piece of road from the E. W. Miller home, between a quarter and one-half mile, to the airport. Commissoiner Duke said that when the road is completed, it will have a gravel surface and will be 18 feet in width.

Following the completion of this piece of road, Mr. Duke announced that the road leading around by Tom Wyatt's residence will also be repaired. This will prevent traffic congestion on occasions when several automobiles are going and coming from the field.

The Bankhead Cotton Plan

Tomorrow, Friday, the cotton farmers of this county will have an opportunity to go to the polls and render their verdicts regarding the advisability of keeping in force for another year the protection, which has been guaranteed to them by the Bankhead Cotton Control Act.

It will most certainly be the part of wisdom for all farmers in this county, and elsewhere, to cast a ballot in favor of this legislation. Strenuous effort has been put forth to perfect this bill so that it will be an even greater guarantee of protection to every individual cotton grower.

Every man who stops for one minute to think must admit had it not been for the Bankhead Bill and the cooperation given the Southern farmers by the United States Government, their crops would have brought no more than half the amount received. It does not take a man of great wisdom to recognize the improvement.

We believe that there is little doubt as to the outcome of Friday's vote, but we wish to urge upon the cotton farmers of this section to join the throngs over the nation who will give their endorsement to this proposition. The Bankhead Bill had as its primary purpose, the protection of those who willingly agreed to reduce their cotton acreage. Many have signed up for both 1934 and 1935, and it is especially to their advantage to keep this regulation in effect, that non-contract signers may not take advantage of their cooperation and seek to benefit at their expense.

Cold Wave Hastens Warm Yuletide Spirit

Clanton Stores Showing Large And Complete Displays Of Christmas Gifts, Toys And Yuletide Needs; Bargains In Ads.

As the temperature skidded toward zero this week, the jovial spirit of Old Saint Nicholas began its annual invasion of Clanton and Chilton County. Busy clerks rushed here and there in the various stores, making preparations for the Christmas trade. This toy must be set at a more appropriate angle. Some youngster must see—and wheedle Daddy into buying it—or maybe Old Santa might want it for some little boy or girl. Ah, that looks better—deft fingers swept a wrinkle from a dress that hung on the rack. The fur collar on that coat looks a bit more alluring since the same deft fingers fluffed it up a bit

Outside on the street, cold noses press against show windows. "Gee' Mother, look at that tricycle It's just the right size for me, isn't it?"—or "Oh, Mother! Isn't that the most adorable doll! Reckon Santa Claus will bring it to me?"

Cold noses press harder against the glass. Dreams of Christmas morning race through little minds. Speedy calculations—comparing this price and that price, this gift and that gift—create a whirlpool in the brain of grown-ups.

The blare of loud speakers, barking this price and praising this merchandise. "Folks, it's nice and warm inside Come in and look over our array of bargains. This is the greatest Christmas sale ever brought to Chilton County." Up the street, another loud speaker urges the crowds to do their Christmas shopping early and avoid the last-minute rushes.

On every hand is seen the verdant green of holly, forming a background for the brighter colors of the Season. Ah, there stands Old Santa Claus himself, pointing into that store. He, too, must be urging folks to shop early this year.

It's Christmas, and there's no doubt about it. Everywhere you look, is a galore of holiday bargains. There is just the thing for Daddy—and those wool socks will be just fine for Granddaddy. He is always complaining about his feet being cold; and Mother will just love that coat; Sis would be crazy about that watch—she's been wanting a watch for months now. Whatever it is, you'll find in one of Clanton's many Christmas lands.

The march is on—forgotten are the troubles of yesterday. Put away your little grudge—forget that fancied injury and join the throngs that are marching to a Merry, Merry Christmas!

LOCAL SENIORS WILL PRESENT PLAY FRIDAY

"Everybody's Getting Married" Is Title Of Unique Presentation

Dan Cupid, the inimitable matchmaker—the veteran of ten billion romances, will soon be among the unemployed.

For on next Friday night, "Everybody's Getting Married!"

At the Chilton County High School, the biggest wedding in the history of the county will take place. Poor Dan Cupid has at last overshot his mark. Now it's the bread line—maybe—for the perpetrator of ten billion romances.

Romance, life, love, laughter—will be among the emotions dished out by the high school cast, who will present "Everybody's Getting Married," a riotious comedy in three acts, at the high school on next Friday night at seven-thirty o'clock.

This is said to be one of the most hilarious comedies ever presented to a local audience. Those in charge of the program urge everyone to be sure to attend and spend one of the most enjoyable evenings of the year.

Presenting the following members of the senior class, this play is expected to be one of the best of the entire season:

Phillip Nelson, Cecil Jones, Helen Roberts, Sidney Reynolds, Kelley Gillespie, Dorothy Waite, Priscilla Johnson, Margaret Davis, Elizabeth Gragg, Pauline Hogan, Mary Edith Jones, Wade Alford, John Thomas Marlar, and Owen Deal.

There will also be several entertaining features presented between the acts, it was announced.

Gen. James B. Stanley

The Dean of American newspapermen has passed on. Ninety years of age when the last call came, Gen. Stanley had spent sixty-nine of those years as editor and publisher of The Greenville Advocate, one of Alabama's finest weeklies.

Gen. Staney possessed great ability and high ideals. If he had chosen, these might have carried him into the limelight of more spectacular activities, but he elected to serve most the people about him in his community, his county and his state. The fame which came to him through the years was not of his seeking, but was accorded him because his fellowmen recognized his greatness and placed him high in their esteem.

No greater token of honor can come to any man than that he is loved and admired by his own: and newspapermen of Alabama and the nation bow their heads in sorrow at the passing of this valiant figure of their own profession. His pen is laid aside, the script is finished, the world moves on, but the imprint of a great and good man is upon it.

The Gangster's Fate

This has been a bad year for gangsters, especially these who at various times have been tagged as Public Enemy No. 1. Death at the hands of officers of the law, legal executions and suicide have greatly depleted the ranks of gangland's big shots.

The latest to meet his fate was "Baby Face" Nelson, shot to death in a gun battle in which two brave Federal officers also lost their lives. A partial list of gangsters who have been removed from the earthly scene since the beginning of the year includes these desperate criminals:

John Dillinger, Jack Klutas, "Pretty Boy" Floyd, Herbert Youngblood (Negro), Eugene Green, Tommy Carroll, Howard VanMeter, Charles Makely, Clyde Barrow. Nelson, and others were shot to death by officers of the law. Verne Sankey and Willie Sharkey committed suicide in prison. Harry Pierpont was electrocuted. The Touhy and "Machine Gun" Kelly gangs went to the penitentiary. Many lesser criminals met similar fates.

If the thousands of other criminals now at large could be brought to realize that crime doesn't pay, and death or imprisonment are its only rewards, greater progress in the suppression of crime might result.

Unfortunately, it seems that as soon as one gangster is put out of the way another springs up to take his place.

For A Safe Holiday Season

The Holiday Season is designed to bring joy and happiness—but it likewise brings with it a vast amount of preventable misery, because of the accident toll. The gravity of the problem is magnified by the fact that a large percentage of Holiday accidents involve children. Hundreds of them are killed and thousands are needlessly injured every December.

Here are a few rules, issued by the National Safety Council, to help pass a safe and happy Christmas Season:

Don't permit children to play in the streets—the old practice of hitching sleds to automobiles is especially hazardous

Winter brings special automobile hazards, such as ice and snow, poor visibility and soft highway shoulders. Remember them—and drive accordingly.

Don't use candles on your Christmas Tree—don't put it near a stove—don't use inflammable trimmings—don't permit it to dry out in the house after Christmas—don't fail to anchor it firmly—don't use light bulbs of greater strength than one firefly candlepower.

These little hints are simple enough—there's nothing but common sense behind them, and they will cost nothing, in either time or money, to follow. And they may be the means of saving the lives of loved ones.

o-o-o-o

The Agricultural Crisis

"If the farm people of America do not reshape their own destiny, it will be reshaped for them by other people," said Clarence Poe, editor of Progressive Farmer and Southern Ruralist, recently. "A crisis is on for agriculture, and there is need as perhaps never before that each man (1) inform himself, think seriously, and try to reach sound conclusions, and (2) join with other farmers and farm women in farm organizations so as to put the power of organized effort behind whatever policies the 'common sense of most' indicates are wise.

"The humblest man in this way can make his influence count for good."

In that statement, Mr. Poe has caught the spirit that underlies farm cooperative organizations. They are, primarily, dealers in agricultural products. They are likewise great educational agencies—they know that, in the long view, real farm progress must come from the farmer himself, from cooperation and unceasing work designed to forward the best interests of all concerned.

The farmer of today has, in cooperative action, a great opportunity—an opportunity that has already achieved much, and that offers much more. That is why more and more of them are working together to solve their common problems.

o-o-o-o

We often wonder why the Bible continues to be the best seller when so few people ever wear one out.

There ought to be a way to investigate disasters before they happen.

The Printing Code

During recent years, and at least partly as a result of the depression in general business, a great deal of printing was done below cost. This inevitably resulted in lower wage scales, depleting of reserves, and failure of less fortunately situated businesses. It created a vicious circle of cut-throat competition that could not continue indefinitely without utter demolishment of the industry. Similar conditions existed in other industries, in fact being so generally found. in so many lines of industry, it became evident that these conditions were fundamental reasons for the perpetuation of a depression that rapidly approached a calamity for this nation.

To remedy this terrible condition codes of fair competition were instigated by the national government and put into effect. The underlying purpose was to increase employment and wages, and thereby promote a better circulation of money and break this vicious circle of cut-throat competition.

In the Printing Code, as well as some others, a schedule of prices was set up as a part of the Code. It was prepared by the best authority on the subject our country possesses. Naturally, it was a gigantic task to fix prices that would fit every condition in every part of the nation. But those in charge of its preparation had but one object in mind: To be Fair. Fair to labor, fair to capital in the printing industry, and fair to the consumer of printed merchandise.

It should be of great benefit. But there is one weakness. By fixing prices any concern knows what his competitor's selling price is, and those without scruples can use this advantage to gain their own selfish ends.

There are a few who masquerade under the title of printing salesmen who deliberately cut code prices. They are a discredit and dishonor to the printing profession. They, above all others should know the problems of the industry. They should and do know that the printing industry worked out its code to relieve some of these problems. They did, or could have had a part in making it what it is. By every code of ethics and honor they are bound to support it, and then, if they like, come out in the open and get it changed or abolished.

But when, by subterfuge, and otherwise, they deliberately cut prices of their competitors which have legally been placed in their hands, they not only violate the law, but should be likened unto traitors in time of war, for their own industry was and is fighting for its very existence, and they are selling their fellow craftsmen. Or they may well be compared to thieving scavengers who go about after great catastrophes such as fires and tornadoes, stealing the possessions of victims whose goods are laid to their mercy.

No doubt this same condition exists in other industries besides that of printing. Neither is this message directed to those who are guilty of the things above-referred to, for they are beyond any call to honor or fairness.

The one hope in this message is that those who buy may thoroughly understand what is involved, and that they may know when being asked a slightly higher price occasionally than has been made by an out-of-town concern, that they are not being held up. But that they are simply being asked to pay a FAIR price to a concern which expects to pay a fair price for goods it buys, and do its part toward paying better wages so that better business for the whole community may be attained.

Adult Education, A Noble Experiment, An Inspiring Innovation

The movement of adult education in Alabama was launched last year without blare of trumphets and placing of colorful posters in show windows. It has not employed ballyhoo the current season. But quietly all over the United States a large corps of teachers, and thousands of adults and young folks just out of school are returning to class rooms. To all reflective people this should be cause for rejoicing. Life at best offers us many problems; at worst, obstacles; forbidding and impassible walls.

To those who have no resources to combat life's problems, life must always be a drab succession of routine days and dull nights. Often hunger half appeased, pain unrelieved, monotony unbroken, superstition looming before us in varied, forbidding shapes.

On the economic side, debts will burden us, changing conditions due to new inventions and discoveries will leave us unemployed and unneeded. Even in such a basic and seemingly simple occupation as agriculture, new pests menace us, new methods of marketing and transportation confuse us, new fields opened to cultivation compete with us. Eternal vigilance is indeed not only the price of success but a tax nature puts on life.

The accumulation of knowledge, the acquiring of skill, the disciplining of emotions, progress in acting together, willingness to surrender individual rights for the welfare of the group, are all essential to a solution of our many problems.

The basic skills are training the muscles, training the mind, training the feelings. We need apprentice systems to train muscles; we have this on the farms, where father and son work together; the best system we know of. To train the mind we need teachers. We must read, figure, study what the race has learned about any number of things; learn something of our past, politically, industrially, culturally. Only then can we understand the present and chart the great future.

May the movement of adult education move down the field under flying colors, and fulfill the needs and dreams of mankind.

Folks Hard To Please

Some appear to think that running a newspaper is easy, but from experience we can say that it is no picnic, because readers are hard to please.

If we print jokes, people say we are silly.

If we don't, they say we are too serious.

If we clip things from other papers, we are too lazy to write them ourselves.

If we don't we are stuck on our own stuff.

If we stick close to the job all day, we ought to be out hunting news.

If we do get out and try to hustle, we ought to be on the job in the office,

If we don't print contributions, we don't appreciate true genius; and if we print them, the paper is filled with junk.

If we make a change in the other fellow's write-up, we are too critical.

If we don't we are asleep.

Now, like as not, some guy will say we swiped this from some other newspaper.

And so we did.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

A drunk man on the way home met a companion who was about as drunk as he was and to him he said: "Sam, I am going home and I have made up my mind that if supper is not ready I am going to raise hell and if it is ready I am going to raise hell right on." In this life it is not hard to locate people who are sober and yet who have a disposition and a determination to raise a row, it matters not whether they be at home or abroad. Then there are some folks who are as sweet as sugar abroad and as mean as the devil at home. If supper is ready or if it is not ready, they raise the dickens when they go home.

I was in a home not long since where lived a man of skill. He could take iron or wood and mould it into anything that he wanted. He could make an engine or a cabinet as easily as a little girl could make a mud pie. I watched this man in action in his shop and admired and all but coveted his skill. When we entered his home where lived his beautiful companion and his sweet, innocent babe, he seemed to change immediately into a bear. He scowled and scolded and snarled lke one who was possessed with a devil. It wsa hard for me to understand and yet he could not, or did not, touch and mould human hearts with a like tenderness. Blessed is the man who can show his most tender touch as he is dealing with the inmates of his home. When this is done he can mould them into just anything that he wants them to be.

I was riding along the highway and came to a home of a friend. On looking just behind the house I saw a mule going round and round. I did not need an interpreter to know what was going on at that place. I knew that it was syrup making time. It was no time to pass a friend by and so my car acted as if gas had given out. Around the house I went and there was the entire family grinding out sweetness and cooking sweetness into sweeter sweetness and everybody seemed happy. If you want to find a family that is happy, let them go round and round in their daily service grinding out sweetness and then boiling sweetness down into sweeter sweetnes, and there you will find a foretaste of heaven. It should be syrup making time in every home all the time.

I was sitting in a home where lived three boys and two girls. Night was drawing on and the father arose saying: "It is time for us to be about our night work." Each member of the family arose and not a word was spoken as they all left the room. I walked out on the porch to see what was going to take place and each boy and each girl, along with mother and dad, went to a certain task. I saw that each one had certain duties assigned. In a very short time they all returned to the room and the work was done. The father had faith in the children and said nothing about the work expected. He knew that it was all done well. How simple becomes the duties of home life when each one has a duty and then performs it. There is nothing on earth that is finer than a well regulated family. Not only should every member of a family have assigned duties, but each one should be required to perform those duties. Work around the house becomes easy when all work.

I was in a home when a group of huntsmen came into the house. They were just from the swamps and their boots were wet and muddy. They pushed up to the fire and warmed their feet and they they were gone. The lady of the house was an immaculate housekeeper and her temper was not so sweet as she scrubbed and swept the floor in order to remove the mud that had been brought in by the men from the fields. Am I not right when I say that many a man, even many a woman, has tramped into our home and brought the mud of the world along with them. They touch our boys and girls with their bad habits and low ideals and they are gone, but they have left mud behind them. Should we be always sweet when men and women with muddy feet, low morals, invade our homes and leave their mud for us to remove, or live with?

Isabella Youth Goes To South Sea Islands

Harold Mims of the Isabella community, who has been in New York since September, will sail for Honolulu on December 14th.

Harold has spent a very happy and successful vacation in New York City since he has been away from home. He will sail on the "Republic" and expects to stay in Hawaii nearly two years. He hopes to make a collection of trophies on his lengthy stay and hopes to bring back a good many souveniors of the South Sea Islands.

Bible Sunday Is Endorsed By Gov. Miller

Montgomery, December 11—Governor B. M. Miller urges upon the churches of Alabama an observance of Universal Bible Sunday on next Sunday, December 9.

The four hundredth anniversary of the publication of Martin Luther's translation of the Bible will be commemorated in thousands of churches within America and in foreign countries on next Sunday, according to a statement issued by the American Bible Society, under whose direction Universal Bible Sunday is promoted, and through whose missionary activities the Bible is circulated in more than forty countries in close to two hundred languages.

In urging the observance of Universal Bible Sunday Governor Miller says: "The Fourth Centennial Anniversary of the publication of Martin Luther's translation of the Bible should be celebrated on Universal Bible Sunday, that the result of his work may be proclaimed and that this important event may be commemorated.

"The Bible blazes the path of life which leads to peace on earth and to eternal joy beyond. It declares principles to live by, with great promises, many of which are fulfilled in this life. As a book it is superior to all. None can be compared with it. Not one is in its class."

Gain In Employment Shown For October

Washington.—A general improvement in employment both as to hours and earnings took place from September to October, according to the National Industrial Conference Board.

Reporting on the results of its regular monthly inquiries, the Board announced that the number of workers employed in 25 manufacturing industries was 1.5 per cent larger in October than in September and that average hourly earnings advanced from 59.1 cents to 59.3 cents.

An increase of 2.1 per cent in the average work-week from 33.3 hours to 34 hours caused the weekly earnings to rise from $19.53 to $20.03, or 2.6 per cent. In addition, a slight decrease in the cost of living brought real weekly earnings to a level 2.8 per cent above those of September.

Next Year's Cotton Program Announced

Auburn, Ala.—The Agricultural Adjustment Administration's 1935 cotton program includes:

A reduction of 25 per cent from the averaged number of acres planted in the 1928-32 period, and an opportunity for contract signers—new and old—to reduce another 5 per cent if they so desire.

Rental payments will be 3½ cents and the parity payment no less than 1¼ cents. Upon this basis it is calculated that southern farmers will receive during 1935 approximately $94,230,000 from rentals and parity payments.

An estimate that a total of 23,500,000 acres would be left for harvest in 1935 provided that new signers deduct a million acres out of production.

A calculation that a ten-year average yield of 170 pounds lint per acre would result in about 12,000,000 bales but "somewhat above" this is expected because of more intensive cultivation. A crop of slightly above 13,000,000 bales is looked for unless the Bankhead bill in continued.

Reopening of the cotton contracts so that non-cooperators who planted about 6,000,000 this year may sign one-year contracts and participate in the voluntary program next year.

Bankhead Act Defects Will Be Eliminated

Assurance has been given farmers of Alabama that every effort possible will be made next year to eliminate injustices in equalities and defects of operation of the Bankhead Act. This assurance came from C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton production section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

"You may assure the producers that in deciding on the plan to be used in 1935 every effort possible wil be made to eliminate injustices in equalities and defects of operation," said Mr. Cobb.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and others connected with the AAA are confident that the Bankhead Act can be made more workable in 1935 than in 1934. The Act did not pass Congress until last June. Many of the delays and inconveniences that were unavoidable this year will not retard the progress of administering the Act in 1935, it was explained.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Gray and Miss Jettye Gray of Birmingham were here Monday for the funeral of Mr. C. B. Deramus.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Parnell and children of Verbena were the guests Sunday of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Baxter.

Mr. Betram King of Holtville was home for the week end.

Methodist Church News

At both morning and evening services last Sunday a fine attendance heard the new pastor, Dr. A. E. Middlebrooks, preach his first sermons in the local Methodist church. Dr. Ezell and his people attended the evening service. A show of hands revealed that several from other churches were present.

Dr. Middlebrooks announces the following services for next Sunday:

Church School at 9:45
Preaching at 11:00.
Young People's Meeting at 6:15.
Preaching at 7:00.

Special Christmas music and themes will feature next Sunday services at both the morning and evening hours. Theme for 11:00 o'clock, "Origin and History of Christmas." Theme for 7:00, "How to Save Christmas."

All members are urged to be present at both services. The public is cordially invited.

A salvation Army band of Atlantic City refused to participate in a fete because jazz dancing was permitted.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

The negro farmers will have an opportunity to cast their votes on the Bankhead Cotton Control Bill. In exercising this rare privilege it is hoped that each negro voter will vote his own conviction. That he will not be swayed by mere heresay, but will weigh the facts in the case and cast his ballot accordingly.

The writer has visited a large number of communities and discussed the merits as well as the demerits of the control measure and informing the farmers of the probable changes in the measure for 1935, affecting the little man. It is a fact that without the Bankhead Control measure, cotton farmers will be headed back to the 1932 price level. It is imperative, then, that we weigh all facts carefully and vote accordingly.

All farmers in the County Training School community will cast their ballot at the County Training School. Voting hours from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Conference Friday

Farmers will have the opportunity of killing two birds at one shot Friday because they will not have to go up town to cast their ballots. They may bring their exhibits right on to the school and vote while there.

The most elaborate exhibit ever seen at the school is being planned. Don't miss this exhibit as well as other interesting features of the day. Mr. Earle Thomas, teacher of Vocational Agriculture at the Isabella High School and Senator-elect of this district and Prof. Worthy Hughes, County Agent, will be the main speakers. Other persons expected on the program are: Miss Ruth Pardue, County Home Demonstration Agent; Mr. J. W. Fant, County Agent; Dr. Ezell, pastor of the Baptist church, Clanton; Mr. J. Lee Smith, ex-mayor and Probate Judge-elect.

The program begins promptly at 10 o'clock.

Big Rally Planned

A big tally and all-day singing are being planned for the fifth Sunday in Dectmber. There will be a three cornered singing contest among the "Big Four" of Bessemer, the "Smith Singers" of Booth, and the "Coosa Singers" of New Home fame. Everybody is invited. The purpose of this rally is to raise money to pay on that long past due note at the Peoples Savings Bank.

CARD OF THANKS

Please allow us a small space in your paper to express our thanks and appreciation to our friends for their kinlness and sympathy shown us during the sickness and death of our dear husband and father. Everybody was so kind and good to us until words cannot express how much we do thank them for it. Especially do we thank Dr. H. G. Franklin of Thorsby for what he did and the Spigener Funeral Home for being so good to us. May God's richest blessings abide with each one of you is our prayers.

MOLTON HOTEL

FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once, feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.

REYNOLDS

could never have received this price had it not been for the reduction of the cotton crop as the result of the Bankhead Bill.

I have no personal interest in this matter, but am only interested in seeing the cotton farmers and the people of Chilton County, as well as the entire South, do the best for themselves and it is my honest opinion that this is one time that the farmers of the South have gotten a square deal from the Federal Government, and it seems to me that the President is doing everything that he can in his official capacity to relieve the Southern farmers.

I hope you will consider these matters and go to the election Friday and vote in favor of the Bankhead Law.

Yours very truly,
L. H. REYNOLDS.

Christian Endeavor News

Last Saturday night, December 8th, the members of the Christian Endeavor Society enjoyed a social at the home of Martha Williams. Throughout the evening table games were played in which everyone took part. After all had played the different games, fudge and popcorn were served. The social ended with all singing one verse of "Blest Be The Tie That Binds" which concludes all Christian Endeavor socials. We were very glad to have the sponsor, Miss McKee, and Miss Gleason with us.

The topic for Christian Endeavor Sunday night was "How's Business" with Tru Delle Swiney as leader. After the different members had given their parts, Miss McKee, our sponsor, led a discussion concerning the topic of the evening. The society voted to send the money which was given to the society by Mr. Butler with money to be made up by the society to the Southern Union College at Wadley, Alabama. The meeting closed with the Christian Endeavor benediction.

The Christmas program, which is one of the most interesting programs of the school year, is to be in the form of a play entitled "Inasmuch" and is to be presented on Saturday evening, Dec. 15th. The play was written by two of the Institute teachers—Miss Allen and Miss Klingelhoefer. Special Christmas music is being prepared. Admission 10 cents.

Rev. William C. Bell and Dr. Ensminger were guests at the Institute Monday evening. Rev. Bell has been a missionary to Angola, West Africa, since 1897. Just before supper he gave an interesting talk to the teachers and dormitory students, telling of his work and experiences in Africa. He also displayed several curios.

Last Saturday night the members of the Sophomore class of Thorsby Institute were entertained at the home of Mr. Vinson Suthve. During the evening Miss Ruth McKee rendered a piano solo and Mary Nell Pate gave a reading. The group played many games and sang Christmas carols. Miss Allen and Miss Ford were guests of the class.

DR. GRAGG EXPLAINS PLANS FOR OPERATING HOSPITAL IN FUTURE

Calls Attention To Interesting Methods Used By Other Countries And States In Their Successful Hospitalization Programs

Dear Editor:

Since so many inquiries are coming to me about a proposed co-operative health association, I am coming again asking you to allow me a little space in order that I may give the public some history of such work in both Europe and the United States.

During the past fifty years, most European countries have made payment for hospital and medical care the subject of public action, and a large part of the population now pays for such service through regular periodic payment to a mutual benefit society or association. These organizations are formed of the employees of a given industrial establishment, or of the members, broadcast, of a given locality.

In fact, in most countries of Europe every person earning less than a specific income is legally compeled to insure himself against illness, and the insurance fund to which he belongs must, in return, provide him with certain medical service. In all these countries a voluntary co-operative, non-profit, plan preceded the legal plan and was found to be so satisfactory that the government followed up with a state or legal plan. In many European countries they have gone further and now furnish co-operative aid against accidents, invalidity, old age, and other hazards.

The British system requires all employed persons making a salary of less than two hundred and fifty pounds annually, to insure against sickness. This began in 1912.

Germany passed its compulsory health insurance in 1883. France introduced compulsory health insurance in 1930. Russia has taken over the entire thing by the governnment. Denmark and Sweden depend on a voluntary health plan that has the majority of its people cared for under this system.

Thus, you see, European countries focusses ther attention upon the problem of payment rather than upon the methods of providing medical care.

However, in England and in many countries on the continent, care of the indigent is almost everywhere a direct responsibility of the government.

In Europe, methods of group payment for service has been utilized through two generations in many countries with widely varying social, economic and political conditions, and found to be a success.

In our own country, besides, certain industries mentioned heretofore and certain groups, societies, etc. we find some of the largest colleges and most prominent universities have successfully carried out such a plan for years, a student health plan having been started about 1860. On January 1, 1931, there were in the Unitel States 153 colleges or universities with organized student health services. This varies in cost from $9 to $30 per capita per school year. Baylor University of Dallas, Texas is an outstanding example. In the University of California almost a complete service is given, and around 10,000 students are furnished this at a cost of $17.86 per capita per school year.

I think we could furnish hospital service for considerably less money than appears from these figures. However, tht cost would depend in a great measure, on the number of members; 2000 would cost less per capita than 000 and 5000 would cost still less per capita than 2000.

In conclusion, I wish to thank Mr. E. G. Caldwell for his splendid letter last week. He has had considerable hospital experience and can tell much about cost and service. I think my leter in last week's paper answered his question about a plan, or method to carry on.

Would it not have been a grand thing if we now had this plan ready and coull present his or her family with a membership card as a Christmas present, meaning that hospital service was theirs without cost at any time needed for the next twelve months?

Have we thought about this seriously? Are we going to wait until we have a large bill to pay, that might have already been paid with a few dollars while we were well and happy instead of sick and in trouble? If we don't want this, then we don't; but if we do want it, then the quicker the better. We can have it right here at homt at little cost. What do you say?

V. J. GRAGG.

VISITORS DAY AT C. C. H. S. ON ALABAMA'S BIRTHDAY, DEC. 14

Next Friday, December 14, will be known as "Visitors' Day" at Chilton County High School.

We did not have a formal opening of school when it began in September, because we felt other things were of more importance. Now that we are in the fourth month of our work, and everything running smoothly, we thought it a splendid idea to invite the public to visit us at any time it sees fit during the day. We especially invite you, however. to be with us at the Assembly Period which begins at 10:25 and extends until 11:10. At this time an Alabama Day Program will be carried out by the students of our school and others. Mr. Elijah H. Parrish, one of the old pioneers of Clanton and Chilton County, will give a few reminiscences of the early history of our community. The main part of the program will be a pageant entitled: "Alabama Under the Five Flags."

There will be ushers at the front door to carry the visitors to the various booths in the building and will explain the exhibits relative to each booth. These exhibits will in a measure reflect some of the work that is being accomplished in the school rooms this year. Visitors will please feel free to come any time during the day. We cordially invite you to come to see us, visit the classrooms during recitations, ask any questions you care to, and stay a long as you want to. A warm delicious cup of coffee awaits you, served by the girls of the home economics department under the direction of Miss Virginia Cook.

CONCORD 4 H CLUB

The 4-H Club Boys of Concord met last Wednesday, December 5th, 1934. We were assigned some topics about taxes and cotton on which we discussed at our last meeting, Tuesday, December 11, we had a very good meeting. We have an enrollment of twenty-two in our club now. A few weeks ago the boys and girls of our school had a contest to see who could raise the most money to pay on a piano for the school. The girls beat the boys seventy-nine cents.

For the last two weeks there has been a spelling contest between the boys and girls, and the girls beat by one point. The prize for the winners was a basket of oranges. There will be a spelling and arithmetic contest between the boys and girls, and it will last two weeks.

CURTIS WYATT, Club Reporter.

CHESTNUT GROVE

We are glad to say that the health is good here at present.

Our Sunday school is going nicely. We are thankful to see our children take the interest in Sunday school they are taking. It will be a blessing to them some sweet day. We would like to see the older people take more interest and set a better example before their children.

Brother Horace Nabors filled his regular appointment here last Sunday at 2:30 p.m. His sermon was enjoyed by all present. We think he is a promising young preacher. He is doing some good work here.

Miss Betty Denson and Miss Margaret Nabors were dinner guests at Mr. Lee Denson's, Sunday.

We are glad to state that Master Aaron Nabors is back home again. We hope for him a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

So let us all put our shoulders to the wheel and do good and we will get good.

Chevrolet Sales Go Up During Nov.

November retail sales in the United States by the Chevrolet Motor Company, totaling 50,819 units, were the largest for that month since 1926 and were exceeded by only one previous November in the history of the company, M. E. Coyle, president, announced here today. November broke another record of 8 years' standing and it marks the first time since 1926 that sales for the month have exceeded October sales.

Reports from dealers indicate that last month's sales more than doubled the total for November, 1933, and even exceeded the total of 47,803 units sold in November, 1929, which was the biggest year in the history of the company and of the industry in general.

To supply the continued demand for passenger cars and trucks, Chevrolet maintained its production of current models at a high rate through November, operating all of its assembly plants and carrying its manufacturing schedule into December. Last month's production of 48,818 units set a new record for the month of November in the entire history of the company.

Approximately 70 per cent of the month's total represented production for the domestic market, the greater part of the remainder being produced for the growing export trade.

Mr. Coyle pointed out that a demand for the Master models, which has held remarkably firm, has been responsible for the unusually heavy production.

WIFE FOR SALE!

The merry widow is jogged up to a hot fox-trot in the mad dance for hearts occurring in the hilarious comedy farce, "Everybody's Getting Married," to be presented at the High School on Friday night, December 14.

"You're wonderful," sighs Dorothy Waite, who portrays the character of a rich widow, to Dean Garrett, professional loafer.

The outcome——? "Everybody's Getting Married."

More Feed, Poultry and Dairy Products Needed

For Alabama farmers to "live at home" they must increase their production of meat, poultry, and dairy products, and feed for livestock, according to J. C. Grimes, head of the animal industry group at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn.

"The average person in the United States," said Prof. Grimes, "consumes approximately annually 60 pounds of pork, 20 pounds of chicken, 17 dozen eggs, 53 gallons of milk, and 17 pounds of butter.

If each of the 2,646,000 people in Alabama consumed the average amounts of these produces, the supply grown within the state would fall short by 253,000 cattle, 262,000 hogs, 350,000 dairy cows, 2,457,000 chickens, and 2,566,000 dozen eggs.

"In addition, Alabama farmers do not produce a sufficient amount of feed to properly feed the animals now on Alabama farms. There is at present an annual deficit of 13,875,500 bushels of corn and 2,149,750 tons of hay."

C. C. C. Program Supported By People

Montgomery—A recent survey conducted by the State Commission of Forestry discloses that material as well as moral assistance is being given to the work of the Civilian Conservation Corps in Alabama. Various State departments, numerous counties and municipalities and a large number of citizens and landowners have given construction materials, loaned the services of employees, and donated the use of equipment for the successful conduct of the forestry and erosion control program. Expressed in menetary values a total of $40,000 has been contributed for the forestry projects and $14,000 for erosion control.

Texas Lady Tells How Black-Draught Laxative Helps All Her Family

Here's how Black-Draught fills the needs of a family laxative in the home of Mrs. J. S. Stoker, Fort Worth, Texas: "The grown-ups in my family," she writes, "have always taken powdered Thedford's Black-Draught for biliousness, headaches and other ailments (due to constipation) and found it a reliable remedy. I was very pleased when I saw Syrup of Black-Draught advertised. I bought it and gave it to my little daughters, ages 6 and 4. They needed something to cleanse their systems and Syrup of Black-Draught acted well." . . . Your druggist sells this reliable laxative in both forms. "Children like the Syrup."

Alabama Celebrates 115th Anniversary of Statehood

December 14th Recalls Stirring Days Of The Early Frontier Settlements

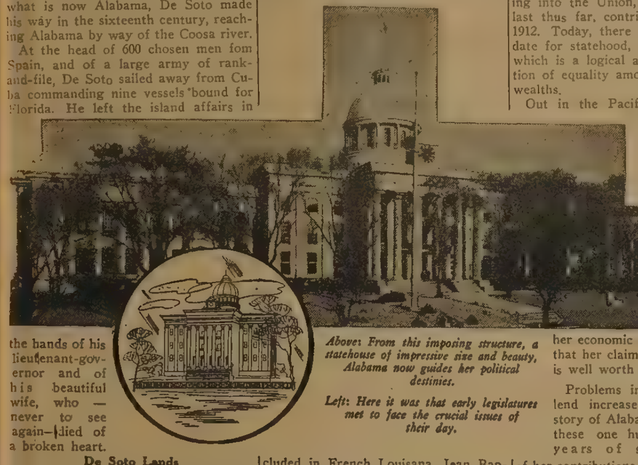
By William Atherton DuPy

Celebrating a statehood now 115 years old, the Commonwealth of Alabama will observe the anniversary of her admission to the Union on Friday, December 14.

On December 14, 1819, Alabama graduated from the Territorial status to the privileges and responsibilities of Statehood. Behind her lay a graphic history, starred by the great deeds of Spanish French and British discoverers and men-at-arms, preceding with their flags the coming of the Stars and Stripes and the modern era of progress and enterprise under our national banner.

In the far days of exploration the name of a great Spaniard, Hernando De Soto, stands out among the conquistadores who forced their way through the south. From the coast of Florida up through part of Georgia and into what is now Alabama, De Soto made his way in the sixteenth century, reaching Alabama by way of the Coosa river.

At the head of 600 chosen men fom Spain, and of a large army of rank-and-file, De Soto sailed away from Cuba commanding nine vessels bound for Florida. He left the island affairs in the hands of his lieutenant-governor and of his beautiful wife, who — never to see again—died of a broken heart.



Above: From this imposing structure, a statehouse of impressive size and beauty, Alabama now guides her political destinies.

Left: Here it was that early legislatures met to face the crucial issues of their day.

De Soto Lands

Landing at Tampa Bay in Florida in 1539, De Soto found the natives hostile. The Florida Indians, remembering the cruelties of Navarez before the country crushed him, saw to it that De Soto and his men moved in a shower of arrows.

Taking with him Indian chiefs as hostages against attack, he reached the Coosa River. following it into the famed province of that name, where he was received with great hospitality by the Indians. This reception changed when De Soto's men challenged the Mobilians by overt deeds and in a great nine-hour battle thousands of the Indians were slain and many of the explorer's men killed and badly wounded. This battle of Manvila at the junction of the Tombigbee and Alabama Rivers, first established his supremacy with the tribes.

River Burial

Finding no gold anywhere and refusing to put back empty handed to join his relief ships at the coast, De Soto pushed on through hostile Indian territory to the Mississippi, which he reached in 1541. There on the great river the explorer sickened of fever, and died in 1542. The expedition under the new commander had shrunk from 5000 men to 320.

On the banks of the Mississippi, which he was the first white man to see, a crude oaken trough was fashioned in which the remains of De Soto were sunk to the bottom of the river. After four years the survivors reached the Mexican coast in a pitiable plight. After the death of De Soto the vast empire north of the Gulf slumbered for more than 150 years, ignored by Europeans.

Founding of Mobile

La Salle, back from France where he had gone to beg commission to explore, discovered the mouth of the Mississippi and had claimed the country that it drained for France, naming it Louisiana in honor of his monarch, King Louis XIV.

At this time, when Alabama was included in French Louisana, Jean Baptste La Moyne, Sieur de Bienville, a young French-Canadian, established Fort Conde, the germ of the present City of Mobile.

In 1721 three slave ships brought the first negroes to Mobile. African slavery began and whites shifted their efforts to trading in timber, tar and turpentine. Corn was produced in large quantities. Cotton was introduced and quickly became successful. The first crude machine to separate the cotton from the lint was introduced in Alabama.

In 1732 the British grant of Georgia to General J. E. Oglethrope had been made and a part of Alabama was involved in this transaction, but the Peace of Paris in 1763 brought all of Alabama under British rule.

Spain seized the province of West Florida in 1789 but after the War of Independence and the treaty with England, the United States laid claim to all territory down to latitude 31 degrees.

Under American Flag

In 1812 Geneal Wilkinson occupied the Mobile district of West Florida, claiming that this had been included in the Louisana Purchase, the Spanish commandant offering no opposition. Thus for the first time all the lands of the present State of Alabama came under the jurisdiction of the United States.

In 1798 the area lying between 32 degrees 28 minutes North and 31 degrees South and the Chattahoochee and Misssissippi Rivers, were organized into Mississippi Territory. In 1804 the land claimed by Georgia and South Carolina extending to latitude 35 degrees was added. In 1817 the Mississippi Teritory was divided, the west half to become the State of Mississippi and the East half the Territory of Alabama.

Two years later Alabama Territory progressed into Statehood. On Decembe 14, 1819, her star joined those of her sister-states on Old Glory. As state after state followed her into the Union, they studied her struggle up the ladder of political maturity; they compared their own status to hers prior to 1819. They found strength in the precedents which she had established.

One after another, they came flocking into the Union, with Arizona, the last thus far, contributing her star in 1912. Today, there is only one candidate for statehood, one political entity which is a logical aspirant for a position of equality among sister commonwealths.

Out in the Pacific—within airplane flight of the California coastline. the Territory of Hawaii wants the honor of adding the forty-ninth star to our national flag. The history of Hawaii is so unusual her development so interesting and her economic status so significant that her claim to statehood status is well worth a quick survey.

Problems in territorial history lend increased interest to the story of Alabama's growth during these one hundred and fifteen years of statehood and of her contributions to national achievement and unity since 1819.

Alabama was one of the first of the Southern States to engage in the secession movement. Montgomery was the first capital of the Confederacy The ordinance of secession passed in January 1861. When the State seceded Governor Moore ordered the seizure of Forts Morgan and Gaines which guarded Mobile harbor. The senators and congessmen representing Alabama resigned their seats immediately after secession, and on February 4 the government of the Confederacy was organized at Montgomery by delegates from the secession states.

General Wheeler

In the period of the Spanish American War the tact of President McKinley in appointing as commander of the cavalry at the battle of Santiago de Cuba none other than Congressman Joseph Wheeler, an ex-Confederate army general and long a resident of Alabama. cemented the friendship of the new North and South as nothing else could have done.

Aside from her chief industry of cotton, Alabama has developed great mineral resources of iron and coal. Bounded by the States of Tennessee, Georgia, Mississippi and Florida and the Gulf of Mexico, the State lies in a position of great strategic importance to the South.

Era of Progress

The huge development of Muscle Shoals, commenced in the World War period to supply nitrogen by fixation from the air. This $50,000,000 enterprise on the Tennessee River has brought a new importance to Alabama. Her iron and steel products enrich the manufacturing industries of the nation while her agriculture supplies a world market with staple necessities.

The birthday of Alabama falls this year upon times in which a new watchword of progress and enterprise is being spoken through the whole country. A new era of reconstruction, now follows tardily the great conflict of the World War, and its disturbing effects upon all peoples. It is a birthday that we can all celebrate this year with real rejoicing, for it is a sign and a promise of a new progress and a more lasting prosperity than that which has followed any of the post-war periods in the colorful history of the past.

Land Bank No Relief Organization Says President Beeland

The Federal Land Bank of New Orleans must be conducted on sound business principles, and payment must be required of all debt due it, if the Bank is to remain a source of permanent credit for farmers in Alabama, Louisiana, and Mississippi, President Robert A. Beeland, Jr., declared recently before a special meeting of field superivsors, called in to discuss the collection polidy of the Bank.

"Farmers themselves recognize the value of keeping their credit good, for over 50 per cent of our borrowers are current with their obligations. Land Bank collections are a long way ahead of the same period last year, while collestions on Commissioner loans are also very satisfartory. Hundreds of farmers, who last year at this time appeared to be in hopeless financial condition, have now paid all instalments to date. Land sales have increased 70 per cent over last year, and gross sales already greatly exceed those made through the end of 1933.

"The Bank has fulfilled the need for lenient treatment of its borrowers.

"Let me stress once more that the Bank is not an emergency relief organization, but an institution conducted on the same business principles upon which a commercial bank operates, and we expect payment out of the proceeds of all crops grown on land mortgaged to the Bank."

Many Children Receive Aid In Welfare Drive

Those in charge of an extensive drive in Chilton County, through the local child welfare unit, to give greater advantages to underprivileged children are elated with the results of the work during the past month.

More than 200 homes have been visited and 100 children have been enrolled in school, who otherwise would likely not have been able to attend school this year. Sixty-five children have furnished with books and clothing to make it possible for them to enter school.

This campaign is being conducted under the superivsion of Miss Nolen Meroney, county child welfare superintendent, who is being assisted by Miss Icie Belle Cobern.

During the past month, according to a report compiled by the department, Miss Meroney has driven 1,152 miles and visited scores of families, and Miss Cobern traveled 771 miles during the month. They both stated that they found many children who have not been financially able to secure clothing and books.

In connection with the recent crippled childrens clinic, three children are receiving treatment which it is believed will enable to regain normal use of their limbs.

IN MEMORY OF C.A. JOHNSON

Saturday p.m., October 20, will be remembered with sadness by the many friends and relatives of C. A. Johnson who was fatally wounded death following a few hours later.

C. A., who was only twenty-three years old, but God who has all power to give life and to take it away, saw fit to call him to the home beyond the skies. It is great consolation to loved ones and friends to know that C. A acknowledged Christ as his Savior and became a member of the Baptist church at the age of nine. He was much admired and loved by his associates. He made friends wherever he went. We know that his going leaves a vacant place in the home. Let me point the bereaved ones to the God of all, who can comfort in time of troubles, and who does all things in a way that it will work together for good unto those who love the Lord.

Cotton Grades Show Improvement In 1934

The grades for cotton ginnings in the Southeastern States this season are higher than last season in Georgia, Alabama, Florida, and South Carolina, according to a weekly report issued by the Atlanta office of the Department of Agriculture. Grades for cotton ginned in North Carolina and Virginia this season are scarcely as good as last season.

The proportion for Strict Middling and better grades (White and Extra White) for the season to date is 44 per cent for Georgia, 40 per cent for Alabama, 35 per cent for South Carolina, 27 per cent for North Carolina, 9 per cent for Virginia, and 39 per cent for Florida (last report for Florida was on November 3).

The length of staple this season has shown considerable improvement over last seaon in each of the Southeastern States except Alabama. The proportion representing cotton 1 inch and longer this season to date is 54 per cent for South Carolina, 46 per cent for North Carolina, 22 per cent for Georgia, 7 per cent for Virginia, 5½ per cent for Alabama, and 2½ per cent for Florida (last report for Florida was on November 3).

ISABELLA HOME DEM. CLUB

Our Home Demonstration club met in the home economic department December 6 at 1:45 p.m., with fourteen members present. Six new members were enrolled. We were very glad to have them join us, making our total enrollment 26.

The meeting was called to order by our President, Mrs. Earl Thomas. There being no business to come before the club Miss Pardue took charge, giving a very interesting demonstration on Christmas Decoration and wrapping Christmas gifts and boxes attractively.

Our next meeting will be January 3rd, 1935. We will meet in the Agricultural Building. The project will be Handicraft. Remember the date and be there if possible.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Brother Carroll filled his regular appointment Saturday and Sunday. His sermons were greatly enjoyed by all.

There was no B.Y.P.U. Sunday night Several went, but nearly all who were on program were absent. Also our director. We have quite a bit of sickness in this community which is the cause of so many being absent. Everybody come back next Sunday night. The group captain has given out the program for Sunday night, so everybody come back .

Folks, remember next Sunday afternoon the singing society meets with us. We invite all other churches to come and help us out.

Messrs. O. L. Devaughn, Pete Wilson and Oliver Mims and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Glenn attended the singing at Cane Creek Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mims and children, Olene, Annette, and Junior, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Mims near Pleasant Grove.

Mrs. R. J. Downs spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Claud Downs near Verbena.

Mr. J. T. Glenn from Coopers was visiting in this community last week.

Mr. Jim Dunlap and Tom Mims spent a few hours Friday morning with Mr. Oliver Glenn.

Mr. Wiley Jones was the supper guest of Mr. W. F. Glenn last Wednesday night.

Mrs. Fate Driver and son spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Dennis.

Miss Elsie Glenn and Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Glenn spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Jones last Wednesday.

Mr. Ottis Glenn had the misfortune of getting his car torn up pretty badly last Wednesday afternoon. The wreck occurred near Popwell's Gin when a Mr. Shell, who was returning to his home in Cullman County, ran into him. Glenn's car was pretty badly demolished but no one was hurt. Mr. Shell's car was slightly damaged.

Mrs. Alton Harris was in this community visiting her mother, Mrs. J. R. Mitchell Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Clifton Parrish spent a while Saturday morning with Mr. W. F. Glenn and sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Sandlin had as their guests for a while Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. Jim Driver, Mack Franks and Oliver Glenn.

Mr. O. L. Devaughn and family had as their dinner guests Sunday the Rev. Carroll.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Mitchell had as their dinner guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Alton Harris.

Mr. Ottis Glenn was a visitor to Montgomery Saturday night.

Mr. Coolidge Devaughn spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. Virdie and Virgil Glenn.

Mr. J.F. Glenn from Coopers spent Sunday night with Mr. Wiley Jones and family.

Mr. Curtis Jones made a business trip to Florida last week.

Mr. Wiley Jones and daughter, Elmer Reene, visited relatives of Coopers Sunday.

Mr. Arnold Glenn spent Saturday night with Mr. Arthur and Evan Mitchell.

We are very sorry to learn that Mrs. Walter Patterson is very low. We wish for her a speedy recovery.

Sunday School at 10 a.m., and B.Y.P.U. at 6 p.m. Come and bring someone with you.

PARDON MY COCKNEY ACCENT

And nonchalantly lighting a cigarette, I strolled into Tiny's. Spying Sidney Reynolds, who takes the part of an English valet in the Senior Class play, at a nearby table, and feeling it my duty to give the play the publicity it deserves, I sauntered over and casually asked him his views on that ever-important question, love.

"Really, Sir, hi am most exactly prepared to say," replied Sidney, alias James, the valet.

"Well, what do you think of American girls?" was my next question..

"Really, Sir, hi am———"

Our conversation was suddenly interrupted by the stentorian voice of the soda jerker, summoning me to the telephone.

"I'm practically there, now," I airily replied, and left James muttering to himself.

'E said as 'ow 'e was practically there. But 'e couldn't 'ave been there when 'e was really 'ere—I mean, if 'e only said a 'ow 'e was there—but on the other 'and—"

I decided to await the outcome of this disturbing question in "Everybody's Getting Married," and went to the telephone.

BILL BRANDON

former governor had sought to identify himself in his long and successful political career.

The crowd at the funeral numbered several thousand, overflowing the church and church-yard, and lining nearby streets.

The church choir sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul" and "Rock of Ages." The casket, heaped high with floral offerings, was not opened.

The pallbearers bore the casket from the church and to the hearse as Chopin's Funeral March was played by Mrs. R. P. Sweat, church organist.

Rests Beside Wife

The former governor was laid to rest with simple rites in the Brandon family plot on a knoll in Tuscaloosa Memorial Park, eight miles out of the city on Birmingham Highway.

The choir sang "Nearer, My God, to Thee," as the casket was lowered into the grave.

His grave is beside that of Mrs. Lizzie Andrews Nabors Brandon, to whom the former governor was married in 1900 and who died in March, 1933.

Active pallbeaers were C. S. Hinton, Chester Walker, Judge Fleetwood Rice, Norfleet Harris, Rep. W. B. Oliver, Judge Henry B. Foster, Dr. W. D. Partlow and Dr. Herbert Patton.

Honorary pallbearers were members of the board of stewards of the church, of which Judge Brandon was former chairman.

State Sends Wreath

The grave was blanketed with a huge wreath of white chrysanthemums, the official offering of the state of Alabama.

In Montgomery and other parts of the state official state buildings flew flags at half-mast.

Surviving the former governor are three brothers, Forney and Edward Brandon, of Birmingham, and State Auditor John Brandon, of Montgomery; two stepdaughters, Mrs. James Austin and Mrs. Emmie Nabors Tyson, both of Tuscaloosa, also survive.

the things donated will be given to children on that list. According to Mr. Hollis, the committee hopes to assemble enough gifts to include something for all the needy children within a radius of ten miles of Clanton. "We would like to be able to give something to every underprivileged child in the county," he said, "but of course, our ability will be limited to the co-operation of the people and the amount of things given. If we get enough things donated to reach to every poor child in the county, we will be mighty glad to distribute it to them. If we do not have many things donated, we naturally can not reach all the children."

Remember the members of the Kiwanis committee are John Hollis, Mell Martin and Leonard Williams. Just make up the list of what you are willing to give and send it to either of these gentlemen, or leave your list with either of the newspapers in Clanton.

Everybody is earnestly solicited to help out in this praiseworthy effort to provide a bit of Christmas cheer to each and every poor child in Chilton County. Any gift will serve a good purpose. A mere bag of fruit might mean the difference between Santa Claus and no Santa Claus to a family of poor children; and we know you will agree that means a whole lot.

If you are able to give something, and many of you are, please join with the Kiwanis Club and the other organizations that will carry out this program of Christmas cheer.

Tuesday, at the Greenville Methodist Church. Dr. E. C. Moore, pastor, officiated, assisted by Dr. J. E. Northcutt, of Montgomery, the Rev. C. M. Perry, pastor of the Baptist church and the Rev. Jack Hand, pastor of the Greenville Presbyterian Church. Burial was in Magnolia Cemetery, in Greenville.

Gen. Stanley was the last Confederate soldier holding the position of editor or publisher of an Alabama newspaper. He took an active interest in the affairs of the Confederate veterans but his title as general came to him through Gov. William C. Oates who named him a brigadier general of the Alabama National Guard.

Gen. Stanley was born in Lowndes County near Hayneville in 1844. He was the son of Robert Hendricks Stanley and Emma (Stone) Stanley. His father was too old to enter the War Between the States except as a home guard but four of his sons, including General Stanley entered the army. Gen. Stanley was badly wounded at the Battle of Franklin and did not rejoin his regiment before the war ended. One brother, William Hendricks, was killed in the battle of Mavern Hill whie another brother, Duke, was wounded in one of the battles around Atlanta.

When Gen. Stanley returned from the war in 1865 he founded The Greenville Advocate, a weekly newspaper and he was its publisher until his death. In his latter years his son took over the active management of the paper. Gen. Stanley had an active public career He was a member of the Greenville school board and a city councilman at one time. He served as vice-president of the National Press Association and as president of the Alabama Press Association. He has been a delegate to Democratic national conventions. He took an active interest in the old soldiers' home at Mountain Creek and has served on that board. He served as State senator from his district in the 1927 legislature.

Sergt. York Speaks On Liquor Question

Within the brief period of one year, Repeal has utterly failed and those who have been sponsoring it have grossly misrepresented the facts of the situation to the people of this country, an audience of approximately 150 persons were told by Sergeant Alvin C. York, Tennessee World War hero, who addressed them on the subject at the court house in Clanton last Saturday morning.

With J. Bibb Mills, vigilant Anti-Saloon League leader, the World War hero from the mountains of Tennessee, is making a tour of several states in opposition to Repeal of the liquor laws.

Mills was introduced to the Clanton audience by Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church, who then presented Sergeant York.

Declaring that the people of the country have never been so mislead on a public question, the speaker charged that those who have been sponsoring the destruction of liquor regulations have taken advantage of the plight of this country's people. "They have been told that everything will be all right if only they would go to the polls and legalize liquor again," he avered.

"You were tod that if you would legalize whiskey that there would soon be no unemployment; you were also told that the government could balance its budget with the taxes from legalized whiskies and beers. Have either of these promises been fulfilled," he asked.

What we need in this country is something to build character, and not something to destroy it. In the city of Jamestown, Tenn., York declared that more drunks are seen in one Saturday afternoon since legalized beer than was seen in six months before.

At the close of the address, the audience was urged to contribute funds for the battle against whiskey and other alcoholic beverages in this country.

COUNTY DEBT IS CANCELLED

HIGH SCHOOL HAS FINE ALA. DAY PROGRAM

Unusual And Interesting Exhibits Arranged For Public Inspection

Joining with thousands of other schools throughout the State last Friday, the student body and faculty of the Chilton County High School paid tribute to both the old and the new in the observance of Alabama Day.

From early morning until evening shadows brought to a close a day of activity, the school building was a scene of mixed emotions. The doors were swung open to visitors, who marveled at the varied collections on exhibition. Corridors and even some of the class rooms were converted into show rooms.

During the morning and early afternoon interesting bits of Alabama history were portrayed in presentations by members of the student body. Many accomplishments of students were also on display, rendering a view behind the scenes in the daily life of the school.

Strolling through the corridors, one found himself mentally flitting from the ultra-modern to musty reminders of an age when stalwart forefathers battled hardships and inconvenience to found the greatest civilization of all ages. Surplus letters in the philosophy of Chaucer's Canterbury Tales furnished opportunity for contrast when placed alongside of the modernistic idea of spelling with regard only to pronunciation. The immortal Shakesphere posed with the Edgar A. Guests and John Galsworthys of today.

Rambling into another room, the remarkable privilege of studying journalism in its earlier stages was afforded the vsitors. "The Ulster County Gazette," published January 4, 1800, gave a vivid account of events of the early struggles of this nation. Another glance —and "The Union Volunteer's headlines screamed the news of the tragedy of Abraham Lincoln's assasination. "The Chilton View," perhaps Chilton County's first newspaper—published in December 1884, related the news of the county shortly after its name had been changed from Baker County to Chilton County.

Other interesting exhibits iincluded a 200-year-old volin, a 107-year-old bell, which was molded in Ireland and once served to call the girls of the Alexandria, Va., Boarding Sdhool to their books, an old fashion spinning wheel bullet molds, quilts and bed spreads that were made by hand during the Revolutionary War, and many other relics.

At the Chilton County High School, the day was not only spent as an observance of a day set aside in honor of the State of Alabama, but it was also a tribute to the efforts of yesterday that have made possible the accomplishments of today.

This also applies to anyone wishing to get something in next week's paper.

WILL PAVE TWO MILES MORE ON SELMA ROAD

Contract Let Recently For Extension Of Hard-Surfacing Project

The contract has been let for the hard-surfacing of two miles more of the Clanton-Selma highway and work is expected to begin shortly after the first of the year, according to M. C. Slaughter, manager of the Chilton County office of the National Re-Employment Service.

The contract was awarded to the Hardaway Construction Company, of Columbus, Ga., for $29,539.57, which is a continuation of paving project now underway. This extension will give approximately four miles of paved road from the intersection of the Clanton-Birmingham highway to a point several hundred yards west of the Baker Junior High School building.

Work is expected to begin on this project immediately after the Christmas holidays, Mr. Slaughter said. Employment will be furnished to approximately 100 men for a period of two months, he said.

Bids on the new Clanton city hall will be opened January 2 and work will likely get underway on this project during January or early February, and bids on the installation of a $28,000 waterworks system at Thorsby will be opened some time in January, it is believed.

M. LANDE AND SON INJURED IN ACCIDENT

Irvin Lande Receives Serious Injuries When Loaded Truck Hits Car

Irvin Lande, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Lande, is in a Montgomery hospital where he is being treated for severe injuries suffered Sunday morning when the car in which he and his father were riding was struck by a heavily loaded fruit truck on the Montgomery highway near Maxwell Field.

The lad was rushed to a Montgomery hospital in a passing automobile. Attendants at the hospital said that his condition is not thought to be serious, however, he suffered a severe laceration to his scalp. Mr. Lande was thrown from the car, but suffered only minor bruises.

The wreck occurred, according to Mr. Lande, when the truck attempted to pass another car, striking his car full force and knocking it from the road. The driver, who gave his address as Fort Smith, Ark., was arrested and placed under bond, it was learned.

The Landes were en route to church in Montgomery at the time of the accident. which was about 10:30 Sunday morning. Information of the accident was received by Mrs. Lande within a few minutes and she and her brother, Ben Margolis, hastened to the hospital and Mrs. Lande remained with her son during the first of the week.

Wade's Grocery Observes 1st Anniversa'y

The Wade's Grocery is now observing its first anniversary of service to the people of Chilton County, having opened its doors first for business a year ago.

During this brief time, this establishment has become recognized as one of Clanton's leading food stores, and this week the management is formally extending its appreciation to its customers for the patronage shown this store during the past year.

Commenting on the store's anniversary, Jim Wade, manager of the business, declared that "our success has been due to the wonderful patronage given us by the people of Clanton and Chilton County and we pledge a continuance of service second to none in this section during the coming years. When we frst opened our doors we recognized that the best was none too good for our customers and during our year of service to the people of Chilton County, we have never varied from the aim of the best of merchandise at the lowest possible prices," he said.

Especially during this anniversary sale will Wade's feature food bargains that will be attractive to every housewife, Mr. Wade declared, in urging everyone to visit this store during the sale.

BANKHEAD ACT ENDORSED

CHILTON GIVES LARGE VOTE OF APPROVAL

Entire South Places Hand Of "Yes" For Cotton Control Plan

Linking their expression with that of the cotton farmers of the South, the Chilton County cotton growers went to the polls last Friday and expressed their confidence in and their appreciation for a program which has meant much to them by endorsing the Bankhead Cotton Control Act by a vote of more than 20 to 1.

They evidently remembered that the price of cotton has risen from five cents to more than twelve cents since the Federal Government first began steps to see that the cotton grower got a fair break. There was little doubt at any time as to the outcome of the vote in Chilton County, but few could have expected such a wholehearted endorsement as was given.

The vote in the county was 3,210 for the continued enforcement of the regulation, while only 138 expressed by their vote that they wanted to revert back to the old system. Throughout the cotton section the Bill was endorsed by a vote of 10 to 1, only in one state, Oklahoma, was a cool reception given it.

A Real Christmas

The News comes to you this week, full of glad tidings and good wishes for a very Merry Christmas from almost every place of business in Clanton and from other places. We are sure if it were possible these business men who are saying "Merry Christmas" to you in the News this week, would extend a hand and say those two words to you personally. But that is not possible, and so they say "Merry Christmas" to you and yours in the News. Do not miss a single one of the greetings this week.

To the people of Chilton County and elsewhere, the entire staff of the News extends glad tidings and good wishes to you and yours for a most enjoyable Christmas Season. We too, wish it were possible to see each of you personally and from the bottom of our heart say to you, "We wish you a Merry Christmas and may your Christmas be full of those things so warmly connected with the true meaning and purpose of the word Christmas."

During the rush and push of the Christmas Season we find time to pause and there comes to our mind thoughts of those whose Christma's we know will not be a glad one nor a happy one. To some there has come sorrow to cast a shadow of sadness over the family. To others Christmas will be "just another day" for lack of friends and money. To these people our heart goes out and how we wish we could make their Christmas the same as we would have ours. For them we offer a prayer that they, even in their sorrow and poverty will be blessed by the One Who is responsible for our Christmas Day.

"Remember The Less Fortunate" Is Plea Of Kiwanians To Cheer Poor Families

The Christmas Cheer Committee of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton this week renews its appeal to all persons and community organizations to join in the movement instituted by Kiwanis to see that there is not a home in this vicinity that does not have a bit of Christmas on next Tuesday morning.

Kiwanis does not expect to get a lot of glory for itself out of this undertaking. On the other hand, it is expected to be a real job of work for those engaged in it. But a good Christmas smile on the face of one poor underprivileged child Christmas morning will be enough reward to compensate for the labor done.

The Kiwanis Club Committee, composed of John Hollis, Mell Martin and Leonard Williams, have arranged to assemble gifts for the underprivileged children at Mr. Martin's place of business between now and Monday night. Those who wish to give something are urged to bring it not later than Monday, preferably Saturday or Sunday.

Those who are asked to help out by donations of fruits, toys, candy, nuts, etc., are reminded that those things will be distributed under direction of the committee, with all others who will kindly volunteer to help. And they will be given strictly and only to those children and families who are known to have no other means of providing anything for Christmas of their own.

Attractive Xmas Decorations To Be Used On Main Thoroughfares In Clanton

When Old Saint Nicholas reins in his steeds to a halt in Clanton next Monday night, no doubt he will pause long enough to cast an appreciative eye over what will be a royal welcome for even an old veteran like himself.

For, regardless from which direction he makes his entrance, he will find that the Chilton County métropolis has prepared an appropriate greeting. At both entrances to the business section of the town along the Montgomery-Birmingham highway will blaze forth a "Merry Christmas" in myriad colors, and lining the street from the railroad to the court house will also beam hundreds of lights, reflecting a cheerfulness of which even Santa Claus must pause in tribute.

Sponsored by the Clanton Kiwanis Club. which has worked in harmony with the Alabama Power Company, Clanton is again radiating Christmas cheer with a novel and beautiful lighting effect. Under the supervision of J. Mell Martin and Leonard Williams the "Merry Christmas" welcome signs, marking the entrance into Clanton's business section, and the hundreds of other lights which cast a glow of every color over the town were installed this week, and will continue to burn thruout the Yuletide Season.

Spotted here and there over the residential sections are seen Christmas trees on the lawns, and in a window in almost every home glows a light of welcome for Old Saint Nicholas, and a spirit of cheerfulness and "Good will to all men."

Clanton Methodist To Enjoy Social Friday

"A Get-Together Social" will be given at the Clanton Methodist church next Friday night, when it is hoped that the home of every member of the church will be represented. This is hoped to be one of the most interesting socials ever given by the membersip of this church.

Members of the Women's Missionary Society will have charge of the refreshments and entertainment, which is expected to be both varied and ineresting. The program will feature several musical numbers, including Christmas carols and other Yuletide songs. Many of Clanton's leading musicians will take part in this feature.

An effort is being made by the committee in charge of the program to have every member of the church present where t is at all possible. Games that will be interesting to young and old will be indulged in, those attending being grouped according to ages. Appropriate games and other entertainment will be enjoyed by each group.

FARMERS WILL BE ABLE TO DO TERRACING

County Will Purchase The Machine And Make A Nominal Charge

At a call meeting December 15, 1934, the Commissioners' Court agreed to work in cooperation with the Alabama Relief Administration and secure a power tractor terracing machine for terracing farm land in Chilton County.

The Court is to employ 67 men from the relief rolls of Chilton County for a period of four months at a wage of not less than 12 1-2 cents per hour and spend not less than $1000 per month in this way.

When the County has spent as much as the purchase price of the Power Tractor Terracer Machine in this way the Alabama Relef Administration will donate the machine to the county. The Terracer machine will cost between $4,000 and 4,500.00.

The farmer will be charged the actual operating cost and depreciation expense when his land is terraced. This will amount to from $1.25 to $2.50 per acre for terracing land. The cost per acre depending upon the smoothness or roughness of the land.

This equipment will be operated on a per hour cost basis. On smooth land it will terrace 20 to 25 acres per day. On rough land it will terrace much less, therefore, the price per acre will vary.

The whole set up is in such a way that the man who has land terraced will not pay anything. The county simply gets the equipment for the farmers and the farmers pay for it as the service is rendered.

"White Christmas" Program Baptist Church

Featuring a three-act pantomine performance, which portrays scenes in a Christian home at this season of the year, an interesting "White Christmas" program will be presented at the Clanton Baptist Church next Sunday evening at 5:30 o'clock. "Love Thy Neighbor.' is the title of the presentation, which is said by those who have charge of its coaching to be one of the best bits of drama of its kind ever presented in Clanton.

Following the play a collection will be taken to provide gifts for children at the Baptist Orphanage at Troy. Christmas packages, wrapped in white, will be brought by members of the church and others interested in making the Christmas season brighter for those at the Orphanage.

Each of the several Sunday School classes will contribute gifts for the occasion and others have an invitation to also contribute either funds or gifts, which will bring a glow of gladness to some little face on Christmas morning.

COUNTY IS NOT LIABLE TO PAY GOV'T FUNDS

Cancelled Notes Forwarded To Judge Reynolds By Governor Miller

The final illusion as to what amount of federal funds that have been extended to Chilton County in her hour of need will have to be repaid by the county was dispelled Monday morning, when Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds received from Gov. B. M. Miller the canceled notes for the only $25,000 which the Commissioners Court was required to guarantee.

In a letter from the [illegible] which accompanied the cancelled obligations, it was stated that Congress recently passed a law providing that the States should not be required to repay funds advanced for relief, nor should the money be taken from its federal road monies.

At the time the Court agreed to sign these notes, it was believed that there was a possibility that this money might be taken from any federal road allocations made to the state in future years. However, at the time Judge Reynolds advanced the belief that Chilton County, nor the State of Alabama, would ever be required to repay one cent of this mney.

In April of 1933, when these notes were made for the original $25,000 grant to Chilton County, Judge Reynolds stood alone in his fight for relief funds for the suffering of this county. A mass meeting was called at the court house in Clanton early in April in an effort to ascertain whether or not the citizenship of the county was in favor of securing this money to relieve the suffering of the needy in this county.

Members of the Commissioners Court were convinced that it was the part of wisdom to make application for the funds, and after ascertaining the wishes of the people in regard to the matter, the notes were signed and were taken to Montgomery in order to be delivered to the state office before the time limit barred Chilton from sharing with other counties.

Since that Saturday afternoon when Chilton County first entered a formal plea for aid from the federal government to prevent suffering to its citizens, more than a half million dollars have flowed from a generous treasury into the county.

Burglars Frightened In Clanton Store Sun.

Burglars who entered the Hill Grocery store here Sunday night were surprised into making a speedy get-away through the skylight, through which they had gained entrance to the store, when L. J. Stewart, manager, arrived unexpectedly upon the scene.

Several bags, filled with cigarettes and tobaccos were left by the burglars near a rear door. It is supposed that they had placed them there with the intention of making a get-away through the rear entrance, but were unable to unfasten the door. Entrance was gained to the building by climbing through an opening where a stove flue was formerly located and crawling along the ceiling to the skylight, which was kicked open.

No arrests had been made late Wednesday, but officers were still working on clues which they believe will result in the apprehension of the burglars.

The Future Pattern of NRA

Now that a new Congress will convene within a month confronted with the problem of rewriting the National Industrial Recovery Act, interest naturally quickens in the provisions to be embodied in the new law. For many weeks past members of the National Industrial Recovery Board have been studying suggestions made by industry, labor, and consumer with a view to formulating recommendations for consideration by the National Legislature.

The latest authoritative voice to be heard on the subject of a new NRA is that of Donal R. Richberg, active in NRA from its inception as general counsel, and at present executive diretor of the National Emergency Council and head of the NRA policy committee. Still pleading for close cooperation among all forces in American life, Mr. Richberg addressed the National Association of Manufacturers in New York the other day.

Mr. Richberg warned the manufacturers that the permanent law, which the forthcoming Congress will enact, must be written in cooperation with labor and the consumer as well as private business and Government so that there should be neither work-consumer regimentation by business nor regimentation of business by Government. He said the NRA as an experiment in industrial self-government "demonstrated all too clearly that private business is not yet adequately organized for collective action and self-discipline and that political controls are a poor substitute for voluntary cooperation.

"The record of the trade associations, upon which the Recovery Administration relied so hopefully in its infancy,,' he conceded, "has been, to put it mildly disappointing."

The NRA's early hope that its second stage would be a voluntary coordination of trades and industries under some sort of a national industrial council he continued, has evaporated, as we know that there is a long road to travel before we can reach that stage of economic progress."

Nevertheless, Mr. Richberg called upon American industry to respond to the fighting spirit typified in Admiral Farragut's order: "Damn the torpedoes, go ahead," and to cooperate in advancing the general recovery.

"Neither business men, nor public officials," said Mr. Richberg, "have realized the full advantages of the flexible mechanisms of economic recovery and reconstruction provided in the National Industrial Recovery Act. But let each group be fair with the other and recognize that a sincere and earnest effort was made by both to cooperate in advancing the general welfare; and in this recognition let us try to write into permanent legislation those fundamental principles and simpler mechanisms of the codes of fair competition that have proved their worth and have provided effective methods of combining self-help and public service."

"The Roosevelt administration has been widely approved and the Democratic party must now assume definitely the great responsibility placed upon it, and the administration by the voters."—Harrisburg Telegraph. (Rep.)

"The dimensions of the success of the Roosevelt administration gives the Democratic party new responsibilities to bear, new risks and hazards to face. There must be a spirit, and a program proof against defection and division and compelling in the saneness and soundness of its appeal to the American people."— Little Rock Gazette. (Dem.)

"The new Congress will have to decide the fate of many questions. Even with huge Democratic majorities in both houses, it will require all of Mr. Roosevelt's persuasiveness and tact to maintain the vigorous and efecitve leadership which will see his program safely through. Fortunately there remains no possible doubt of the absolute confidence the nation has in him."—Minneapolis Tribune. (Ind.)

"It is safe to say that the country will approach a sounder financial position more rapidly if President Roosevelt's views are heeded by Congress."—Greenville, S. C., News. (Dem.)

"The coming session of Congress may be one of the most important in our history. We are right now at the critical point in the battle for recovery, when we must chart our course definitely for the future."—Manchester, N. H., Union. (Ind.)

"The New Deal was approved in an off year election that shatters all precedents. But it is clear that Mr. Roosevelt will have need of all his agile expertness if he is to keep the new Congress from endangering his course. He will let it be hoped, contrive to keep his direction and his poise."—Minneapolis Journal. (Ind. Rep.)

"One gratifying aspect of the election returns was the fact that the Democratic support was not spotty or sectional. The administration has a real national mandate for the program it has evolved."—Brooklyn Eagle. (Ind. Rep.)

Origins Of Christmas

As everyone knows, Christmas is celebrated as the anniversary of the birth of Christ, although the actual date of that august event is not really known. In the early years of Christianity, this festival was observed conjointly with the feast of the Epiphany, on January 6.

December 25 was finally agreed upon about five centuries after Christ's ministry on earth and is a date arbitrarily set, like that of Easter, for the commemoration of an event, rather than as an actual anniversary. St. Chrysostom speaks of this date having been first observed by the Christian of the West.

The Christmas Tree, now an almost universal symbol, was adapted from the use of a palm branch with twelve shoots to signify the completed year, as was the custom of the Egyptians long before the Christian era. The preent significance of the Christmas Tree is by some thought to have originated in Germany.

The custom of using decorations of evergreens, particularly mistletoe, has long been observed, especially since the time of the Druids. In the Middle Ages wildly hilarious festivities were held in connection with Christmas, which called forth remonstrances from authorities of the Church, who deplored the tendency to stress the festive rather than the serious significance of the Christmas season.

As now observed, Christmas is firmly established as one of the most universally celebrated fetivals of the year, dedicated to the memory of the Master, in the spirit of "Peace on Earth; Good Will Toward Men."

Our Regular Army

In the reorganization of the United States Army after the World War many new ideas were adopted in the ligth of experience gained during that struggle. The most important of these was the planning of an organization capable of creating a war-time Army built around the skeleton of the peace-time force.

Details of this war-time organization are studied continually by the War Plans Division which has provided for the handling of large bodies of men without the delays and confusion heretofore experienced when national emergencies have arisen.

The country is divided into nine corps areas, the commanders of which in time of war have charge of mobolization of all troops raised within their respective districts. The peace-time strength is thus capable of being rapidly expanded into an Army of millions with little change in the present plan of organization.

After the Revolution the Army was cut to 700 men, after the war of 1812 to 8,000, and after the Civil War to 25,000. After the Spanish-American War the authorized strength was 100,000, but this figure was never reached except during the Mexican border trouble. Since 1920 the authorized strength has been 280,000, but it has been limited by lack of appropriations to approximately 118,000 men, or less than one for each 1,000 of population.

While it is the sincere hope of all right thinking persons that its employment in warefare may not again be necessary, it is gratifying to know that our Army is now organized along the mst mdern and effective lines, and traned t an efficiency unequalled by any body of fighting men in the world.

Recovery Teamwork Continues

As business organizations throughout the country continue to display their willingness to team with the Government in the work of recovery, the results that can be achieved through cooperative effort become more and more evident. The fact that the task is one of joint responsibility between business men and the Government, if results are to be effective in the campaign against the depression, is now everywhere recognized.

The necessity for cooperation was epitomized by Henry I. Harriman, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, who, in an appeal for a united effort to bring back good times, declared that responsibility rests not only upon busines but is "shared alike by business, finance, agriculture, labor, Government, and other component elements of the national economic structure."

Business is looking realistically at the practical aspects of recovery," Mr. Harriman added.

And a survey of business over the past month reveals happily that practical results are being achieved through the spirit of cooperation. Here are some of the trends that herald better times:

Reestablishment of business confidence as reflected in the largest demand for ready money in many months.

Decline in the number of bank failures to the lowest level in 14 years.

Increase of 2.2 percent in bank clearings over a year ago.

Sizable upturn in corporation dividends, with many extra payments featured in November besides regular and resumed disbursements.

Steady rise in retail sales, with prospects bright for the best Christmas trade the country has known in 5 years.

Reports from leading motion-picture houses indicating that 1934 earnings will be the largest in several years.

Increased volume of industrial production and factory employment in October.

Steady increase through 3 consecutive months of exports to the highest level since April 1931, with the highest favorable trade balance in 4 years.

Increase of $3,581,017 in the steel industry's pay roll for October, a gain of more than 12 per cent over the pay roll for September.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

The colored Bishop presiding over the Alabama Conference of the Negro race at a recent session addressed the preachers and delegates in language like this: "Listen to me all you visitors to this Conference. I am now about to read the appointments and as soon as the last name is called, I insist that you leave this town at once. Do not let the sun go down upon you within the incorporated limits of this town." Then turning to the audience he said, "If any of these delegates should return to your home for the night; when you get up in the morning you close the door to your table, eat your breakfast and go on about your business." The Bishop was wise as to the inclination of his race to linger about free entertainment. This inclination does not belong to the negro race alone. There is always a crowd when anything is free.

A man by the name of "Hogg" married a beautiful girl. She was cultured and refined and the name of her husband displeased her very much. Finally she persuaded him to go to the courts and change his name. After this was done she was happy, until she was unhappy, and every time she would rail out at him, "Yes, you changed your name but you have not changed your nature." She had married a "Hogg" and she did not want a hog for a husband but when she was angry with him, she could not think of him only as he was before he changed his name. Is it not true that many a man untites with the church and proposes to change his name to a Christian, but in reality he is just as he was before uniting with the church? He was a sinner before joining and while he is a member of the church he is a sinner still. When we change our names and not our hearts, we are just as we were before the change of name took place—we are still a sinner.

The other night I stood in the mule lot of a friend where I was to spend the night. This friend poured a basket of corn into a trough where the mules were to eat. Old Tobe walked up and started to eating, but seemingly he was not pleased because other heads were in the trough with his, and to show his displeasure he turned his heels towards the trough and set up a barrage of kicking. His hoofs flew thick and fast and after many terrific blows the trough fell to the ground. All because he did not like other heads in the trough he decided to kick the trough down, and this he did. In like manner have I seen many human beings become dissatisfied with what is going on in the trough out of which they draw their daily food and I have seen them to turn tongue and heels and slash and kick until they succeeded in ruining the thing that gave them support. I have actually seen preachers who drew their daily food out of a church, turn their heels toward the church and kick until the church was injured. When a hand feeds you be careful how you kick that hand.

An Irishman attended church and for the first time learned that a Jew crucified Christ. On his way home he met a Jew and immediately knocked him down. The Jew arose and while brushing the dust off of his coat inquired, "And vy did you do dat?" "Because," replied Pat, "You crucified my Christ." 'Vel" said the Jew, "That was two thousand years ago." "That may be all true," replied Pat, "But I have just found it out." Many things have happened in the past and we have been mighty slow to learn about them. We hear a truth that is as old as the ages, but, like Pat, it becomes very new to us. Shame on our ignorance.

I have just gone through an experience of packing up. Many of the accumulations of the years had to be discarded. They served a small place at one time, but they were not needed in the boxes that were to make the journey. In like manner we are packing our trunks for another long journey. It is well for us to go through what we are and what we have in our hearts and discard many things that cannot be used at the end of life's journey. When I go to unpack my trunk on the heavenly border I do not want it filled with rubbish. We are moving out and soon we will be moving in.

THORSBY INSTITUTE

School will close on Thursday at 2:00 p. m. and open at 8:30 on January 2nd. Miss Klingelhoefer, Miss Ford, Mrs. Jenkins and Miss Jenkins plan to go to St. Petersburg, Fla., by car. Miss Klingelhoefer will visit friends there, and the others hope to visit other places also. Miss McKee returns to her home in Lineville, Ala. Miss Clesson and Miss Allen return to their homes in Wilmore, Ky. Miss Leech and Miss Fairbank expect to be in Thorsby a part of the vacation, at least, and in Birmingham some of the time.

The Dormitory sale on Monday afternoon was quite successful. Candy and fancy things, as well as clothing, were sold. About seventeen dollars was realized.

The Christmas play which was presented on Saturday evening, December 15th, was very impressive. It was entitled "Inasmuch" and was based on the scripture "Inasmuch as ye do it unto the least of these—ye do it unto me." The first scene represented the home of a family who had lost the true spirit of Christmas and thought only of te gifts they were to receive and gave to others merely to pay social obligations. An unexpected change of plans brought the entire family to a beautiful Christmas Church Service. They caught a new vision of the meaning of Christmas and of doing for others—and happiness came to them when an opportunity arose to do real service for the hungry and poor. The play was written by two of the Institute teachers—Miss Klingelhoefer and Miss Allen. Special music by the Girls' Glee Club and a reading "The Other Wise Man," by Mary Louise Reinhardt added interest to the program.

THE LETTER
S
A Christmas Story
By
Alice B Palmer

"WELL, if there isn't Jean Ellory!" Jean had been an old sweetheart of Salina's and she had not seen him for years; but she would know him in a million, for she had always loved him. He was busy cutting fancy figures on the ice. She stood watching him, her heart skipping beats as she did so.

The ice had been especially prepared for the Christmas holidays and Salina, in her pretty white wool sports outfit was gliding along, swan-like, still watching Jean Ellory out of the corner of her eye.

He must have felt the strong contact of her thought for suddenly he looked in her direction, but she quickly turned the other way. Then he skated more fiercely than ever, cutting a huge letter "S." She skated about pretending not to notice, but when he started off toward the far end of the lagoon she glided over to where he had cut the figures. There was the old-fashioned letter "S" and another and still another. There were "S's" all over. How she wondered if they represented the regular ice-cutter's "S" or if she really dared hope that they might by any chance stand for "Salina."

The snow was becoming heavier and more cumbersome and she noticed that most of the skaters had already left for home and celebrations.

All the way homeward she was thinking about Jean Ellory and stopping at intervals to trace his name in the snow. She must have written it a dozen times or more. The gifts she had been expecting for Christmas suddenly appeared insignificant and useless in comparison to the one vital gift —the love of Jean.

Only with a mighty struggle was Salina endeavoring to join in the Christmas celebrations. for her heart was nearly breaking.

"What is the matter, Salina?" questioned mother, as Salina almost choked with the lump in her throat.

"Nothing. Mother dear, only the Christmas spirit," answered Salina, bravely.

At this very moment Jean was hurrying home whistling merrily, his skates swinging over his shoulders. Suddenly he stopped short at seeing his own name displayed all over the snow, here, there and everywhere. "What on earth could that mean?" It was beautifully lettered and in a girl's handwriting!

Jean, stooping, carefully noted the letters in their every detail. He was determined to learn who the girl could be, who had so thought of him on Christmas eve that she had scrolled his name all over the snow.

Jean, quickening his pace, reached home, luckily before the celebrations had begun and skipped up the staircase two steps at a time to his own room. Most excitedly he dug through his belongings in search of a box of old valentines from school days. It was missing! Where could it be?

"Mother, have you seen my valentines?" shouted Jean.

"What on earth do you want with valentines on Christmas, Jean?"

"They are decorating the walls of my room and have been, for some time, my dear brother!" taunted Clara-Bell.

The next moment Jean was tearing down the valentines regardless of his sister's protestations and began frantically examining their contents, still leaving mother and sister stupefied.

"Here it is! I knew it! This is the one!"

Crushed in the hand of Jean was a small red, lace-trimmed heart with the words, "To Jean, from Salina." 'Twas an exact duplicate of the letters in the snow. Now he knew! Dear old Salina! His childhood sweetheart!

The doorbell at Salina's rang with a loud peal right in the midst of the Christmas celebration.

"Who could be calling on Christmas eve?" they all wondered.

"You had better go, Salina," said Mother, sweetly.

Salina went, brushing aside a tear, as she did so.

She opened the door, as if in a dream scene. She had apparently lost all sense of reality for the moment.

"Salina!" said Jean.

"Jean, dear," replied Salina. The "dear" just slipping out from her heart before she knew it.

"My name in the snow," said Jean.

"The letter 'S,'" whispered Salina.

"Merry Christmas!" shouted the whole family.

POTATOES AS FOOD

Except in Ireland, the general use of the potato covers a period of less than 150 years. In Ireland the potato became a staple article of diet about a century earlier, and from this fact arises the name Irish potato, although its origin appears to have been in Peru, where the natives have eaten it from time immemorial.

From Peru the potato was first carried to Spain by early Spanish explorers of the New World, and thence into Italy, but it was merely looked upon as a curiosity, and as such was seen in the botanical gardens of Europe for two centuries or more before its adoption for food purposes became general.

Sir Walter Raleigh is said to have been the first to cultivate the potato in Ireland, about 1592. At first it was used for feeding hogs, but little by little experiments were made to demonstrate that it was not harmful to human beings, so that it very gradually came into use for food, particularly during periods of famine.

It was not until about 1750 that the potato gained a permanent foothold in England and on the continent of Europe, and it was cultivated but little in America before that time.

The spread of potato culture was greatly accelerated by the scarcity of food following the Napoleonic wars in the early part of the nineteenth century, since which time its use has steadily increased.

Prices Of Farm Products Higher

Prices of farm products, including cotton, wheat, corn, and hogs average about 154 per cent higher than in 1932 and about 50 per cent higher than a year ago, according to comparative figures on future market quotations.

During the past week wheat was about 127 per cent higher than on a corresponding date in 1932 and 19 per cent higher than the same date last year. Corn was 309 per cent higher than two years ago and 92 per cent above a year ago. Hog prices were 83 per cent hgher than two years ago and 76 per cent higher than the same time in 1933, not figuring the processing tax which is a benefit to producers.. Cotton prices were about 98 per cent higher than in 1932 and 17 per cent higher than a year ago.

Editor, Chilton County News:

Please allow me a little space in your valuable paper for a few lines in regard to our Opportunity School.

Our school is doing fine with Miss Thelma Pierce as teacher. We are proud to say that we are well pleased with her as our teacher. We are sorry that the people don't attend more regular than they do for the Opportunity Sihool is for the benefit of those that had the opportunity to get an education in the days past, and gone.

Come one, come all of you good people and be with us. We appreciate your cooperation with us in making this school a benefit to all of our community as well as just those that have been attending heretofore. So come out and be with us. We are glad to have you visit us and we need your cooperation to make it a success. Hoping to see all of you coming in the near future, is our desire. not for our own benefit but yours as well. So take advantage of this golden opportunity while you can for the time is here when an education is beneficial to all.

So meet us as often as you can. We will be glad to have you with us.

Yours respectfully,

We Apologize, Mr. Davenport

Recently, our good friesd, Mr. E. C. Davenport of Jemison, paid us a visit. It was apparent, however, that Mr. Davenport was not altogether pleased about something. In short order, he informed us that in spite of frost-bitten heels last Thursday morning he had painfully walked a half mile to the mail box only to find that his Chilton County News did not come.

To cap the calamity, he said, he was ready to buy a new pair of shoes, and his wife wanted a new table cloth. "Now," he wanted to know of us, his wife and the rest of the world, "how can I tell where is the best place to save money on these items when I have no News to read the ads?"

We suggested that maybe his subscription had expired, and he replied, "Yes, I know that, but it was only a few days and I had not had a chance to come to Clanton." However, when friends are together, even difficult problems can be solved. We gave Mr. Davenport an extra copy of the News. He renewed his subscription, sat down by the fire and read the ads., and after telling us that he endorse Dr. Gragg's efforts for hospitalization, went forth to make his purchases.

THE LETTER OF THE LAW

Some laws are difficult of interpretation because of the obscurity of their language, while others are so plain that he who runs, even though he be a fool, may read and understand.

The driver of a motor vehicle in Connecticut ran afoul of one of the latter kind. The law requires every person operating a motor vehicle in that state to have a windshield wiper on his machine. That is plain enough.

The luckless driver in question had no windshield wiper and was honest enough to admit it when arraigned in court. He explained, however, that his motor vehicle was a truck. which was not equipped with even a windshield, much less a wiper.

But the magistrate, adhering to the plain letter of the law, fined him regardless. Doubtless the same fate awaits any unfortunate owner of a motorcycle or tractor who gets hailed before that simple-minded magistrate.

Taxes Paid Ahead To Meet Teachers Payrolls Before Xmas

In response to a great number of requests by County Superintendents of Education and other educational authorities throughout the State for immediate advance payment of the Company's ad valorem taxes to help meet teachers' payrolls before Christmas, arrangements have been made to complete payment prior to the holidays. Total ad valorem taxes which are due on December 31, 1934, will amount to $1,300,000.

Of this $1,300,000, approximately $600,000 will go into specific State and County school funds. The Company's total taxes in this State for 1934 will be about $2,200,000, of which approximately $1,000,000 is for educational purposes.

Mr. Thomas W. Martin, president of the company has written Dr. A. F. Harman, State Superintendent of Education, Montgomery, Alabama, advising him of the company's action and its desire to aid in the present school emergency.

Light Symbolizes Christmas Spirit

As a star in the eastern sky announced the new birth, so light today, one of the richest gifts of our times seems a fitting symbol to express our sentiment of "Peace on Earth and Good Will Towards Men" at the Yuletide Season.

Throughout Alabama this December beautiful and novel outdoor home lighting decorations will be used extensively to extend a cheery greeting to the passerby and help create the true Christmas spirit.

Christmas home illumination is now available in a wide range of original designs and interesting effects. Its installation is comparatively simple and inexpensive. Our Lighting Division invites you to inquire for full particulars.

Greetings!

In this season of "Good Cheer", we extend to our customers and friends the old, yet ever new greeting:

"Merry Christmas and Happy New Year."

We appreciate to the fullest extent your use of our ser e and pledge to you renewed fort to make it more and efficient.

May we all hold fast to uplift of spirit which Christmas tide brings and p ject it into our planning make the coming year happi and more prosperous.

Thos. W. Martin,
President.

IDDIES MAY NOT HAVE ANY CHRISTMAS IF "WE FORGET"

When other children throughout the nds Christmas morning are racing on attering feet to see what "Santa Claus rought," or what mother and daddy ve for them—there will be some hose smile will not be quite so bright, r they, too, must wonder why Christ- time wa not also meant for them. At Lomax, four small children are ndering whether they will be re- embered in this joyous season. Their ther was killed a few years ago in a fatal election difficulty in Chilton County. Since that time they and their widowed mother have made their home with J. H. Jackson.

The children's names are Carl, 11, Elizabeth, 9, Aubray, 7, and Lee, 6. They are the children of the late Lee Traywick, who was killed in 1928. Should anyone wish to send gifts to them they may be mailed Lomax in care of Mr. J. H. Jackson.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

By Benjamin Anderson
Teacher of Vocational Agriculture
Chilton County Training School

Farmers' Conference

The Negro Farmers' Conference held last Friday was one of the best, if not the best, ever held at the County Training School. The exhibits were many and varied. The stage in chapel was beautifully decorated with farm products on display. The Vocational Agricultural Department was filled with exhibits of poultry, corn, oats, hay, velvet beans, milk, butter, eggs, and other farm products selected with the utmost care. The Vocational Home Economics Department had in it a large display of the farm woman's work including cakes, canned fruits and vegetables, pickles, peppers, sauce and meats. There were also quilts, spreads, dresses, scarfs, and other useful things made by the farm woman in her own home. Prizes were given for the best exhibits.

The speakers of the day were Mr. Mr. Ben Brown, President; Mr. Worthey Hughes, County Demonstration Agent, who gave a few high points on the Rehabilitation project as it affects the Negro. Mr. Collock of the Booker Washington School on Wheels, who spoke at length on the Agricultural Adjustment Act, and Elder Mitchell, who gave the farmers a bit of advice and encouraged them to go on.

The conference for several good reasons was not as largely attended as in previous years, nevertheless it was none the worse because of it.

I wish to thank all persons who did their part in helping to put the program over.

These Thing Ought Not To Be

The expression is very frequently forthcoming, "What's going to become of our young men?" It is a problem that we created ourselves. In practically every home where there are boys and girls, there is a great tendency to make everything as convenient as possible for sister and forget brother. The very best room is set aside for sister and the old dark and dingy back room is left for brother. Likewise the best sheets, spreads and the like are given sister while brother takes the leavings. It is suggested to him that he is filthy at early childhood and that becomes his complex. Sister gets shoes and dresses according to the season of the year while brother gets only enough to pull through the winter.

When school opens in October sister starts the first day while brother stays at home harvesting the crop. He finally gets in school before Christmas. Anytime during the term when daddy doesn't feel like working (and that is quite often) he simply tells brother to lay his books aside for the day. When brother gets back to school he finds the lessons getting hard because he missed some days. The next day he persuades daddy to let him cut wood or drive to town for him. He gets by that hard assignment. At the end of the year he finds "Retained". The boy fails to realize that he or his parents are responsible for the situation. He places the blame on the poor teacher. Usually he says he is just as good as John Jones and if he can't go on to the next class he will 'quituate' and he does. Then brother is thrown loose in the community and with that gang everybody dislikes, but practically everybody is responsible for. In this gang may be found practically all types of individuals, thieves, liars, murderers, gamblers, drunkards and the like.

Gentlemen, let's check up on ourselves, our homes, our community.

woman she ought to be that we forget woman she ought to be that we ofrget brother. Consequently, we fail to rear the type of companionship for our girls that we owe them. They are bound to seek associates and if they don't find good boys they are going to keep company with the bad ones.

Farm Organization Makes Rapid Growth

Alabama is listed among the states in which membership in farm organization increased over 100 per cent during the past year.

W. R. Orr, acting secertary of the American Farm Bureau Federation, reported at the annual meting in Nashville that the farm bureau membership increased in Alabama 106 per cent during 1934. Since that report it has been found that over 7,000 farmers of the State have become members of the organization since the first of November. Very few of these were included in Mr. Orr's report.

"Actual membership dues paid to the A. F. B. F. in 1934 show an average increase of 36 per cent above 1933 throughout the year for the whole United States, one of the largest increases in membership since the early years when the Farm Bureau was being organized," Orr said.

87 Per Cent Industrial Heads Forecast Gains

Eighty-seven per cent of the presidents of 1,650 corporations listed on stock exchanges answered "yes" to the inquiry "Do you expect an increase in total business next year?" as announced by the United Business Service of Boston and of the remaining 13 per cent, not all were willing to express an opinion. Of those who estimated more than half forecast a rise of 15 per cent or more. Of the remainder, one-third anticipated 10 per cent or more.

To the question, "Do you expect a rise in commodity prices?" just 90 per cent answered "yes" but all predicted it will be moderate, 84 per cent estimating the average increase will not exceed 15 per cent during 1935.

Sixty-two per cent of the corporation presidents gave definitely affirmative replies to the question "Do you anticipate generally higher net earnings next year?"

More than three-fourths of the replies were affirmative to the inquiry "Do you look for bank credit expansion in 1935?" Nearly the same proportion said they believed there will be considerable new financing during next year.

To the question "Do you expect more friendly labor relations in your industry?" opinion was reported as being nearly evenly divided but regarded as "favorable." Forty-six per cent gave definitely affirmative answers. Optimism on labor relations was "pronounced in the automobile, office equipment, food and other industries."

Sixty-nine per cent of the answers were "yes" to the inquiry "Do you look for constructive action on the railroad problem in 1935?"

Gain In Employment Shown For October

Washington.—A general improvement in employment both as to hours and earnings took place from September to October, according to the National Industrial Conference Board.

Reporting on the results of its regular monthly inquiries, the Board announced that the number of workers employed in 25 manufacturing industries was 1.5 per cent larger in October than in September and that average hourly earnings advanced from 59.1 cents to 59.3 cents.

An increase of 2.1 per cent in the average work-week from 33.3 hours to 34 hours caused the weekly earnings to rise from $19.53 to $20.03, or 2.6 per cent. In addition, a slight decrease in the cost of living brought real weekly earnings to a level 2.8 per cent above those of September.

MINOOKA HOM. DEM. CLUB MET

The Minooka Home Demonstration Club held its last meeting for 1934 at the home of Mrs. Roy Roberts December 10.

The house was decorated in Christmas colors. A short business meeting was held. The President played Santa to all members present. Gifts were given to everyone. Refreshments were then served. Two visitors were present.

Next meeting will be January 24, 1935, at the home of Mrs. Henry Virgin.

Black-Draught For Dizziness, Headache Due To Constipation

"I have used Thedford's Black-Draught several years and find it splendid," writes Mr. G. W. Holley, of St. Paul, Va. "I take it for dizziness or headache (due to constipation). I have never found anything better. As short while ago, we began giving our children Syrup of Black-Draught as a laxative for colds and little stomach ailments, and have found it very satisfactory." . . . Millions of packages of Thedford's Black-Draught are required to satisfy the demand for this popular, old reliable, purely vegetable laxative. 25¢ a package. 'Children like the Syrup."

Farmers' Income Up One Billion Dollars

Auburn, Ala.—Farm income in approximately a billion dollars above last year despite the worst drouth on record, reports President Roosevelt.

"All of us would like to see an even larger increase in 1935, but we know that this cannot come unless, in the first place, industrial production increases sufficiently to expand the market for farm products; unless, in the second place, more of our export trade is paid for by increased imports; and unless, in the third place agricuture continues to adjust its total production to the market that actually exists." he declared when greeting 5,000 farmers from throughout the nation attending the American Farm Bureau Annual convention, in Nashville.

Farm-Industry Holds First State Meeting

The first state-wide farm-industry meeting in Alabama was held in Birmingham, Tuesday, with several hundred farmers and business leaders present. The meeting was held for the purpose of discussing common problems affecting the state of Alabama as a whole and to formulate plans for harmonious development of marketing and other cooperative endeavors. It was called by Dr. L. N. Duncan, Auburn, and Ashton B. Collins, Birmingham.

Housing Project For Army Urged

Washington, Dec. 16—New army housing projects to cost more than $60,000,000 were recommended by Secretary Dern today in his annual report.

Along with this, the Secretary of War defended the record of the Army Air Corps in flyng the mail last Winter and urged that army personnel be raised to 14,000 officers and 165,000 men.

Dern said the expenditure for army housing would fit in with the program planned by the administration this Winter to reduce unemployment.

The Secretary pointed out that the War Department already has drafted plans and specifications for the construction he proposed, thus making a speedy beginning possible.

Dern cited the department's record in expending more than $61.000,000 in building projects during the current year. At the close of the fiscal year, he said, 95 per cent of funds received from PWA had been obligated and 47 per cent actually expended, giving employment to 11,358 men.

"Ever since the World War," Dern reported, "the army has been living under deplorable conditions."

Dern also recommended erection of a new War Department building in Washington.

Several Army fliers lost their lives last Winter while flying the mail and the service was criticized as inefficient. Dern said most of the criticism was "uninformed" but there was justification for some of it.

The experience disclosed some defects, he said, "most of which had developed through no fault of the Air Corps but were due to insuffiencies of appropriations."

Journey From Nazareth, Birth of Christ Child

ALMOST two thousand years ago the great emperor, Caesar Augustus, sent out a decree that the whole world should be enrolled. Each one was to go to his own city: to the place of his fathers. None were exempt from the decree.

From the hill town of Nazareth two people set out in answer to the summons. One, a tall, bearded figure, his shoulders sagging under the weight of years, and from the continued stooping that his trade as a carpenter necessitated. The other, a young and beautiful woman, her face aglow with a strange, sweet serenity. Their names were Joseph and Mary, and they were going to the distant town of Bethlehem, because they were of the house of David.

The man walked patiently beside the plodding donkey on which the woman was seated. They showed no impatience as others passed them by; nor did they join with any of their fellow travelers in venting anger against Caesar for taking them on such a long and tiresome journey.

Perhaps because of Joseph's age, or of Mary's delicate condition, they were among the last to enter Bethlehem, and to seek a shelter at the inn. They were told that there was no room for them there. Their humble appearance made no appeal to the innkeeper on a night when more prosperous looking guests were crowding the doors.

Disappointed and fearful, they sought further. But they could find no place. Some one spoke of a cave outside the town. Joseph looked at Mary and his eyes filled with tears. But she nodded assent. . . . And in that lowly place, warmed only by the breath of oxen, Jesus, the hope and promise of all mankind, was born into the world!—Katherine Edelman.

Father's Ingenuity
A Christmas Story
By Alice B. Palmer

'TWAS just two weeks before Christmas and there did not appear to be any material means of attaining the necessary funds for the great celebration.

"Oh dear, if John would only sell that old heirloom," thought Marty Armstrong.

Just then Betty and Jerry came charging in from high school.

"Oh, Mother, I just can't wait until Christmas. I know you are going to get that tuxedo for me. I can see it now, oh boy!" exclaimed Jerry.

"And I can see that party gown, Mother, with slippers to match," said Betty, sweetly.

"It's no use expecting anything this year, children," said mother. "Your father has made some unwise investments."

"Here comes father, now!"

"Hello, everybody, what's up? Why the frigid atmosphere?" queried father.

"Mother says there's to be no Santa Claus this year," ventured Jerry.

The next few days John Armstrong was trying to figure it all out. Perhaps he had been a little negligent in the past few years concerning his family. Now he realized that he must make amends. Christmas bells were chiming, reminding the Armstrong family that 'twas truly Christmas eve. Mother and the children were thinking of the things they were not going to get for Christmas. But Father was chuckling inwardly. In fact he could scarcely keep from bursting out laughing; but that, of course, would never do.

The silence was broken by the jingling of sleigh-bells. They hurried en masse to see what it was all about.

Were they all dreaming? There stood an old-fashioned bobsled. Out stepped Santa Claus.

"Why, Uncle Joe, what are you doing here on Christmas eve?" exclaimed Mother, all excited.

"I've come to take you and the family for a ride. So bundle up and hop in, without delay."

All stared at one another and tried to speak, but not a word was uttered. They simply obeyed their Santa Claus and within a few moments Father and all were seated cozily within the fairyland contraption and were driven off.

The sleigh stopped with a jerk, right in front of a stucco bungalow all brilliantly lighted up with Christmas decorations.

"Why, I never knew the Thompson home was for rent. It has stood vacant so long," said Mother, with great concern.

"A friend of mine from the office just purchased it," said Father, with a convincing smile.

"We were invited over to see it in its new regalia. But you were all so out of sorts that I called up Uncle Joe and ordered the Santa Claus ruse."

They all laughed most heartily. They couldn't help it—Christmas or no Christmas! They had to give father credit for his clever ingenuity.

Out they hopped, beaming with the Christmas spirit.

Father took the lead and rang the doorbell, but no one answered.

Then he actually turned the knob as they all stepped back in protestation.

"Merry Christmas!" shouted Father.

Too surprised to speak, they looked at one another and back again at father and then—

"Don't you understand? Oh, hang it all, anyway! This is your Christmas present," said father, sinking into the closest easy chair and gasping for breath.

"What?" they all exclaimed.

Then father explained it all to them—how he had sold the old heirloom, purchased the home and furnished it.

They marveled!

"How could you? When did you? How did you know just what we liked?" All these questions were fired at father at once.

Father had done a perfect job. But that wasn't all. He led them proudly into the living room where stood the real host of the evening—the gorgeous Christmas tree. Needless to say Jerry received his "tux," Betty her gown and slippers and mother a set of silverware, a long-desired luxury.

Then descended such a shower of Christmas hugs and kisses, gratitude and joy that dear old father was practically snowed under. But he enjoyed his Christmas presents better than all the material gifts he had bestowed upon his family; and he felt that his heart was filled with enough Christmas cheer to last forever.

CHESTNUT GROVE

We are having some fine weather for the time of the year. A fine time to get plenty of wood for the holidays which we should spend in a memorial of Christ's birthday.

Miss Kitty Denson was the dinner guest of Miss Margaret Nabors Sunday.

Mr. Frank Cox of Hico spent the day Sunday with Mr. William Holcombe of this place.

Mr. G. G. Nabors was the guest of Mrs. Nannie C. Moore Sunday P. M.

Mr. J. R. Hall was in town Saturday on business.

We are glad to say that we are having a good school here this year. Our teacher is doing some good work for us and we appreciate it.

We have a good subject for our Sunday School lesson next Sunday, "What is a Christian Home." The home that is Christian must be based on Christian principles, animated with Christian ideals, productive of Christian character, cherished in a Christian atmosphere and devoted to Christian service, to help us make our homes Christian. We have before us today the Gospel story of Christ in the home and the Pauline Mandate to the family in a Christian home. So let us all spent our holidays as a memory of Christ's birthday.

OUR SANTA CLAUS

THE American Santa Claus is a corruption of the Dutch Santa Nicolas. G. H. McHughes says: "Santa Claus, the name derived from St. Nicholas through the familiar use of children in Teutonic countries, crossed to America. The direct route followed by him is somewhat open to question. On the way he traded his gray horse for a reindeer and made changes in his appearance."

Without FAITH It Was Only A Star—

It Blazed in the midnight darkness—a tiny light in God's firmament—but to the kings and shepherds who watched and beheld it through the eyes of FAITH, it was the STAR OF BETHLEHEM—the heavenly signal which told them— "This night is born unto you a Saviour."

For more than nineteen centuries, throughout the Christian world, eyes of FAITH turn at this time of the year, back to the stable at Bethlehem. For more than nineteen hundred years, millions have lived and died, finding glorious consolation for earth's trials and tribulations, through the medium of FAITH.

Truly, it is a glorious word, that simple word—FAITH. It has heartened the explorer, stimulated the scientist, strengthened the warrior. It guided Columbus, upheld the Pilgrims, fortified Washington. It built and developed our civilization and this glorious land which we call our country.

In the spirit of this Christmas time, is it not fitting that we renew again with ourselves and with our neighbors, a covenant of FAITH—a firm belief that this great nation of ours is founded on rock-ribbed resources, endowed with natural wealth, peopled by men and women of stout hearts and strong minds—and in concentrated action based on this FAITH we shall overcome all obstacles and rise to new heights of happiness and prosperity.

With this FAITH as the guiding star, looming through darkness before us, we can confidently wish for one another that which our bank is happy to extend as its wish for you:

A Very Merry Christmas

BANKHEAD ACT

Friday's election.

Commenting on the vote in Chilton County County Agent J. W. Fant had the following to say:

The Bankhead Cotton Control Act voted on December 14, was approved by a 10 to one vote by the Southern farmers.

There were 3,210 votes cast for the Act in Chilton County and 138 against it.

This is a gratifying approval of compulsory crop control. The cotton farmers have tried for many years to control the production of cotton by individual voluntary methods and found it impossible to get results, but with compulsory law to hold the fellow in line who has always spoiled the show, he can get results.

Despite all the criticisms of crop control we know that it has helped Chilton County farmers.

With a few revisions and amendments to the Bankhead Act, I am sure that the farmers will be even better satisfied next year than they are now.

Out of remembrance of your loyal patronage during the past year comes a sincere desire to express our appreciation and best wishes for a Very Merry Christmas.

APPRECIATION EXPRESSED FOR WELFARE HELP

Schools, Business Men And Others Commended For Aid To Needy

We wish to take this opportunity to express our appreciation to the people of the county for their loyal support and hearty cooperation with us in the work which we are trying to do in the county. There is some confusion in the minds of many people as to the difference between our work and that being done by the Federal Relief Administration. In the beginning of the present Administration the Federal Government recognized the fact that many people were suffering because of widespread unemployment. To cope with this situation the Federal Emergency Relief Administration was set up. The Administration was set up to provide jobs for the jobless, not to relieve any county or community of its responsibility of caring for its own needy people. Due to the fact that many counties did not have Welfare Workers the Relief Administration undertook to provide direct relief as well as work. In October Chilton County employed two full-time Welfare workers so the local Relief Administration is no longer allowed to provide for unemployable people.

In going over the county we have found many people who have been doing effective work for neighbors and friends, privately, as they did before the advent of public relief and welfare work in the county. We especially appreciate work of this kind for no problem should be brought to a public agency such as ours until all private resources for aid have been exhausted.

Some time ago we visited the schools and asked for donations of used clothing and school books. The response which we received to this appeal was gratifying and we wish to thank every citizen in the county who contributed. However, notwithstanding the fact that many children were supplied with books and clothing in this way, the problem is not yet solved. There are many children in this county who do not have sufficient clothing to enable them to attend school regularly. If you have good clothing which you no longer need, will you not either give it to some child in

J. R. Taylor Is Laid To Rest At Chestnut Creek

Funeral services for J. R. Taylor, 69-year-old resident of Cooper, who died Saturday evening at 7:05 o'clock at the home of his son, L. Roy Taylor, in Montgomery, of an attack of pneumonia, were held Monday morning at 10 o'clock from the Chestnut Creek Baptist church, of which he had been a member for a great many years. The Rev. J. D. Hughes officiated. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Spigener Funeral Home in charge of the services.

Mr. Taylor's death came after a week's illness. He had been at the home of his son in Montgomery for a brief time before pneumonia set up ending his life within a few lays.

He was born and reared in Coosa County, having removed to Chilton County and settling at Cooper about 25 years ago. Mr. Taylor was an active member of the Chestnut Creek Baptist church at Coopers, and of the Masonic Order.

Surviving him are his widow, Mrs. Dora Taylor, of Cooper, who is dangerously ill; three sons, L. Roy, Montgomery, Archie J., and Leo Taylor, Cooper; four daughters, Mrs. E. D. Hand, Mrs. A. L. Taylor, Mrs. Walker Allen, all of Cooper, and Mrs. W. I. Smith, of Athens; three sisters and one brother.

LAST RITES FOR MRS. LIZZIE RETHERFORD HELD LAST SAT.

Funeral services for Mrs. Lizzie Retherford, 43, who died Thursday at a Birmingham hospital after an illness of more than a years duration, were held Saturday morning from the Center Hill church with the Rev. R. M. Honeycutt officiating. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Martin and Sons in charge.

Mrs. Retherford is survived by several children, two sisters and four brothers. She is the daughter of James N. Glass, near Jemison.

"Thinking Of Others" Keynote In Life Of Judge Soon To Retire

By Victor Norris

In a brief conversation with Judge L. H. Reynolds a few days ago, this writer was permitted a glimpse into the heart of the man who has served Chilton County for 24 years as probate judge—and there he saw a reflection of that quality which has been responsible for the fact that for many years he has been one of the most popular men in his county and in the entire state.

He sat at his desk his hands shading eyes that have been worn out in what he considered the best interest of his people. "I was just thinking," he said, "what a wonderful world this would be if every day was Christmas. You know I have had lots of time to think during the past few weeks."

He has been confined to his home most of the time for a month, because of an operation on his eyes—in an effort to make continued vision possible as he rounds out the last years of a busy life.

"There is something wonderful about Christmas. Something that gets into the blood of men—something that causes us to forget the mean qualities of men and women, and remember only those things that are good. It is a

2 MEET DEATH IN AUTO MISHAPS AT YULE SEASON

Chester Downs And Moody S. McGhee Are Victims Of Wrecks In Co.

Automobile accidents took a toll of two lives in Chilton County during Christmas holidays. Both victims were residents of the county.

Moody S. McGhee, 38-year-old county road foreman in Commissioner J. C. Atchison's district, was the second accident victim of the holiday season, when the car in which he was riding rammed into a clay bank near his home on the Maplesville-Lawley road about 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, killing him instantly.

Chester Downs, 34, died Sunday afternoon at the Central Alabama Hospital from injuries suffered early Saturday night, when he was struck by an automobile on the Clanton-Montgomery highway at Cooper.

D. Patterson and Joe Ben McDowell, companions on the fateful night, told Corner J. Mell Martin, who investigated the case, that they had stopped their car and Downs was standing back of the car when he was struck. They were headed north, they said, and a south-bound car sideswiped them, striking their left front wheel and then struck Downs.

Corner Martin said that Downs was evidently caught on the bumper of the southbound car and was carried, or knocked, 46 steps from where he was

L. E. GOODGAME WILL PREACH AT THORSBY NEXT SUNDAY

The Rev. L. E. Goodgame of Florida will preach next Sunday at the Thorsby Baptist church. A cordial invitation is extended to all to hear him. Brother Goodgame was reared in Chilton County and will be glad to see his friends and relatives at church.

J. B. ATKINSON ABLE TO BE AT HOME AFTER STAY IN HOSPITAL

The many friends in Chilton County of Attorney J. B. Atkinson will learn with a great deal of pleasure that he is rapidly recovering from a minor operation, which he underwent this week.

Nurses at the Central Alabama Hospital, where he has been undergoing treatment, said Wednesday that he would be able to return to his home either Wednesday or Thursday.

He was admitted to the hospital Sunday morning.

Happy New Year

Before the News goes to press again the old year will have ended and a new one begun. We think it fitting at this time to attempt a summary review of the past year, which has been so filled with momentous events to us, our neighbors, and the entire nation.

Nationally, we have seen much without precedent. Most important of these we believe to be the new attitude taken in regard to the working man, recognizing in him a more important part in national welfare than he has been accorded heretofore. Perhaps even more important to the South than this has been the extensive efforts to aid the cotton producer in his struggle to earn a livlihood comparable with other lines of endeavor.

In Chilton County new men have come to the fore with a pledge of service to their people and have won endorsement of the citizenship. Ravages of the depression are disappearing and there is a far more confident feeling apparent than we have known for several years.

Looking ahead we find, not a rash optimism, but a sincere belief that with earnest effort we may attain our goals in the year to come. Expressions from business men indicate a conviction that things are on a sounder basis, that conditions are better and the opportunity for further improvement looks bright. Yes, undoubtedly, we have moved forward in 1934, and we confidently expect further progress in 1935.

The past year has been a good one for the Chilton County News, and with gratitude we take this opportunity of saying to those who have helped to make possible our progress that we shall not forget. We again pledge to spare no effort in rendering the best service we can in the year to come.

In our humble way we are trying to tell our readers in this editorial that we appreciate the patronage you have given us the past twelve months. We wish however, to go further than that and say a word about those business houses which have used space in the News to send their messages to the people of this trade territory during the past year. They have served you in their respective ways the past months, and expect to continue a high type of service. We commend them to you, and are sure that they will be glad to join us in extending to you a great big wish for a Bright and Prosperous New Year.

Miss Mary Lou Tiffin Becomes Bride Of Alvin B. Foshee At Lovely Wedding Sun.

Miss Mary Lou Tiffin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Tiffin, of Clanton became the bride of Mr. Alvin B. Foshee also of Clanton Sunday evening, December 23rd at eight o'clock, the ceremony being performed at the Methodist Church in Clanton. Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Clanton, read the services which were beautiful in simplicity and impressiveness.

A program of exquisite music was rendered prior to the marriage ceremony with Mrs. Percy M. Pitts at the organ and Mr. S. L. Gibson of Verbena accompanying on the violin. Following this Mr. Percy M. Pitts sang "Until" by Sanders, and Dr. C. O. Lawrence sang "At Dawning" by Caedmon. Mr. Gibson played a violin solo ,"All For You" by Brown. "To A Wild Rose" by McDowell was softly played during the ceremony. The wedding party entered to the strains of Lohengrin's "Wedding March" and receded to those of Mendelhson's.

Church decorations were outstanding in elegant simplicity, feathery ferns and smilax being banked to make background for baskets of Madonna lilies, Gladioli, and Snapdragons. Interspersing the greens were wide spreading candelabra holding tall white candles, the bridal colors of white and green prevailing.

The bride's maid of honor and only attendant was, Miss Mildred Cabaniss of Birmingham. She was dressed in mid-night blue crepe with lace collar and matching accessories. She carried a gorgeous bouquet of yellow Joan Hill roses.

Mr. Joe Moore and Mr. John Ezell served as ushers.

The bride entered with her father by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a spring suit of blue woolen crepe with darker blue accessories and carried an exquisite bouquet of Talisman roses. The bride was met at the alter by the groom who entered with Dr. Ezell. Mr. Raymond Mims served as best man to the groom. The bride is a graduate of the Chilton County High School and of Alabama College, Montevallo, where she made many friends throughout the state. For the past year she has been a successful teacher at Isabella High School.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Foshee is one of the County's widely known young attorneys having graduated from the Chilton County High School and from the Law School at University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa.

Mr. and Mrs. Foshee left after the ceremony for a wedding trip to points in Florida, after which they will be at home in Clanton.

Funeral Rites For W. T. Hilyer Held Sun. P. M.

Funeral services for W. T. Hilyer, 53, who died at his home near Cooper, Saturday afternoon of a cerebral hemorrhage, were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Chestnut Creek Baptist church at Coopers. The Rev. J. D. Hughes officiated and Martin & Sons were in charge of the burial services in the churchyard cemetery.

Surviving him are his widow; and the following children: Dock, Curtis, Willis, Reedy. Misses Alma, Jeanie, Mozelle, and Aaron, Ollie, Gordon, and Maye.

The following friends of the family served as pallbearers: Theodore Thornton, Charles Thornton, Will Thornton, Joe Gilliland, Britton Nelson and Houston Thornton.

Teachers Get Paid Early For Christmas

Chilton County school teachers and drivers of school buses were wearing a broad smile this week.

For through the thoughtfulnes of Supt. Luther E. Little and members of the County Board of Education, all the teachers in the county received their monthly pay checks a week ahead of time, thus giving them an opportunity to visit Santa Claus with perhaps a bit less tautness of purse string.

The checks were prepared and mailed Saturday to those in various sections of the county. For those who have checking accounts in Clanton banks, this month's pay check was deposited to their credit and deposit slips were mailed to them with a wish for a Merry Christmas.

Over Ninety, But Still Good For 6-Mile Walk Says Rev. Honeycutt

With his ninety-first birthday only a few weeks away, the Rev. R. M. Honeycutt, of Jemison, qualified his claim that he is almost as physically active as when a youth by walking six miles to church last Saturday and conducting a funeral service.

When the venerable minister reached the bus station enroute to Providence church, where he was to conduct a funeral service, he found that he had missed the bus. So, not to be outdone, he walked the six miles to the church. He made it, he said, in two hours and five minutes.

The Reverend Honeycutt will celebrate his ninety-first birthday on February 16. For 65 years, he has been a minister of the Gospel. He never suffers any pain, he said, the only physical handicap is that his hearing is failing, although he is still able to understand a person speaking in the ordinary conversational tone.

He believes that his longevity and exceptional activeness is due to the fact that he has never abused himself. He has never tasted tobacco nor any type of soft drink, and only a few times in his youth did he ever imbibe in alcoholic drinks, he stated.

JEMISON GIRLS WIN HONORS IN OLIVER OFFER

Mildred Caldwell And Josephine Adams Get Free Washington Trips

The first and second prize offered by Congressman W. B. Oliver to the best all around girl in Vocational Home Economics in his Congressional District, were awarded to Miss Mildred Caldwell and Miss Josephine Adams of Jemison. These young ladies were recipients of this information in a letter of December 18 from Dr. J. B. Hobby, State Director of Vocational Education.

The awards were based on personality, scholarship, leadership, honesty, initiative and home project work. To be eligible to enter this contest the girls were required to have had two years of Vocational Home Economics and projects related to at least four different phases of this work.

First prize, a trip to Washington, and twenty-five dollars, was won by Mildred Caldwell; the second prize, a trip to Washington, went to Josephine Adams. These students were judged by Misses Ruby Simpson and Marie Fuller, State Assistant Supervisors of Home Economics.

Congresman Oliver is to be highly commended on his efforts to stimulate work done in all phases of Vocational Education. This is shown by his legislative action in Congress as well as promoting vocational training in his own District.

WALNUT CREEK TO BE REPLACED WITH NEW BRICK BUILDING SOON

Work will be begun on the raising of the Walnut Creek Protestant Methodist Church next Monday morning, according to the Rev. J. W. Enfinger, pastor, who said that preparations are being made to replace the church with a modern brick structure.

He urged all members and others interested in the progress of the work to be present Monday morning with tools. In this way the cost of tearing away the old building and clearing the grounds for the commencement of the new structure can be greatly lessened, the Rev. Enfinger pointed out.

OLD RESIDENT OF COUNTY IS LAID TO REST LAST THURSDAY

Funeral services for Isaac J. (Uncle Ike) Dennis, 78, who died last Wednesday at his home, four miles east of Mt. Creek, were held Thursday afternoon from the New Harmony Baptist church, of which he was a member. The Rev. Morris Calloway officiated.

Born and reared in the community in which he died, Mr. Dennis was widely known throughout that section as "Uncle Ike." He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lila Dennis.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Burnett left Monday night for Troy to spend Christmas day with relatives.

FIRE DESTROYS HIGH SCHOOL AT ISABELLA

$35,000 Building And Equipment Are Practically A Total Loss

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the Isabella High School building in the early hours of Thursday morning, leaving the once beautiful $35,000 building lying in smoldering ruins.

The blaze was first discovered by Quinton White and Renfro Veazey, young men who live in that community, who were passing along the road. When they discovered the fire and gave the alarm, the entire back side of the auditorium was wrapped in flames.

Neighbors responded to the alarm and attempted to save the structure, but the fire had gained such headway that little could be done. Only a few seats were taken from the burning building.

Damages were estimated at approximately $30,000. All of the several rooms were entirely destroyed, with the exception of the Agricultural department, which is about sixty feet from the main building. It was not damaged.

It is believed that the building was possibly ignited from defective wiring since the blaze apparently originated in the roof or in the upper part of the structure. Earle Thomas, voocational instructor, said that he examined the fires in the stoves when he left shortly after the close of the annual Fathers and Sons Banquet, which was given by the F.F.A. and F. H. A. the night of the fire. Mr. Thomas said that he left the building at about 9:30 o'clock

The Isabella building was one of the finest structures of its type in the state. Recently a new $10,000 addition had been completed, including a $5,000 auditorium.

The loss is partially covered by insurance, it is understood. School will continue throughout the term, according to an announcement by Supt. Luther E. Little, who explained that arrangements have been made to use two local churches, the Agriculture Building and rooms in near-by homes.

Plans are already being discussed for the rebuilding of the structure. Patrons of the school declared that every effort will be made to have the new building ready for use by the opening date of school next year.

Admirers Remember Judge Reynolds Xmas

Judge L. H. Reynolds was the recipient of a beautiful lounging chair and foot stool to match, given as a Christmas gift from a group of admirers and friends.

Fifty-six persons and Clanton business firms gave contributions for the purchase of the chair, which is of a dark green color. The gifts were delivered to Judge Reynolds' home Saturday morning and awaited him as a surprise when he went home for lunch.

These gifts were given by a group of admirers and friends in recognition of the long period of service rendered the people of Chilton County by Judge Reynolds, who will leave his office January 15 to become a private citizen, after almost a quarter-century in public life.

A card attached to the gifts read: "Wishing for you many happy years of peace and contentment, and may this token of our friendship and esteem contribute in a small way to your pleasure and enjoyment."

FUNERAL FOR MRS. T. C. LITTLETON HELD AT COLLINS CHAPEL

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Littleton, 47, wife of Tandy C. Littleton, died at her home, near Thorsby, Saturday, following an attack of pneumonia. She was ill only a few days.

Funeral services were held Monday morning from the Collins Chapel church with the Rev. W. P. Lowery officiating. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Martin and Sons in charge.

Mrs. Littleton is survived by her husband, T. C. Littleton; two daughters, Mrs. Icie Lee Clark, of Chicago, and Mrs. Bertie James, of Clanton; two sisters, Mrs. H. E. C. Smith, of Clanton, and Mrs L. C. Robinson, of Birmingham; two brothers, J. M. Mahan, and R. J. Mahan, both of Clanton.

Mr. Jack Hayes returned Sunday from a two weeks visit with friends in Detroit and Chicago.

Mr. Dan Smith, student at A.P.I., Auburn, is spending the holidays with his mother, Mrs. Mamie Smith.

Someone, according to reports, let their fancy for Christmas trees—or their innate meanness—overpower any sense of sacredness or respectability they might have ever possessed.

When a person has reached the point that he can approach the resting place of the dead and remove shrubs that have been placed there by loving hands in fond remembrance of those who have passed on, he has evidently sunken to a level that is below reclamation.

Reports are current that trees have been stolen from graves in the Clanton cemetery, supposedly to be used as Christmas trees.

Few things are more beautiful, or carry such an overwhelming sense of awe, as does a lighted Christmas tree, a beaming tribute to that Character around which civilization and all progress has been molded. And it is regretable that persons can revert so far into the jungle stage of wild animals as to mar this sacred custom by stooping to so dastardly an act as stealing trees from the graves of the dead with which to observe the birthdate of the Christ.

Where Europe Compares Favorably

Our annual fire loss is one thing that does not compare favorably with figures from abroad.

In 1933, our per capita fire loss declined from the the 1932 level—but it amounted to the sizable figure of $2.15 for every man, woman and child in the country. In some parts of the country, loss touched $5 per capita, and in one city reached a peak of $9.21.

By way of comparison, the per capita loss in English cities was 90 cents. In other parts of Europe loss tended to be much lower—Vienna's per capita loss, for example, being but five cents. These figures, issued by the National Board of Fire Underwriters, were reached by converting foreign currencies into ours on the basis of the old par values of the gold standard dollar, chaotic conditions in foreign exchange making other methods of figuring impracticable.

The National Board observes that whether the gap in fire loss between Europe and here is due to differences in building construction or to public responsibility is a moot question, but adds that the personal responsibility for fire theory, observed throughout many foreign countries, is a strong influence toward keeping loss down. In France, for instance, if a preventable fire starting on your property damages the property of others, you are liable for the extent of the damage, and alibis don't go.

American citizens should adopt the European point of view when it comes to fire, whether or not personal responsibility is ever incorporated into our law. It is true that during the past few years losses have tended to decline, a fact that is encouraging—but they are still disgracefully high. We still burn up close to $300,000,000 worth of property each year—we still sacrifice several thousand lives to Moloch.

How Important Are The Railroads

o-o-o-o

Perhaps you are one of the people who think that all the stir and tumult over the railroad problem is somewhat unnecessary—that, even if the railroads go out of existence, other types of carriers will be able to adequately meet the nation's transport needs.

If you are, the following facts, brought out by Professor Elion Jones of Stanford University, will come as an interesting surprise:

In 1930, the railroads carried 383,000,000 ton-miles of revenue freight—and this was well below the amount they carry in a normal year. To have carried this by truck—our second most important medium of transport—more than 19,000,000 vehicles would have been needed, six times as many as are now in the country.

To drive, service, make and sell these trucks, and manufacture necessary materials, Professor Jones continued, the entire working population of the nation would be required. Thus, every family in the country would be dependent for a livelihood on the trucking industry—and no one would be left to produce the articles which the trucks would transport!

This casts no reflection on the trucking industry, which performs a valuable service in its field. But it does show just how necessary railroads are to the maintenance and continuance of our industrial civilization. They are still the basic medium of transport, and no competitor yet visioned could do even a small part of their work. Their welfare is inescapably related to that of all businesses, all workers, all the people.

Chairman Williams On NRA's Future

S. Clay Williams, chairman of the National Industrial Recovery Board, gave a significant forecast of the future of NRA in his address in New York before the American Arbitration Association, the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, and the Merchant's Association of New York.

While stating some of the principles which Congress is expected to retain in revamping the National Recovery Act, Mr. Williams made it plain that no extreme innobations may be expected in the Government's program for dealing with American business. In his address, Mr. Williams weighed the work of the first year and a half of NRA and gave his hearers to understand that price-fixing will not have very vigorous support in the new act. The prohibition against child labor having vindicated itself and won such wide approval and commendation, the speaker declared "it is inconceivable that its prohibition will not be continued." Likewise he gave his approval to minimum wages and maximum hours, which he said he was sure would be "carried forward."

"So too," he added, "will the provision guaranteeing collective bargaining to the workers wherever they want or need to use it. It is my thought, too, that there will be some provision for the prevention of trade practices that are unfair and for some measure of coopeartion—innocent of price-fixing result—between the members of an industry."

Then declaring that the spirit animating the new act "is of more moment than its exact form Mr. Williams laid special emphasis on the importance of recognizing that "public opinion in this country has moved definitely forward to where it is demanding of business that it accept a greater measure of social responsibility than it has ever borne before."

As to future mission of NRA, Mr. Williams said its effort is to save, not to destroy our present system of life and business. "The issue that is being tried in this country today," sad he, "is not whether we shall have a new and strange order of life in substitution for that out of which came all that we have and have done. That may come to be the issue when and if we lose the one that is now being tried. But the present issue involves no more than the question of whether or not our present order of life and business can adjust and accomodate itself to the greater demands of social responsibility that an advanced public opinion is making on it."

A New Team Takes The Field

Few states have any better balanced agricultural and industrial development than Alabama. This, it seems, would long ago have prompted these two groups in Alabama to form a close alliance in the effort to promote those many interests which are of mutual concern.

"Possibly because the leadership for such a program has been lacking in the past or possibly because the leaders of each group have been heretofore too engrossed with their own affairs, the close cooperation which it would be so natural to expect and which could mean so much to both agriculture and industry, has not been evident. There has been no common meeting ground, and in its absence, no coordination of activities, no long-range planning, no persistent program to promote common interests.

"For the first time in Alabama history such a program is now in the making. On December 18th, several hundred of the leading agriculturists in Alabama will meet in convention in Birmingham with a large number of the state to formulate a working program which has for its objective "the harmonious development of marketing and the furtherance of other cooperative endeavors.

"This convention, potentially the most significant which has been held within this state during the last decade, will set the wheels in motion for a long-range effort to bring together town and county.

"The practical benfits which can accrue from this cooperative effort are tremendous. But it must not be expected that these will be realized suddenly. It will require patient understanding, careful planning, and sustained effort to nurture the relationship which will be engendered at the initial get-together meeting here in Birmingham before this movement can hope to yield the rich fruit which it may be expected to produce for Alabama.

"But the character of leadership behind the present effort—the interested members of the Alabama Agricultural Extension Service, the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, the Associated Industries of Alabama—assures the fact that a practical program will be devised persistently pursued and ultimately carried to a signally successful outcome."—Reprint from Birmingham News, Sunday, December 9, 1934.

"Gifts" To Favored Common Carriers

In a recent address, Federal Coordinator of Transportation Eastman said that in no other country are terminals placed at the disposal of steamship lines without suitable charges. This "gift," which amounts to government subsidization of one carrier at the expense of others has, he continued, resulted in the loss of millions of dollars of potential revenue to the railroads and to private pier operators who depend upon wharfage and handling charges for their incomes. Mr. Eastman pointed to a number of important points where the charges made are much lower than is economically sound.

As a solution, Mr. Eastman recommends that a definite schedule of dockage charges be inaugurated by all piers, whether publicly or privately owned. These charges, which would be determined in each case by the gross tonnage of the vessel, would make it possible for docks to earn a reasonable profit.

A policy which gives expensive services free to one type of carrier, while other carriers must pay the full price for everything they get, is basically indefensible. It makes for transportation chaos and instability. It discourages investment and employment. And, most important of all, such a policy must, in the long run, harm the interest of the public, which requires first-class transportation service at a reasonable cost.

MORAL ECHOES

D. W. Haskew

In my travels up and down the highways I have passed many a flowing well by the roadside. It mattered not where this water was seen there was something in me that urged me to stop my car and wind my way to the flowing stream and drink therefrom. The liberality of the overflowing well seemed to charm my spirit. Along the way of life I have met many a spirit that was blessed with an overflow and these spirits have always signaled for me to stop and be refreshed. Where the heart is a bubbling stream there is fascination that charms our spirits, and we long to stop and refresh our souls from those flowing streams. Blessed is that one who is a flowing stream by the highways of life.

For weeks the pump at our camp had been out of use and the valve had dried and shrunk until it was a man's job to get water from the sands below. We primed and pumped and then pumped and primed but the wate refused to respond to our efforts. We let the valve soak for a period and then resumed our priming and pumping. This time we coaxed a small amount of water to pass over the pitcher of the pump. We let it soak for the night and the next morning the stream was liberal and clear. Many a church member reminds us of that pump. They are so dry and so dwindled and dwarfed until we may pump ever so long and ever so hard and nothing comes of our efforts. It takes much priming and soaking and pumping to secure results. As a pastor I have spent much of my time trying to prime dry pumps in the church of the living God. I have found a few members along the way who have responded with a liberal stream of service at the very touch of God's spirit.

In the early hours of the morning I was in the midst of pleasant dreams. I could hear the music of the flute and the echo of many string instruments as sweet melody floated to me from nowhere and everywhere. I could hear bells ringing and angels singing from the four corners of the globe. Deep down in my sub-conscious mind I could see fields of living green flowers blooming in profusion, clouds banking themselves like mountain peaks and children arrayed in white playing everywhere It was great to dream a dream of glory and beauty, but this dream was interrupted by the loud rattle of an alarm clock. That pest of all pleasant dreams had selected that moment in which to cry its call and my dreams vanished in the twinkle of an eye. While we have been wide awake we have had many a pleasant dream. We have built our castles into the air and we have thought that success was just ahead. Just then the alarm clock of reality would raise its objection and our dreams would vanish. This old world is crowded full of alarm clocks that scatter our dreams.

Not every man can say just the thing that he has in mind when he is before an audience. I heard a prominent man as he was delivering an inspirational address before a student body on the question of "Opportunity Makers". This man grew eloquent as he said, "My young friends, you must stand up and take the horn by the bull if you expect to succeed." A friend of mine was just back from the bay and he was telling of some of the thrills that came to him. Said he: "I saw that shark eating man as he darted through the blue water like a torpedo shot from a ship." When you hear anyone say a thing be sure that he means what he says before you allow yourself to become offended. It is possible for a man to misstate what he means and then it is possible for you to misunderstand what he says.

I was in a business man's office and a very unpretentious clock was hanging on the wall. A buzzing sound set up in the clock and the business man took out his watch and said, "Now we will see if our watches are correct." The buzzing sound hushed and the hands of of the clock snapped into position. The clock had received the correct time from a master clock in Washington. Jesus Christ is the Master clock of all human life and every day we should be connected with Him so that He can set us right and keep us right. How about your connection with the great Master Clock?

Delightful Tea At Wilson Hotel Christmas Day

An outstanding social event of the holiday season in Clanton was a delightful tea at the Wilson Hotel the afternoon of Christmas Day, given by Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Wilson in honor of Mrs. E. C. Jolliffe, better known to her many friends here as Miss Mary C. Tipton Mullins, a recent bride.

From 3 to 5 o'clock, the lobby and dining room of the hotel was a scene of gayety and enjoyment, while scores of guests renewed old friendships and formed new ones.

Receiving at the door were Mr. Joe Mullins, of Birmingham, Miss Sophia Mullins, of Chattanooga, brother and sister of the bride, and Mrs. Jim Jones, of Clanton. Inside the lobby, the receiving line was composed of Mrs. Wilson, mother of the bride, Mr. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Jolliffe.

Both the lobby and the dining room were beautifully decorated in the season's colors. Numerous ferns and other greens, interspersed with white flowers formed an attractive background for the beautifully lighted Christmas tree.

A course of ice and cookies was served to the 150 guests. Among the out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lanier, and Miss Hayden Lanier, of Montgomery; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Mullins, of Tuscaloosa; and Mr. Lawson Nelson, of Chattanooga.

Mrs. Jolliffe is well known in Clanton and Chilton County. On the paternal side, she is the daughter of the late Tipton Mullins, prominent attorney here for many years, and a granddaughter of the late Oliver Mullins. Her maternal grandfather was the late Dr. Joseph S. Johnson, of Maplesville and later Clanton.

She recently became the bride of Mr. E. C. Jolliffe, the son of a prominent physician, Dr. Alfred Edwin Jolliffe, of London, England. Mr. Jolliffe has resided in the states only a short time.

The couple will make their home in New York City.

SENSATIONAL
New Ford V-8 for 1935
Will Be Introduced Saturday
December 29th

It's always news when Henry Ford introduces a new car. Three years ago he startled the automobile industry by bringing out a V-8 at a low price. For 1935 he's presenting CENTER-POISE RIDING --- an important advance in motor care comfort. It makes the ride a glide.

The reason for the remarkable comfort of the new Ford V-8 is a fundamental change in automobile design with new weight distribution, new seat position, and new developments in spring suspension. You ride forward, toward the center of the car---away from the rear axle and away from the bumps. Hence the name Center-Poise Riding. For almost the first time a car has been specially designed to give real comfort to back seat passengers.

The wider, longer, roomier New Ford V-8 for 1935 will be introduced Saturday, December 29th, and we will have it on display at our showrooms. Please accept this message as a cordial invitation to see it and learn the full story of its distinctive new features, including the new easy-pressure clutch and newly designed self-centering brakes.

The combination of fine-car comfort and fine-car performance makes it an outstanding value. The luxuriousness of its upholstery and appointments has never been approached in a low-price car.

CHURCH OF CHRIST

Thoughts for Thinkers

"And ye shall know the truth, and he truth shall make you free." Jno. :32.

The church that Christ built (Mat. 16: 8) is good enough to be saved (Ep. :23); big enough to include all these ho have their names on the Lamb's ok of life (Rev. 21:27); loving en- ugh to fellowship all the saved (1 Jno. :7); wise enough to keep His com- andments (Rev. 22:14). It is old nough to have begun to function A. 33 (Acts 2:36-47). It is strong enough the help of God to withstand the slaughts of Infidelity, Catholicism, d the organizations of men. It is norable enough to be the bride of hrist (Eph. 5:23). It is rich enough be an heir of God, and a joint heir th His Son, Jesus Christ, (Rom. 8:16-). All authority in heaven and in earth is invested in Christ, (Matt. 28:-18), who has a name that is above every name, and at which every knee should bow, and every tongue confess, (Phil. 2:9-11). It is the only name given among men whereby we must be saved, (Acts 4:12). It is the only institution that extends beyond the grave, (Heb. 12:22-24). God dwelleth not in temples made with hands, but in the hearts of those who do His will.

The church that Christ built is organized to perfection: Christ is the ad, the King, (Col. 1:13,18), with adquarters in heaven, (Acts 2:31-33). here His secretary keeps books, (Heb. 2 22-24); Rev. 20:15). Its treasure is pt there where thieves do not break rough nor steal, (1 Pt. 1:3-4). The ly Sprit gave its creed, the New stament, which will qualify, duly au- rize, and fully fill each subject with e beauties and duties of righteousness d the goodness of God, (2 Tim. 3:15-). It is protected by the strong arm the providence of God, (Rom. 8:28), hose watchful eye notices even the lling of a sparrow, (Matt. 10:29). It is d on the milk, meat, and the bread of fe, which is the word of truth, (I Pt. :2; Heb. 5:14; Jno. 6:63). It is cloth- d in righteousness, and liberated in ace and joy in the Holy Spirit, (Rom. :17).

The mission of this church is grand: t signal peace on earth, and good will men, (Lk. 2:14). The good and alvation of man is its purpose, (Ep. 26-27), and the glory of God its end. t is the body of Christ, (Ep. 5:23). nd the household of God, (Ep. 2:19-); the kingdom of Christ, (Col. 1:13), d the Priest-hood of Good, (I. Pt. 2:9).

The destiny of the New Testament church is eternal life and bliss in the new heavens and the new earth where dwelleth righteousness, (2 Pt. 3:13).

The New Testament and the church built solely upon its teaching and authority is complete without extra organizations and societies. For all Christians to be one body in Christ is the will of God and the teaching and authority of the New Testament. See: Jno. 17:20-23; Eph. 4:1-16; 1:22-23; 1 Cor. 12:12-13; 1:10; Rom. 16:17.

Sincerely,
R. L. HUFFMAN.

Fords Win First Place In Recent Road Races

Before a gathering estimated at 150,000 persons. Ford V-8 Cars triumphed recently in the international road race held at Rio de Janeiro, considered to be the most important race of its kind ever held in South America.

A Ford V-8 car took first place, while other Ford V-8's placed in five of the next nine positions. Six were among the first ten place winners.

The race was over 25 circuits of a course largely on mountainous roads in the Gavea section of Rio de Janeiro, a total of 173.5 miles. Brazilian, Italian and Argentine drivers of 18 makes of cars competed, 44 cars participating.

A Ford V-8 finished first in 3 hours, 56 minutes, 22.9 seconds at an average speed of 44.7395 miles an hour. Second place winner was a car of American make, 5 minutes, 20.3 seconds later. Two Italian cars were in third and fourth places, followed by Ford V-8's in fifth, sixth, seventh and eight positions. A German car was ninth and another Ford V-8 tenth. Of the nine Ford cars starting, six finished in the first ten.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Last Saturday and Sunday was our regular preaching days. The Rev. Lowery, as usual delivered two good sermons.

Before this goes to press Christmas will be passed and people will be planning for the new year. May each of us make resolutions to do better in the year 1935 than we have in 1934.

On next Sunday the Rev. W. E. Robinson will preach here. We hope that the people will give him a good audience.

Don't forget Sunday School and B. Y. P. U. each Sunday and Sunday night.

Here's wishing everybody much success in the new year.

Marriage Licenses Issued During December

Love darts have evidently been flying fast and furious in this section during the Christmas Season. Records at the probate office show that already more than a week before the books are closed for this month, that the number of marriage licenses issued during December are already far above the monthly average.

Monday, Clerks at the office said that 29 white couples and 14 negroes had been issued marriage licenses this month. Saturday was a record-breaker when 12 applied for licenses, evidently making preparations for a Christmas wedding.

During the month licenses have been issued to:

Murrah Martin and Miss Mildred Tyus; O. L. Prince and Miss Daisy Worcester; Eugene Fuller and Miss Juanita Smitherman; Harlem E. Willis and Miss Mary Earle Farley; Hulet M. Abrams and Miss Evelyn Helms; Lloyd Lovelady and Miss Ollie Mae Smithrman; Grady Langston and Miss Alice Smith.

Dolphus Benton Lovett and Miss Almas Smith; Cecil D. Traywick and Miss Athalia Georgene Grace; Odis Cayton and Miss Delene Bates; F. S. Griffin and Miss Edna Childress; Ernest Leroy Sundberg and Miss Vadie Avery; J. D. Thompson and Miss Merle Aldridge.

Emmett King Conway and Miss Laura Wood; Lawrence M. Burkhalter and Miss Lillian Devaughn; Clements S. Barnes and Miss Frances Elmire Truss; Grover S. Morris and Miss Zella Mae Bell; Harlie Bean and Miss Myrtle Williams; T. Collier Bannister and Miss Macon Moore; Louis Blankenshp and Miss Lola Martin; Elmer Rollan and Miss Marie Devaughn.

Alvin B. Foshee and Miss Mary Lou Tiffin; Thomas Gordon Eddings and Miss Pauline Lee; Huston Littleton and Miss Alice Connell; Ernest Klinner and Miss Gertie Mae Owens; Mally Minor Miss Esther Mims.

Licenses have also been issued to fourteen negro couples this month, making a total of 43 in the early morning of the 24th.

LAST RITES FOR MRS. SALLIE ROBBINS HELD ON TUESDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Sallie Robbins, age 73, wife of Tom W. Robbins, who died at her home in the Mt. Pisgah community Monday morning, were held Tuesday morning from the Mt. Pisgah Baptist church. The Rev. W. P. Lowery officiated, and Martin & Sons were in charge of the burial services in the churchyard cemetery.

"Aunt Sallie," as she was known to her many friends, was a lifelong resident of the Mt. Pisgah community and was a great influence to those who knew her. She was a member of the Mt. Pisgah Baptist church and took an active part in all church work until her age and health prevented her from attending as regularly as she was accustomed.

She had been married twice before her marriage to Mr. Robbins. Besides her husband, she is survived by two sons, Ed Hammond, and Tom Headley; two daughters, Mrs. Reuben Burkhalter, and Mrs. L. A. Brown, all of the Mt. Pisgah and Enterprise communities.

Feels a Lot Better When Black-Draught Relieves Constipation

From many states come reports like the following from Mr. W. M. Henderson, of Jasper, Fla: "I have been taking Thedford's Black-Draught twenty years. I take it for constipation that gives me a dull, tired, aching feeling, and I have headache, too. Black-Draught relieves me of this trouble. After a few doses, I feel as good as new. I keep it in my home. I have a big family. When one of us is ailing (from constipation), we take Black-Draught and almost always feel a lot better. It has been worth its weight in gold to my family." . . . Sold in 25¢ packages. "Children like the Syrup."

Not a Chain

The funeral service is an intimate and highly personal matter that can only be handled well by one who is a neighbor among those he serves. It cannot be delegated to a stranger from another town.

This firm is owned and managed by a resident of this community. It is not just one link in some large chain with its headquarters and principal interests in another town.

To our ability as funeral directors we thus add the sympathy and helpfulness of a neighbor and friend. We are interested in our community and those in it; we may be depended upon to serve them well.

Foreign Trade Favorable Balance Best In 4 Years

For the third successive month the value of American exports to foreign countries was greater than in the corresponding month of each of the last three succeeding years. Total exports were valued at $206,382,000, compared with $191,691,000 in the previous month and $193,069,000 in October, 1933. For the first 10 months of 1934 the total value of exports was $1,767,697,000, which was 36 per cent more than during the first 10 months of 1933 and larger than for the entire 12 months of 1932.

Total value of imports for the first 10 months of 1934 was $1,371,871,000, about 16 per cent larger than in the corresponding period of 1933. The merchandise export balance in October totaled $77,000,000, compared with $60,000,000 in September, 1934, and $42,000,000 in October, 1933. This was the largest excess of merchandise exports over imports since November, 1930.

Crop Value Double That Two Years Ago

The total farm value of all crops growin in Alabama this year based on December 1 prices, was $142,975,000, compared with $99,445,000 in 1933 and only $62,051,000 in 1932.

This is reported by F. W. Gist, state and federal agricultural statistician who reports as follows:

"The total value of all crops in Alabama averages $107.00 per capita of farm population for 1934 against $74.00 in 1933 and $46.00 in 1932. The value per farm in 1934 is $550.00 against $383.00 in 1933 and $239.00 in 1932. The average value per acre in 1934 is $21.38 compared with $15.75 in 1933 and $8 42 in 1932. The average value per acre for the United States in 1934 is $16.00."

1st Yearly Gain In Savings Since 1930

Washington.—For the first time since 1930 savings in all American banks showed an increase in the annual compilation of the American Bankers Association with its figures for the year ended June 30, 1934, it is pointed out by W. Epsey Albig, deputy manager of the association.

Savings deposited in banks as of last June 30 gained 3.5 per cent during the past year. The aggregate stood at $21,867,666,000, an increase over last year of $742,132,000. On June 30, 1930, savings had reached an all-time high of $28,478,631,000, so that the latest figure represents a recession of $6,610,965,000, or 23.2 per cent from the high mark. To find a figure equivalent to that of last June 30 it is necessary to go back 10 years, when the total volume of savings stood at $21,188,734,000.

"Depositors, too, have gained in number, going from 39,262,442 a year ago to 39,562,174 this year, a gain of 299,732," says Mr. Albig. "Four years ago there were 52,729,432 depositors, or one depositor for each 2.3 persons in the country. Now there is one account for each 3.2 persons."

Survey Shows 1934 Best Year Since 1931

Washington—Statisticians calculating the progress of business recovery find that in most respects 1934 was the best year since 1931 and in some the best since 1930.

In the final month of the year industrial production seems in the aggregate to be close to where it was at this time last year. The year's totals in most lines, however, show substantial gains over 1933. That is due in part, of course, to the extremely low levels to which business fell in the early months of 1933, co-incident with the banking crisis.

Perhaps the most striking gains for 1934 have been made in sales of consumption goods and even in semi-luxury products. This has been attrabutable in no small measure, business analysts sayto restoration of farm purchasing power as a result of higher prices and Government bonuses and benefits. This is illustrated in the progres made by the automobile industry, which appears to have sold the largest number of cars since 1930. A part of this improvement was due to increased exports.

Chevrolet Parts And Service Re-organized

Detroit, December 25.—To improve its service to the millions of owners of Chevrolet cars and trucks, the Chevrolet Motor Company has re-organized its Parts and Service department along lines which will permit greater specialization in each of the fields which have heretofore fallen within that department's province, W. E. Holler, general sales manager, announced today.

The step Mr. Holler said, was taken as a result of sweeping gains in Chevrolet's parts and accessories sales during the past year. It involves the creation of two distinct departments, each with a complete personnel staff of its own, both in the Central Office and throughout the regional and zone organization. One, the Service and Mechanical department, will concentrate on service exclusively, and the other, the Parts and Accessories Merchandising department, will confine itself to that field.

The Parts and Accessories Merchandising department, Mr. Holler announced, will be headed by M. D. Douglas who, as Parts and Service manager, has developed his organization to the point where division of functions becomes necessary. Under Mr. Douglas' management, Mr. Holler said, the Parts and Service department of Chevrolet has grown rapidly in the past few years.

The Service and Mechanical department will be headed by C. W. Wood, who has been associated with Mr. Douglas in the Parts and Service department.

"The change is an important one, from the standpoint of Chevrolet owners," said Mr. Holler. "It means that the all-important subject of service, on which owners' satisfaction with Chevrolet products so largely depends, is coming in for even greater attention than heretofore and will be entirely separate from the rapidly developing parts and accessories business. Since the personnel of the Service and Mechanical department will now concentrate exclusively on service, leaving the rest of the field to parts and accessories men, they will undergo even more intensive training in the servicing of Chevrolet products, past and present, and will thus be thoroughly equipped for their job of keeping dealers' service departments fully instructed in this work."

Special schools are being organized for the training of men in both departments, Mr. Holler said.

Bank Clearings Show Gain Over Last Year

New York.—Bank clearings are again substantially higher, there being an increase at every city reporting. The total for the 22 leading cities in the United States for the week ended Wednesday, December 12, as reported by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., was $4.769,049,000, against $4,121,069 for the same week of last year, an increase of 15.7 per cent.

This contrasted with a gain of 7.2 per cent in the previous week. At New York City clearings were $3,222,432,000, or 13.8 per cent above the amount reported a year ago, while the aggregate for centers outside of New York of $1,546,617,000 was 20.0 per cent higher.

Variety store sales throughout the nation in November show an increase of about 8 per cent over that month last year, according to the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce.

"STARS FELL ON ALABAMA"

COL. BIBB GRAVES
ALABAMA'S 41st and 43rd GOVERNOR

B. M. MILLER
ALABAMA'S 42nd GOVERNOR

Since Alabama was admitted to the Union in 1819 many legislative sessions have been held . . . but it remained for Gov. Graves' legislature to enact Alabama's first burial association law.

This law has saved the citizens of this state thousands and thousands of dollars that would have been spent in excessive and outrageous prices for funerals. The much needed relief from prohibitive funeral prices was made possible by this legislation.

Congratulations to Gov. Graves!

During the administration of Gov. Miller the legislature enacted a law which strengthened the burial associations and gave the policyholders and public more security and protection and further shielded and protected them from being forced to pay unfair and unjust prices for funerals. The citizens of Alabama were again saved thousands and thousands of dollars in funeral bills alone.

Congratulations to Gov. Miller!

During These Two Administrations More Than a Half Million Alabamians Applied for Burial Certificates

History teaches us that the laws governing life insurance companies were gradually strengthened by many different sessions of legislatures in all the states giving to the policyholders and public more and more protection. This took MANY years to accomplish.

It is the HOPE of the officials of this company that if Alabama life insurance executives and agents and burial association executives and agents and Gov. Graves' legislators feel that the burial association laws should be strengthened, thereby giving to the policyholders and public EVEN MORE protection and security, such laws will again be enacted. In this we pledge our whole-hearted support and unstinted assistance.

We Will Gladly Comply With and Operate Under Any Law When It Is Enacted

Our citizens must not be forced to return to a state of fear of being overcharged at death by outrageous, unjust and greedy prices for funerals.

JUDGE REYNOLDS

time when more than any other time in the year when we forget ourselves and remember others," he said.

"If this spirit of brotherly love could only prevail every day in the year, how much better a world it would be in which to live. Of course, perhaps it would be impossible to distribute gifts every day—but that same spirit of friendliness could exist every day. We could think more of others, give consideration to their trials and troubles and lend a helping hand whenever possible."

On January 15, Judge Reynolds will walk from his office in the court house a private citizen, ending a political career of almost a half-century. Twenty-four years, he has served this county as probate judge, and for 18 years in succession.

During that time he has been one of the most outstanding public men in the State, but those who have been close to him will tell you that this quality of thinking of others, lending an attentive ear and a helping hand has always played a paramount part in his life.

CLANTON PEOPLE SEE "LUCKY TETER" DO DAREDEVIL STUNTS

Several Clanton people motored to Birmingham last Sunday afternoon to witness the exhibition of "Lucky Teeter" in his death-defying stunts. "Lucky" used a 1934 model Plymouth automobile in the exhibtion, and according to W. M. Polk, who was one of the Clanton visitors, the antics he did successfully prove beyond doubt the superiority of hydraulic brakes and all-steel bodies.

TWO KILLED

standing. The car then ran approximately 37 yards further before overturning in a ditch. Neither Patterson nor McDowell were injured.

The McGhee accident occurred about a mile and one-half from his home on the Lawley road. He was killed instantly, his head being crushed. The driver of the car, whose name was not learned, escaped injury, McGhee and his companion were enroute to the McGehee home when their car left the road on a steep curve and struck head-on into a clay bank.

Downs suffered a fractured skull, a compound fracture to the left leg, severe lacerations about the fact and head, and possible internal injuries. He lived approximately 14 hours, but never regained consciousness.

He is survived by his father, J. G. Downs, of Clanton; two sisters, Mrs. Bud Parrish and Miss Lena Downs also of Clanton; four brothers, J. R., Birmingham, Whit of New Orleons, Arthur D. of Longview, Tex., and Roy Downs, of Clanton.

Funeral services were held Monday af 2 p.m., from the Poplar Springs church. The Rev. W. P. Lowery officiated. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery with Martin & Sons in charge.

The following friends served as pallbearers: Joe Ben McDowell, Lincoln Devaughn, Clif Duke, D. Patterson, Leroy McDowell, and Lee Cox.

Funeral services for McGhee, who is survived by his widow, Mrs. Pearl McGhee; one daughter, Helen; parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McGhee; four brothers, Preston, R. C., Lewis, Clint, all of near Maplesville, will be held Thursday at 11 a.m. The Rev. Ed Littlejohn will conduct the services. Spigener Funeral Home will be in charge of the burial services.

Matt's Changes Ownership; Bought By Taylor

Matt's Lunch Shop, one of Clanton's most popular eating emporiums, has changed owners and managers, according to information given the News this week.

This popular restaurant, which has been operated for several years by Matt Ware, has been purchased by W. G. Taylor, brother of R. W. Taylor, manager of the Clanton Wholesale Grocery Company, and Tom Taylor, manager of the Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company. It will continue to operate under the same name and several of the present employes will be retained, ncluding Miss Willie Easterling and Miss Chloe Nivens, it is understood.

Associated with Mr. Taylor in the managership of the establishment will be Dewitt Easterling, one of Clanton's best known restaurant men. Mr. Taylor, too, is well known to the public of this section, having been engaged in the grocery business here for several years.

It was not learned if Mr. Ware has any immediate business plans.
